

STIMES

INTERNATIONAL EDITION

NO 64,385

WEDNESDAY JULY 5, 1992

45p

Loss-making lines to keep subsidies

Ministers seek to calm fears on BR sell-off

By MICHAEL DYNES, TRANSPORT CORRESPONDENT

BRITISH Rail's 44-yearold monopoly to provide passenger and freight services is to be abolished under legislation to transfer as many of its functions as possible to the private sector, John MacGregor, the transport secretary, announced yesterday.

Publishing the govern-ment's long-awaited rail pri-vatisation white paper. Mr MacGregor said that BR will be divided into two organisations, one responsible for operating infrastructure, and the other for overseeing passenger services — at least until they have been franchised out to private-sector operators. In addition, some of BR's 2,500 stations could be leased or sold to private-sector operators.

The announcement, which confirmed that ministers had backed away from a traditional "big bang" privatisa-tion in favour of a more cautious step-by-step ap-proach, prompted a mixed

DOWNING Street yesterday

signalled that the govern-ment was ready to increase interest rates if necessary to keep the pound within its bands in the European ex-

The pound stayed under pressure in the ERM yesterday, but there proved to be no need for the Bank of England to prop up sterling as the Bank of Italy intervened to sustain the lira. At the London close, at 4pm, the pound stood at DM2.8494, less than half a pfennig below its finishing rate on Monday and more than a pfennig and a half above the point at which the authorities are obliged to prevent it dropping below its effective floor in the

In the latest attempt to shore up the pound, which foreign exchange dealers expect to remain under pressure, and to convince doubters that the government will stick with the ERM through thick and thin.

Downing Street disclosed

comments by John Major at yesterday's cabinet meeting.

colleagues: "When we joined the ERM. it was clear that it was not a short-term option.

It was a means of ensuring that inflation was reduced to provide a stable basis for sustained economic recovery. Our commitment to it was.

and remains, 100 per cent."

Mr Major emphasised to that the speech on Friday in which Norman Lamont.

Chancellor of the Exchequer.

said that the ERM was "not an optional extra, an add-on to be jettisoned at the first hint of trouble" was the clearest possible statement of government policy. Copies of that

LIFE ATMES

Modern Times: Women_

Concise Crossword

Births, marriages.

denths ...

Obiruaries

Parliament

Weather.

INDEX

The prime minister told his

ERM bands.

change-rate mechanism.

Major willing to increase rates

to protect pound

BY ROBIN OAKLEY, POLITICAL EDITOR

reaction from transport commentators. John Prescott. Labour's transport spokesman, denounced the proposals as a "cherry-picker's charter", while the central transport consultative committee, the government ap-pointed passenger watchdog, gave a guarded welcome providing that the new system was properly funded. The white paper said that private-sector entrepreneurial and management skills had to be brought in to run passenger and freight services. This is to be achieved by an outright sale of BR's freight and narrely sectors freight and parcels sectors, and the progressive franchis-ing of InterCity, Network SouthEast, and Regional

Railways passenger services. Subsidies for loss-making passenger services will be maintained, and any changes to the structure and operation of the railways will be ap-proved only if existing safety standards are preserved. BR's workforce will gradually be transferred to new private-sector companies. Because speech were yesterday circulated to Tory MPs and the Chancellor has prepared an end-of-term letter to them restating the case for the ERM. The letter, yet to be sent, urges the MPs to keep their nerve and insists that there is no alternative to the govern-

However, there is growing fear in Tory ranks about the prospect of a fractious party conference this autumn. Provisional government figures yesterday showed industrial output slipping by 0.6 per cent in May. A survey from Dun & Bradstreet, the business information group, found that 52 per cent of firms expect new orders to be unchanged or to fall over the

In the Commons yesterday,

Neil Kinnock, at his final question time appearance as

Labour leader, called for a change of course on economic policy to avoid Britain coming three months.

years." he said.

its priority.

tion, upon which millions of people depend, "services must not be disrupted by organisational change", the hite paper said. The government wants to ensure that passengers and freight customers continue to enjoy the advantages they get from the national rail net-work, including through-tick-eting, discounted fares, and a national timetable, the white Responding to the government's initiative, Sir Bob Reid, the BR chairman, emphasised that success for the railways, public or pri-vate, would hinge on continu-ation of current high investment levels.

"I welcome the commitment to a single network which safeguards the integrity of operation, and I welcome the white paper's com-mitment to safety," Sir Bob

the government's proposals would do little to modernise Britain's ailing rail network. This white paper is no passenger's charter. Its more of a cherry-picker's charter, ripe for exploitation by property speculators, route operators bribed by public subsidies", and City advisers who will grow "fat on the commissions and fees in disposing of pub-

Richard Branson's Virgin company is expected to unveil proposals next week for an express passenger service between Edinburgh and Lon-don, while Stagecoach Holdings, the Perth-based transport group, is likely to seek the franchise to run regional rail services between Carlise and Barrow. Interest in running BR passenger and ment's long-term strategy of making the defeat of inflation freight services has also been expressed by Yorkshire Rider, Sea Containers, Charterall, the Rail Freight Users Group, and National Power. Derrick Fullick, the general secretary of Aslef, the train drivers' union, said the "privatisation fanatics have drawn up a timetable for Jimmy Knapp, the leader of the National Union of Rail Maritime and Transport Workers said: "The acid test of the government's plans for the railways remains whether they will improve services for all passengers. The proposals set out in the white paper do not meet this test," he said.

White paper, page 6 Leading article, page 13

years," he said.

Recalling Mr Major's election time claim that a Tory victory would provide "the spark to ignite recovery". Mr Kinnock said: "No such ignition has taken place and there tion has taken place and there will be no real recovery as long as you continue with policies that have already brought us two full years of recession." Mr Major replied Continued on page 16, col 4 Final questions, page 8
A leader misjudged, page 12
Political sketch, page 16

Prayer vigil: Indian nuns kneeling in prayer for the Pope outside St Peter's in Rome yesterday.

Pope faces surgery on benign tumour

By John Phillips in rome and Our Foreign Staff

THE Pope is likely to undergo surgery today after tests were said to have shown that he may have a tumour on the Roman Catholics around the world attended Masses for his recovery, while the man who shot him in 1981 joined the thousands who sent goodwill messages. Meh-

OVERWHELMED by tens of thousands of refugees from Bosnia, the Croatian government has threatened to send them on to Western Europe

unless it receives immediate cash help. The government said in a statement that Croatia was on the verge of eco-nomic and social collapse and had no more room for those

The announcement came as the office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees announced that it was convening an international conference to deal with the worsening plight of the estimated two million people fleeing Bosnia.

met Ali Agea wounded the Pope in St Peter's Square on May 13, 1981. Reports that the shooting may have led to the Pope's health problems were denied yesterday. The Vatican did not give details of Agca's message, which was sent to the Pope from the Rebibbia high security prison in Rome where

Croatia issues refugee threat

By Tim Judah in belgrade and Our Foreign Staff homes in the former Yugoslavia. Croatia is now host to about 577,000 refugees, including more than 360,000

30,000 people are reported to have streamed across the Sava river to the Croatian town of Slavonski Brod, as Croats and Serbs fight one of their bloodiest campaigns yet for towns in northern Bosnia.

us, we will be forced to redirect the flow of refugees towards Western Europe,"

Adalbert Rebic. the government's refugee co-ordinator.

Croatia's northern borders

"If the world will not help

Over the past few days from Bosnia.

the Turkish assailant is serving a life sentence for the assassination attempt.

Italian television said the Pope, 72, had either a colon tumour or a partial intestinal blockage. The Italian news agency Ansa, quoting hospital sources, said it was a benign growth. Most tumours of the colon, the large separate it from Slovenia and Hungary, both of which have already appealed for help with their refugee problems.

If Croatia carries out its threat to dump the Bosnians

on their frontiers, the governdapest will certainly be temp-ted to pass them on to Italy and Austria, their wealthier

Sylvana Foa, an official of the UN refugees office, said in Geneva that Croatia's record in caring for refugees had been very good so far and that its statement could be

Continued on page 16, col 5

Panic in charge, page 9

neighbours.

ments in Ljubljana and Butumours become cancerous.

intestine, are benign. About Page 5 10 per cent of benign colon

TODAY IN THE TIMES WOMEN WHO GO TO WAR

Linda Grant on feminists who fight for their country as well as their rights Life & Times

WOMAN OTHER WOMEN FEAR

Hanna Suchocka's policies on abortion worry Poland's feminists Life & Times Page 5

WOMAN ALONE ON THE SEAS

Vivien Cherry, the only female skipper in a yacht race around the world Life & Times

Upon the instructions of Grant Thornton acting as

THE HERSTMONCEUX CASTLE ESTATE

Sussex, England

ONE OF THE FINEST MOATED CASTLES IN ENGLAND

London 65 miles • Gatwick Airport 35 miles

* Channel Trannel 45 miles * SUTTABLE FOR PRIVATE, LEISURE OR COMMERCIAL USE

532 acres

For sale by private treaty as a whole or in up to 7 lors. OFFERS IN EXCESS OF 45 MILLION

STRUTT 8

Tel: 071-629 7282

Contact: Michael Fiddes

SAVILLS INTERNATIONAL Tel: 071-499 8644

Contact: Henry Richards

Cricket umpires to ask third man for advice

BY MARTIN SEARBY

VERY soon those men who watch cricket from the stands for professional reasons will have weightier things to judge than whether the fruit cake sent in by Mrs Barrymore of Pinner is more or less tasty than Mrs Baxter's almond shortbread.

Their ranks will include a third umpire, with the power to dismiss a batsman after reviewing a tricky was he wasn't he?" decision on a television action replay. The armchair judge will relay his decision by walkie-talkie to the two umpires on wance-tance to the two uniperes on the field, who will then be able to answer the "Howzar?" they were asked several minutes earlier by the fielding side. Nobody should feel hard done by, and nobody need curse the umpires. It might slow the pace a fraction, but nobody said true justice age will arrive in November, if proposals to be put to the United Cricket Board of South Africa are approved as expected. For the four game Test series against India, their first home series since 1970, the South Africans will use television cameras to decide run-outs, stumpings and hit-wickets, with the pictures transmitted to a third umpire in the stands. Cameras will not be used during any of the tour's seven one-day games. Traditionalists, who winced at al-uminium bats, might faint at this new-fangled idea. But Pretoria's plans have been blessed by Sir Donald Bradman, doyen of Test cricket-ers, who has told South Africa that an electronic eye would "bring justice, as it does on race tracks round the world". He feels that it would lessen umpires' responsibilities without Cricket's move into the electronic opinion, such as leg-before decisions and close catches, which television can distort.

Dr Ali Bacher, managing director of the United Cricket Board of South Africa, said in Johannesburg yesterday: "I saw the run-out in the Benson & Hedges final at Lord's on Sunday when the slow motion replay showed Matthew Fleming to be three inches short of his ground, while at normal speed it was impossible for the umpire to give him out. Fielding standards have improved dramatically and made it harder than ever for umpires to get it right all the

The idea of using three umpires was first mooted by M J K Smith, the former Warwickshire and England captain, when he was on duty as the International Cricket Council referee last winter in Australia. The South African plan is that each pair should stand for two sessions with the third man watching television replays at normal speed and, if necessary, slow motion, in the stand.

"I discussed this with Mike Smith.

who said the umpires were absolutely worn out at the end of a five day Test with no rest day, and giving them a break should be helpful," Dr Bacher said. "Our own umpires are relatively inexperienced and we want the third man to be independent and give them the benefit of his knowledge. Harold "Dickie" Bird, England's leading umpire, who has officiated in 46 Tests, is against using three umpires because it "disrupts concentration and continuity". But, as Dr Bacher points out, the third man will not be resting but glued to his monitor in the stands.

County championship reports

cramping their status in matters of would be speedy.

and scores, page 26

DONALD COGFER

6

-

505 AV

-

ZESAK.

.

V.

12.23E

200

***

427.4

*

15-

4.

4

-

1913 A

Ares

1

4 1 Sec. -

عد نسد ، او ا

....

- S. G. . . .

1

100

---

12

÷ .

---

*****

in the same ř.

180

- 2

-

7

1.16

.

1

1. 32

1

1 4247

CARL FLESC: COMPETITION: Spread over two evenings (three solonis on each) part two of the final stage of the Carl Flesch International wolin Competition offers talent spotters a chance to hear each of the sh finals Dictaile Toerde Satori, Sanerus, Tchailes, sane Walton, Andrew Litton conduct: In-Thilharmonia Barbican, 5.4. Sweet, London EC2 (071-638 03.7.), tonight, tomorrow, 6.30cm

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING: After his rope-s vinging Midsummer Night's Deain for the Lowdon International Festival of Theatre last year, the Romanian director Alexandru Dane Romanian director Alexandru Dane applies to more may to another of Shar especies's plans, in collaboration with 0 ford Stage Company. The op-production gizes on a national 18-wee four tollowing its Sheffield opening Lyceum (ar-Tollow). Street, Sheffield (0742 165%). "Tronglint-Sar. 1,45pm, mats tomorrow, Sal, 3pm.

TERRIBLE INDUTH: The Almenda Opera feemal presents Nigel Osborne's new opera Comunissioned by BBC Radio 3, the mark is a collaboration with playor this richlard Barker and is based on the life or Gogal David Pountney directs a 100 that includes Cline Bayley. Omat Ethahum Richlard Van Allari and Elizabeth Laurence, Dand Parry conducts the Amende Ensemble, Almeida Theatre Almeida Street, London 1. 1071-359 4404), lonight, temorro. 1 Spm. Sat. Spm. GEORG SASELITZ — PRINTS 1964-90: When he's not artaching the carwas or goughtq but limewood for his MANGELS IN AMERICA: Thriling manetis in Tany Pushner's fascinating state-of-the-Union drama on Ards Fenguri, politics, everything National (Cottastoe), South Bank, SEI (071-948-2252). Today, 1,30pm and 7,15pm, 210mms.

LE BOURGEOIS GENTILHOMME: Richard Jones's so-so production, with Timothy Spall as a boonsh hero. Fine visuals, int a comedy. National (Lytekton), South Bank, SE1 (071-928 2052) Tomph-Sat, 7 B0pm, mats tomorrow, Sat, 2 15pm. 140mns

DEATH AND THE MAIDEN: And ☐ DEATH AND THE MAIDEN; And Dortman's accreting psychological drama of the longing for revenge Geraldine Names, Michael Byrne and Paul Froeman Duke of Yarik's, St Martin's Lane, WC2 (07 1-836 51221 Mon-Sat, 8pm, mats Thurb, 3pm, Sat, 4pm, 120mms. DELAVU: Jummy Porter 36 years on Obbome's hero rants and witinges but in a vacuum and Peter Egan seems too good-naturaa to be the Angry Old Man Comedy. Fancius Street, SW1 (071-867-1045) (domains the Angry Chinas Thurs, 3pm, 5at, 4pm, 170hnes THE DYCSUK: Julia Passal's ground-prealing new Jersion of the famous hidgen grams transposed to a gnetic in 1941. New End 17 New Elia Hampstead,

MV31011-134 00021 Tues-Sun, 7 30cm, mag Sun, 4art S0nons Final ☐ GRAND HOTEL: Musical barley sugar Berlin in the Twenties Sentimental American entertaining Dominion Tattennam Court Roa

W. Luc 71-580 95531 Mon-Sat Som nais II um. Sat. 2.30pm. 120m A MIDSULANER NIGHT'S DREAM: lan Talent's oil, production, full of rough und 1, note and evergreen corredy Dinicase Landen plays Bottom Open Air Pagent 1 Fath, NW1 (071-456 2451 1 Tollay, 0.30cm and 8pm.

■ PHILADRIPHIA, HERE I COMES: Arte transferantias, of an intri-ent grantiant in scarcing after age.

● BATHIAN RETURNS (12) Quirty

but no-num topice, pest when the sporting it rains on all their Pleater's electritying Dr. Laman With Michael Reason, Donny, Dr. Little airector, Tim

Barbican (171-555 555) Camden Parkway 171-557 7054) Empire (071-

BIG Widdless AY (PG) Unwanted remail of John Killing's portentious 1978 byrin to some of Tra-blichael Vincent, Vinliam Latt Gory Susey Prince Chancs (071-437 8181)

PEPI, LUC, 30M. Outrageous schenlung of three Kladrid women Amusing if dishaveled gape from Pedro Almodours, compresed in 1980.

Metro (07):427-0757

• STEFNIOS FG: Paintul comedy with

THE BEST INTERTIONS (12) Ingrier

ent performances (Permita August, Samisi Frotor) Gate (071-717 4043) Lumiere (071-836 0631.

THE BUTCHER'S WAFE (12): Arch whimsy about a New York butcher's clarwoyant write (Cern Moore, partly salvaged by bright lines and a genial cast left Coariels, Mary Steenburgen.

Director, Terry Hughes

CURRELIT

NEW FELEASES

leremy Kingstorr's assessment of theatre showing in London House full, returns only
Some seats available
Seats at all prices

TODAY'S EVENTS

A daily guide to arts and entertainment compiled by Kari Knight

Scriptures, this important cohemporary German artist enjoys aggrezavely cutting into the lino block of etching the medigiate to create some arresting prints. This survey of his graphic work takes us from his earliest images of shattered body pairs to his Sistes prints feathung warmars with painthrushes and latterly his senal works, endlessly examining a single mout.

motel. Tare Gallery, Milbank, London SW1 1071-821 13131 Mon-Sat, 10am-5.50pm, Sun 2-5 50pm, opens today until Nov 1.

ANTONI TAPIES: The Serpentine Gallery has staged a powerful exhibition which confirms Tapies's reputation as Spain's most distinguished from painter The show is confined to the work of the Fifties and Sixtes, when Tapies was a leader of the European avant-garde and reveals just how uncompromising an artist he was. Serpentine Gallery, Kensington Gardens, London WZ (071-402-6075) Daily, 10am-6pm Until August 9

IMAGINE From the ream who cealed Good Rockin' Tomite comes (magine, a "musical celebration" of John Lennon's ble and works, billed as "perhaps the greatest story turepool has to tell". The musical begins previews ronight and opens on July 23

THEATRE GUIDE

Excellent revival of Brian Finel's Inst success. King's Head, 115 Upper Street, NT 1071-226 1916). Tues-Sai, Bpm, mats Sait, Sun, 3.30pm 120mms, Final week. (The play begins previousing at Wyndham's from July 21 1

SCHIPPEL THE PLUMBER: m's saure on snobbery among Signment scale on should yamong music lowers, Meny performances Greenwich, Crooms Hill, St 10 (651-858 7755). Mon-Sat, 7,45pm, mat Sat, 2,30pm, 140mins.

SIX DEGREES OF SEPARATION: Stockard Channing recreates her role as the rich New Yorker transfigured by a black con artist in John Guare's line play on human inter-dependence Royal Court, Sloane Square, SW1 1071-730 17451 Mon-Sat, Sprn, mats Thurs, 3pm, Sat, 4pm, 90mms

A SLIP OF THE TONGUE: A wolfish John Mail owich in a lightweight drama that seems to equate East-European mat seems to equate rast-corporal dissidence with getting girls into bed Sharkesbury, Shaftesbury Avenue, Vv.2 (071-379 5399), Mon-Thurs, Spm, Fn, Spm and Spm, Sat, 4.20pm and 8.30pm, 150mms SOMEONE WHO'LL WATCH

OVER ME: Evcellent playing by Alec McCowen, Hugh Quarshie and Stephen Rea as Berrut hostages in Frant Hampstead, Swis: Cottage Centre, NW3:071-722 9301) Mon-Sar, Spin, mat Sat, Jpm. 1-10mins. THE SOUND OF MUSIC: Nurs, Nams, squeaky-clean tots and drops of golden sun la sweet holiday from the real world. With Lic Robertson and

CINEMA GUIDE

Geoff Brown's assessment of films in London and (where indicated with the symbol ◆ ) on release across the country

MGM Fulham Road (071-370 2636: MGM Tottenham Court Road (071-636 6145) MGM Trocadero (071-434

CASABLANCA (U). The 90th brillantly written, awash with exotic atmosphere Bogan, Ingrid Bergman, Paul Henreid, Claude Rains; director,

Michael Curtiz. Plaza (071-497 9999). HOWARDS END (PG): Absorbing version of E.M. Forster's novel about two colliding families with different ideals. With Anthony Hopkins, Emma Thompson, Helena Bonham-Carter

Director, James Ivory Curzon Mayfair (071-465 8865). JACQUOT DE NANTES (PG) Magical

▼ 51E FMGS FG1 Paintul comedy with step paints and stophildren galare, but no good julies. Hallery Wolf, Griffin Dunne, director Islan Micklin Silver MGM Hogmanust (071-839 1527) MGM 7-Libraham Court Read (071-636 (1142) Cipcon Mezzanina (0426 915653) made by his widow Agnès Varda MGM Swiss Centre (071-439 4470). THE LONG DAY CLOSES (12): Terence Davies's powerful evocation of childhood's lost paradise. With Leigh McCormack, Marjone Yates, and a wonderful aural collage of Fifties. Bergman': l'ascinating tale of his parents' turbulent countship and mardage. Dull direction by Bille August;

Screen on Baker Street (071-935

 THE LOVER (18), Jean-Jacques Annaud's over-careful, Jarihfully erobe edaptation of Marguente Duras's autobiographical novella about an edelescent gri's discovery of sex and less in Tuestos colonial Indio-fluna. MGM Fulham Road (071-370 2636)

Ticket information from SWET.

Playhouse, Williamson Square Liverpool (051-709 8363), tonk

ow, 7.30pm, Fri, Sat, 8pm.

COLUMBUS: Submited And Discovery of Japan, this is Richard Nelson's contribution to the 1492 affair

Ionathan Hyde plays the explorer of the direction of John Caird (see nternew, page 3). Barbican, Şik Şireet, London EC2

(071-638 8891), preview tonight, 7 15pm; opens next Wednesday.

CHELTENHAM PESTIVAL: The

CHELTENHAM RESTINAL: The Chimprian Quartet commutes performances of musc by Haydin and Bartok rits weel: Today, in the Provide Pump Roma 11 Tarn, the programme includes the premiere of John Taverier's second quarter, The Last Steep of the Virgin. Also today: Irish folk group The Dubiners (Town Hall, 3pm) and Northern Ballet Theater in Swan Lake (Everyman, 7 30pm). Chektenham international Fastival of Music, Impenal Square, Chektenham 10242 5236901

BUXTON FESTIVAL: Tonight the festival offers Handel's opera Agrippina, produced by Adhan Slack and directed from the harpschord by Roger Vignoles (Opera House, 7.45pm)
Fastival Box Office, Buxton Opera House, Water Street, Buxton (0298 72190), until August 7

Sadier's Wells, Rosebery Avenue, EC1 (071-278 8916). Tues-Sat, 7.30pm, mats Tues, Thurs, Sat, 2.30pm 165mms.

STRAIGHT AND MARROW: Noticles Lyndhurst, Neil Deglish and Carmel McSharry in likeable connedy about a doing mother's wornes, about a doing mother's wornes, notably her gay son. Aldwych, Aldwych WC2 (071-836 6404). Mon-Sar, 8pm, mats Wed, 3pm, Sat, 5pm 130m/ns.

☐ UNA POOKA: Sessial repression in Heland, a supernatural visitor offers relief during a papal tour Patichy black comedy by Michael Hardling. Tricycle, 259 Kilburn High Road, NW6 (971-328 1000) Mon-Sat, 8pm, mat Sat John 1300 inc.

A WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE:

b) A WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE:
Philip Prowse's stylish RSC production, in London after a triumphant pour Callous arristorat, wonged woman:
melodrama laced with Wilde's wit,
Theative Royal, Haymarket, SW1 (071-930 8800), Mon-Sat, 7-30pm, mats
Wed, Sal, 2-30pm 165mms.

Wed, Sat, 2.30pm 165m/ns.
LONG RUNNERS: © Blood Brothers:
Phoers (071-857 1044)... ☐ Buddy:
Victora Palace (071-834 1317)
☐ Carmen Jones: Old Vic 1071-928
7618)... © Carts: New London (071-405 0072)... © Danding at Lughnasse Gamd. (071-494 5085)
☐ Don't Dress for Disner: Apollo (071-494 5070)... ☐ An Evening With Gary Linekars Duches: (071-494 5075)... ☐ Five Guys Named Moethyrc (071-494 5075)... ☐ Five Guys Named Moethyrc (071-494 5075)... ☐ Five Guys Named Moethyrc (071-494 5075)... ☐ Gardinicoler Dreamcoat: Paladum (071-494 5037)... ☐ Me and Myr Girt: Adelph

SHADES: Pauline Collins is lorn?" between her child, mum and maninend in Sharman Macdonaid's new play which continues previewing in the West. End. Simon Callow directs.
Allberry, St. Martin's Lane, London WC2: 071-867 1115), tonight-Sat, 8pm, mats. Jomonow, 3pm, Sat, 4pm.

MGM Haymarket (071-83) 1527) MGM Shafteshury Avenue (071-836 6279/379 7025) MGM Trocadero (071-434 0031) UCI Whiteleys (071-792 3332) ◆ THE PLAYBOY5 (12)* Love and realousy or an Irish village in 1957 Strong performances (Albert Finney, Robin Winght, Aidan Quinn), but too much blamey, Director, Gilles

Much Barriey, Director, Single MacKinnon. Camden Parkway (071-267 7034) MGM Chelsea (071-352 5096) MGM Haymarket (071-359 1527) Odeon Kensington (0426 914666).

THE PLAYER (15) Dazzino Hollywood, directed by Robert Altiman from Michael Tollun's novel. Tim Robbins as the studio executive who bills a writer, plus cameos and walk-ons galore. MGM Chelsea (071-352 5096) Odeons: Kersington (0426 914666) Leicester Square (0426 915683) Screen on the HIII (071-435 3366) UCI Whiteleys (071-792 3332).

THE RAPTURE (18): Disaffected woman (Mirmi Rogers, excellent) becomes Born Again. Provocative peoints born signit. Floricative exploration of spintual malaise, written and directed by Michael Tolkin MGM Fetham Road (071-370 2636) MGM Panton Street (071-330 0631) MGM Tottanham Court Road (071-636 6148)

. SLEEPWALKERS (18) Abourd, bungled hornor move varities by Stephen King Bhan Krause as a reptilian in hunli's dothing; Madchen Arnot, as the imperilled girl Orrector, Mick Garris. Mick Gams. MGM Oxford Street (071-636 0310) Odeons: Kensington (0426 914666) Marbie Arch (0426 914501)

when I have just learned how to make VAN GOGH : 17th Maurice Pular's war occur 12; Maurice Halar's masterly, no-onserse portrait of the painter's last months. Fine performance from singer-turned-actor seques Dutrons.

Minema (071-235 4225) Renoir (071-337 8407-) £10,000 in five minutes. Approximately. I need to get the details clear by contacting one Mark Hughes, who runs an American

THEATRE

Thriller-writers do it by numbers

OUTSIDE the Vaudeville, blank billboards were coyly hanging on Monday night, ready to be filled with plaudis culled from the reviewers. Unfortunately, I cannot manage "nervetingling", "spine-chilling", or "this will keep Londoners' flesh creeping for years". My donation would be "quite ingenious, but not in the same class as Sleuth" or "more fun than The Mousetrap, but unlikely to run as long". That wouldn't make much impact on those strolling up the Strand, would it? There is one respect, though, in which Edward Taylor's play outdistances Sleuth. It is a thriller about not one but two thriller-writers. Smoothliving Harold is fed up with the drunken antics of Paul, the Esau of Lime Grove, and proposes to end a long collaboration penning serials for television. But Paul is the proud possessor of one of those secrets often found turking up sleeves in plays like this. Harold once went in for some financial hanky-panky, and Paul will tell on him if the partnership ends. How is a self-respecting thriller-writer to react to blackmail as crude as that? With a dever murder, of course. And Paul has himself provided Harold with an idea. In his scenario the killer, who must be an expert mountaineer, lures a less adept victim up some passing Alp or Himalaya, and leaves him to perish of hypothermia in a crevice. At this point the canny Harold remembers that, yes, he lives in a flat whose balcony is inaccessibly perched on crags above the freezing English Channel. Suppose Paul gets accidentally-on-purpose locked out there, while he and his wife are in America. The perfect murder, isn't it?

Murder by Misadventure Vaudeville

Well, no. But now reviewers must become inscrutable. There are twists, reverses and ironies, some quite pleasing, others not so clear and logical. I am still worrying about the relevance of an offstage character called Valerie Knight, who is Paul's mistress and but here I must stop. I cannot be the cad on the commuter train who fills in your Times crossword when you are looking out of the window.

Not that Murder by Misadventure is as intellectually challenging as that. The dialogue, though sometimes sharpish also slips into "what are you playing at?", "I'm not playing, I assure you," and other such exchanges. Yet here too is a problem. There are occasions when what seem to be miscalculated lines and miscalculated acting turn out to be meant to be miscalculated. For instance, why does Angela Down, as Harold's wife Emma, react so insipidly to what may be exposure and imprisonment for life? Why must Greg Hicks's policeman behave like a sharp-witted marauder in an early Pinter play? There are reasons.

Paul (William Gaunt). Harold (Gerald Harper). Emma (Angela Down)

Still, Gerald Harper, blimpishly rasping his way through the role of Harold, seems more like some disoriented squadron leader, Biggles without a compass, than the dangerous and finally frightened man he is. William Gaunt's Paul, rumpled, bearded and grumpy, is always a more powerful presence. As for Val May's production, what can I say? Competent, perhaps: another word unlikely to shimmer off those billboards onto the Strand.

BENEDICT NIGHTINGALE

THEATRE

Look back in anger?

A Woman of No Importance Theatre Royal, Haymarket

WILDE's play is back at the theatre where it first delighted audiences 99 years ago; and for Philip Prowse's production, it is also a return. Opening last autumn at the Barbican, to mixed reviews (just as in 1893), it toured the country before coming back to London, and to a theatre grandly elegant enough to make it, nostalgia aside, the play's natural home.

Yet it would be a mistake to think of this play only as a haven for famous quotes — "Nothing succeeds like excess". "The unspeakable in full pursuit of the uneatable". Certainly, there is wit here in plenty, in the sparring between Lord Illingworth (John Carlisle in suavely cruel voice) and Jennifer Hilary's languid Mrs Allonby, in the absent-minded affability of Barbara Leigh-Hunt's Lady Hunstanton, and in the graciously enthusiastic Lady Stutfield of Mary Chater. But Wilde is also mounting a frontal attack on the hypocrisy and arrogance of society, and Prowse's

ONE of the more stimulating intellec-

nual activities is the challenging of assumptions. For example, The Times asks me to review last night's Viewpoint '92 (ITV), sub-titled Moneylove.

and assumes that I will simply get on that I have always complied in the past.

But reviewing Panorama is not likely to make me rush out and stand for election, any more than I have taken up drug dealing as a consequence of

last week's documentary on the subject.

But I cannot be expected to hone,

refine and in other ways polish 500 or

so words in return for a modest sum

The assumption is based on the fact

with it. How silly.

direction is fully mindful of this aspect. The American orphan Hester (Jaye Griffiths) is rather a prig, in virginal white, holding an improving book, but Prowse makes us take close note of the opposition, the rich society ladies who will forgive a man everything provided he is good company at dinner. They are themselves good company, but this is not to deny their selfishness and complacency. In the garden of the first act and the drawing-room of the second, Prowse daringly places characters almost in a line facing us, with Leigh-Hunt and Cherry Morris's Lady Caroline in the centre, turning their aristocratic faces to left and to right as the conversational rallies pass over their elderly heads. The framework is marvellously formal but every so often the fabric gives, letting rage and hatred burst through. Mrs Arbuthnot (Carol Royle), the woman ruined by Lord Illingworth 20 years before, is seen to come close to ruining herself and her son by the ferocity of her loathing. In its psychological command, Wilde never wrote a more substantial play. Prowse gives us the substance, and with his own designs, the glittering surface. Never were stone urns encrusted with such moss, never so many cushions heaped upon so vast an ottoman; and never did a humble soul suffer poverty so luxuriously as Mrs Arbuthnot in her sumptuously draped cottage.

JEREMY KINGSTON in the second act of Swan Lake.

DANCE

Talent on a sure footing

Royal Ballet School Covent Garden

THE Royal Ballet School is alive and well and promising much talent for the future. Its annual performance at the Royal Opera House showed a style of training that over recent years has acquired extra vigour and amplitude, in keeping with international ballet

Arms no longer take up decorative rounded positions, but look airily elongated and dynamic, the energy running from the shoulder right to the finger tips. Legs and feet travel the stage sweepingly, yet lack nothing in clarity and precision.

Could it be that physiques are also getting longer, like those paraded abroad? No, we must not generalise. True, Patricia Roivas and Christopher Hampson, tall and rangy, led the cast of Soirée musicale, an attractive sequence of dances by Kenneth MacMillan to Britten's suite. They exploited their breadth to give the slow arcs and extensions of their pas de deux a luxuriant fullness and soft lilt. But Pamela Smith, the lovely Odette possesses the compact outline more usual among British dancers. She infused the choreography with a soft pliancy, all the while combining this with a firm technique that allowed her rock steady balances and a sophisticated response to the music. She and her partner, Eric Crockett, established a careful rapport through their eyes. marred only slightly by her inappropriately cheerful expression. She is joining London City Ballet and is quite a catch.

It was not just the soloists who impressed, but the unified and polished ensemble, from the junior pupils performing folk and social dances, to the immaculate swan-girls accompanying Odette.

Hans van Manen's Five Tangos. though, demands adult dancers, able to communicate sombre intensity rather than this adolescent cast's wellmannered balletic lightness. But equally the piece needs its Astor Piazzolla music in its recorded bandoneon version, not the watereddown, live orchestral equivalent that the Birmingham Royal Ballet also favours. (This performance was dedi-cated to Piazzolla who died recently.)

Shi Ning Liu was outstanding in Five Tangos, unravelling pirouentes with a creamy smoothness. But top marks for technique go to Yohei Sasaki in Soirée musicale's pas de quatre, for his exceptional ballon and way of blending virtuosity with stylishness.

NADINE MEISNER

TELEVISION REVIEW

Doing it all for noughts

cannot spell its own name. All you have to do is get hold of a package, or "a business in a box", supplied by Hughes and you are up and running as a marketer of herbal remedies. Hughes, the tele-evangelist of organic pill popping, holds conventions at which his existing sales force gives testimony to the enormous sums they make. Or I could marry someone who is rich. Admittedly this will involve divorcing someone who isn't, but once that is out of the way I shall be taking my cue from Ginie Polo, who was not rich until she became Ginie Polo Sayles. She "can't help loving people who are generous towards me". There company called Herbalife. It makes who are generous towards me". There $200 million a year even though it you are, you see: the girl can't help it.

Mr Sayles was generous at the rate of $100 an hour, paid to Ginie just for talking to him. But the relationship blossomed, presumably to $1,000 and on to even nought-ier heights, so that now Ginie is rich in her own right, partly thanks to writing a book about how to marry a rich man.

Not that loving money is necessarily as romantic as paying a woman to talk to you. There is more to life than that. There is more to LIFFE than I had imagined, because apparently dealers on the London International Financial Futures Exchange are coining it to the point where turnover has reached £50 billion a day. Imagine how much talking old Ginie would do for that.

I expect the flaw in a programme like this, had I been paid enough to watch it closely, is that it gives the impression that all wealth-accumulation is a bad thing. This cannot be so. but programmes that show us fabulous wealth via a tut-tut style of narration are having their cake and eating it, the British loving to decry wealth almost as much as we love spending money.

I left the videotape running while I thumbed through Yellow Pages under "Widows, Rich" and heard a man called Richard Evans, who sold his computer company and is now embarked on an eight-year programme to give away his money and counsel the unfortunate. A spoilsport, then, But rather than sit here earning the gas bill I am off to see if Evans can counsel me alongside Ginie Polo Sayles. Clearly, she needs a good talking to.

PETER BARNARD

ENTERTAINMENTS

ART GALLERIES VISIT THE COURTAULD INSTITUTE

GALLERIES AT SOMERSET HOUSE, STRAND, WC2

A unique art collection, full of surprises, just a stone's throw from Covent Carden. Open daily, Admission £3 O Temple CENEMAS

CURZON LLAYFAIR Curron St.
Telephene Bookings CC 867
1111 use blee fee Mont. Sail 9ann-9ani Exclusive pruemialion in Torum. Anthony Hoplars. Vancent Redgrave in HOWARDS END 19Ci. "L.a. genuine brumph." D. Tot.
Progs at 2.00, 5.30 6.630 CURZON WEST END Studies.
Ave by 071 439 4805 Annoy Hopkins, Varena
Antorave in HOWARDS END
DGC Props at 12 00 (not Stim.
2 45 5.40 & 8.30 CURZOX PROCESS Phornts 54. off Charles Cres. Rd 867 1044 THE LONG DAY CLOSES 121 A 18th by Treeper Darks Proc. of 1,55, 4 05, 6 20 4, 8 35

the state of the state of the second

EXHIBITIONS

CONCERTS AUSTRALIAN BALLET
ENDS SATURDAY
TONY A TOMOY 730 OF BLESSO MEMORY / CHECKNATZ / GALA PERFORMANCE
Fit 730 Sat 2:39 4 7.30
COPPELIA (Ton't Consy, Henthcotz: Stokes, McAllister;
Baddow, Techen, Ridgeway) CITY OF LONDON FESTIVAL 5-22 JULY 1992
T-DAY 1 OSOM Bishopeate Hall, Cécie Oussel, 1.05pm 9s Mary Woolnoth. Prote and Peetry/Cabriel Would and Peetry/Cabriel Would and Possilind Sharitas, 8 O5pm Southwart Cathedral Corydon Southwart Cathedral Corydon Filed/Bosen 8 O0pm All Hallows by the Tower. Marti Webb. ROYAL OPERA HOUSE 071 240 1066/1911 Standby Into 836 6903. S CC 66 amphi wats avail tows, by the Tower, man webb, the Colle Oussel, 1.08pm St. Mary Woolholt. Proce and Stationary Woolholt. Proce and Stationary Holds Station and Professe, Abso/Ewart/Khakuli/Pilli Kethley/Roberts/ D M Thomas S Oppm Ail Hallows. Maril Webb. on the day on the day
THE ROYAL OPERA
Ton' 17.30 II visegio a Reime.
THE ROYAL BALLET TOMOT 7.30
Les Sylphides/A Month in the Country/ Este Syncopations. Marii Webb BOX OFFICE 071 248 4250

ADELPHI 07: 836 76:1 CC 07: 379 4444/793 1000 First Cali 24hr cc 07: 497 9977 Ins big (eet Groups 07: 930 61:23 NOW EDOKING TO ZETH NOV OPERA & BALLET with The London Philharmonic The Casen of Spades Today 500. Sqn 400 precisely. Tue 6,00. Beath in Venice Toda. Sal. Mon 5 40. Jenute Fri 6 50. Sold Out Box offer/precorded information ME AND MY GIRL THE LAMBETH WALK MCSICAL Nobrily at 7.30 Mais wed at 2.30 & 501 4 30 & 8.60 "THE HAPPIEST SHOW IN TOWN" SUMMAY EXPENSE AIR CONDITIONED THEATRE Box office/recorded into 0273 541111

ALBERY 071 867 1115/1111 CC 579 4444 (24hr/no bkg fee) 497 9977 (24hr/bkg fee) PAULINE COLUMS PAULINE COLLINS
SHAPEN Macdonald
by Shapen Macdonald
Directed by Shapen Callow
NOW PRESS 23RD JULY at 7 pm
lon-Sat 69m Mots Thu 3 Sat 4 ALDIVYCH 071 836 6404 oc 379 4444 ing bluj fee: 497 9977 My Inti NICHOLAS LYNDHURST CARMEL MCSHARRY STRAIGHT & NARROW The new conedy by JMMN E CHINN,
"Worderfal" LBC "Superb" Ind
"Uproariously humy" Datly Mail Directed to ALLAN DAYES
Mon - Sat 8 Mails Wed 3 Ser 5
AB seats 512 & CS. The Best Conedy at the Best Prioud

AMBASSADORS 071 836 6111 (1171 CC 379 4444 the blog fees) FROM A JACK TO A KING Great antertainment.

Whith well, style, remnels T.Out A rock in Yolf fate from Boe Cartien the Creater of Monday. Thursday 5.30 & 6.30 All Seets 19 50 Friday 5.30 & 6.30 All Seets 19 50 Friday 5.30 at 19 FREYS TORIGIN OPENS JULY 20 APOLLO cc 071 494 5070 cc 379
4444 upo hing feet/636 2426 libig feet Gr Sales 330 6123
Eves Spra. Wed mat 3pm.
Sat Spm & 8 30
ROW HI TE ZED YEAR
A SAUCY COMEDY* E. Stat DON'T DRESS

FOR DINNER

Claricomity Outrageous" T C

SCOKING TO JAN 1993 ARTS, 071 A36 213-21
ARTS, 071 A36 213-2 cc 413
LAS6, 4927 99771-2437 No ban free
REQUESTS SHAMESPEARS CO.
IN THE COMPLETE WORKS OF WILLIAM SHAMESPEARS Abridged-AR 37 plays in 2 hm
"RREBUSTBLE" in op 5un
Non : Fri 8 Sai 5.45 & 8 30 MEDY 80 07: 867 1045 cc 379 4444 /No bkg feet 497 9977/793 1000 JUNEY PORTER IS BACK! PETER EGAN
"A MARVELLOLS PERFORMANCE "Gdn

in JOHN OSBORNES
SCORCHING NEW PLAYMAN
PESSEC TIAL F Transc.
Act 7 45 Main Thu 3 Sai 4

-----

CAMBRIDGE 071-379 5299 CC 071-379 4444 (24tht/no bits feet 071-379 4444 (24tht/no bits feet 071-479 9977/2915 1000 1071-479 9977/2915 1000 1071-479 9977/2915 1000 1071-479 9977/2915 1000 1071-479 1071-FORBIDDEN PLANET DOMERSON CC Hothe 071 413
1411 (24 hrs) Intermedian
071 580 8845 22562
Eve 8 00. Mai Thur 2 20
THE SMASH HIT
BROADWAY MUSICAL

GRAND HOTEL
Directed & Choreographed
by Townry Tune
By Discounts Tri-1071-636-0875
LTD SEASON LYTEL OCT 31 DRURY LAME THEATHE ROYAL CC 185-5 for 24hr 7 42ys 071 494 5060/379 4444/240 7200/793 1000 Grps 831 8625/494 5454 1000 GTP0 833 9625/494 8454

MISS SAIGON

"MUEICALS COME AND GO THIS ONE WILL STAY" S TIMES

EVE 7 45 MOS WEG & SAI SEM
GOOD SEATS AVAIL FOR WED

MAT & SOME PENTORMANCES.

APPLY TO BOX OFFICE

MOW EDOKING UNTIL MAR 83

FOR TELEPHONE POSTAL

EOOKINGS/PENSORAL CALLERS

671 484 5080 EKK FEE

AN EVENING WITH GARY LINEKER Wanthur Smith & Chris England
BRILLIANTLY WITTY'S. Times
Mon-Thu 8 Fri & Sal 6 & 8 45 THE WOMAN IN BLACK Adapted by Stephen Mallatan

A BRILLIANTIVE PEPETIVE
SPIRE CHILLER QUARDAN

A REAL THRILL S. Times

Take broughtings? T Out
Mon Sat Sum Mate Tue 3 Sal 4
MOW BOOKING TO 9 JAR 1993

AUR COMPATIONED THEATRE

DANCING at LUGHNASA featuring RECHAEL LAYSTON & SORCHA CLEACK Polyment, Microus & spall-binding S Times Toward over overy other play in sight? NY Times Mon. Sqt 8 Mals Thur 3 Sat 4 HAYMARKET THEATHE ROYAL Bots Off & cc 071-930 8800 (no bdg feet cc 072-379 4444 (no bdg leet cc 072-379 4444 (no bdg leet) The Royal Shafkangaare Company in Ocene Wilde's A WOMAN OF

NO IMPORTANCE
Directed by Philip Provide Evap 7.30 Math Wed & Sal 2.30 HER MAJESTY'S 24hr 494 5400 Ibig feel CC 379 4444/497 9977 Ibig feel Croup Salm 930 6123 AKDREW LLOYD WEBSER'S AWARD WISHING MUSICAL THE PHANTOM OF
THE OPERA
DIrected by HAROLD PRINCE
Ever 7.45 Mote wed & SM 3
Rooking Period Open to Sept 38
Rooking Period Open to Sept 38
ROOK OF URTHLES FES 30
APPLY DARLY FOR RETURNS LON. PALLADIUM 24hr Bo cc £1 Per Thi Sivce cing U71 494 5020
/S79 4444/836 3464
Groups 494 5484
Andrew Lloyd Webber's amberent new production Sid of Tim, Rice

JOSEPH & THE AMAZING TECHNICOLOR DREAMCOAT

SHATTING PHELIP SCHOPIND

DIE BY STEVEN PHILLOTT

EVEN 7-30 Mats wed a Sel 2.30

MOW BOOKING TO JAN 1920

GUEUE DALLY POR METURIS LYRIC, Sharks Are Bo & cc 071 494 5045 cc 379 4444 Ali tel lanes 24hr/7 days thing feet cc 497 9977 Czru 071 930 6123 The Joint Hower Stopis Jumple The Joint Never Stage Jampin
FIVE GUYS
RAINED NOS
THE GUYINF ANNARD
WINNING BUSICAL
MOST THE ST AS A S AS AS NOW BOOKEN, DAILY FOR BUTUINS AND CANCELLATIONS
AND CANCELLATIONS

NATIONAL THEATRE BO 071 $28-22$2 Grps 071 620 0741; 24kr or blue (co 071 437 9977 DIAMER Tent & Tomor 7.15 LLOYDS BARK

LLOYDS SAME
SHOWCASE
LYTTELTON
TON'T 2.50 TONOT 2.18 & 7.30
LE BOURGEOIS GENTRALOMNE
by Melies in a now version to Nice Dear
Tonot 1.50 & 7.15 ABGELS Re
AMERICA by Tony Kushner
Tonor 7.30 LLOYDS
BARK SHOWCASE NEW LOWDON Drury Lane 80 071 405 0072 CC 971 404 4079 24hr 379 4444, Crns 930 6123 This from Pickfords Travet THE ANDEW LLOYD WESSER /T.S. ELIOT WITERNATIONAL AWARD-WENGING MILISOAL AWARD-WENGING MILISOAL

CATS
Ever 7.45 Main, Tue & set 3.00
LATECOMERS, NOT ADMIT
TEO WHALL A LEGE BE PROMOT.
BE ALLER BE PROMOT.
BE ALLER BE LASS
LIMITED NO. OF BLATE AVAIL
DAILY FROM BOX OFFICE OLD VIC 07: 926 7616 CC 07: 379 4444 ino biq fav: 07: 793 1000/07: 497 9977 ( big fav: PHORIES OPEN 24M=47 days OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN II's CARMEN JONES
Musk by Black Directed by Black
WENNER OF 8 MAJOR AWARDS including BEST MUSICAL
OBVIER AWARDS 1892
Standard Awards 1891
100 7.45 Math Wed & Set Jan
All COMPITTIONED THEATRE

OPEN AIR THEATRE Reports
Part: 5 071 486 2431 CC 071
486 1933/379 4444 Ditty feet
A REDSCHIMMER REGETTE DREAM Today 2.30 & 8.0
AS YOU LIKE IT THUR-BEI
2.30 & 8.0 Fri 8.0

The state of the s

LYRIC HARMERSMITH GB: 741 2311 to: no b./luo) O71 236 3464
ABSENT PRENDS Ayethourn's
Bittow weves consed from 38
July. Evs 745 Mats: Wed 2.30
Sat 4.00 LYRIC STUDBO GB: 741 8701 FEN by Carri Churchill
tutill 18 July Evs R CR.
FALACE THEATRE 071-434 D IT RUNS IN THE FAMILY Previews from Aug L7 at £5 & £10. Opens Sept 14 PALACE THEATRE 071-434 090 or 24hrs (big ins) 071-379 4444/497 9977/793 1000 Oroup Sales 071 930 6123 Croups 071 494 1671 THE WORLD'S MOST POPULAN BUSICAL

MUSICAL
LES MISERABLES
Eves 7-30 Mass Tau & Section 1981 EVEN 7-30 Mais Tatt & Sat 2.36

Listcomers not admitted until the inherval atom BOOSDING THEIR MAR 83

LIMITED NO. OF SEATS AVAIL
DAILY FROM BOX OFFICE PHOENEX BD & C: 867 1044 CC 867 1111/397 4444/798 1000 (Rec) 497 9977 8EST MUSICAL Office liver Hovello Aven BLOOD BROTHERS
Stewing STEPHANE LAWRENCE and CARL WAYNE
"ASTORISHING" S EXDRUS.
Brings the audience to fix fee and reening be approxis" D Ma
Eves 7.46 Mats Thore 3 Set 4

PECADALLY BO 07: 867 11:8 2 07: 379 4444/497 9977 (All 24br no bing (se) Groups 930 6123/413 3321/240 7941, THE OPERAMUSICAL WHICH WITCH A POWERFUL STORY OF ROSMANTIC PASSION PRESSURE 22 OCTOBER PREVIEWS FROM 6 OCTOBE SPICE OF WALES 071 639 5987 First Call 24 hrs 7 days 836 64 (No fee) 379 4444 (No fee) Groups 930 6123 Cetting Rigger and Bigger GOOD ROCKIN' TONITE

Re-opens July 21st

All Seats Still £10 & £15!!

(Except Fel Sea & Set perfe)

COMPANY UNHOUSE (071 638 6891 Cr Non - Som Semi-Semi BARRICAN THEATRE
COLLMENTS Today 2.00 & 7.15
THE PT: THE DYMEUK
STRATTOR 2.00 & 7.15
THE PT: THE DYMEUK
STRATTOR 2.00 & 7.15
THAT THE PT: THE DYMEUK
THAT THE PT: THE DYMEUK
STRATTOR 2.00 & 7.16
THE PT: THE DYMEUK
THEATRE
AS YOU LIKE IT
TOTA 7.30. TOWNER, SR 1.30
SWAN THEATRET 7.50,
THE OTHER PLACE THE CODYSSEY THUR. Fri 7.30
Med/TICKY/HORE parkage
(789 414899)

ST MARTHE'S 071-836 1443, Special CC No. 379 4444, Eyes 8.0 Tues 2.45, Sai 6.0 and 8.0 40th Year of Agatha Christie's THE MOUSETRAP EADLER'S WELLS 071 278 8916 02 497 9977 Groups 930 5123. THE SOUTHD OF SUCCESS'D. TO U.S. Christopies Robertson. THE SOUND OF MUSIC
SOUNDS LIKE HEAVEN D. MADE
PRICE MATE THEE & THURS
JALY ORLY TOO SEE 7.50
Made Tue. Thu Set 2.50

BHAFTERSURY BO & CC CT: 379 8399 CC (24hrs) 379 4444 too big lee) 477 9977 (big fee) JOHN MALECVICH "b worth the price of admission about "As London "SUPERS" Observer A SLIP OF THE TONGUE

A SLIP OF THE TONGUE

BY DOBY Hughes

"COMPULATE VIEWING" 1.0ut

MOD-F1 8,00 80-4.50 & 8.50

ALE COOLED THEATER. VALIDEVILLE O71 836 9987 CC.
379 4444 (24hr no bitg feel/syr
GERALD HARPER
GREC MICKS ANGELA DOWN MURDER

BY MISADVENTURE Main-Fri 8.00 Sat 6.50 & 8.30 Wed Mats 2.30 ACTORIA PALACE BOX Off & ct No bing fee) G71 834 1317 CC bing fee) G71 834 1317 CC bing fee) G71 830 6123 BUDDY
The Buildy Holly Story
"BRILLIANT" Sun BUDDY BEDORFILL STUFF SUG TOL BUDDY ITHOR E.OD FH S.30 & 8.30 SAL S.00 & 8.20 SAL SEATS + PROSE FREDAY G. 30 PERF SAL SEMENTONAL YEAR URL 1600 PERFORMANCES W BOOKERG TO LAW 18 1993 WHITEHALL 071 867 1119 cc 867 1111/379 4444 (no lee) 487 9977 Grys 413 3321 A Musical Celebration of VIVIAN ELLS SPREAD A LITTLE HAPPINESS Mon-Fri Spm. Wed Spro. Set 8-30 & 8-50pm MUST 980 18 JULY VYNDHAMS BO 071 867 1116 5 379 4444 (24hr no big frei PATE PHILADELPHIA
HERE I COME I
"BURNEY STURMING" S. EXO
Rad Price Previous 21 July Inc.
vone Night 20th July 17.00
MON-Fil 8 Wed 3 Set 5 & 8.18 TO

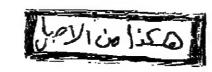

PLACE YOUR ENTERTAINMENT ADVERTISEMENT IN · THE TIMES TRADE ADVERTISERS TEL: 071-481 1920 ADVERTISING FAX NO. 071-481 9313 TELEX 925088 PRIVATE ADVERTISERS

TEL: 071-481 4000

CREDIT CARDS

ACCEPTED

MAJOR

Appeal court clears brothers of Swansea sex shop murder

By STEWART TENDLER, CRIME CORRESPONDENT

TWO brothers sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of a Swansea sex shop manageress were cleared and freed by the Court of Appeal yesterday after new evidence showed that detectives deliberately distorted or suppressed in-formation to bolster a weak Paul Darvell, 31, and his brother Wayne, 30, were convicted six years ago for the murder of Sandra Phillips. Yesterday the court, headed by the Lord Chief Justice, Lord Taylor, quashed their convictions after Helen Grindrod, QC, for the Director of Public Prosecutions, said the Crown conceded that the convictions were not safe. The case would never have been brought had the Crown known what it now knew, she said.

in the course of the twoday appeal, Maurice Kay, QC, for Wayne Darvell, said that "towering above every issue on this case . . . is police evidence that was thoroughly dishonest, constructed on fraudulently documents".

Police notes could not have Darvells' case go back to the seen made contemporane. Court of Appeal. Questions susly, a confession by Wayne raised over the use of police Darvell had been refined and notebooks, the statements of been made contemporane ously, a confession by Wayne Darvell had been refined and redrafted and a notebook supposedly used by one of-ficer in June 1985 was not

As Paul Darvell left the dock he turned to the bench and bowed. Afterwards he said: "It's great to be free. The first thing I want to do is get home to Swansea. I just want to go and have a pint of shandy. Wayne Darvell said: We have been waiting for this moment for a long long time I am very pleased it has come at last. We hold no grudges to anyone." Lord Taylor, sitting with Mr Justice Swinton and Mr

Justice Judge, will give rea-sons for quashing the convic-tions later. The case adds to a growing list of miscarriages of justice which raise serious questions about police con-duct or the criminal justice

Robert Lawrence, chief constable of South Wales, said that the investigation into Mrs Phillips's murder would be reopened and that a number of officers could face proceedings as a result of the

He said he had studied a report from Keith Portlock. istant chief constable of Devon and Cornwall, who had recommended that the evidence of one of the officers and other evidential matters have been sent to the Crown

Police Complaints Authority. It is understood that three South Wales officers have because of the Darvell case and investigations super-vised by the complaints

A further four have been suspended as a result of a the case raised concern about police notebooks and diaries. In all, 87 officers from the South Wales and Dyfed Powys forces have been investigated and 1,500 pocket books seized. Fifty reports on investigations have been completed, which could lead to criminal or disciplinary charges.
The Darvells, unemployed and homeless, were arrested in 1985 after Mrs Phillips was found battered and strangled. Petrol had been spread around the shop and the brothers had been seen in the area.

They were charged on the basis of five points: they were close to the scene; Wayne was sighted with what could have been a petrol container on the day of the murder; an earring similar to those worn by the dead woman was claimed to have been found in the police car Wayne had used after his arrest; Wayne confessed that he had watched his brother commit the murder, and Paul lied

Miscarriage of justice: Wayne Darvell, left, his brother Paul, right, and David Jessel, presenter of Rough Justice, outside court yesterday

about his movements on the day of the killing. After a 32day trial the Darvells were convicted on majority ver-

Their cases were taken up by BBC television's Rough Justice programme and by the Justice group, which raised concerns that Wayne had a record of making false confessions and that details of his statement were already known to the police. The Home Office ordered a fresh investigation by an outside

During the appeal, Mr Kay said the sightings of the brothers now proved doubtful and there was a suspicion that the earring might have been planted.

Photographs and negatives of a blood-stained palm scene were destroyed before the trial. Finger-print experts were told not to continue work on the print, which clearly did not belong to the brothers or to Mrs Phillips. The appeal judges were told that the Devon and Cornwall enquiry rendered valueless claims by South Wales police that the brothers had been seen in the area at the time of the murder.

The officers who claimed to have made the sightings were on another investigation nine

Wayne Darvell, whose al-leged confession implicating his brother formed the basis of the Crown's case, was said to be suggestible and eager to ingratiate himself with the police. Electrostatic deposition analysis (Esda) of docuboth sides in the appeal to agree that the convictions could not be upheld.

Beryl Morgan, a forensic scientist from the Home Office laboratory at Chepstow, Gwent, told the appeal judges that Esda tests of Wayne's confession and of allegedly contemporaneous police notes showed that they

'treated at sex clinic'

By CRAIG SETON

A NUMBER of priests are vate clinic for sex offenders in Birmingham, according to a alleges that the Roman Catholic church exerts an exert abuse of children by Ray Wyre, clinical director of the Gracewell Institute in the Moseley area of Birmingham, said yesterday that four catholic priests had been admitted since Christmas. The £450-a-week treatment was being met by the catholic church, he said.

Three of the priests are believed to be from Ireland and the fourth from England. They are being treated along-side convicted rapists and child sex abusers referred by the courts or probation and social service agencies.

The clinic is due to feature in next Monday's World in Action programme, The Sins of the Fathers. It claims that evidence from England, Ireland, Canada and America proves that senior figures in the catholic church have repeatedly covered up serious crimes of child sex abuse involving hundreds of priests.

Jim Cantwell, a spokesman for the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland, said yesterday that he had no information about priests receiving treatment at the Gracewell clinic

Priests Heritage to study castle repair costs

BY PAUL WILKINSON

ENGLISH Heritage is to investigate how almost 1700,000 of taxpayers' money was spent on restoring the great half of a medieval castle. A commission headed by Jocelyn Stevens, the group's chairman, will visit Botton Castle, North Yorkshire, today to assess claims of overcharging by contractors.

The claims have been made by Lord Bolton's son, Harry Orde-Powlett, owner of the 14th-century castle near Leyburn. English Heritage paid 90 per cent of the half's £720,000 repairs, the first of three phases of renovation. Mr Orde-Powlett says that his examination of the paperwork seems to show that "various items have been invoiced at an inflated rate". A year ago he asked for a detailed breakdown of the bill but says that he has not received one

Among the alleged discrepancies is believed to be a 400 per cent mark-up on scaffold-ing costs, a bill of £19,800 for a night watchman who was a day-time labourer sleeping in a caravan on the site, and a £23,760 fee for a stonemason whose work was then believed to be charged on top. Mr Orde-Powlett says that tenders submitted for restoring the castle's south wall included labour costs of more than £500,000 but, rather than waste public money, he resolved to have the work done himself. He says that he kept his labour bill to a fifth of that tendered by professional firms. The work has been approved on a weekly basis by English Heritage experts visiting the site.

English Heritage's investigation could last up to nine months. It has power to demand a refund of the grants.

The main contractor on the hall restoration was the Leeds company Historic Building Services, which has already successfully helped in restoration work at Hampton Court and the York city walls. Philip Taylor, its managing direc-tor, said: "We won the contract in open competition, our rates were the most competitive of any other tender. I therefore fail to see how the man can feel he has been overcharged. Many of the figures he quotes are inaccurate or over-simplified." Mr Taylor said that tendering for historic building work "tends not to be as competirive or as cut-throat as general contracting and it is slightly cushioned from the recession but ... there are plenty of other people who are anxious to win that kind of work".

English Heritage said that Mr Stevens was on a general tout of the North, visiting properties where the organisation had made substantial grants. He expected to be given a letter from Mr Orde-Powlett detailing the claims but would be unlikely to discuss them on the spot.

Murder of teenager denied

BY ROBIN YOUNG

THE man accused of murdering Lynne Rogers, who was found dead after going for an interview that she with an airline, said yesterday that he had spent the day that she disappeared with his girlfriend and his estranged wife.

Wayne Scott Singleton, 36. answering questions from his counsel, said he had "absolutely not abducted Lynne, 17, killed her, or ever had the curriculum vitae she had sent out while looking for a job.

The prosecution alleges at Lewes Crown Court that Lynne, of Catford, southeast London, died after meeting Singleton last September outside Charing Cross railway station, London. Her body was found five days later at Rotherfield, East Sussex.

Mr Singleton, of Crawley. West Sussex, denied having been at the station on the day she disappeared and said he had never been to Rotherfield. On the eve of Lynne's disappearance he had spent "a romantic day" with Kim Arnold, his girl friend. He had then gone to see Pat, his wife, from whom he was separated, at her home in Highgate, north London. After talking to her he went to the Stapleford Flying Club in Essex, where, as previously arranged. Miss Arnold phoned him, inviting

Racehorse owner leaves £41m to trust before Mr Joel's death. The Childwick

By JOHN YOUNG

A CHARITABLE trust founded seven years ago by the late H. J. "Jim" Joel. one of the great figures of English horse racing, will receive more than £41 mil-lion, the bulk of his fortune, under the terms of his will published yesterday. Among the beneficiaries is Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, who was given the choice of one of his horses in training. She chose Keep Talking, a seven-year-old gelding that won the National Hunt Chase at the Chelten-support charities connected with horse racing and breeding, the promotion of the Jewish faith and assistance to Jews in need, the education and benefit of miners and their families, especially in the United Kingdom and South Africa, and to support charities promoting health and the relief of the disabled. His ham festival on March 11, twelve days

(£41,318,848 net). Mr Joel, who never married, inherited lion, most of it to charity.

Trust was founded by Mr Joel in 1985.

The principal objectives of the trust are to support old people in need, to the basis of his fortune from his father. one of three brothers who left the east end of London to become millionaires in the gold and diamond fields in South Africa. Mr Joel, who raced his first horse soon after the first world war, devoted most of his life to racing and breeding. He was one of only four owners to have won both the Derby and the Grand National.

☐ Martin Wills, heir to a tobacco fortune, who worked as a journalist until estate was valued at £41,831,150 gross his death from a brain rumour l April, aged 39, left more than £20 mil-

Great Value Summer Breaks.

3 NIGHTS FOR £119

The Beverley Arms Beverley.
The Dudley Hotel Brighton/Hove. St Vincent Rocks Hotel Bristol, Paluce Hotel Buxton, The Blossoms Chester.

The Dulphin & Auchor Chichester, The Castle Copwy. The White Horse (inte) Dorking. Forte Crest Exeter. Forte Crest Gatwick.

The White Horse Hotel Hertingfordbury. Forte Crest London The Eastgare Oxford. Ghyli Manor Hotel Rusper, The Thames toyal Hop Pole

Luder Staines. Tewkesbury. The Rose & Crown Tonbridge. The Grand Atlantic The Crown

Women count the cost of parenthood

NEW mothers believe that their pre-school children probably do not suffer emotionally if they return to work, according to a Gallup

Of 401 mothers of children aged from newborn to 18 surveyed by Gallup, only 38 per cent thought that their children would suffer. although 62 per cent of a sample of the general public

A lifth of the mothers surveyed had returned to work an average of 4.8 months after giving birth, although the majority did so because of financial pressure. The survey, commissioned by the baby food manufacturer Farley's, showed that mothers are under no romantic illusions about motherhood. Nearly three out of four feel that the most significant thing they have lost is time to devote to their own personal care and

If anything men help even less with chores such as nappy changing than in the past, particularly when babies are very young, and the general public sample.

82 per cent of the mothers said that looking after a baby was harder than going time general public sample. Sample law plans to do so.

Improving diet and fitness before conception was deemed important by two-

A survey shows that mothers regard looking after baby as the hardest work. Alison Roberts out to work. Exhaustion fig-of the total sample and half of those aged between 16 and 24 were single mothers. Four-fifths said that a reports

ured prominently in interviewees' replies, with 71 per cent of them saying that they "always seemed to be

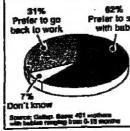

An initial outlay of about £870 is needed for baby care, and annual costs after that amount to an average of £900, up 7 per cent from last year, according to the survey. Almost 50 per cent approved of a single woman choosing to have a child outside a stable relationship with a man, and 15 per cent woman did not need to have children to be fulfilled although only 48 per cent of the general public sample held the same view.

IF MONEY WERE NOT A

raising children. Three in five mothers did not think a religious upbringing was important, and half did not believe a religious service was important to mark a birth. However, 64 per cent had christened their child or had plans to do so.

thirds of mothers, but a similar proportion of women said that they took no action. Twenty-eight per cent of women smoked throughout their pregnancy, sug-gesting that health education is still failing in this area. Emma Brooks, a researcher who worked on the survey, said: "Only half thought that smacking was an effective way of disciplining children, although three quarters said that they expect to resort to this form of punishment in the future."

The survey showed that British mothers are independent-minded and rely on each other rather than on husbands or doctors. Almost a third said that they could cope without their partner's support and over half said that at that time their partner took second place behind the baby. Far from seeing motherhood as a lonely occupation. making new female friends was the second most significant gain to be had from becoming a mother. Most important was the sense of achievement which mothers, particularly first-time

3 nights from only £99.

There may never be a better chance to take that break you deserve, for such an unbelievable price. But hurry, this offer only lasts from 15th July-27th August 1992. These amazingly low prices include:

 3 nights accommodation in a twin or double room with private bathroom, colour TV and tea/coffee making facilities.

 Full traditional breakfast each morning and threecourse table d'hote dinner with coffee each evening. VAT.

3 NIGHTS FOR £99

Forte Crest Bexley. The Royal Norfolk Hotel Bognor Regis. The Imperial Exmoor/ Barnstaple, The Carrick Hourl Glasgow. St James Hotel Grimsby. Forte Crest Grimsby. Forte Crest Liverpool. Forte Crest Luton. Forte Crest Milton Reynes. Forte Crest Newcastle-upon Tyne. Furte Crest Nottingham. Forte Crest Preston. Royal Hotel Scuntborpe. Grosvenor House Hotel Sheffield, The Polygon Southampton. Crest Hotel Welwyn Garden City.

3 NIGHTS FOR £109

The Swan Hotel Alton. The White Hart Andover, Red Lion Hotel Rusingstoke. The Crown Hotel Bawtry, The Plough & Harrow Birmingham. New England Hotel Boston, The Victoria Bradford. Crawley. The Phoenix Hotel Dereham.

The Angel & Royal Grantham. The Saracen's Head Great Dunmow Stansted. The Crown Harrogate. Royal Hotel isle of Wight/Ventnor. The Manne House Leamington Spa. St George's Hotel Liverpool. The Royal Llangollen, Larkfield Priory Hotel Maidstone. The Chequer-Newbury. Ship Hotel Parkgate: Chester. Keppel's Head Hotel Portsmouth The Crown Hotel Scarborough. The Grosvenor Shaftesbury. The Dolphin Southampton. The Pendragon Hotel

3 NIGHTS FOR £129 Peveril of the Peak Dovedale, Ashbourne.

The Crown Framlingham. The Golden Lion Northallerton, The Taibot Oundle. The Tontine Peebles, The Royal George

3 NIGHTS FOR £139 The Brudenell Aldeburgh. The Star Inn

Alfriston, Frimley Hall Camberley. The Two Brewers Inn Chipperfield.
The Burlord Bridge Hotel Dorking/Boxhill. The Speech House Forest of Dean, Rothley Court Hotel Leicester/Rothley. The New Bath Hotel Matlock/Bath. The Marine North Berwick, The George Rye, Prince of Wales Southport.

3 NIGHTS FOR £159

The Berysled Ascot. The Swan Lavenham The Queen's Leeds. The Excelsion London Heatbrow. The Bulstield

PLEASE QUOTE A167004

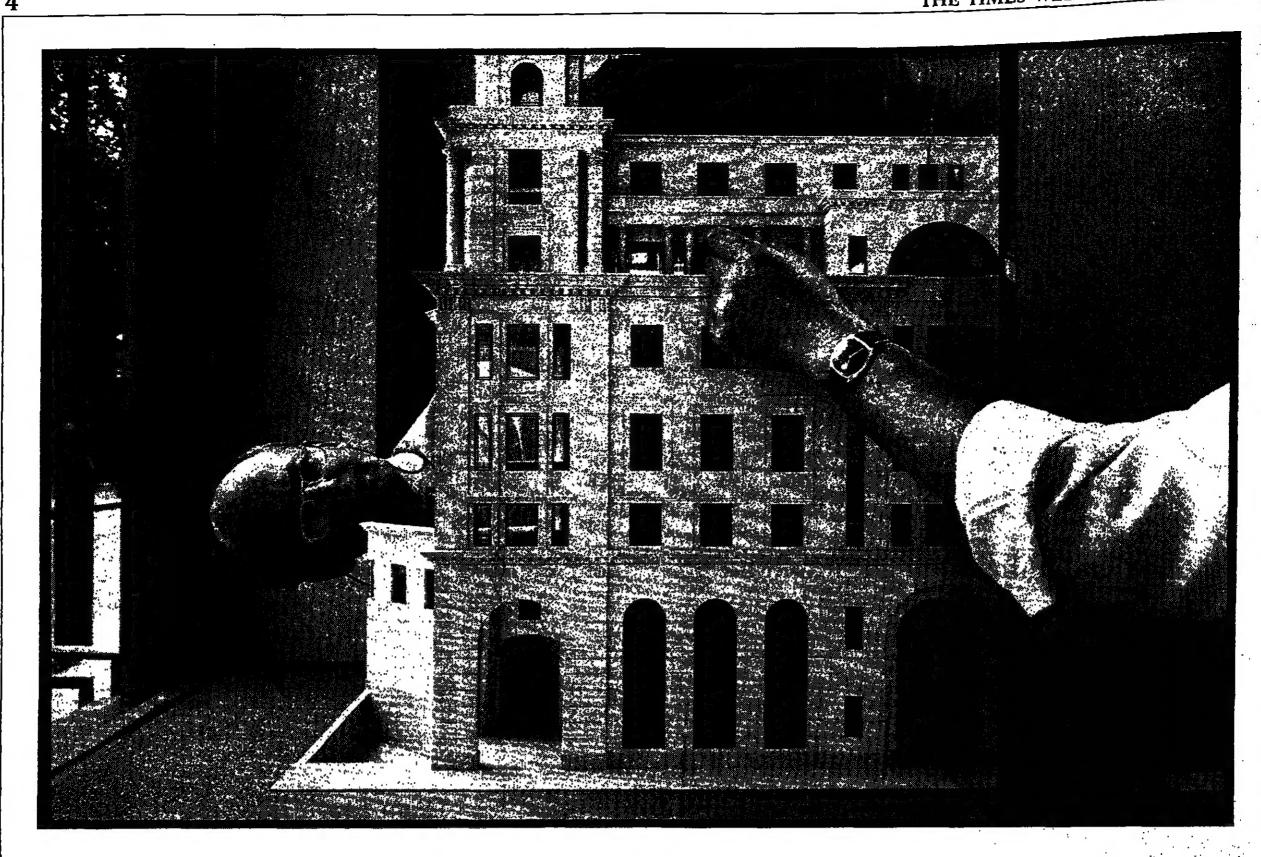

PLEASE CALL NOW ON 0345 40 40 40

per person

DINNER,

BOOKINGS MUST BE MADE BY 18TH JULY 1992

All hotel bookings subject to availability, with a limited number of rooms available at these promotional rates. All details correct at time of publication. Offer only valid from 15th July 27th August 1992. Prices are per adult on a dinner, bed and breakfast basis for 3 consecutive nights in a twin or double from – no single occupancy, however don't larget to ask about single occupancy on Leisure Breaks. Offer only valid on hotels listed above and cannot be used in conjunction with any other offer, howkings must be usade by 18th July 1992. En-suite bathrooms are not available at the Regent Palace Hotel.

Fresh perspectives. Interesting angles. New windows of opportunity.

A willingness to explore. To question. To look at things from a different angle. These are essential qualities for any professional hoping to turn problems into possibilities.

That's one of the many things we at Clerical Medical have learned in our 168 years of looking after professional people.

Initially our clients were clerics and medics (hence our unusual name).

Nowadays, of course, we look after a much wider range of professionals with our pensions, investments and life assurance.

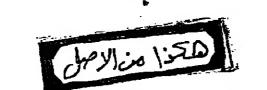

While a great deal has changed since 1824, the fundamentals are the same: integrity, commitment and high standards are what professionals demand of themselves - and of us.

CLERICAL MEDICAL THE CHOICE OF THE PROFESSIONAL

Your financial adviser will be able to tell you more about Clerical Medical. And please, do ask about our long term investment record.

Perhaps between us we can make sure that professional life is even Clerical Medical more rewarding for you. INVESTMENT GROUP

PAST PERFORMANCE IS NOT NECESSARILY A GUIDE TO THE FUTURE. ISSUED BY CLERICAL, MEDICAL AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

PRO

Shabby seaside resorts and overpriced hotels threaten to drive visitors away

UK accused of giving tourists a poor deal

BY A STAFF REPORTER

BRITAIN'S tourism industry is in the doldrums. Seaside resorts are shabby, delays at airports are unacceptable, too many information offices are in the wrong place and too few hotel staff speak English properly, ac-cording to a report pub-

Central and local govern-ment, business and the pri-vate sector must get together to improve facilities or Britain is in danger of losing a huge chunk of the £18 billion that tourism earns every year, the report from the National Economic Development Council says.

Angus Crichton-Miller, chairman of the working party that prepared the re-port, said: "Tourism is set to become the world's biggest industry by the year 2000. The UK needs a co-ordinated and determined effort if we are to compete. If we do not make the necessary changes and improvements the flow of overseas visitors will decline, and as far as the domestic market is concerned people may in-creasingly choose holidays

An analysis of where tourists come from and what they want has helped the group to identify main areas for change. The number of tourists from northern Europe, except France, has declined while the number from the United States, Canada, Australia and Japan has increased.

Seaside resorts are heavily criticised. "Nowhere is the shabbiness more evident than in seaside resorts. many of which are laded glories equipped to meet the demands of a bygone age. these highlight the problems

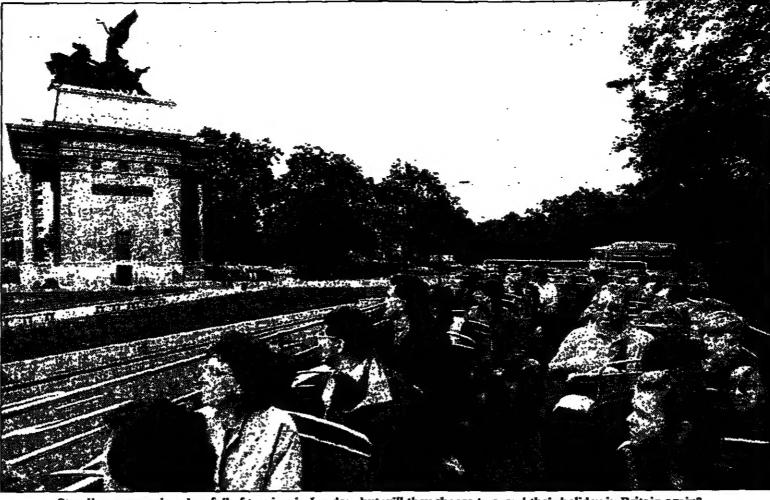

elsewhere," the report says. It suggests introducing a system of sanctions against towns that describe themsleves as a resort when it is misleading to do so. Towns that fail to meet accepted standards would not be featured by tourism boards, which would issue a list of "real resorts".

Most tourists, especially first-time visitors, put London high on their list of priorities, but facilities in the capital city, particularly parking space for coaches, are inadequate. In a survey of overseas visitors. 45 per rants and cales expensive and 48 per cent thought that London hotels were bad

Hotels are criticised for lack of deanliness. Bathrooms, bed covers, curtains and carpets are identified as needing attention and sec-urity does not live up to expectations. The report concludes that up to 10 per cent of hotels and self-catering accommodation are be-yond refurbishment. Reception staff speaking inadequate English, rudeness, employee shortages and lack of training were also identified as problems. Low pay, long hours and minimal training are re-sponsible for high staff turn-overs and lack of commitment. Managers need to know how to train their staff better and money has to be invested to make jobs more attractive and to promote tourism as a worthwhile Britain has fallen behind her European counterparts in exploiting the potential of its heritage. The report gives the ministries of tourism and culture work together.

Standing room only: a bus full of tourists in London, but will they choose to spend their holiday in Britain again?

Airport delays and dirty trains criticised

TRAVEL and transport for tourists in Britain need to be modernised and improved, the report says, and immigration delays at Heathrow and Gatwick airports are appalling.

The tourists usually de-layed at immigration are high-spenders from countries such as Japan and the United States. Researchers found that the average waiting time at Heathrow and Gatwick for people from out-side the European Commu-nity was between six minutes and half an hour. "This is a major competitive weakness," the report says. It recommends that 95 per cent of non-Community nationals should be cleared in 15

After tourists arrive at the airport they often experience delays in reaching their next destination. The lack of an integrated rail service from Heathrow is highlighted as a serious difficulty. "The Heathrow Express rail link roadworks to avoid the busy summer months should be the transport department's main objective. Hotels are often hard to find, especially to Paddington is of paramount national importance," the report says.

It says that London Underby tourists travelling by road.

ground carriages are dirty and British Rail services The report suggests a pilot TOURISTS: 4

British Rail servi	ces system	n to eval	uate the	bene
TOURISTS: WHO	STAYS 1 PENDS T	HE LO	HOES! ST
	Expen (% of : 1979	diture lotal) 1990	Nigi (% of 1 1979
	15.7	25.8	12.9	18.0
st Germany	7.8	6.1	12.6 9.8
tralia/New Zealand herlands	7.3 5.6	7.9 2.8	7.1	10.8 3.6
and	4.D	3.4	5.0	4.5
nce	3.9	5.3	5.8	8.7
ada	3.6	3.8 2.3	4,5	4.3
eden	2.6	2.3	2.8	1.7

Coach facilities urgently need improvement. More parking space in London, including the building of a new coach park beneath Hyde Park, is a priority. Coaches should be allowed to use bus lanes in cities.

Tourist information cen-tres are identified as being fundamental to the future of the industry but many are inadequately staffed, sited in the wrong places and lack high-technology booking facilities. The main aim of the centres is identified as giving information to the tourist to ensure an enjoyable stay and to provide local knowledge and encouragement to visit attractions.

"The service is variable. Some provide comprehen-sive information using fully trained and even multi-lingual staff, whilst others rely on part-time volunteers.

ficult to find and not in areas of strong demand," the report says.
All centres must have extensive on-line booking facilities. "There is a trend towards more and shorter holidays, utilising the wider range of products with in-creasing mumbers of facilities and attractions. This puts the consumer's time researching and selecting the options at a premium. Being able to find out about travel. accommodation, catering and attractions in a single session and making selections in a single booking is convenient and saves time."

New technology for the centres could be partly funded by the proposed national lottery. New centres should be sited at gateways to the country such as all airports, seaports and on major motorways, the report says.

Centre wins the design 'Oscar'

BIRMINGHAM'S International Convention Centre has won tourism's Oscar for its "outstanding contemporary design cou-pled with high quality ma-terials and technical

The award, the Come To Britain trophy, was made by the British Tourist Auby the British Tourist Authority and was presented by the television newsreader Jill Dando in London. Special awards were presented to: the Fan Museum. Greenwich: Chatham Historic Dockyard: Llancaiach Fawr Living History Museum, Nelson, Mid Glamorgan; Maritime Quarter, Swansea: National Fishing Heritage Centre. Grimsby: and the White Cliffs Experience, Dover. Certificates of distinction went to: J.M. Barrie's birth-went to: J.M. Barrie's birthplace, Kirriemuir, the But-ter Market, Enniskillen, co. Fermanagh; Carnfunnock Country Park, Larne, co. Antrim: King's Conference and Visitor Centre, Aber-deen; Oriel Ynys Mon, Anglesey: Shugborough Estate, Stafford; the Spirit of Brooklands, Weybridge, Surrey, the Wildfowl and Weilands Centre, Pencia-cwydd, Llanelli, and the World of Beatrix Potter, Bowness-on-Windermere.

Cumbria. Certificates of merit were presented to: the Button Museum, Ross-on-Wye; Garden of Historic Roses, Drum Castle, Banchory, Grampian: Hareshowe Working Farm, Mintlaw, Grampian; the Lookout. Bracknell, Berkshire; New Bracknett, Berksture; New Barn, near Dorchester; Northampton Visitor Cen-tre; Ripley's Believe It Or Not! Odditorium, Black-pool; Rugby School Muse-um, Rugby; the Saltburn Smugglers Heritage Cen-tre, Cleveland; Scarbor-ough Sea Life Centre, Scarough Sea Life Centre, Scarborough; the Tales of Robin Hood, Nottingham: Tower Hill Pageant, London; and Verulamium Museum. St Albans, Hertfordshire.

Certificates of continuing development went to: the Cian Donald Centre, Skye, and the Welsh Folk Museum, St Fagans, Cardiff.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Boy dies after visit to dentist

A BOY aged ten has died after being given an anaes-thetic by a dentist. His heart stopped while he was having teeth extracted.

Paul Becken, of Isleham, Cambridgeshire, was treated in Mildenhall, Sulfolk, on Monday. His orthodontist called an ambulance when he became worried about the time it was taking him to recover from the anaesthetic.

Paul was taken to hospital but died minutes after arriving. An investigation into his death has started.

Case dropped

Charges of threatening behaviour were dropped against four protesters who disrupted the unveiling of a statue to Sir Arthur "Bomber" Harris by Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother in London in May. Bow Street Magistrates Court found that there was insufficient evidence against them.

Driver jailed

Gary Langouroux, 27, of Dartford, Kent, was jailed for nine months after being chased for 72 miles across London by police. He had sped through 14 sets of red lights before crashing into a police car, Isleworth Crown Court was told.

Bus hits bridge

A man ripped the top deck off hit a low bridge while trying to drive it home. He had fallen asleep on the bus and had woken up in a depot in Croydon, south London.

Jockey banned

The jockey Richard Dun-woody, 28, of Wantage, Oxfordshire, was banned from driving for two weeks after admitting speeding on the way to Newton Abbot racecourse, Devon, in May.

Potato surprise

Two suspect packages blown up by a bomb disposal team in Totnes, Devon, contained frozen chips. They had been left outside an army depot.

BBC to launch 24-hour news radio network

A 24-HOUR BBC radio news network, relying mainly on live, on-the-spot coverage, will begin broadcasting no later than January 1994, Sir Michael Checkland, the BBC director-general disclosed yesterday. The plan, which was shelved a year ago amid inter-nal opposition from Michael Green, the Radio 4 controller, who feared it might damage Radio 4, has been rejuvenated by John Birt, who takes over from Sir Michael next April, and Tony Hall, director of news and current

Sir Michael, who last year cancelled a £175 million building for news and current affairs proposed by Mr Birt, also outlined plans for a new £30 million extension to Television Centre, which will house the 24-hour channel by 1995 and all radio, news and current affairs staff.

Audience exposure to CNN. Sky News and the BBC's own experimentation with rolling news coverage and split Radio 4 frequencies during the Gulf war, release of the Beirut hostages and general election had increased demand for live coverage of unfolding events delivered in an accessible and informative way. Sir Michael told radio executives at the Radio Academy's annual conference in Birmingham.

Sir Michael said that a rolling news service was an essential part of public service broadcasting, necessary if the BBC was to retain its place as the leading provider of news and current affairs. Recommended as part of the BBC's proposals for the renewal of its royal charter in 1996 the sixth network will cost £9 million a year compared with Radio 4's budget of £65 million. The extra funding will come improved efficiency within the BBC.

The long-wave news service would concentrate on live, big events using the BBCs array of specialists, foreign correspondents and regional journalists, as well as the World Service, Mr Hall said.

Jenny Abramsky, editor of news and current affairs radio, said there was no question of the station having to rely on live "phone-ins" to fill time. "There is a vast variety of programmes that never make it on air. News radio has always been forced into a narrow agenda set by the half-hour programme and that means the BBC has failed to do the type of indepth features that newspapers can." But it is unclear how much of Radio 4 FM's current affairs and documentaries will be dropped in favour of its long-wave sister. Nor is it clear who will run the news service, although it is likely that a controller will be appointed from the news and current affairs directorate. Mr Checkland said that increasing the BBC's investment in FM transmitters would ensure that Radio 4's traditional audience would not lose its favourite programmes when the news ser-Classic FM has promised listeners "classical music dressed by Benetton" when it begins broadcasting in early September. Michael Bukht, Classic's programme controller, said that many listeners who enjoyed classical music had been alienated by Radio 3's "white tie and penguin suit" approach. Classic would be a main line, full- service popular music radio station with short, brisk arias and movements in the mornings and longer pieces in the evenings.

Sporting: Friend Sarah Randall nominated Clive

Sloanes turn serious

CLIVE Hopkins, an estate zine, which has run the comagent, is the winner of the Sloane Ranger of the year award.

Sloane Rangers have gone serious, found careers and moved south of the river, it was said yesterday. They have stopped saying "OK yah" and drink in south London pubs. Harners & Queen's magapetition for ten years, chose Clive, 30, "because his lifestyle is typical of a Sloane Ranger". His favourite restaurant is the Cafe Du Marche, in Smithsfield, and he spends most weekends in the country playing cricket, watching polo or shooting. He waterskis in Barbados.

dispute with ITV

Thames settles

By MELINDA WITTSTOCK, MEDIA CORRESPONDENT

SUCCESSFUL Thames Television programmes including The Bill, Minder, and Mr Bean will appear on ITV next year after the settlement of a dispute which had threatened to disrupt network schedules in the South East this ITV executives have backed down on demands that Thames relinquish for ten years its right to broadcast repeats of its programmes on rival channels such as UK Gold, the new satellite channel Thames is launching with the BBC this autumn. A £29 million deal for the first eight months of 1993, including a thrice-weekly showing of The Bill, was agreed in spite of the efforts of Carlton Television, which replaces Thames on January 1. to deny its predecessor satellite and repeat rights.

Thames, whose success as an independent producer depends on providing hit programmes from its library as well as repeats of new programmes, said Carlton's demand had been unreasonable and would have forced it to drop most network programmes this autumn. Last week, Tharnes said that, if ITV did not back down on the question of repeat rights and agree a deal it would have no choice but to drop most network pro-grammes this autumn to make way for a huge backlog of first-run television films and its own shows such as Minder, Wish You Were Here and This Is Your Life. which had already begun production on the assumption that ITV would want them for next year's schedule.

rax (

1 .

100

V 100

Yesterday, Thames an-nounced that it had been commissioned to produce 104 episodes of The Bill which will be transmitted on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays instead of its present two-night slot. Thames will also provide 13 episodes of Minder, 12 of Wish You Were Here, 16 of This Is Your Life and two Mr Bean Specials.

Dean sings the praises of a silent congregation

A SENIOR churchman has at-tacked some worship in the Church of England as half-hearted, slovenly and selfish. The Very Rev Christopher Campling, the Dean of Ripon, criticised those who "try to go faster than the organist or other people [who] indolently drag be-hind him".

The dean, chairman of the Council for the Care of Churches, said that listening to music in church was an act of faith. "I would like there to be more emphasis in our church on music which is performed by some people and listened to by others. We cannot have the best if everybody thinks they must join in."

The dean was speaking in the final debate of the four-day meet-ing of the General Synod of the Church of England in York yesterday. The synod was debating In Tune With Heaven, a report which says that music in worship should be employed for God and calls for an improvement in quality. Without worship, the report says, music in church is largely irrelevant.

It says that tolerance of different approaches is essential and gives a warning against despising unfa-miliar forms of worship. "God can reveal something of himself through many styles of music, whether it be Mozart or the

The overall picture painted by the report is that music in church is drab. The church either takes music for granted or places little value on it. Services become rou-tine, with little effort put into preparation.

The Bishop of Chester, the Right Rev Michael Baughen, a successful modern hymn writer, said that the report was bland. "Of course, what it lacks is music. To produce a report on music without music is almost fatal." Members of the

The General Synod's final debate yesterday was on raising the quality of church music. Ruth Gledhill

Archbishops' Commission, which wrote the report, had hoped to produce a cassette to go with it, but had been stopped.

He said that different types of listened quietly

music appealed to different people.
"For some people, cathedral evensong will send them to heaven. For others, it leaves them stone cold." The report was introduced by the Right Rev Timothy Bavin. Bishop of Portsmouth, who chaired the commission. "We could not avoid noting the report of the rep noting the general shortage of numbers of organists and musi-cians, inadequate training, lack of proper finance, a lesser place for all music except hymns in many churches and a widespread lowering of standards," he said. But he noted that there were 18,000 church musicians in Brit-ain who served the church without much recognition or reward. He described one organist, aged 103, still playing for her church, having started in 1920. One woman in his diocese had been at the console for 58 years and was in her eighties. ☐ The church needs to recover confidence in the proclamation of faith. Dr George Carey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, said yesterday. It had strayed from this emphasis and criticised the preaching of too many "moralistic or experiential sermons". The archbishop, addressing a conference in Swanwick, Derbyshire, called for an analysis of the discontents of the modern human condition and of the structure of western society and culture. Without an awareness of the gulf be-tween church and society, prescriptions for the church's mission, such as the Decade of Evangalism, would fail would fail.

Dr Carey said: "If I have one abiding fear of the Decade of Evangalism it is that the church could so easily settle for easy answers which will satisfy only those altered that Christian already convinced that Christ is the truth."

The church had played down the significance of preaching for too long and the understanding of the Christian story had become a jum-ble. "Irrationality takes over." He said that there was an unspoken modern assumption that reli-gious faith and a scientific outlook were implacably opposed. "One deals in values, and the other in fact." he said. "But we have given way too readily. There was no need to give so much ground."

Shabby seaside resorts and overpriced hotels threaten to drive visitors away

UK accused of giving tourists a poor deal

BY A STAFF REPORTER

BRITAIN'S tourism industry is in the doldrums. Seaside resorts are shabby, delays at airports are unac-ceptable, too many information offices are in the wrong place and too few hotel staff speak English properly, according to a report published yesterday.

Central and local government, business and the private sector must get together to improve facilities or Britain is in danger of losing a ain is in danger of losing a huge chunk of the £18 bil-lion that tourism earns every year, the report from the National Economic Development Council says.
Angus Crichton-Miller,

chairman of the working party that prepared the re-port, said: Tourism is set to become the world's biggest industry by the year 2000. The UK needs a co-ordinated and determined effort if we are to compete. If: we do not make the necessary changes and improve-ments the flow of overseas visitors will decline, and as far as the domestic market is concerned people may in-creasingly choose holidays

An analysis of where sour-ists come from and what they want has beined that group to identify manifestas. for change. The mimber of tourists from northern Europe, except France, has declined while the manner from the United States, Care ada, Australia and Japan

Seaside resorts are heavily criticised. "Nowhere is the shabbiness more evident than in seaside resorts, many of which are faded glories equipped to meet the demands of a bygone age.
There are, of course, exceptions such as Torquay, but these highlight the problems

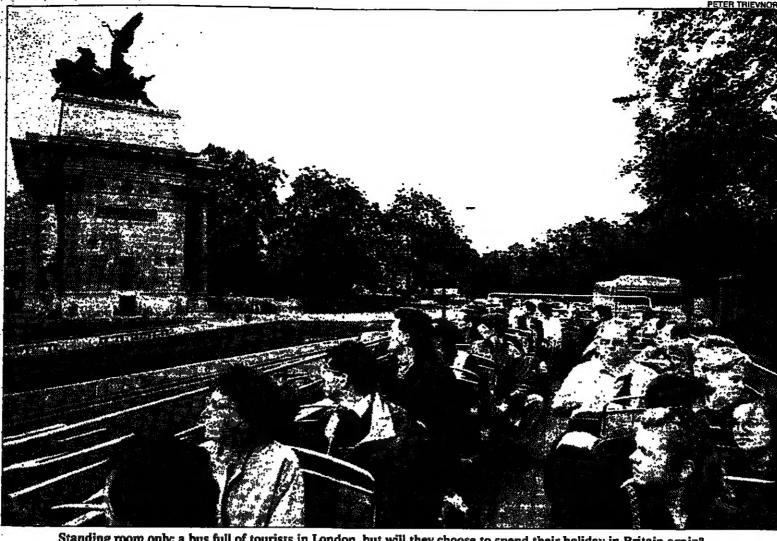

elsewhere," the report says. It suggests introducing a system of sanctions against towns that describe diemsleves as a resort when it is misleading to do so. Towns that fall to meet accepted standards would not be featured by tourism boards, which would issue a list of "real resorts".

Most tourists, especially first-time visitors, put London high on their list of priorities, but facilities in the capital city, particularly parking space for coaches. are inadequate. In a survey of overseas visitors, 45 per cent found meals, restaurants and cafés expensive and 48 per cent thought that London hotels were bad

Hotels are criticised for lack of cleanliness. Bathrooms, bed covers, curtains and carpets are identified as needing attention and secexpectations. The report concludes that up to 10 per cent of hotels and self-catering accommodation are be-youd refurbishment.

Reception staff speaking madequate English, rude assacepance Engine, rude-acts, employee shortages and lack of training were also identified as problems. Law pay, long hours and minimal training are re-sponsible for high staff turnevers and tack of commitment. Managers need to know how to train their staff better and money has to be invested to make jobs more attractive and to promote Britain has fallen behind her fanopean counterparts its heritage. The report gives the ministries of tourism and culture work together.

Standing room only: a bus full of tourists in London, but will they choose to spend their holiday in Britain again?

Airport delays and dirty trains criticised

TRAVEL and transport for tourists in Britain need to be modernised and improved, the report says, and immigration delays at Heathrow and Gatwick airports are

appalling.
The tourists usually delayed at immigration are high-spenders from counmes such as Japan and the United States. Researchers found that the average waiting time at Heathrow and Gatwick for people from outside the European Community was between six minutes and half an hour. "This is a major competitive weakness," the report says. It recommends that 95 per cent of non-Community nationals should be cleared in 15

After tourists arrive at the airport they often experience lays in reaching their next destination. The lack of an integrated rail service from serious difficulty. "The Heathrow Express rail link to Paddington is of paramount national importance," the report says.

It says that London Underground carriages are dirty and British Rail services roadworks to avoid the busy summer months should be the transport department's main objective. Hotels are often hard to find, especially by tourists travelling by road. The report suggests a pilot use bus lanes in cities.

IQURISTS: WHO STAYS THE LONGEST.
AND WHO SPENDS THE MOST.

	(% of 1 1979	total) 1990	(% of t	otel) 1990
us	15.7	25.8	12.9	18.0
West Germany	7.8	6.1	12.6	10.0
Australia/New Zealand	7.3	7.9	9.8	10.8
Natherlands	5.6	2.8	7.1	3.6
Ireland	4.0	3.4	5.0	4.5
France	3.9	5.3	5.8	4.5 8.7
Canada	3.6	3.8	4.5	4.3
Sweden	2.5	2.3	2.8	1.7
Spain	2.5	2.3 2.7	2.1	3.2
Switzerland	1.8	2.0	1.5	1.5
Italy	1.7	3.1	2.7	3.4
Japan	1.1	5.3	0.6	2.4
Middle East	16.9	8.0	9.2	5.7

Coach facilities urgently need improvement. More parking space in London, including the building of a new coach park beneath Hyde Park, is a priority. Coaches should be allowed to

Tourist information centres are identified as being fundamental to the future of the industry but many are inadequately staffed, sited in the wrong places and lack high-technology booking fa-cilities. The main aim of the centres is identified as giving information to the tourist to ensure an enjoyable stay and to provide local knowledge and encouragement to visit attractions.

The service is variable. Some provide comprehensive information using fully trained and even multi-lingual staff, whilst others rely on part-time volunteers.

Many are badly located, difficult to find and not in areas of strong demand," the report says.

All centres must have extensive on-line booking facilities. "There is a trend towards more and shorter holidays, utilising the wider range of products with in-creasing mumbers of facilities and attractions. This puts the consumer's time researching and selecting the options at a premium. Being able to find out about travel, accommodation, catering and attractions in a single session and making selections in a single booking is convenient and saves time."

New technology for the centres could be partly funded by the proposed national lottery. New centres should be sited at gateways to the country such as all airports, seaports and on major motorways, the report says.

Centre wins the design 'Oscar'

BIRMINGHAM'S International Convention Centre has won tourism's Oscar for its "outstanding contemporary design cou-pled with high quality ma-terials and technical wizardry". The award, the Come To Britain trophy, was made by the British Tourist Authority and was presented by the television newsreader Jill Dando in London. Special awards were presented to: the Fan Museum, Greenwich; Chatham Historic Dockyard; Llancalach Fawr Living History Museum, Nelson, Mid Glamorgan: Maritime Quarter, Swansea; National Fishing Heritage Centre, Grimsby: and the White Cliffs Experience, Dover.

Certificates of distinction went to: J.M. Barrie's birthplace. Kirriemuir: the Buter Market. Enniskillen, co. Fermanagh; Carnfunnock Country Park, Lame, co. Antrim; King's Conference and Visitor Centre, Aberdeen; Oriel Ynys Mon. Anglesey: Shugborough Estate. Stafford; the Spirit of Brooklands, Weybridge, Surrey: the Wildfowl and Wetlands Centre. Penclacwydd, Llanelli; and the World of Beatrix Potter, Bowness-on-Windermere, Cumbria.

Certificates of merit were resented to: the Button Museum, Ross-on-Wye: Garden of Historic Roses, Drum Castle, Banchory, Grampian: Hareshowe Working Farm, Mintlaw, Grampian: the Lookout, Bracknell, Berkshire; New Barn, near Dorchester; Northampton Visitor Cen-tre: Ripley's Believe It Or Net! Oddienter Plack Not! Odditorium, Black-pool; Rugby School Muse-um, Rugby; the Saltburn Smugglers Heritage Cen-tre, Cleveland; Scarborough Sea Life Centre, Scarborough; the Tales of Robin Hood, Nottingham: Tower Hill Pageant, London; and Verulamium Museum, St Albans, Hertfordshire.

Certificates of continuing development went to: the Clan Donald Centre, Skye, and the Welsh Folk Museum, St Fagans, Cardiff.

peat rights and agree a deal it would have no choice but to Thames settles

dispute with ITV

By Melinda Wittstock, media correspondent

Boy dies after visit to dentist

A BOY aged ten has died after being given an anaes-thetic by a dentist. His heart stopped while he was having teeth extracted.

Paul Beckett, of Isleham. Cambridgeshire, was treated in Mildenhali, Suffolk, on Monday. His orthodontist called an ambulance when he became worried about the time it was taking him to recover from the anaesthetic. Paul was taken to hospital but died minutes after arriving. An investigation into his death has started.

Case dropped

Charges of threatening be-haviour were dropped against four protesters who against four protesters who disrupted the unveiling of a statue to Sir Arthur "Bomber" Harris by Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother in London in May. Bow Street Magistrates' Court found that there was insufficient. that there was insufficient evidence against them.

Driver jailed

Gary Langouroux, 27, of Dartford, Kent, was jailed for nine months after being chased for 72 miles across London by police. He had sped through 14 sets of red lights before crashing into a police car, Isleworth Crown Court was told.

Bus hits bridge

A man ripped the top deck off a double-decker bus when he hit a low bridge while trying to drive it home. He had fallen asleep on the bus and had woken up in a depot in Croydon, south London.

Jockey banned

The jockey Richard Dun-woody, 28, of Wantage, Ox-fordshire, was banned from driving for two weeks after admitting speeding on the way to Newton Abbot race course, Devon, in May.

Potato surprise

Two suspect packages blown up by a bomb disposal team in Tomes. Devon, contained frozen chips. They had been lest outside an army depot.

BBC to launch 24-hour news radio network

By MELINDA WITTSTOCK, MEDIA CORRESPONDENT

A 24-HOUR BBC radio news network, relying mainly on live, on the spot coverage, will begin broadcasting no later than January 1994. Sir Michael Checkland, the BBC director-general disclosed yesterday.

The plan, which was shelved a year ago amid inter-nal opposition from Michael Green, the Radio 4 controller, who feared it might damage Radio 4, has been rejuvenated by John Birt, who takes over from Sir Michael next April, and Tony Hall, director of news and current

Sir Michael, who last year cancelled a £175 million building for news and current affairs proposed by Mr Birt, also outlined plans for a new £30 million extension to Television Centre, which will house the 24-hour channel by 1995 and all radio, news and current affairs staff. Audience exposure to CNN, Sky News and the BBC's own experimentation with rolling news coverage and split Radio 4 frequencies during the Gulf war, release of the Beirut hostages and general election had increased demand for live coverage of unfolding events delivered in an accessible and informative way, Sir Michael told radio executives at the Radio Academy's annual conference in Birmingham.

Sir Michael said that a rolling news service was an essential part of public service broadcasting, necessary if the BBC was to retain its place as the leading provider of news and current affairs. Recom-mended as part of the BBC's proposals for the renewal of its royal charter in 1996 the sixth network will cost £9 million a year compared with Radio 4's budget of £65 million. The extra funding will come improved efficiency within the BBC.

The long-wave news service would concentrate on live, big events using the BBCs array of specialists, foreign correspondents and regional jour-nalists, as well as the World Service, Mr Hall said.

Jenny Abramsky, editor of news and current affairs radio, said there was no question of the station having to rely on live "phone-ins" to fill time. "There is a vast variety of programmes that never make it on air. News radio has always been forced into a narrow agenda set by the half-hour programme and longer pieces in the evenings.

that means the BBC has failed to do the type of indepth features that newspapers can.'

But it is unclear how much of Radio 4 FM's current affairs and documentaries will be dropped in favour of its long-wave sister. Nor is it clear who will run the news service, although it is likely that a controller will be appointed from the news and current affairs directorate. Mr Checkland said that increasing the BBC's investment in FM transmitters would ensure that Radio 4's traditional audience would not lose its favourite programmes when the news service begins.

☐ Classic FM has promised listeners "classical music dressed by Benetton" when it begins broadcasting in early September.

Michael Bukht, Classic's programme controller, said that many listeners who en-joyed classical music had been alienated by Radio 3's "white tie and penguin suit" approach. Classic would be a main line, full- service popular music radio station with short, brisk arias and movements in the mornings and

Sporting: Friend Sarah Randall nominated Clive

Sloanes turn serious CLIVE Hopkins, an estate

agent, is the winner of the Sloane Ranger of the year award.

Sloane Rangers have gone serious, found careers and moved south of the river. it was said yesterday. They have stopped saying "OK yah" and drink in south London pubs. Harpers & Queen's magazine, which has run the competition for ten years, chose Clive, 30, "because his lifestyle is typical of a Sloane Ranger". His favourite restaurant is the Café Du Marche, in Smithsfield, and he spends most weekends in the country playing cricket. watching polo or shooting. He waterskis in Barbados.

vision programmes including The Bill, Minder, and Mr Bean will appear on ITV next year after the settlement of a dispute which had threatened to disrupt network schedules in the South East this autumn. ITV executives have backed down on demands that Thames relinquish for ten years its right to broadcast repeats of its programmes on rival channels such as UK Gold, the new satellite channel Thames is launching with the BBC this autumn.

SUCCESSFUL Thames Tele-

A £29 million deal for the first eight months of 1993. including a thrice-weekly showing of The Bill, was agreed in spite of the efforts of Carlton Television, which replaces Thames on January 1. to deny its predecessor satellite and repeat rights.

Thames, whose success as an independent producer depends on providing hit pro-grammes from its library as well as repeats of new pro-grammes, said Carlton's demand had been unreasonable and would have forced it to drop most network programmes this autumn.

Last week, Thames said that, if ITV did not back down on the question of redrop most network pro-grammes this autumn to make way for a huge backlog of first-run television films and its own shows such as Minder, Wish You Were Here and This Is Your Life. which had already begun production on the assumption that ITV would want them for next year's schedule. Yesterday, Thames announced that it had been commissioned to produce 104 episodes of The Bill which will be transmitted on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays instead of its present two-night slot. Thames will also provide 13 episodes of Minder, 12 of Wish You Were Here, 16 of This Is Your Life and two Mr Bean

Dean sings the praises of a silent congregation

A SENIOR churchman has attacked some worship in the Church of England as half-hearted, slovenly and selfish. The Very Rev Christopher Campling, the Dean of Ripon, criticised those who "try to go faster than the organist or other people [who] indolertly drag behind him".

The dean, chairman of the Countries of t

The dean, chairman of the Couneil for the Care of Churches, said that listening to music in church was an act of faith. "I would like there to be more emphasis in our church on music which is performed by some people and listened to by others. We cannot have the best if everybody thinks they

The dean was speaking in the final debate of the four-day meeting of the General Synod of the Church of England in York yesterday. The smed was debating in must join in." day. The synod was debating In Tune With Heaven, a report which says that music in worship should reveal something of himself through many styles of music, whether it be Mozart or the Beatles."

The overall picture painted by the report is that music in church is drab. The church either takes music for granted or places little value on it. Services become routine, with little effort put into preparation.

The Bishop of Chester, the Right
Rev Michael Baughen, a successful modern hymn writer, said that the report was bland. "Of course, what it lacks is music. To produce a report on music without music is almost fatal." Members of the

The General Synod's final debate yesterday was on raising the quality of church music. Ruth Gledhill listened quietly

Archbishops' Commission, which wrote the report, had hoped to produce a cassette to go with it, but had been stopped. He said that different types of music appealed to different people. "For some people, cathedral evensong will send them to heaven. For others, it leaves them stone cold." The report was introduced by the Right Rev Timothy Bavin, Bishop of Portsmouth, who chaired the commission. "We could not avoid noting the general shortage of numbers of organists and musicians, inadequate training, lack of proper finance, a lesser place for all music except hymns in many churches and a widespread lowering of standards," he said.

But he noted that there were 18,000 church musicians in Britain who served the church without much recognition or reward. He described one organist, aged 103. still playing for her church, having started in 1920. One woman in his diocese had been at the console for 58 years and was in her eighties.

☐ The church needs to recover confidence in the proclamation of faith, Dr George Carey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, said yester-day. It had strayed from this emphasis and criticised the preaching of too many "moralistic or experiential sermons". The archbishop, addressing a conference in Swanwick, Derbyshire, called for an analysis of the discontents of the modern human condition and of the structure of western society and culture. Without an awareness of the gulf between church and society, prescriptions for the church's mission. such as the Decade of Evangalism, would fail

Dr Carey said: "If I have one abiding fear of the Decade of Evangalism it is that the church could so easily settle for easy answers which will satisfy only those already convinced that Christ is the truth."

The church had played down the significance of preaching for too long and the understanding of the Christian story had become a jumble. "Irrationality takes over." He said that there was an unspoken modern assumption that religious faith and a scientific outlook were implacably opposed. "One deals in values, and the other in fact," he said. "But we have given way too readily. There was no need

OVERSEAS PROPERTY

U.S.A.

LUXURY FLORIDA 3 With FREE Golf And Country Clubs!

£34,000 =24 Hour Security Patrols The Villages

071-734 7282 REE VIDEO & PORTFOLIO No Cost Or Obligation!

Freehold Near Disneyworld, Orlando = 5 Golf Courses, 8 Tennis Courts - Management & Rental Services - Gualified Immigration inve

The Villages - 35 Piccadility - London - W1V 9P3

MEDITERRANEANSIDE (34 HERLAUT) Soles for retired reasons, campaire 4-stors, campite 4-stors,

navellous arrangement,
or-restourant, Licence IV,
Pizzeria-Grill,
Supermarket, Swimming pool, half-court, mini golf.
Please Reply to Box No
9316

LOT House + barn to restore

SWITZERLAND

VILLARIE A chalce of distinguished Freehald Chalet apartments situated on our exclusive private park, on the pisten or in the village control businessity of the village of village SA. U.K. London W.1.2 SWE. Tel. 081 745 2185. Peac 081 749 0339.

OVERSEAS PROPERTY

FRANCE

EXCEPTIONAL! FRANCE LOIRE VALLEY PRATICE LUTINE TABLE 1.20 PER PRATICE LUTINE TO THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O

For Initial details please Tel: (GB) 0234 713125 or Fax 0234 240405

FOR SALE - PROVENCE. FOR SALE - PROVENCE.
Authentic Provencia hause in the Les Salles Ser Verdon neor Loc de St. Croix in Provence. 1st floor: 3 beds + both. Groused floor: Lirosou & family reconfliction, rollet + shower room. Southerroix: Gge + storage room. Price: T.B.A.
Mon-Fri after Opin and anytime farmhouse. 5 beck. 2 betha. jes recept open fireplace. Inthe except open fireplace. Inthe expert is it, celler. Constartable. Inthe modernised. elec CH. soc. cond. Outbulkings. barri & stables. Superty views, c. 4 acre. Quiet rural position. village outsiders. It shops & petrol str. Victuy 15 mins. AT1 M-way Parts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. Por visual 6 mins. AT1 M-way Farts J. Common. AT1 M-way Farts J 010-31-4904-16662 COTE D'AZUR Opto Villa 3 hed, pool in boxury dornabae with security + Binnis. nr. poff. bestifut unrdern + views FF 2.630.000 Tim Sanders FNAIM (ax + pir: 01033 93 77 21 36 ASH awaits vendor of 2/3 bed. (/furn'd property in SW France, No Agencies, Fax details & price to 0746 767616. BALEARICS SPAIN

MAJORCA Paguera Es Turo. 2 rwin bed apl. F/F. bath/shwr. Mag view across bay Owner's pool. Beach 200 s/ds. Barqain. £31,500 0925 263902 GENERAL

MALTA 2 SED api, F/F. Beautiful har-bour cires. CBD$5,000. Tel:010 386 573536

ALMUNECAR/ COSTA DEL SOL Exclusive properties available not ap British clients, in dis histonic lown of Almuneur, Spectacular accessors, onto Oce hour from scenery, only one hour from Granada, lying at the loor of th Sierra Nevada, Prices from Jun 134,900 first line on the beach For Brochure/Further Information Tel/Fax: penish Link Ltd (0804) 60413

PARES Le Pecu. 1st floor 6byl her pout area peur biffingual schook, 5 rms, 20 mins le Diolle station, long bym rest 9000FF Mondia CPL incl. Private gar-den & gar (01003) 76 46 25 52

COUNTRY PROPERTY

COTSWOLDS EAST ANGLIA STROUD large gabled 5 story renovated Grade II listed stone form house, many period fea-tures, in friendly village, gas central heating, 4 bed, 2 bath, 2 reception, good garders, double garace, summer house. £285,000, 0453 625783 eves DEVON & CORNWALL

FLUSHING Waterside village. Small devel of new 2 bed col-lages, garages & dingly storage Fr 1.67.000 0326 374033 t ONTH Devon Choice location M ST IVES 12 miles). A chan to own a traditional Comb collage in superb location.

OISS 2 miles (Liv St 90 mirs). Grade II Listed delightfully set beamed and thatched 17th cen-tury cottage, nearly an acre, studio gdn annew, 4 beds, 2 bulls, 6 hby A much admired property. Ref 0396 £167,500. Thos Wm Gabs & Son Diss. 0379 641341

ADER

FOLDING CARD TABLE

AND MATCHING

CHAIRS

This superbly decigned especially created for playing bridge and other a round of Scrabble or constructed in hardwood and stained to a rich

walnut shade and features a 30" square, green baize covered top. With individually folding legs which slip easily underneath, it will fold away discreetly when not in use.

The matching chairs are not only lightweight and comfortable, but sturdy too. Crafted in hardwood and stained to the same walnut colour, they have pure cotton canvas seats and backs, in dark green, and fold away to a slim

readers for only £37.95 each, and the table for only £49.95.

Both prices include carriage and

PHONE DIRECT 0509 216446

on The Times special 24 hour

order number quoting ref: T09

Enquiries only: 0509 235235 Mon-Fri, 8.30am-4.30pm

represent excellent value for money.

The chairs are on offer to Times

7//s" when not in use.

Trivial Pursuits too. The table is traditionally folding turniture has been

card games and is perfect for anyone who may enjoy LOVELY 4 bed Georgian style base Augrent 1 acre. Close NG Coast. PP for grammle annex. £210,000. Tel: 0485 828344. AND LO.W.

idendal area. 300 yards from beach, 1% hrs London, altrac-tive 'cottagey' bouse, superb Living Rms, 3/4 Beds, dole gar-age, £158,500, £202 434747.

Card Table;

30" W x 30" D x 26" H

21" W x 20" D x 34" H

Send completed coupon to Tise of Times Card Table & Chair Offer 109, Belton Road Wast, Loughborough, Lelis LE11 070. Please allow up to 28 days for delivery Subject to availability if you are not fully satisfied please return within 7 days for a refund. For UK residents only.

Send to THE TIMES CARD TABLE & CHAIR OF

£49.95

Expery date

New houses & busgalows from £71.000. Or built to your reg'mts o/looking caste & lown Nationwide 0768 63402 OXFORDSHIRE

SURREY

DUNMORE EAST Finity Cottage is for sele. With 1% acres at Creaden. Photographs available £55.000 010353 51 83639

E63.000. Two bedroom Gat, garage, Brt. 979 year lease. No chain. Tel 0843 46985

1YTHE. On coast, 75 mins train. Send with large garden. Open views front and rear. 10 mins town centre. £75,000. Tel: 071 261 8532 (0)

RR CANTERBURY An historic listed masor house dading from the 18th contraw in a quiet rural situation. 3 rec ross, study, music ras. 5 beds 1; 1 with en sufficient of the study of the outbuilding. Swimming pool. Gdm. About 1 acre. O.LR. £245.000. Tel: Strutt & Parker 102271 451 123. Ref SCC/3596

OAICHAM - Lux renovated in floor mews final with eak beams, ideal for salling on Ruthand Water. Lge loungs. 2 beds. Fit Nil. rec hall. Balcary. £55.000. 0832 280659 Fr 0832289843

STOKE. End terrored house newly modernized. large gar den. £40.000. 0782 289715.

NORTH WEST

APPLEBY IN WESTMORLAND

WALES die 99e in 1 acre beautifu

FARNDALE A period stane detached country roperty with river frontage stands

PROPERTY WANTED

HOME COUNTIES

HURLEY LLOYD

FREEHOLD AGRICULTURAL INVESTMENT PORTFOLIO 7,430 ACRES

COUNTRY PROPERTY

Cambridgeshire, Lincolnshire, Essex, N. Hertfordshire LET AND PRODUCING £455,710 per annum

Apply: 70a High Street, Hantingdon, Cambs. PE18 6DJ. Tel. (0480) 453557 LONDON - HUNTINGDON - STOW ON WOLD - TUNBRIDGE WELLS

PURBECK Stone cottage, Marvet-lous views 10W, Downs, Corfe Caste, Hall, Sidy, 2-3 Records, 5-4 hds, 2 bitzs, Shver/cik, idt. Dile ops, wall del. Highly indu-bated, £182,000, 0929 422127. WESTCOTT Derking Det 4 hrm. 3 rec. bath. clicrm. gas CH, Dbi ggs. jecuzzi Sectuded walled garden £245.000 0306 885447 TRADE - a lovely queen Amehouse, 6 beds, 5 beds, 7 heb., 4 rec, set in 8 acres in the New Forest near Lymbhurd. vahue 5225,000 for anything reasonable under £300,000 with cath difference. If your happy to do SUSSEX

HEREFORDSHIRE, WORCS, & SHROP BATTLE - EAST SUSSEX 3 bedroom detached house with penoromic views overlooking the Abbey, Usual reception rooms, nicely fitted kitches, new barthroom. I badroom ex-aute. OCH. AB in 7th oces with visayard and orthond. ESTER 6 mis. MS 17 6 18th C cottage beaut 1 3 bed. 3 rec. htt kir. pvie £139,500. 0906 821598 IRELAND

£295,000 Tel: 04246-4861

iuocred Hr Uckfield, Superti 4 bed iss., 4 receps, 2 bains, 32n bid s/sooi. dbi ége, mature gdn. £197.500. 0825 735796. NR HAYWARDS HEATH Rural river setting. Period 5 bedroom cottage . 1 acre £385.000. Tel: Powells 0342 822261

PRETTY Mid Sussex cottage, rully modernised, woods to rear, fields in front, 3 beds, 2 baths, sasty commission London/Catwick/coast, 5140,000, For full details Tel: 0851 879613.

NORTH OF SCOTLAND

(SUTHERLAND)

A most desirable detected property in 2s oers of ground offering sperior occussodation of holf, lessage, kirches, dissing room, 3 beds and both, with full disle placing and oil CH.
Situated on Stratisty Point,
Setherland, consumating passorosist views of The Pentiand Firth and Tile Orlangs, Ideal for shearing and fishing, Offers over $50,000.

Offers when seen to BRUCE AND CO TEL: 0955 2201.

UNIQUE FARM STEADING Lovingly restored, mountaining it's original cheracter. Many features. Series and stone, 4 heds. Gordens. Myffir rare location. RYVERNESS 17 miles. Tel: Cawdor (06677)

294 after 6pm Offers wound £ 130,000

SOMERSET & AVON

YORKSHIRE

teter Illingworth

properly with their territage standing on approximately then acris. Typical period leathwist include, Ingianotal store window siles, Porch, Kitchen, dring area, reception area / disawing room / musico room, sating moon, etc. four bedrooms, bank room, etc.

Price Balde 2788,988 to 2288,988

RETIREMENT HOMES

Now you've more time on your hands You know what you went out of life, Brigoy natirement in your own comfortable cottage or epertment in our latest superby designed development in the Chitem Hills development in the Chitem His near Marlow. Set in quiet garder yet only minutes from a busting ellage high street. Framers Court of ready to view. To find out more about trese and other properties The English Courtyard Association 8 Holland Street London Wil 4LT.

MORTGAGES

GROSVENOR MORTGAGE SERVICES LTD

MORTGAGE AND REMORTGAGE FINANCE

Status & Non-status Loans

Remortgages for any Purpose Fixed rates from 8.5% (APR 9.48%) 10 year fixed rate from 10.25% (APR 11.2%)

Capped Rates from 8.5% (APR 11.3%) Variable Rates from 7.99% (APR 8.6%) Written Quotations available on request

> 071-637 7292 7 Portland Place, London W1N 3AA

Licenced Credit Brokers
Your home is at risk if you do not keep up
REPAYMENTS ON A MORTIGAGE OR OTHER LOAN SECURED
ON IT. LIFE INSURANCE MAY BE REQUIRED. AN ARRANGEMENT FEE OF UP TO 1% MAY BE CHARGED.

MORTGAGE REMORTGAGE

Mortgages/Remortgages available with NO PROOF OF INCOME from 9.6% variable (APR 10.1%)

> Remortgages to raise capital FOR ANY REASON.

Mortgages available for purchasing 2nd, 3rd or 4th properties.

Status secured loans also available (up to 95% equity) FOR ANY REASON from 11.4% APR.

Tel: C.H.F.S. on 0223 290 885/ 0223 290 766 or Fax: 0223 290 224

CAMERIDGESHIRE + HERTFORDSHIRE FINANCIAL SERVICES YOUR HOME IS AT RISK IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON A MORTGAGE OR OTHER LOAN SECURED ON IT.

RENTALS

MERICAN/European corpo-rate employees sest quality homes $W1/3/6/7/10 Cabbun & Glasses 071 589 6461 bed. 2 receps, 8 mins from city £250 pw. Company let only. M. Doed 071 837 3000

ANGEL 4 storey Georgian House, partially furp, terrace and gar-den £400 pw. 671 976 8385.

ATE YOU visiting London's Central Estates have numerous Eats and houses available from $200 pw. 071-491-2609.

UMONT ST W1. Unfurn 4 I town hae. 3 receps, ige kR. 3 its. gee, roof terr. 2600pw. isman & Co: 071 626 8611.

EALING WS. Modernised semi det, 3 beforms, lige forunge 26" x 14". Nr shops & tube. Statt prots, £850 pcm. Tel 081 566 1448. my flats for long, short or holi-day lets. Mayfair, Martile Arch and Hyde Park. 071 724 4844 EATON SQUARE pied a terre, (/form 1 bed, terr, fiveplace, avail framed, $275pw all brc. 071 730 1558 (No asspan). ACTIVE Enquiries from corpo-rate essess for quality (pro./ unium props is South Ken & Chelses £250-£2.000pw Ruck & Ruck 071 581 1741 ALMUNECAR/Costs Drd Sol. S/C epts. First line on the beack, From £91 pw per apt. Sportish Link 0604 604131.

EXCELLENT edection of 2 bed field in Mayfeir and serround-ing areas from £500 pw Park Lane Estates 071 629 0763 PED UP LOCKUNG? We have properties in north & North West London, Move in 48 hrs. 081-4443185/ 4421348.

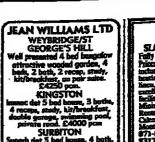

KENSINGTON, SWS. Lee besic 5 bed flet, with superb particles. C260 pw 071 288 3978 T

icensiliagrow w/s Pretty farm has, 4 bed, 2 recep, study, edu. Co, let (2500ew 07) 356 1568 iCensiliagrow Large 2 bestvom hat in beautiful Square. £300pw 071 373 3438 KEHSHIGTON. Jut designed 2 date bed fint. 2 baths Lge recep. If kit. £260pw. Q71 225 0102 KINGSBUSY NW9 Lee lux studio tlat. Newly built. new furniture and fittings. F/F KAS. Suit couple or single person. £130pw incl. 081 468 9448 Markir Sensols. Superb undura has, 4 bada, dile recep-tif kil, sep din rat. 2 cellers, petto, end value £528pw. 071 225 0/102 t MARRIE ARCH spectacular period 1st floor 1 bed flat o Tooking Hyde part. 2 fabricus recep. halcony & terrance (could be 2 bed, 1 recep) ideal Cory/Embessy. All services can be provided. Offers in region of

PRICE ICO SW1. Attrac to B 6 Spi in Warwick Sq. Rac with dining area. 5 left. 2 dol beds. 2 bulbs. com gins & tensis ct. £295gw. Decembers 871 630 1141

CENSINGTON House in coboled Mews. 4/6 Bed. 2 Bath, Saune. Gan. Garage. Beautiful decor. 2 Hitches. Furn/uningsipel. £930pw. one. 071-581 7042

RENTALS

private road. £4000 pcm
SURBITON
Superb det 5 bed beuse, 4 both,
3 receps, kir/framily room dibe gge dose ansantins £3000 pcm.
KINGSTON VALE
Det 4 bed, 2 both house, 1g recep, kir/fraesfrost close park £2000 pcm.
HAMFTON
Newly dec double franted 5 bed house, 2 both, 3 receps, close schools, 8t, slope. £1800 pcm.
RICHMOND
By town centre, 4 bed, 2 both fraesly levess, 2 receps, £it/fraesfrost, 2 gge, £1800
pcm. pcm.
WIMBLEDON
Close BR/Tube 2 bed, 1st flaor flot well dec/front £800 pcm.
081 949 2482

HOLLAND PARK HAMMERSMITH GROVE Large two bedroom spartments £165 pw or £715 per month

Tel Paul 081 993 6218 after 7pm

garden. phone. all mod come £185pw. Tel: Q81 500 3914, REENVESICH. Superb pamelled het. 2/3 vectes, 3/4 hed. 4 helfs & top thr short fill or 2 extra hed. 16 mins City & Cay alcovit, school buses Dulwich. 2600pw ung let farm or uniture. 061 858 2844 am. syns or whend

EARLEY

GLOUCESTER BOAR, SW7.

Student of UNITY/WO before Shadon of UNIT/WO before this shaded in this recently closured particl hydrog close in suppling and transport facilities. Available for long late, BUTRANCE HALL, BESETTON ROOK, 1/2 BERNOOMS, 1/2 SICHROUGH. £155 - 5275 par work.

QUEENSEATE, SOUTH KENSINGTON, SWY.

SERSIMOTOR, SWIT.

Enceptionsh highs FOLKITA Soor

THO bedroom Ret allested closes to all shopping and transport facilities
of Sooth Managemen. The Milles

of Sooth Managemen. The Milles

tellowing an integration of the Internation analysis incommission for a long let.

RECOMMISSIONERS, 2 COURSE,

RECOMMISSIONERS, 2 COURSE,

RECOMMISSIONERS, 2 COURSE,

ALAGE OR Minimptors Read,

Landows, SWIT SEZ.

Landows, SWIT SEZ.

071 589 1244.

GUELDFORD Lux grad fir Sat in Luthrhe-designed listed hm. 2 thi & 1 sel bedrus, 2 beins, 1 ar suits hat kit, lee gets, nr SR £2,000pcn, aven immed. 0302 858869 day. 0483 300307 h

LAMMERISMETH W6. Lint pb 2 dbl beds. recep k & b. terr £165pw inc CH (771 603 7489 (

CLLAND PARK Last 1 dbs bed garden flat, specious recep. furn, £130p=r, 071 727 3129 HYDE PARK W2 1 dbi bed so nerws St. £165pw inc GCH. elec. Cab 17V. phone facil, nr 4 habes Tel: G7I 723 G411

CENSINGTON W.S. Studio apt. skeps 4. Separate bitchen. bath-room. bath. Weething maching. Seautiful farw modernisation. All new fittings and carpets. Portered block with spurking & ogins. £175 pw. 971-602 6840

KENSDIGTON. Close to Questingste. Diegant Messa. House, 5 double ensuite beds. recep, distance, Fit ldt. Roof lett. Fully furn. ESSOper. OF 491 4879 (C) 0892 512514 (R)

CENSURGION: Mod., Purp. 2 hed apt. swell. I Aug for soin I year £500 pcm 071 371 4336

PREMIER PREMILE.

LOCATION
SLOANE AVENUE SW3
Fully serviced specians slv flats.
Prices from (2-60) per week inclusive of clostateity, control inclusive of clostateity, control inen, lienno merchen transport à a-merchen transport à a-lection. Mendrom NELL Olembra GWYNN 1971-584 GWYNN 5317/8 HOUSE -

312

----

-40 12 12

Sale of Janto -

2-17

4

1.

A 14

Marina.

.....

-

San Same

5.4

- 1

- 4-2

1

1

| 数 中・

12.

Maria de la como

a day 10 a ± + 1.

Santa Company

影片 法教务工员

ranger, .

4000

144

RONSIDES

FOR LUXURY
EXECUTIVE HOMES —
ON THE OTHER HAND,

STUDIO FLATS

est lettings service of the yes 071-581 5877/2470

ST JOHRS WOOD NWS Small but Imprequisite 1 bestvoor that in central location. Sult studie person £180 p/w 071 886 9862 PM. ST JOHRS WOOD Lux, sew, bright 2 bed, 2 bedl filet, garage, £385 pw. 071 792 2008.

8T JOHNS WOOD has new 8 bed, 2 bath, 2 rec fist, pkg, roof surr. £700pw, 071 792 2055

8W7 Beautiful studio Set. C-l. pientiful storage. £185 pw. 071 786 0165 or 071 264 3671.

perception, and dising room, letches/breakfast room, £230, per. G71 854 1026.

SWI Pimilico large new gasson-etta. 5 bedrooms, 2 beshrooms, reception and iskchen, gishwash, washmach, pilcro etr £300 pw. 071 834 1026.

SWI Phalico, Altractive double bedroom reception, betteroom & super folly fitted kilchen, bul-comy £196 pm, 671 834 1626.

E.W. GAPP

be provided. Offers in regio £700 pw. 071 402 9245

MAYFAIR W1 stunning 3 bed, 2 bath, triplex with own street entrance, Avail now only £500 pw. 071 402 9245 MAYFAIR W1. Lovely 2 bed 2 bath. 2 recep. duplex mais for short/long let Price beg from ENOOper let: 071 402 9245

PMALICO SW1. Bright modern garden flat. Sumny recep. dile bed. K & E. patio. CTV. wash mc. $180pw. U71 828 3666.

EGISTYS PARK MWT Superb ist floor 2 bedroom flat in good condition and well fornished. £250pw 071, 886 9682 PM... S.KEN SW7. Resery Gdms. Rebt 2 bad LO fiel. very quiet, own est. £175 pw. Inc. outpoings. More Indo. 0489 782414. 8 KEN, Och Sq: Standing 2 bed Sal. large recp. super Rt. W/M. D/W. CSOOPW. 071 373 0667

TOWER BINDS Edection of superb 1, 2, 5 & 4 bed lexesy startagents, summy with river views, original warshouse conversions. Traily form, enderground parking, From £175 pw 071 251 1885 1 Maylet from £150sw. P. Heylet from £150sw. P. Hes urgently reduited. Apts $71 935 9812 (T) W2 1-hode Peris, Newly Installed 1/2 hed that, Chrydens, beloney, games, security, £250pw neg. Carage extra, C/1 724 5928.

First she read The Times. Then she bought my flat.

of The Times' readers own their homes. At any one time, 96,000 of them are hoping to move within the next six months - possibly

And by using our Special Offer coupon, you can tell all these prospective buyers more about your house, while saving money. Just place a three line advertisement using this coupon within four weeks, and you'll get a fourth line absolutely free.

A four-line ad normally costs £25.30*, including VAT. But use the Special Offer coupon, and these four lines will only cost you £18.98.

So if you want to sell your house, put four lines in The Times. You're not likely to find an estate agent's window as big. Please ensure your completed coupon arrives at least three days before the date of insertion. . .

DIN TIMES TIMES CET THE POIDTH I ME EDEE

Write your advertisement below (approximately 28 characters per live including spaces and punctuation)	Name	LUNE	FKLE
	Address
	 	;
No advertisements can be accepted under these special terms unless pre-paid.  Cheques should be made payable to Times Newspapers Limited or debit my:
ACCESS VISA AMEX DINERS
Card No.	Telephone(daytime)	44
This offer is open to private advertisers only. Trade advertisements will appear	Signature	-
Send to: Simon Goddard, The Times Classified Advertisement Manager,  News International Ltd., P.O.Box 484, Virginia Street, London El 9BL.	THE		PENTE:

Move Words outweigh the deeds as Panic takes charge in Serbia

From Dessa Trevisan and Tim Judah in belgrade and Michael Binyon in London

MILAN Panic, 62, a Californian businessman of Serbian descent, was yesterday elected prime minister of the new Yugoslavia, which comprises just Serbia and Montenegro. Mr Panic, who talks in glowing terms about peace and business, has been brought back to Belgrade in order to impress the outside world and he said that, unless sanctions were lifted soon, he would consider his mission a failure.

Mr Panic has been close to Slobodan Milosevic, the president of Serbia, for some years; however, there are rumours in Belgrade that his premiership could signal the beginning of the end for Mr Milosevic. There was little visible evidence of that, though, as Mr Milosevic was yesterday ap-

EUROPEAN Commission

officials were meeting last night to complete a document that will pour fuel on the flames of debate on the European Community at Westminster, describing ways of cutting the "rebate" that Britain receives on its payments to the

The report will be considered when the Commission meets today and probably be sent to EC foreign ministers in time for their meeting on Monday. Last night commissioners were said to be divided over how far the report should go in recommending any particular option set out in the document. One Commission official said the calculations assumed that the rebate would.

be untouched for at least two years but that its value would fall progressively after that.

"In a subtle way the numbers in the draft report suggest that we would have to reduce."

the amount of rebate in two or three years' time because of the projections of the money we would be spending by then, he said. In 1992-93, of £4.9 billion are due to be cut

But the commissioners will probably try to avoid raising the temperature of debate in the Conservative Party over

Europe and the Maastricht treaty by sticking to a description of the rebate system and a list of choices for change.

by £2.1 billion.

EC budget.

parliamentary deputies.

Mr Panic's installation

came as Lord Carrington, the European Community peace mediator, prepared to begin talks in London today with the leaders of the three warring factions in Bosnia. Lord Car-rington will meet each delega-tion before the talks between Radovan Karadzic, the Bosni-an Serh leader. Mate Bohan an Serb leader, Mate Boban, the Croat leader, and Haris Silajdzic, the Bosnian foreign minister, who will represent Bosnia's Muslims.

in Belgrade, Mr Panic made a trenchant speech packed with statements of good intent, and said that his prime task was to have international sanctions on Yugoslavia lifted. He condemned

Jacques Delors, the Commission's president, is anxious to keep it out of the political warfare over the British rebate and to leave national govern-

in the table of EC states ranked by gross domestic product per head, Britain now lies in eighth place but pays more into the Community's budget than any other country except Germany. In such circumstances, a British official said: "It would be hard to imagine anything less popular in the House of Commons than a suggestion that the EC

bill should rise".

British officials insist that the government will succeed in preserving the value of the relate since unanimous agree-ment by the Twelve would be that, during the autumn, gov-row over the details of the simple compromise.

rebate sums and would seek a

The results produced by any new system will depend heavily on the overall decisions for the EC budget for the rest of the 1990s which should be settled at the Edinburgh summit in December.

ments to find a solution.

Brussels lists ways to cut UK rebate

FROM GEORGE BROCK IN BRUSSELS

plauded loud and long by "ethnic cleansing" by which parliamentary deputies. "ethnic cleansing" by which whole communities are being swept from their homes in Bosnia, and pledged that he would do all he could to bequeathed by the Yugoslav army to Bosnian Serbs. There was no indication, however, of how this could be done and many deputies later de-nounced the idea, saying that Mr Panic proposed to abandon Serbs outside Serbia.

Mr Panic also talked of a future economic union of all the states of former Yugosla-via. However, many of Mr Panic's cabinet ministers will be a disappointment to those who were hoping that his talk of change would immediately be matched by deeds. The new foreign minister is Vladislav Jovanovic, hitherto a Milosevic loyalist and Serbian foreign minister. Other ministers have strong nationalist ten-dencies and their appoint-ments clearly reflect political realities rather than Mr Pan-ic's hopeful rhetoric.

The Bosnian leaders who will gather in London last met in Lisbon in May, but talks broke up when the Muslims walked out. Lord Carrington flew to Sarajevo ten days ago, but achieved little.

Douglas Hurd, the foreign secretary, leaves for Ljubljana, the Slovene capital, this evening at the start of a four-day tour of former Yugoslavia. He will hold talks with political leaders, and emphasise that he and the European Community have put the search for peace top of the political agenda during the British presidency of the EC.

Mr Hurd is anxious to allay any doubts over the Carrington mission, especially in France, where there have been calls for a broader international conference on Yugoslavia. British officials said there was no alternative to Lord Carrington: he knew the parties, was going ahead resolutely, and was a statesman with needed for any change to the system. One suggested that German complaints could be answered by allowing Germany to pay a lower share of the maney which is returned to Exitain. One EC official said international respect.

Coping with refugees from the fighting will be the main point of talks in London tomorrow between Sadako Ogata, the United Nations enuments worried about the ratification of the Maastricht High Commissioner for Refu-

Refugee threat, page 1

New dispute erupts over fleet control

FROM ROBERT SEELY IN KIEV

RUSSIA and Ukraine's simmering dispute over control of the Black Sea fleet erupted again yesterday after troops loyal to Russia seized a garrison building in Sevastopol, the fleet's headquarters.

At press conferences in Sevastopol, both the Russian and Ukrainian-appointed fleet commanders accused each other of breaking the accord signed by President Yeltsin and President Kravchuk at Dagonis that was meant to settle the argument over the fleet of 370 vessels.

Claiming that Ukraine was undermining the status quo, Admiral Igor Kasatonov, the Russian-backed fleet commander, described the situation in Sevastopol as tense and said that Ukrainian officers were trying to subvert control of his fleet by persuading sailors to take the Ukrainian oath of allegiance.

FROM BRUCE CLARK

IN MOSCOW

IZVESTIA, which epitomises

much of what is best in Russian journalism, faced a tough fight for its economic and political independence

last night after a bid by conservatives to take over the

The battle over the future of Izvestia, which has stood firm against the tide of Russian jingoism and carried warnings of a hardline coup.

was the latest front in a broadening left-right struggle for control over the media and, ultimately, the country.

A declaration of war on the present staff of the 75-year-old paper was made this week by the praesidium of the Russian parliament, a shadowy but powerful institution which has clashed repeatedly with the reform-prestigious newspaper.

North Africans cram Spain's roads

FROM EDWARD OWEN IN MADRID

THE southern Spanish port of Algecirus is under siege this week from 35,000 North African migrant workers in thousands of vehicles waiting for ferries to cross the Strait of Gibraltar for their annual holidays.

Queues of an estimated 6,000 heavily laden cars and vans stretch for miles after a mass exodus from France following the lorry drivers blockade and coinciding with the Bastille day celebrations. The situation has been further aggravated by a go-slow on one of the ferries. Tourists are advised not to try using the nearly 200 Red Cross volunteers will offer assistance during the next seven weeks to the 650.000 Magrebis, 85 per cent Moroccans, as they wait up to 36 hours for ferries to Ceuta and Tangier. Over 300 of the travellers need medical attention each day in the car parks of Algerias alone. Daytime temperatures soar over 100F and sanitary conditions are appalling. Elsewhere in the queue, relief workers are giving our bread, water and baby food. Many roadside cafes have dosed their lavatories to the Arabs.

The Spanish interior minis-Málaga, Algeciras and Cádiz. "Cross the Strait" and its job is In and around Algeciras, to cope with the three-quarters areas with signs in Arabic.

of a million Arabs travelling through Spain from their jobs in the rest of Europe. As well as a break, the journey is a chance to take home luxury goods not available in Morocco, but the last hurdle involves doing battle with Moroccan customs officials and other opportunists.

To cope with this year's influx, the largest so far, the drivers of the expected 180,000 vehicles in the caravan are handed leaflets as they enter Spain. They give advice in Arabic on how to reach their ferries safely and at strategic points on the 1,000port ministry has built ten rest The prime objective is to reduce accidents caused by tired drivers, many at the wheel non-stop for 18 hours in overladen vehicles.

Last year the Spanish police noted a new trend. The Arab immigrants, mainly living in France, Holland, Belgium. Germany and Switzerland. were using better quality cars and there were fewer in each of them. The immigrants are issued with Spanish transit visas valid for 90 days, but in order to stop their fellow countrymen following in their tracks without having legal jobs, visas were introduced last sians and Algerians wishing to enter Spain.

France is told why EC 'yes' essential

FROM CHARLES BREMNER IN PARIS

IN THE glow of Bastille day festivity. President Mitterrand warned the French yesterday of the dire consequences for their country and European history should they decide to reject the Maastricht treaty.

*It would break Europe, there is not the slightest doubt about that. There would be no momentum left, it would be finished, nobody would believe in it any more," M Mitterrand said in a television interview to mark the national holiday. "A French refusal would appear as a negation of everything. It would put an end to 45 years of French foreign policy."

The president's comments were his strongest appeal since he called a referendum for September 20 on the European treaty. A "no" from France would not be like Denmark's. It would stop Europe in its tracks, he said. "The position of France is decisive because it plays the role of motor" in the Community's effort for integration, he added.

He was not tying his own fortunes to the referendum, he said, borrowing a phrase from Louis XIV. "I will never say to the French that l'Europe, c'est Opinion polls show that M Mitterrand, who was speaking during a garden party at fear from the referendum. Among main political groups, only a section of the RPR Gaullist party are opposed to

M Mitterrand granted his annual interview shortly after the nation watched the pride and might of the armed forces perform their traditional parade down the Champs Elysées from the Arc de Triomphe to the Place de la Concorde.

A troop of the mounted Republican Guard with gleaming chrome sabres and helmets escorted the presi-dent. Next came cadets from the St Cyr military academy. Alpine troops in snow-white uniforms and paratroops in fatigues and white gloves. Many units performed with distinction during the Gulf war. For the first time, the impressive flypast included a Boeing-Awacs, one of the new recently from the United

In his first chat with the people since his visit to Sarajevo, M Minerrand was emphatic also that France would not try, as many have suspected it would, to "go it alone" in Yugoslavia. "France will not go and make war all by itself in the Balkans," he said.

Photograph, page 12 France split again, page 12

Immigrants prove essential to economy of Germany

The government wants the emotion

taken out of debate

on foreign workers,

Ian Murray writes

from Bonn

function only with great diffi-culty. "The importance of foreign employees for the entire economic process in Ger-and operation of our social

IMPORTANT sectors of the German economy would be unable to function without foreign workers, according to figures issued yesterday by Cornelia Schmalz-Jacobsen, Bonn's commissioner for foreigners. Her figures reveal that 8 per cent of Germany's workforce are immigrants.

Frau Schmalz-Jacobsen said in her annual report that, with six million foreigners in the country, migration had be-come a fact of life. A quarter of immigrants had been in Germany more than 20 years and half for at least 15 years; twothirds of their children had been born in the country.

It was therefore, she said, high time to take the emotionalism out of the debate over whether Germany was a country of immigration. What was needed was a new approach confronting the fact that migrants were an essential sector of the population. The fact that two million foreigners were now paying social security meant that, security system, cannot be over-estimated," Frau Schmalz-Jacobsen added. Unemployment tended to be around 4 per cent higher among foreign workers. At the same time migrants were needed in industries where it was often difficult to find Germans to do the work. Almost a quarter of foundry workers are foreigners and

Izvestia fights to retain independence against hardliners

more than a fifth of hotel and catering employees. Other in-dustries relying heavily on foreignkers are textiles (20 per cent), mining (15 per cent) and iron and steel (14 per cent). Almost 17 per cent of local government workers are migrants, mainly employed in rubbish collection and street cleaning. without them, whole sections Of the six million, only a of the economy would have to close or would be able to quarter come from other EC countries and will therefore be granted the right to vote in local and European elections in terms of the Maastricht treaty. "That means that, even more than is now the case, Germany will become a twomany, as well as for the assets class society for foreigners, thanks to the EC." the report said. "We cannot have any interest in that happening."

New laws allowing naturalisation are now being introduced, but the commissioner's report said that procedures were still too cumbersome and costly, with only 20,000 foreigners obtaining German citizenship in a year.

trend rises in Holland FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS IN AMSTERDAM

Euthanasia

THE number of mercykillings reported to Dutch coroners has risen sharply since parliament decriminal ised the practice last year, the government said yesterday. The increase was seen as a reflection of growing willingness to report euthanasia, rather than a rise in its application. Dutch doctors reported a total of 339 mercykillings in January compared with 591 in the whole of last year, according to justice ministry figures.

No figures were available for later months, but the ministry said the upward trend appeared to be continuing. There was a greater willingness to report doctorassisted suicides, an official said. A government study last year estimated that there are 2,300 mercy-killings annually in Holland, which has a population of 15 million.

Mitterrand: reviewing

troops in Paris yesterday

'Grease' star discloses she has breast cancer

Newton-John: trying to avoid scandalous headlines

The singer-actress Olivia he would give the prize to a national reconciliation fund. closed that she has breast cancer. She said in a statement released in Los Angeles by Gavin De Becker, her spokesman, that she was making the diagnosis public to avoid scandalous headlines in the tab-loids. Mr De Becker did not mention surgery, but said the star's doctors expected a full recovery. In her statement the star of Grease said she drew strength from the millions of women who had faced the same challenge. The cancer had been detected early "because I've had regular examinations, so I encourage other women to do the same". A tour scheduled to start on August 6 has been postponed.

The former playboy president of the Seychelles. James Mancham, won the £13,000 jackpot in a lonery to raise election funds for President Albert René, who ousted him in a coup. Mr Mancham, who is contesting the election, said life sentence on drug charges.

Sir Richard Hadlee, the New Zealand cricketing great, has had a pea named after him by a Wellington seed company.

Michel Rocard, the former French prime minister, is in Peking for a week-long visit.

Herbert Cornelius Kenny, 77, who sang with the original Ink Spots in the 1940s and 1950s, has died of cancer.

Finland has an all-woman cabinet this week headed by Elisabeth Rehn, the defence minister, because all the male members are on holiday.

Hamid Reza Pahlavi, halfbrother of the late Shah of Iran, has reportedly died of a heart attack while serving a minded cabinet of President In a resolution scheduled for full parliamentary debate on Friday, the praesidium branded as illegal the decision by Izvestia journalists to take control of the newspaper and its lucrative publishing arm in the aftermath of the August coup. It asserted that the Russian legislature had inherited the legal status of the defunct Soviet parliament, including the right to a press organ by the name of Izvestia. Under the old Soviet system, Izvestia was associated with the legislature but imply direct control. After a tense mass meeting yesterday, Igor Golemdiovsky, the editor, joined about 200 of his staff in telling firmly but polirely, his persecutors where to go. The

there were often arguments about whether they should journalists unanimously adopted a resolution stating that the paper had never, since its foundation in March 1917, been the "organ" of parliament or any other institution, and did not intend to

The journalists also pointed out that Izvestia intended to keep serving readers in all the former Soviet republics. not just Russia. That, however, is precisely what many people hold against the paper at a time when politicians and journalists increasingly are being judged by their willingness to swim with the nationalist tide. Izvestia has incensed hardliners by reporting both sides of the ethnic fighting in Moldavia and Georgia, while many Moscow papers have confined themselves to emotional accounts of the "genocide" of pro-Russian Tbilisi, for instance. Izvestia has criticised sharply proposals by Ruslan Khasbulatov, Moscow's parliamentary chairman, that Russia should simply annex the ethnic war zone of South Ossetia, where efforts to deploy a multiethnic peacekeeping force were getting under way yesterday. The newspaper also provided extensive space to the assertion by Andrei Kozyrev, the foreign minister.

communities in the outlying republics. In reports from another coup.

Izvestia has always looked and felt much more like a Western organ of record and heavyweight comment than any of its rivals on the Moscow press scene. It is one of the few Russian papers to that authoritarian forces might be preparing to stage

Newspapers. conduct long-running investigations in the tradition of the ground in the cabinet Anglo-Saxon press. Andrei changes of the past two months. Otto Latsis, one of Illesh, one of its senior editors, has spent much of the past decade investigating the precise background to the shooting down of the Korean jumbo jet in September. In contrast with Pravda, tacks on the paper.

the former mouthpiece of the Soviet Communist party which is now struggling to survive without state subsidies, Izvestia has adapted well to market conditions and built up lucrative advertising revenue. Its reporters are well paid by Russian standards and the paper has launched a successful joint publication with Hearst

A change of control over Izvestia would be a blow to the morale and influence of the pro-Western reformist camp in the Russian leader-

the newspaper's senior staff. said he was assured by Mr Yeltsin yesterday that he would try to "persuade" Mr Khasbulatov to stop his at-However, the soft language of this promise was in itself a sign of how much ground the Russian president is being obliged to concede to his conservative critics. Only two months ago, Mr Yeltsin seemed confident that he could neutralise the hardline camp in parliament by calling a referendum to change the constitution.

Now that idea appears to have been dropped in an implicit admission that the reformists are not strong enough to be confident of victory in a head-on clash

Contrite Democrats tell voters they have learnt from mistakes

FROM MARTIN FLETCHER
IN NEW YORK

THE Democrats were set to adopt a presidential cam-paign manifesto late yesterday designed to reinforce the message of the convention's opening on Monday - that they had learnt from mistakes and were once more a mainstream party that middle America could trust.

Some black Democrats complained that their interesis were being sacrificed as Bill Clinton courted the white middle-class vote. Supporters of Jerry Brown protested vo-ciferously that California's dissident former governor was being barred from speaking. But few could remember a Democratic convention so relatively harmonious and united and with the nominee in such apparent command. Speaker after speaker in Madison Square Garden dethe champion of a failed status quo and sought to capi-talise on the nation's anger with a mantra of "change". Organisers banned mention of Ross Perot, save for a single brief but savage attack. For convention is like a wasps' nest in a zoo. Thousands of buzzing individuals pursue their separate tasks, each one seemingly oblivious to the surroundings and each imprisoned by "informed interpreters" on the other side

THE New York Democratic

The television commentators who sit in "skyboxes"

surveying the insects below are the true keepers of Madison Square Garden. They make their own sense of what, when seen from below.

The first favour that they do on behalf of their viewers is to cut out the noise. The vention floor is extraordinary. The seven tubas of the Democrat brass band are some of the quieter instruments in use. The level of listening is so low that a speaker, unless he or she is of immense fame, must envy

the bible-belters on Oxford

Street. Early speakers do not even pretend their colleagues are paying attention.

Senator Bill Bradley of New Jersey, who made the first keynote address to nominate Bill Clinton for president, would have much preferred a British party con-ference. He would then have been listened to not only by his peers, sitting along the

of a great glass wall.

is close to chaos.

SKETCH

the first time this year the party seemed buoyed by a real sense that its candidate could win in November. "As far as this White House is concerned - honey, you can turn out the lights, the party's over," declared Texas governor Ann Richards, the convention chairman. The only immediate worry was last night's scheduled address by Jesse Jackson, the civil rights leader, whose endorsement of the moderate Clinton-Gore ticket on Saturday was at best lukewarm. Ron Brown, the party chairman, yesterday squelched speculation that Doug Wilder. Virginia's disgruntled platform in traditional fash-on, but also by his audience.

would have noted respectfully his case for how democratic capitalism requires the deferral of gratification, how giving up the desire of more to having more of something better in the future". But Senator Bradley got no sup-port from his colleagues. That is not the way here.

Politicians are not bold enough to bore each other as we British do. He also won the attention of only a fraction of delegates. They absorbed his rhetorical shafts as effectively as straw bales receiving arrows; and they fired back long volleys of prized clutch of would-be women senators escaped the hum of indifference. Each one was placed in a separate part of the cavernous sports hall; and before the audience realised where the words were coming from, each five-minute female life-story,

each scripted tale of male

However. Governor Ann

Richards of Texas successfully followed up her 1988 jibe about George Bush being born "with a silver foot in his mouth". "As far as this White House is concerned," she shouted, "honey, you can turn out the lights because the party's over."

domination, had finished.

sound of their own.

everything now is the key

Rows of conference-goers

Orators' passion is lost amid hubbub

FROM PETER STOTHARD, US EDITOR, IN NEW YORK

Barbara Jordan, a former clared the convention's pur-Democratic losers in 1984 and 1988, said they backed the new approach.

The 4,300 delegates saved their biggest cheers for champions of abortion rights - six of November's woman Demwere individually showcased between "an aristocrat, an autocrat and a Democrat". Ron Brown, the party chairman, had the convention chanting: "Read our lips: no second term." Mr Miller called Mr Bush "a timid man who hears only the voice of caution and the status quo".

Several hundred supporters of Mr Brown, chanting "Let Jerry speak", threatened to disrupt the opening night, but it appeared yesterday that Mr Clinton and the former California governor, who has refused to endorse him, were approaching a compromise.

black Democratic governor, was preparing to jump ship and become Mr Perot's running mate.
The manifesto closely re-

tence on a realignment towards the forgotten middle class as the only way to break dismal sequence of five Democratic losses in the past six presidential campaigns. It contained a few concessions to the party's liberal wing. including strong support for gay rights and higher tax-ation of the very rich, but explicitly rejected "the big government theory that says we can hamstring business and tax and spend our way to prosperity".

Entitled A New Covenant

With the American People, the manifesto advocated toughness on crime, strong defence, an entrepreneurial economy, welfare as a "second chance" and not a way of life, better training and education, and the revival of personal responsibility. "We welcome the close scrutiny of the American people, including Americans who may have thought the Democratic Par-

Contrition for past preoccupations with minority and left-wing interests was a con-stant refrain. "This Demo-cratic Party is ready to go back to school to listen to the American people, to get our lessons right this time," declared Ms Richards.

Texas congresswoman and another keynote speaker, depose was "to convince the American people to trust us, the Democrats, to govern again". Both Walter Mon-dale and Michael Dukakis.

ocratic Senate candidates - and for the savaging of Mr Perot by Zel Miller, the Georgia governor. He accused Mr Perot of having milked federal government largesse over the years for all it was worth. Ross says he'll clean out the in it for years," declared Mr Miller. This year's race was thinking of quitting.

Outsider's insiders feel gloomy

FROM JAMIE DETTMER IN WASHINGTON

AS BILL Clinton's star begins to shine, Ross Perot's is dimming fast. The Texan billionaire is slipping badly in the opinion polls and he is finding it increasingly difficult to transform his campaign from a grass-roots "Ross for Boss"

PEROT CAMPAIGN

movement into a hard-hitting and well-organised challenge with Mr Perot. Distrustful of the professional consultants he recently brought in to beef up his campaign, he seems determined to keep a tight rein on everything at his Dallas headquarters.

Yesterday Ed Rollins, the former Ronald Reagan aide and co-chairman of Mr Perot's campaign, admitted that there was frustration in the Perot camp. He admitted that his co-chairman, Hamilion Jordan, Jimmy Carter's former chief of staff, was angry at Mr Perot's refusal to accept advice but he denied reports that his colleague was

Hog callers storm city

BY PETER STOTHARD

WOULD the Arkansas delegation deliver its notorious hog call" when its members gathered in New York for the first time? One of its members, Joyce Elliott, feared that the hollering scream, which has spread to politics from the football field, might alarm

"It's nothing to be afraid of," she said. "But everyone is so excited that anything could happen, and I wouldn't want you to think Arkansans were

In the event, it never came, perhaps in deference to Bill Clinton's aged mother, who was a guest of honour among the senators, congressmen and delegates of this year's high-fashion state. Normally nobody takes much notice of Arkansas, New Yorkers giving it no more than the respect due to a deprived farming region in Slovakia. But this year it does not need even to shout. The people supporting Mr Clinton from his home state are based in a mid-Manhattan Holiday Inn. Ms Elliott, 41, a black teacher from Little Rock, is sleeping four-to-aroom with her colleagues in order to split the $1,200 (£620) hotel bill for the week. "We could not really afford it.

but we picked up our credit cards and took off," she said.

Arkansans, just like the delegates from every other state, attend conventions for a wide range of reasons - to advance their political careers, to make business deals, to make friends, even to watch history being made. But behind a few of the banners are some passionate missionaries for the Clinton cause.

Lets hear you do your Senator

660

Ms Elliott follows Governor Clinton because she remembers her first days as a child in a newly desegregated school in southern Arkansas. "I was the only black girl in the class: every other one of my friends had decided that they wanted to stay in the blacks-only school", she remarked. "The taunting took away

my teenage years, but I stuck with it and went to college, getting a loan that students like me couldn't get today. I black children in Arkansas need the role models that I never had and the commitment to racial equality and educational opportunity that Bill Clinton brings. This is a once in a lifetime opportunity to show what I stand for where people will listen to use

Inside the convention hall the Arkansas delegates have a e by the trafft of the podium. "Anyone can see that we don't have straw in our hair and take pigs for walks." said an elederly supporter, tired of the countryboy taunts that were commonplace here during the New York primary. This is the greatest day of my life," said Amie Galloway from Scott County, near the Oklahoma border. "Piry you didn't hear the hog call to-day," said her neighbour in the food queue, "but it's one thing that Bill Clinton isn't really very good at. And there will be plenty of time for it when we get to the White House."

Magistrates to question De Michelis

der peace.

antle 10

Venice: Gianni De Michelis. the former Italian foreign minister, is to be investigated by magistrates probing alleged corruption in public works contracts. Ansa news agency reported.

The flamboyant Signor De Michelis, foreign minister for three years until last month, was told he was under investigation by magistrates here, where he has his power base. Gjorgiò Casadei, secretary to Signor De Michelis, was one of five people charged with corruption and violating the laws relating to financing political parties last week

The arrests are part of an investigation into contracts for a motorway, an aqueduct and a water purification plant in the north-east Veneto region. (Reuter)

Dealers die

Peking: The Chinese news agency Xinhua said that 277 people had been executed for drug-dealing in the first six months of this year in the province of Yunan. The prov-ince borders Burma, and is a route for drug smugglers. Camps fenced

Teknaf: Barigladesh authorities fenced camps to prevent Burmese Muslim refugees es-caping into the interior. Officials said four camps were sheltering about 50,000 refugees from Arakan prov-ince in Burma.

Matia warning

Rome Italy's interior minis-ny has dissolved the town council of Gela in southern Sicily, accusing it of being infiltrated by the Mafia. The town will be placed under the control of three special commissioners. (Reuter)

Centre captured

Khartoum: Sudanese government forces have captured the headquarters of the rebel Sudan People's Liberation Army at Torit near the Ugandan border. Khartoum radio said. The rebels had held the town since 1989. (Reuter)

Athens blasted

Athens: A powerful explosion O in central Athens killed one person and narrowly missed loannis Palaiokrassas, the Greek finance minister, and his family, police said. Mr Palaiokrassas was cut slightly on the face. (Reuter)

Foreigners flee

Tokyo: Eighteen foreign men, including a Briton, were still on the run four days after escaping from a Japanese internment centre for illegal immigrants at Yokohama. south of Tokyo, a spokesman at the centre said. (Reuter)

Light relief

glow-in-the-dark toilet seat earned a Clint Lenz, 10, a place in the Smithsonian Institution: His painted scat won the "household" division of a national inventions

Warship 'threatens' to down passenger jet

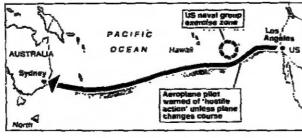

FROM RED HARRISON IN SYDNEY AND JAMIE DETTMER IN WASHINGTON

AN AUSTRALIAN airliner carrying 305 passengers was forced to change course suddenly over the Pacific yesterday after an American warship threatened to shoot it down. The American embassy in Canberra yesterday confirmed that the warship was using the Qantas 747 as a mock target in a military exercise and has apologised for the incident. Flight QF12 was less than an hour out of Los Angeles on an authorised route to Sydney when the captain received a curt radio message demanding his aircraft identification. The message was heard on a frequency normally re-served for aircraft distress

When the captain responded, apparently in some confusion, he was ordered to leave the area immediately or face "hostile action". The captain radioed twice for help from flight controllers in Los Angeles. The incredu-lous response to his first call told him, in effect, not to be silly. But Federal Aviation Administration officials dispatched his second, more desperate, call to US Navy officials at the Pentagon, in Washington, then to the war-ship involved.

America formally apologised to the Austrian government for the incident. which is being investigated hy the Pentagon and the Federal Aviation Administration. Qantas spokesmen in Sydney, trying to play down the incident, said this three-way hook-up clarified the situation, but the FAA none the less ordered the airliner to alter course. Ted Radford of Quantas said the Americans did not intend the Australian airliner to hear the challenge. The US warship's crew believed that they were transmitting only on a military frequency reserved for a training exercise. The signals had been transmitted "inadvertently" on a commercial aircraft

Qantas pilots reacted with fury. "What the hell is the US Navy doing using commercial aircraft as mock targets? The Americans have enough military hardware in the skies without putting civilian passengers at risk from some gung-ho, half-trained radio operator." Captain Leslie Hayward, in charge of Qantas's 747 fleet, said: Our pilot did the right thing. Even if you think it's Mickey Mouse telling you to move on, you do exactly what the mouse says.

Commander Jim Kudla. a spokesman for the US Navy's Pacific Fleet, said the Cowpens had "mistakenly used an international distress frequency instead of a designated exercise frequency to broadcast an exercise warning. As a result, a commercial airliner was rerouted around naval ships conducting the exercise about 900 miles east of Ha-guage, Ken Boys, a Qantas spokesman, said: "I assume at some point someone will get a slap on the wrist." Commander Kudla stressed that the plane was not in danger. The exercise involved testing radar and communications equipment and did not involve live ammunition. The communications equipment obviously

In such exercises, warships will often use passing aircraft in simulations. All the ships are meant to use a special frequency and will often send messages to innocent planes they have picked up on radar without actually contacting them directly. A spokeswornan for the FAA praised the

Flaws appear in the magic shield of Aegis

BY MICHAEL EVANS. DEFENCE CORRESPONDENT

ALMOST exactly four years phisticated anti-airwarfare weapon system, capable of tracking and shooting down up to 200 incoming missiles at once, proved latally vul-nerable. In spite of all the computerised technology and rows of data displays, the Aegis system failed to prevent the attack by the USS Vincennes on an Iran-ian airliner and the loss of 290 civilians. The reason, however, was not a faulty system but human error. Yesterday. Aegis. named after the magic shield which Zeus gave to Athena, was once again at the centre of an incident in which an Australian airliner with 300 passengers on board was threatened with hostile action for flying over a naval exercise in the Pacific. Responsibility, once again, appears to test with the operators of Aegis, not the system itself. The $400 million (£207 million) Aegis system, de-signed to provide continu-ous. 360-degree coverage. can track every aircraft with-in a range of 300 miles, differentiating between friend and foe. The system, carried by Ticonderoga class guided-missile cruisers and Arteigh Burke class guided-missile destroyers, can track and order missile launches on behalf of a complete carrier battle group.

The USS Cowpens, the same class as the Vincennes.

would have monitored and tracked all aircraft within its radar range during the five-nation naval exercise taking place 900 miles east of Ha-waii. The civilian Qantas airliner would have appeared as a "radar return" but not even the advanced Spy-1 radar is capable of providing a precise image from which operators can verify whether the plane is military or civilian. This is why transponders carried by all civilian airliners are then automatically triggered to help with iden-tification. In the incident involving the Iranian airliner. this fail-safe system did not work

The American naval explanation for the warning to the Qantas pilot was that the operator sent out the message on the international distress network instead of the "exercise net". The warning was aimed at fighter aircraft taking part in the exercise playing the enemy.

Reagan a meticulous pedant, say Stasi files on ex-president

FROM BEN MACINTYRE IN NEW YORK ulated on the likelihood of

A 90-PAGE file on Ronald Reagan compiled by the Stasi, East Germany's secret police, describes the former president of the United States as "meticulous and pedantic ... superstitious and interest-ed daily in his horoscope".

The file was presented to the former president at his 81st birthday last February by a friend and former White House aide, John Koehler, and extracts are reproduced in the August issue of Life magazine. published yesterday.

The dossier represents information collected by the KGB and Cuban intelligence agents, as well as the Stasi, and concludes that "as a rule, [Reagan] makes decisions without thinking about them at length and without bothering with details. In some instances he does not rememher decisions made earlier . . . and voices opinions in contrast to plans he himself had already approved."

The file adds: "Reagan is determined to portray himself as firm and unbending. At the same time people who know him better say he is pragmatic and resourceful and has an intuitive feeling for the political balance of

"Despite his conservatism, Reagan knows the dangers of a direct confrontation between the USA and the USSR," the dossier said. The Stasi and its allies spec- and Mexico.

[post-assassination attempt] aurgery. Apparently the candidacy of Bush is not assured. Mr Koehler says he bought the file from an anti-communist, who got it when he and others stormed Stasi headquarters in Berlin in January 1990. The documents came into Mr Koehler's possession while researching a book on the Stasi in Berlin. Earlier he had revealed only that one KGB report described the for-mer president as "a firm and unbending politician for whom words and deeds are the same".

George Bush taking over the presidency. The possibility that Reagan might resign for health reasons is being fol-lowed attentively." wrote the author of the file. "At present

[February 1986], however, there is no interest in bringing George Bush into play as political heir. This became clear in connection with his Life did not say how it had obtained the report, but showed a photograph of Ron-ald Reagan apparently read-ing the file with an expression of amused astonishment. The former president should not take the Stasi criticisms too hard, for the document contains at least one glaring error At one point he is referred to as "President of North America", a title that might surprise citizens of Canada

Lake Mills, Wisconsin: A d

competition. (AP):

Rabin's offer Widens split in ranks of Palestinians

FROM RICHARD BEESTON IN JERUSALEM

THE vision presented by Yitzhak Rabin, the Israeli prime minister, of a new era of coexistence with the Arabs received a sober, and at times hostile, response from Palestinian leaders yesterday.

Speaking a day after Israel's new leader set out his government's objective to grant autonomy to the 1.7 million Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, senior Palestinians said his offer fell far short of their minimum demands.

The lukewarm response to what was widely considered an historical speech offering unprecedented opportunities was partly a reflection of

Baker peace shuttle to begin again

FROM JAMIE DETIMER
IN WASHINGTON

JAMES Baker, the American Secretary of State, will leave Washington for Israel on Saturday. After meeting Yizhak Rabin, the new prime minister, he is expected to visit Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia in a round of shuttle diplomacy meant to get Arab leaders to shift the Middle East peace process into a higher gear.

Mr Baker, the chief architect of the peace talks, which got under way in Madrid, last.
October, is delighted with Mr Rabin's election victory and his quick invitation to Arabineders for talks. State Department officials express confidence that, with Mr Rabin in office, the talks may now gain a momentum of their own without constant American poading.

logically between fundamentalists opposed to compromise and the mainstream factions of the Palestine Liberation Organisation. Palestinians have also recognised that Mr Rabin will have the backing of America and other Western nations.

Haider Abdel-Shafi, the head of the Palestinian delegation to the peace talks, criticised Mr Rabin for ruling out a withdrawal from all Arab territories captured by Israel during the 1967 six-day war. He has put definite limits which do not leave room for further negotiation, he said.

Faisal. Husseini, the most prominent Palestinian in Arab east Jerusalem, was less critical and held out the possibility that he might take up Mr Rabin's offer of talks.

Elias Frei, the Christian analysis of Bethlehem, said: "I believe that, before we respond to the proposal, Rabin must improve the authorsphere in the territories and create relations of confidence." I request that Rabin ar first and foremost to release as large number of Palestinian security prisoners and aimen the decision to depora 11 Palestinians. He must change the policy of home demolition."

Leading article, page 13

Elixir of life: Australian rescue workers pouring water yesterday on beached whales at Seal Rocks, on the coast of New South Wales. They said they intended to work through the night in an effort to save the lives of the 47 stranded whales. National Parks and Wildlife Service officials said they hoped to move the whales into a shallow pool before pushing them out to sea today. At least two whales had died after being battered against rocks. Andrew Marshall, one of the officials, said: "We hope to save 60 or 70 per cent at least, if we are lucky we may save the lot." The mammals, he added, had been covered with hessian and wet towels during the day to keep them cool. The whales, believed to be either pilot or false killer whales, will be checked by veterinary surgeons and "walked around" to rid them of cramps before they are released. (Reuter)

Arabs mix caution with revived hope

FROM CHRISTOPHER WALKER IN CAIRO

THERE was cautious optimism that new life was about to be breathed into the Middle East talks that began last October in Madrid and are due to resume in Rome, their new permanent base despite Arab reservations, especially from Syria, Israel's most suspicious negotiating partner.

cious negotiating partner.

Jordan and Egypt were both swift to respond positively to the moves from Washington and Jerusalem, and the Palestine Liberation Organisation, sensing a greater role for itself, has called an emergency session of Palestinian factions in Tunis on Tuesday to respond to Yitzhak Rabin's peace overtures. That will be followed later in the week by a top-level meeting of all Arab parties to the peace talks in Damascus, in an effort to overcome wide differences and to agree on the clusive goal of a common

Arab negotiating stand.

Lebanon, which takes its cue from neighbouring Syria and its occupying army, said yesterday that Mr Rabin's offer of direct talks in Jerusalem or Arab capitals was irrelevant to the peace process.

"There is concern that the Palestinian and Jordanian sides will now dominate international attention," one pro-Western Arab diplomat said, with Israel using its new dovish image to deverly bypass the issues of its continued occupation of the [Syrian] Golan Heights and part of tion in Israel was never southern Lebanon."

Many Arab officials were Amr Moussa, Egypt's forquick to acknowledge that the ign minister, said that Mr revitalised peace process was Rabin's inaugural speech in approaching a potentially dangerous stage for them. the Knesset contained "good intentions". But, like other Arab politicians, he em-'The Palestinians may now come under strong pressure to phasised the need for the new soften their demands in regovernment to commit itself publicly to the central land-forsponse to Israel's apparently more reasoned approach. peace principle.

Ahmed Abderrahman, the one Palestinian source said.

Jordan, which is pivotal to any long-term solution to the Palestinian question, welcomed the imminent return of

James Baker, the American

Secretary of State and chief architect of the Madrid process, whose dislike of the defeated Likud administra-

Ahmed Abderrahman, the PLO spokesman, criticised Mr Rabin for failing in his speech to mention United Nations land-for-peace resolutions on the basis of which America and Russia have sponsored the talks that have made little progress in the five ill-tempered rounds held so far.

HONG KONG NOTEBOOK

Japan's new plastic super-shoppers fly in for a little fun

By Joanna Pitman

his was not a woman to let colours scare her. Kazuko Oda wore a vermilion blouse, mulberry trousers, zebra-striped shoes and a pimento scarf knotted at the throat and dotted with the designer's initials done in a nice friendly lime green.

ly lime green.

At 7.30 in the morning in the hotel breakfast lounge, she and her three companions, all equally feisty dressers, provided the visual equivalent of a wake-up call for the bleary-eyed investment bankers who sat gloomily stirring their coffees and mulling over the health of the world stockmarkets.

stockmarkets.

Mrs Oda and her party, the wives of electronics company executives left behind in Japan, are on an intensive shopping tour of Hong Kong, five days and four nights of acquisition, and they are doing a good job of cleaning out the local branches of Cartier and Louis Vuitton.

In bed early every night, they are up before some of the bankers and before most of the journalists to make the best of the shopping day. Dressed in one of her new cocktail dresses, Yoko Kajima toyed with her cereal yesterday morning as she wondered aloud whether she had any wrist space left for some more watches or bangles and beads. Her new green suede shoes, which looked precious enough to be kept in a bank vault, matched her new handbag in which was the small piece of plastic that made it all

apan's economy may be slowing, domestic consumption may be ebbing and pushing Japan's global trade surplus towards a record £64.8 billion this year, but Japanese consumers are still spending their money abroad. For Japan's power shoppers it is still cheaper to include a round trip to Hong Kong and four nights in a hotel in their shopping budget than to buy the same selection of foreign designer goods at home.

Some Hong Kong shops have geared up to deal almost exclusively with Japanese customers. When an inquisitive reporter walked into one of them, dressed admittedly on the casual side of cocktail kit, it was made clear that she belonged about as much as a pickled onion does in a chocolate mousse.

Eventually, the icy stares thawed, and one of the less waspish assistants explained that 80 to 90 per cent of customers these days are Japanese and that each one spends an average of £500 when she comes into the shop. When compared with the cost of a couple of tame evenings out for two in Osaka, however, a £500 bill looks thrifty.

If designer bags and watches fill Japanese shares fill Japanese shares are stereously designer cars, stereously computers and cordless telephones that fill the shopping lists of the hundreds of Hong Kong "snake heads", or smugglers, who organise regular nocturnal raids on the territory, funnelling their booty up to mainland China in high-speed power boats.

The Hong Kong police estimates that HK$8 billion (£537 million) in goods were smuggled into China from Hong Kong last year. These are smooth and daring operations. A Toyota Lexus, the luxury car of choice over the border, is stolen in Hong Kong driven into the New Territories and sent away in a power boat from the shady shallows of Tolo Harbour.

THE NEXT CAR IN FRONT WILL BE ALONG ON AUGUST 7TH.

For a privileged preview of the new generation of the world's most popular carcall 0420 22607 for your local Toyota dealer.

THE CAR IN FRONT IS A TOYOTA

What children should know

Pressure groups are manipulating

the young, says Bryan Appleyard

'Hearing of construct playground myths, convincing

each other

be told? Yesterday the Princess of Wales spoke about Aids at a Barnardo's con-ference called Telling the Children. A survey by the charity had found that 70 per cent of all 11- to 13-year-olds first heard about the condition from television. Teachers and parents would have to accept that soaps were transmitting the anxiety long before the formalities of sex education. Meanwhile the Advertising Standards Authority has con-demned a Vegetarian Society leaflet distributed to schoolchildren aged 12 and over. It is, says the ASA, "capable of causing distress and exploiting those at such an impressionable age". The society is unrepentant and has refused to withdraw the leaflet, which describes in detail the sufferings of animals being slaughtered. The passions and anxieties of children are easily roused. Their responses tend to be both apocalyptic and personal. Plant some conviction or anxiety in their minds and they will happily believe that their parents, in particular, are callous dolphinkillers or psychotic despoilers Mother Earth. Hearing of Aids. they will construct playground myths, probably convincing each other that some classmate is infected. There are no more anguished worryers nor more is infected' passionate greens or socialists than children between the ages of ten and fifteen. At one level there is nothing wrong with this. We probably have to go through crude extremity to arrive at adult sanity. "The road of excess," wrote William Blake, "leads to the palace of wisdom." There must, however, be something wrong when adult institu-tions decide to exploit this vulnerability. The language of the Vegetarian Society leaflets is direct and ruthlessly anthropomorphic. Sows are said to be mated on rape racks", animals are said to give off the stench of fear, and chickens are thrown into scalding

These, says the society, are the facts. Well, there are facts and facts. Certainly animals should be treated as humanely as possible. But it is not a fact that chickens are conscious as we are, and the use of the word "rape" displays an entirely unfactual extension of human values into the animal realm. And the society goes much further than this. Its spokesman Juliet Gellatley places explicit value on the tendency of children to think passionately and globally. She speaks of adults becoming too weighed down by personal cares such as mortgages and by the increasing cynicism of the passing years. She says that there are 3.6 million British vegetarians, of whom 500,000 are aged between 11 and 18. Indeed, she claims that 94% of teenagers reject red meat. The point of such an argument is that the child's wisdom is being elevated above that of the adult.

The innocent intensity of teen-more right than the supposedly jaded, mortgage-bound resigna-tion of their parents. This is an absurdly dangerous attitude. Children have also been drawn to Nazism, Maoism and the Red Brigade/Baader-Meinhof belief that capitalists should be shot. They are drawn to such attitudes because of their ruthless simplicity, their 'innocence". But innocence cannot in itself be a virtue. Sentimentality, however, and the exploitation of the impatience of youth, are vices that do not have a distinguished pedigree. Vegetarianism, of course, might be seen as a fairly harmless cause, and this case of classroom terrorism may be only a trivial matter of a few zealots going too far. But the global media village ensures that there are many such causes, and that pressure groups have unprecedented powers to disseminate their views - often less explicitly and therefore less hon-vegetarians, as when children's television programmes auto-Aids, they will matically adopt a green orthodoxy. But what about Aids? Here is a matter of human life and death, an anxiety and a reality that, as Barnardo's has found, is in the cultural air the children breathe as some classmate surely as Kylie Minogue or East-Enders. The logical extension of the

estly than the

Vegetarian Society's argument is that the "facts" made available in the classroom should include the harrowing reality of an Aids ward or the specifics of what constitutes highrisk sex. And clearly the urgency of this issue goes far beyond the rights or wrongs of factory farming.

The difficulty is that Aids calls the global bluff and challenges the very idea of the "private" life. Its spread is almost certainly a product of a sudden and unprecedented growth in promiscuity. particularly in the United States. which provided the virus with an escape route from the African homeland. It signals the existence of a viral communications system that parallels the more familiar electronic network. It tells us that nobody, least of all a child, is an island: we have all been 'globalised".

This is the link. The vegetarians want us to see that the meat on our plates implicates us in a worldwide system of environmental damage and industrialised cruelty. Aids forces us to see that our behaviour joins us in the viral ecology of the planet. Children's imaginations, whether we like it or not, are engaged with apocalyptic guilt and with a terrifying plague.

But a life of such anxiety and such guilt is unlivable outside an asylum. The manic vegerarians should be kept out of the schools. And, more to the point, Telling the Children is an inadequate slogan for the awful complexities of Aids. Teaching the Children might be a better, if more difficult.

Neil Kinnock was a finer parliamentary performer than critics allow, argues Matthew Parris

Testerday was Neil Kinnock's parliamentary swansong as Labour leader. Soon his nine years at the helm will be recounted as a cautionary tale, a fireside story for would-be leaders. Like most cautionary tales it will be inaccurate. We kid ourselves too easily with fireside stories in politics. Myths about yesterday are in the making even as we speak today. Some important myths are sprouting around Mr Kinnock. At the very time when a new prime minister with no dispatch-box flair takes the stage and shows that it does not matter, the story grows of an Opposition leader who failed cause he was unable to score from the front bench.

Three myths are beginning to shape our assessment of Neil Kinnock's parliamentary perfor-mance. The first is that it was particularly bad; the second is that Margaret Thatcher's was particularly good; and the third is that this settled matters.

Recent days have been an awkward time for researchers prepar-ing Farewell Kinnock pieces. They have been ordered by editors to find examples of those famous occasions when Mrs Thatcher "squelched" Mr Kinnock at prime minister's questions. They have been fast-forwarding through the tapes. The examples are not there.

A leader misjudged

Some have even approached me in desperation. Most of the exchanges, they say, seem to be pretty even. The lady in blue does have the edge over the gent in the rable way. Can I think of a famous squelch that they may have overlooked?

I cannot, and I must have watched the great majority of those exchanges. As to style, Mr Kinnock never quite hit his stride. or never for long: but in substance his questions were usually tough, usually to the point, and often testing. He stuck to his guns, and though he sometimes stumbled he great skill that Mrs Thatcher exhibited. All she had was irondad self-assurance. Often flat-footedly, she simply trampled over him, rarely answering his question and never with anything interesting. Cornered, she would simply shout. Heckled, she would shout louder.

Nor did his difficulties lie in any

As Opposition leader you can find a million ways of protesting, "this will never do for an answer but having said so, what more can you say? It isn't easy to be clever if your opponent does not want to play, and Mrs Thatcher was not playing. In all those years she really only said one thing over the dispatch box to Mr Kinnock, a very simple message: "I am prime minister and you don't know anything about it. The chink in his armour was that he didn't. This was precisely the way in which James Callaghan humiliated Mrs Thatcher during her fairly wretched years as leader

didn't, either

I believe that this is a problem for any Opposition leader untested in high office, not a particular weakness in Mr Kinnock, who got as far as anyone could with bravado. We knew it was only bra-vado, and he knew that we knew: and for him there was no escape.

confidence" we liked to diagnose in him was in fact imputed to him, disabling him, and becoming a self-justifying prophecy. The "philosophical confusion" and "policy vacuum" that we believed "policy vacuum" that we believed we saw in his performance reflected what we knew about his party. We sometimes imagined, I think, that it could be discerned from his own behaviour, but video archi-vists of the future may not be so sure. I believe they will find themselves watching a competent performer, and wonder what all the fuss was about. Watching Mrs Thatcher they will see a crude and duil orator, and they will wonder, again, what all the fuss was about It is fashionable to call the Commons chamber the national sounding board for politicians and their capabilities — as though each one auditioned cold. as an unknown. But we know them already, by many means other than their debating style: and we know the difficulties (or opportuni-ties) that lie behind their outward show. Far more than we realise. I think, we unconsciously interpret that performance as reflecting those truths: we think we see in the fellow's eyes the doubts we know lie behind them: we think we see the lady sweating because we know she ought to be

In that sense, our politicians appear to us as we are secretly determined that they should. Britain's view of Mr Kinnock's parliamentary style these past nine years tells us less about Neil Kinnock, and more about Britain's relationship with its Labour party, than we

Pétain splits France again

Bastille day. President Mitterrand leads his country tomorrow on a journey into a past many would sooner forget. Fifty years ago tonight, 4.500 policemen, unassisted by Germans, began rounding up 8.000 Jews and depositing them in the Vélodrome d'Hiver, a Left Bank stadium whose name is now synonymous with one of the most unspeakable crimes in French history. M Mitterrand will be the first president to lay a wreath at the site when he attends the ceremony tomorrow. Many of his countrymen, including more than 200 intellectuals who appealed to him in June, want him to recognise in the name of the republic the iong suppressed fact that the Vichy government was guilty of great

Another body of opinion thinks the old wounds have been reopened too much already, with a plethora of recent books and films, and attempts to bring senior Vichy officials finally to justice. More than at any time since the crimes of the Pétain government were swept under the carpet in the late 1940s and France accepted Charles de Gaulle's restorative myth of national resistance, the spirit of Philippe Petain is being openly revered by those who see in his doctrine of Travail, Famille, Patrie (work, family, fatherland) an ideology for national revival.

crimes against the Jews

The new fascination with Petain, going hand in hand with the success of Jean-Marie Le Pen's National Front, has come at a time when France is being given more information than ever on the extent of the collaboration. Where 20 years ago state television refused to show Le Chagrin et la Pitie. Marcel Ophuls's documentary on the collaboration, the government this spring ordered every school to show its children La Nuit et le Brouillard, Alain Resnais's 1956 classic on the deportations. The order was part of a wave of revulsion that followed the decision of a Parls court to drop charges against Paul Touvier, the former Lyon militia commander, on the ground that Vichy France was not committed to any inhumane policy.

Thanks to new books and films full of terrible accounts, the country now knows much about the

Vichy crimes still haunt the French, writes Charles Bremner Minterrand, see linke good coming

War hero and traitor: the marshal on trial in 1945, when wartime truths began to be suppressed

'Rafle du Vel d'Hlv". It knows that Jews were banned from many professions and places and were required to wear vellow stars: that René Bousquet, the Vichy police chief who is still at liberty, surprised even the Germans in his enthusiasm for rounding up children. It knows that after days of hunger and filth the prisoners of the Vel d'Hiv were transported to French camps where rifle butts were used to separate the women from their children, then on to the death camps of Germany and Poland. It knows that in those summer months of 1942, while Chevalier and Piaf toured Germany and le tout Paris danced the nights away with German officers. 33.000 Jews were deported by the French, never to return. It has also been told, in Gilbert Joseph's Une Si Douce Occupation, that even those icons Simone de Beauvoir and Jean-Paul Sartre were never involved in the Resistance as they claimed. France has been reminded, too, that in that summer a 26vest-old railway official named François Mitterrand was contributing articles to a virulent Pétainist journal founded by his friend Gabriel Jeantet, a man who blamed the nation's troubles on "international financiers and Tai-mudist prophets". That rarely mentioned chapter in the Mitterrand blography, eclipsed by his departure into the Resistance the following year, helps explain why France has been so reluctant to confront the spectre of collaboration. In the earlyconfusion of defeat, many good people went with the flow, tacitly collaborating and sharing the Pétainist belief that they were saving France from degradation. The question now is whether, 50 vears on and with 80 per cent of: the population born since the war. France will seek to expiate its Viciny guilt through trial and presidential declaration. The court's stupefying exoneration of Vichy in the Touvier case helped to focus the collective mind and probably served to speed the long-drawn-out prosecutions of M Bousquet and Maurice Papon, another senior Vichy official. Both men, who went on to successful post-war careers in business and government, are now under new indictment for crimes against humanity. Nobody expects trials of the octogenerians for at least another year, if ever.

prominent However, many people, including, it is said, M from putting the Vichy regime on trial for its part in genocide. Asked yesterday about the national re-sponsibility. M Mitterrand made a distinction between Petain's Etat Français and the republic, which he said had a giorious record on human rights since the revolution. The republic should not, he said. have to answer for the crimes of the Vichy state, as "inhumane and barbarous" as they were. Even some Jewish leaders are unhappy about pursuing the old collaborators because it would only exacerbate old hatreds that have been stirring all too noticeably.

emotions are certainly evident these days. They can be heard in the blatantly racist speech of right-wing politicians and ordinary citizens. The patriotic, proto-fascist language of Petainism is making itself heard in a batch of thriving extreme-right magazines and a daily Paris newspaper, Le Prèsent. Not coinci-dentally, this press found much to its liking in the behaviour of the lorry drivers earlier this month. The Association for the Defence of the Memory of Marshal Petain boasts of a rush of new young members and hopes for more when the first feature film on the marshal comes out later this year. Yann Clerc, a senior executive at ie Figuro, this week welcomed news that 41 per cent of the French considered Petain, the first world war general and second world war leader, to be a great man and told L'Express: "I feel a new mobilisation. You can't imagine the people who are coming out as Petainists." They could not reveal themselves, he said, for fear of reprisel. Given this background of apologia and right-wing vitriol, it is hard to conclude that France would be better served by finally drawing the curtain, as some suggest. One idea, put by children in a television programme this week, is to declare a national day of shame. That is unlikely to be followed. However, if M Mitterrand fails to heed the call to speak out tomorrow France will miss an important chance of confronting its demons and, as many prominent figures have argued, of ensuring there is no return to the past.

...and moreover

stand at the crossroads of concern meets interference, and I gnaw the indecisive knuckle. Call it the Cleveland conundrum.

Were the little boy at the upper window being assaulted. I should call the police, were he in physical distress. I should call an ambulance, were his premises burning, I should call the fire brigade; and were, moreover, any of these threats to his welfare on the point of getting out of hand, I like to think I should have no compunction in kicking down his door or shinning up his drainpipe, generally doing what I could to alleviate his misfortune. But none of these things is happening to him. All that is happening to him is that he is playing the violin.

Not that a stranger would know this. Were he to pass beneath the window, a stranger would think to himself: how odd that records in Cricklewood. that people in Cricklewood should not only keep a screech-owl but also allow it to dismember live weasels in the middle of the afternoon, funny old world, it takes all sorts, and amble on; but I am not a stranger, I have passed regularly beneath that window for two years now, and I know that what is being torn apart up there is Bach, and Gossec, and anyone else who, not content just to whistle fripperies in G major that came into his head during coffee breaks from serious composition, made the mistake of thousands of tiny fiddlers would never get started, and thou-sands of parents would thus not entertain unrealisable dreams of the day when there would be a knock on the door and a little lad would ask if Tommy could come out to play the Bach Double Violin Concerto. Kids would not. in short, be jailed in summer bedrooms and forced to saw catgut in the service of some adult's crackpot hopes.

For there is nothing more surplus to this world's requirements than a bad violinist. Teach a kid bad piano, and he will nevertheless one day be able to make a fist, two fists, of "Knees Up Mother Brown" and be the life and soul of the Rat & Cockle, teach him bad harmonica and he will raise the spirits of the forward trenches as the whizz-bangs fall, teach him a bad drum or cornet and he might well save the odd sinner. teach him bad guitar and he could find himself with ten platinum discs and three stately homes; but a fiddler has to be a virtuoso or he is nothing, unless of course he is Jack Benny or Jimmy Wheeler or Ted Ray, for whom bad violin was just another string to the comic bow. It would probably not have occurred to me to address the state of the body of the state of theme, mind, if the kid were getting any better. But he is getting worse. He has been get-ting worse for two years. Every time I pass his house, fewer crotchets have managed to sort themselves into some sort of forting them down. For without order. Give him two more years able, is beyong all those minuets and gavottes, and he will be able to extrude cry for help.

nothing more from the woodwork than a single atonal shrick. Worse, he is unhappy about this. Though I have often guessed him to be unhappy, it was only on Tuesday that I knew he was, because I saw him for the first time. He was standing at the window, holding the violin by the neck as if it were a tennis racquet, i.e. suggesting he was looking for something against which to splinter it. And when I smiled at him, I received in return not a smile but a bleak and pitiable shrug, after which he receded once more into the room and began rendering something even less recognisable than it was the last time. What should I do? De minimis non curat Childline, nor will the council take into care every 10-year-old with two left thumbs, and I doubt that the Environmental Health Act can be deployed to suppress the noise of what. at an inspired guess. might have started life as El-gar's Salut d'Amour but has subsequently undergone variations so enigmatic that the neighbourhood's cats remain permanently on heat, but something must be done, if the kid is to be granted a normal life.

A letter to his parents? An anonymous phone call? A ring on their door to announce that my firm is always on the lookout for second-hand violins, best prices paid? I do not know. I know only that each time I pass the window, the sound I hear, however otherwise unidentifiable, is beyond any question a

Lights, jobs, action!

DAVID PUTTNAM, who rode to the rescue of the British film industry with Chariots of Fire, has stepped in to save Neil Kinnock's staff from the dole queue. With Kinnock taking his last question time yesterday, his staff have been facing the bleak prospect of un-employment. At least two are set to join the Puttnam payroll, with the prospect of lifebelts to other aides if they continue to fail to land the high-profile jobs they want.
Puttnam, one of Labour's best known millionaires, has agreed to take on John Newbigin, Kinnock's green policy adviser, and Sue Nye, his long-serving diary secretary. That the offers represent a political favour seems not in doubt, for their precise job descriptions re-main unclear. "We are still talking about the job and the form it will take. It is undefined at the moment. The environment will be one aspect of it and David Puttnam cares passionately about the environment," says Newbigin, the Tamil-speaking son of a for-mer bishop of Madras. He will start work for Puttnam in September and colleagues are already describing him as "Puttnam's green guru". Nye was a powerful figure in the Opposition leader's office, access to the leader being channelled through her. The role she will play with Puttnam remains equally undefined.

John Smith is expected to retain only one of Kinnock's 16-strong entourage, the popular Hilary Coffman, who will be given an elevated role as press officer. One of the old team. Jan Royall, will stay with Kinnock as his private secretary. Meanwhile the two best known names remain unemployed. Julie Hall. Kinnock's press secretary.

now on an extended American tour observing the Democratic convention, and Charles Clarke, his chief of staff, have failed to find jobs. Puttnam could yet come to the rescue of both.

• For those truly unfit people who find athletic activity too much even from an armchair. Redworth Hall hotel in Durham offers the Lazy Olympics Break to coincide with the Barcelona games later this month. There is only one qualification: guests should have done no exercise since the last Olympics in 1988. Prizes will be awarded for the puniest and idlest, and those caught indulging in anything strenuous face instant dismissal. "We aim to help unfit people feel less guilty," says Brian Philpotts, the general manager.

Mine saviour

BOGEYMAN to many. Arthur Scargill has turned good samar-itan. The miners' leader has in theatrical fashion stepped in to save an amateur dramatics production from disaster. Derek Haughton, driving in medieval costume to play the leading man in the Mystery Plays at Worsbrough, near Barnsley, broke down en route, and with 20 minutes to go before curtain-up he called at a house to use the telephone. He was ushered in and the next minute met Scargill. "I was dumbstruck," says

Haughton. "He agreed to take me to the village and I arrived in the nick of time and went straight on the stage." King Arthur declined an invitation to stay and watch the production, but his contributionwas suitably honoured. Haughton added a miner's lamp to his costume for the performance.

Peter at St Paul's

PUSSY CAT, pussy cat where have you been? I've been up to London to visit the Queen, goes the nursery rhyme. There were no felines in sight yesterday at St Paul's when the Queen appeared at the annual service for the Order of St Michael and St George. But among the large cast of senior dip-lomats was Charlotte Haliburion

We're the only ones wearing tails.

with Peter, her large and extremely nervous brown rabbit. * Charlotte, the young daughter of Canon John Haliburton, who was participating in the service, smuggled Peter through the police cordons and waited patiently outside the cathedral's main doors for the sovereign in order to introduce the rabbit to her majesty. "He wanted to see the Queen, so I brought him up to take a look," said Charlotte. "You should have brought him inside," a blue-robed knight grand cross told her. "Hey could have passed as a GCMG."

Ballot-boxed

BARRACK-ROOM lawyers and saloon-bar constitutionalists were out in force at the Oxford and Cambridge Club in Pall Mall this week, when members were asked to give their views on that burning question of the day: the admission of women.

The club committee had suggested a postal ballot of the membership, 4,500 fine minds dotted across the globe. If more than 50 per cent of those eligible voted in favour, then the O&C would admit the fairer sex. The pro-female camp felt that the slim. They proposed an amendment to a more attainable target -

 $\Pi$

two-thirds of those actually voting. The case was argued as genteelly as one would expect among such cultured folk and the amendment appeared to have been carried by 108 in favour to 85 against. Yet suddenly it was announced that proxy votes had not been included: with them, the motion failed by 150 votes. Cries of foul play. And the result of all this procedural wrangling? Predictably, as at the Garrick, women will continue to find the doors firmly barred.

 Sir Richard Hadlee, the cricketing knight, has a new found fame. A New Zealand company has named a pea after him. The f Hadler, apparently, is a variety of blue prussion, particularly suit-able for use in curries and stews. Sir Richard, off to India later this year to promote the pea, says with pride: "I've never had a pea named after me before.

NOT PRIVATE ENOUGH

Rail privatisation was always the big one. It defied Margaret Thatcher. The public is nervous of it. The mere idea of it terrifies the rail industry. Yesterday's white paper is a desperate attempt to calm things down. Yet every paragraph shudders with fright.

There is only one central decision to be taken on British Rail's future whether its existing hierarchy is still to control Britain's rail. assets or whether these assets are to be divided into smaller units reflecting the fragmented character of the market for rail travel. This decision is ideological: between corporate bigness and the presumed economies of scale, or smallness and the presumed benefits to local enterprise and competition.

John MacGregor has fudged this decision, or at least postponed it for a successor to take. BR is to be reborn as Railtrack, a nationwide track authority. There is then to be a separate franchising authority awarding contracts to operators, including BR's own staff, to run trains over this track. There is to be a separate regulator to monitor the prices a charged by Railtrack. There will then be private companies bidding for services, in competition with BR's operating divisions which will eventually be privatised

The objection to this is plain. Railtrack will entrench the most inefficient parts of BR, its professional engineering functions and their attendant unions. The great work of BR in the 1980s, of cutting infrastructure costs by integrating them with train service costs, will be undone. Overheads will be under even less pressure than now. Franchise holders will find half to three quarters of their total costs out of their control, fixed by a nationalised industry in cahoots with a civil service regulator, both passing on higher charges under the guise of safety. Far from increasing market disciplines on the railways, the government may actually be reducing them. To this extent, the white paper is one of the most remarkable victories for Whitehall's bureaucratic centralism over market forces in 13 years of Tory government.

By comparison, the proposals for franchising train running are merely muddled. Those owning (or leasing) and running trains will have over half their outgoings fixed by Railtrack-plus-regulator — as much as 90 per cent if they are leasing. All that is really being franchised is the marketing of individual services. Since BR's 30-40 operating divisions have long and sound experience of this, the likely outcome is a few prestige pathways granted to Richard Branson and others for political window-dressing. while BR's reborn operators keep the rest.

Subsidy will be redirected through individual services rather than as a block grant, which is sensible, though there is ominous talk of subsidising Railtrack as well. A few stations may be sold off, thus regrettably stopping future privatised rail companies from exploiting them. Otherwise, all will continue as before. Tory backbenchers need not worry. Nor need the unions. There will be thousands more jobs for civil servants, regulators and administrators. Rail overheads will soar.

There are two silver linings to these clouds. First is Mr MacGregor's hint that Railtrack might be broken up at some later date. Since it holds the key industrial assets of land, tracks, signals, workshops and termini, its privatisation and geographical fragmenta-tion is the only privatisation that has any meaning. Only thus will the railway see asset exploitation, comparative cost-control and exciting innovation. Work should begin on this breakup at once.

The second good news is that existing BR operating divisions might be given the franchise for complete groups of services. They could thus receive subsidy and be expected to cross-promote between long and short-haul services. Thus might the local identity rightly seen by the prime minister as the key to rail revival be reborn and some coherent planning made possible. For this to appeal to investors, however, the operating companies must be able to bid for their local parts of Railtrack when that is broken up. Only thus can they control their costs and exploit their principal assets, land and STOOMS.

Mr MacGregor has ploughed a wobbly furrow with some groggy political horses in front of him. But there is a hint of straightness over the hill. The white paper offers at least the basis for more radical action following its enactment. A private railway in Britain is far from a reality, but it

PROPHET OF PEACE

Yitzhak Rabin lost no time in taking office yesterday as Israeli prime minister in outlining his vision for peace in the Middle East. He was ready, he said, to travel to Damascus, Amman and Beirus and to receive Arab leaders on the podium of the Knesset. Israelis had to overcome the sense of isolation that held them in thrall for almost half a century.

His remarks, a conscious reference to President Sadar's pioneering visit to Jerusalem, were all the more remarkable for the com-2 plete break in tone and substance from the cramped and grudging approach to peace of his predecessor Yitzhak Shamir, a man who by his own admission would have duplicitously dragged out the talks for ten years in the hope of swamping the occupied territories with settlers and thus retaining control for ever. Mr Rabin condemned the "extreme" views of the former prime minister in whose government he served. To Mr Shamir's fury he did not mention "Eretz Israel". but instead warned an older generation of Israelis to throw off their blinkers and paranoia along with their nationalist ideology.

He has underlined his determination for a fresh start by forming the most dovish government in Israel's recent history. But his brave words should not mask the difficulties that lie ahead, nor overlook the caunon, verging on outright scepticism, they have evoked in the Arab world.

Mr Rabin's new government does not have quite the free hand many enthusiastic Labour supporters believed on the night of electoral victory. He commands only 62 of the Knesset's 120 seats. He has already modified the blanket promise of an immediate halt to settlements, and is now making a distinction between those established for security and political reasons. For all his apparent flexibility. Mr Rabin has a history of antagonism towards Palestinian aspirations, and as defence minister he gave the order to "break the bones" of Palestinian demonstrators during the early days of the intifada.

All this explains the cautious Arab response. But the Arabs, especially the Palestimans, now face a deeper dilemma. They will come under strong pressure from the outside world, especially America, to respond swiftly and favourably. They still do not like the terms they are being offered; and to them Mr Rabin sounds dovish only by comparison with what came before. They would like an explicit commitment to the key United Nations resolutions on withdrawal; they do not accept continued Israeli settlements in Golan and the Jordan valley; and they do not accept annexation of all Jerusalem. Mr Rabin has also exposed the deepening split between moderates and radicals. Palestinian leaders like Hanan Ashrawi and Faisal Husseini may have welcomed the "new seriousness" of his remarks, but Islamic fundamentalists and their leaders in Hamas have no time for any compromise. Radical nations such as Syria are worried that their views may now count for less, and that America will resume its old close alliance with Israel. Indeed as soon as Washington guarantees the $10 billion in loans to Israel - as it soon will — their international Internal Arab squabbles may now come to the fore, inhibiting the kind of positive response Mr Rabin is looking for. His best way forward is to demonstrate, by a reconvening of the Middle East peace talks, that he is ready for real bargaining, real concessions. He has chosen in Shimon Peres a foreign minister least distrusted by the Arabs, well placed to press ahead, unilaterally if necessary, in recreating a dialogue. The Arabs showed patience during the sham peace talks conducted by Mr Shamir and in the election interlude; now it is the Israelis' turn to show statesmanship and restraint.

LIFE IN COUNTY HALL

White-Elephant-on-Thames needs to be given an occupation and a future. County Hall has now stood half-occupied for six years, and wholly empty since the Inner London Education Authority vanished in 1990. There is a pleasure in ruins. But there is nothing more melancholy than a great building whose occupation has gone.

County Hall is by no means a ruin, yet. It is one of the grandest and most familiar buildings in London, standing on one of the finest sites on the South Bank. It was built from the rates of Londoners as an architectural declaration of metropolitan pride. For it to decay in idleness is an embarrassment to the government and a blot on the face of London. Any use is better than none.

County Hail is not suited to many uses. It was built as the headquarters of London government. But even should the government one day accept that the metropolis needs some authority of its own, none will be of a size or triumphalism to occupy all of County Hall, nor need it occupy the magnificent rooms round the riverine crescent or the profusion of polychrome marbles and pillars in the public spaces. These are public rooms in a public building. The proposals so far made for County Hall all fail to be truly public. The developers have sought to convert the buildings into a combination of hotel and conference centre, offices and flats. The market for such development is dormant, if not positively defunct. Converting the building to a hotel would be very expensive. Meanwhile, the London School of Economics has come forward with a claim, though one based on realising the school's properties in Houghton Street, again in a depressed market. And students are not the public.

Certainly, education is one of the few growth sectors of the London economy that and tourism. The answer, at least until some clearer future for the building is realised, may be for students to use the upper floors of County Hall under a short-term lease, while the piano nobile is opened, like the Royal Festival Hall next door, as an openaccess promenade with market stalls, entertainment and refreshment. The key to the revival of depressed quarters of big cities, and for that matter of depressed buildings, is to allow informal uses to flourish. Thus have Covent Garden, Portobello Road, Camden Lock and Whitechapel come back to life. County Hall has a magnificent location. With students above and visitors from home and overseas within. the main floor should come to life again as an intellectual marketplace, a refuge for the second-hand bookshops and other cultural small traders who can no longer afford the rents on the north bank of the Thames. Such activities draw people. People draw spending power. Spending power is the engine of urban renaissance. Out of such lateral thinking could emerge a new and desirable County Hall, London's Rive Gauche on the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

1 Pennington Street, London El 9XN Telephone 071-782 5000

Case for settling the Jubilee line

From the Chairman of Regalian Properties and others

Sir, Uncertainty about the extension of London Underground's Jubilee line ("Canary bankers may offer cash for Jubilee line", Business Times, July 11: "Civil servants to strike over Docklands move", report, July 14) makes it imperative that the case is put for east and south London and the prosperity of our capital city as a

East London's successful regeneration can take place only if there is proper infrastructure to support it.
The London boroughs of Southwark. Lewisham and Greenwich on the south side of the river desperately need a link to London's Underground system to provide for the possibility of redevelopment and regeneration. The Tube map shows how under-served the south bank is relative to the north, The CrossRail link will do nothing to improve that imbalance. Tower Hamlets and Newham to the north of the river, with a significant growth projected in their working populations, need the extension to support the developments already built.

London needs to expand to the east to reduce the congestion from which it suffers so badly. The Jubilee line will permit this and reduce overcrowding significantly on the Central, Circle, District and Victoria lines. It will open up many hundreds of acres of residential development land where housing costs average a third less than those in west London.

Routing the line through Waterloo will help passengers heading to and from the new Channel tunnel terminai and reduce traffic congestion in the Waterloo area. The line will also improve access to Stratford on the Channel tunnel fast link.

We should get on and build it: no other new line could be constructed in London during this century. Someone is needed in government whose responsibility will be to ensure that decisions can be taken with London as a "world city" in mind.

Yours faithfully. DAVID J. GOLDSTONE (Chairman, Regalian Properties). PHILIP BECK (Chairman, John Mowlem). DAVID CALVERLEY (Managing Director, Trafalgar House Property), ALAN COCKSHAW (Chairman, Amec), MARTIN LAING STUART LIPTON (Chief Executive, Stanhope Properties). Regalian Group of Companies, PO Box 4NR, 44 Grosvenor Hill, W1. July 14.

Business letters, page 28

Price of books From Mr Konrad Syrop

Sir, Daniel Johnson's spirited attack on the net book agreement, "Pile em high, sell 'em cheap" (July 10), contains a number of assertions which need examination. He claims that the abolition of the agreement will be good for the publishers and for the reading public, that small bookshops "need be no more vulnerable to discounting ... than any other small shops", and that "serious writers" (all of them?)

"have nothing to fear". I hold no brief for the publishers. who are well equipped to defend their corner, but as the author of a few books that are regarded as serious, and above all as a buyer of books and customer of my small but excellent local general bookshop, l would regard its demise not only as an inconvenience but as a serious cultural loss. In addition to serving the needs of the adult reading public, the local bookshop helps to introduce children to the wonderful world of literature and to start in them a life-long bookbuying habit.

Yet the local bookshop cannot afford to sell at a discount, for its turnover can never justify it and, in the absence of a net book agreement, it is likely to be forced out of business. In the long run Dillons, Hatchards, Claude Gill and the other large chains may flourish; but the public at large and our book-buying culture will suffer.

Yours faithfully, KONRAD SYROP. Great Spilmans. Dulwich, SE22.

EC and Sunday trading

From Professor Nigel P. Gravells Sir, Nothing in your report (July 9) of the recent opinion of the advocate general, nor in the previous case law of the European Court of Justice, supports the assertion by Mr Stephen Hornsby (letter, July 11) that the legality of non-discriminatory Sunday trading laws falls within the exclusive competence of the member states".

In the context of litigation in the national courts it is of course for those courts to apply the test of legality; but the test itself remains that formulated by the European Court 13 years ago.
The Court confirmed that if non-discriminatory national measures are capable of restricting trade between the member states of the European Community, such mea-South Bank under one grand Piranesi roof. | sures are illegal unless (i) they are designed to protect some legitimate

(as determined by the European Court) interest and (ii) the means of protection involves the minimum possible restriction of trade (the socalled "proportionality principle").

In his recent opinion, the advocate general appears to have assumed that national legislation which prohibits shops from opening on Sundays may result in a restriction on trade, in the form of a reduction in the total sales (and thus imports) of Community products.

However, he also appears to have accepted the argument of the United Kingdom government that, in so far as such legislation is designed to preserve the "socio-cultural charac-

Letters to the editor should carry a daytime telephone number. They may be sent to a fax number -071-782 5046.

Defence bulwark as price of peace From Mr M. B. H. Ashmore

Sir, The latest white paper on defence (report. July 8) has little new thinking behind it. It is the same mixture that was produced a year ago when Mr Gorbachev still ruled in the Kremlin. So much has changed in Europe and the world

since then that it would be reasonable to expect some changes in emphasis for our defence policy.

more especially as we have a new secretary of state for defence.

So many serious questions need to be asked that the government should surely consider a new formal examination of defence policy. For example, is the fourth Trident boat to be built for strictly operational reasons? The navy would appear to be ambi-

Should we be investing £2.5 billion in a new air-launched tactical missile when the trend is to reduce nuclear arsenals? The emphasis on sophis-ticated equipment for the army at the expense of manpower can only be justified if we anticipate a war in Europe against an adversary who is slavia continues. There is unrest and dissatisfaction in many countries of the former Warsaw Pact. Europe is already being threatened by a refugee problem. Large parts of Africa face economic disaster. The UN secretary-general is putting forward ideas for peace-keeping and peace-making forces, but the response is lukewarm. Is not the real "peace dividend" peace?

What the white paper proposes is a scaled-down version of the armed forces required to meet the threats of the Cold war, not a structure which can respond to the new order of things. Your editorial of July 8 is right to suggest that defence is the last great vested interest to stand

Could it still be that, despite the efforts of Lord Mountbatten in the 1960s and Michael Heseltine in the 1980s it is inter-service rivalries which to a large extent determine the composition of our armed forces?

unscathed.

Yours sincerely,

Le Bailly

Cocklaw, Elsrickle,

Biggar, Lanarkshire.

M. B. H. ASHMORE,

From Vice Admiral Sir Louis

Sir, The cost of building the new Trident deterrent force, so flexible yet so essential in the prevailing uncertain international climate, seems to be accepted in political circles as an excuse for running down the Royal Navy. Without a constant procession of tankers, today increasingly at risk from the small navies of smaller countries against which the deterrent weapon is not suitable and which are beyond the reach of our air power, industry would falter and we

Even in the Guil war, in a part of the world overrun with oil, tankers had to be escorted through potentially hostile areas to supply the needs of the armies and airforces. What would be the size of that task in any future conflict in which Saudi oil and convenient refineries were not immediately available? It would, I surmise, be well beyond our naval would start to starve.

capabilities.

Yours truly,

LOUIS LE BAILLY.

Bodmin, Cornwall.

Garlands House, St Tudy,

From Sir Geoffrey Johnson Smith, MP for Wealden (Conservative)

Sir, You claim in your leading article of July 8. "What peace dividend?". that the welcome agreement between Russia and the US to reduce dramatically their strategic arsenals calls into question the case for four rather than three Trident submarines. It is absurd, you argue, to behave as though the Cold war might suddenly return.

At a time when the Russian foreign minister is accusing his defence and security counterparts of plotting a coup (report, July 13) these comments seem less than auspicious.

Of course there have been pro-found changes in the international security environment in recent years. But many uncertainties remain and will be at least a decade before Russia completes the task of dismantling her warheads, which currently number some 11,000.

I cannot predict the world order in ten years' time. What I do know is that 15 countries now have a ballistic missile capability, including Pakistan, India, Libya, Iraq and Iran. Surely it is prudent to insure ourselves against the risks and uncertainties in the years ahead.

Part of that insurance policy is a credible minimum nuclear deterrent: "credible" in that we must always, throughout the 30-year life of Trident, be able to count on at least one boat being on patrol. To achieve it, a four, not three, boat force is essential — the ultimate guarantee of our national security.

Finally, the level of Britain's independent deterrent is not set in proportion to the superpowers' arsenals. Our government must make its own judgment of Britain's strategic need; and just as that need was unaffected by the arms race of the 1970s and early 1980s, so it will now not be driven by superpower

Yours sincerely, GEOFFREY JOHNSON SMITH (Chairman, Conservative Back-bench Defence Committee). House of Commons.

From Captain P. R. D. Kimm, RN (retd)

Sir, I read your leading article, with its complaint about the maintenance of "a huge navy for the eastern Atlantic and the Channel", shortly after noting elsewhere that the Royal Navy is entering phase 2 of its redundancy programme, involving about 450 officers and 700 ratings. How huge is huge?

Neither you, Sir, nor those responsible to the state for assessing the maritime threat to these islands ten or 20 years hence can conceivably guess, particularly against the background of present uncertainties, what that threat might be.

The chiefs of staff are wise, therefore, to keep their options open, even though the present threats seem slight compared to those of the past 40 years. Political situations can, and do, change overnight. Military capabilities, once destroyed, take an inordinately long time to rebuild.

Indeed, Admiral of the Fleet Lord Beatty, in his rectorial address at Edinburgh University in 1920. taught that "history shows no instance of sea supremacy once yielded being regained". Yours faithfully.

PETER KIMM. 69 New Brighton Road, Emsworth, Hampshire.

Fishing controls From Mr Eric Clements

Sir, I note with satisfaction the generous space given in your pages on July 8 to the recent protest by fishermen against the Sea Fish (Conservation) Bill.

The bill is not, however, part of an C programme as you report: it is in addition to EC proposals. It would mean British fishermen tied up. while foreign vessels fished, mostly in our waters. That unfair and unilateral restriction is what the protest Especially galling is the fact that continental vessels registered as British, to take part of our quota, would be exempt.

Yours etc., ERIC CLEMENTS (Campaign Director). Save Britain's Fish. 60 Harrington Street. Cleethorpes, Humberside.

Girls in engineering From Dr Richard B. Jackman Sir, I fully concur with the survey conducted by Nottingham Poly-technic which shows the extent to which engineering is misunderstood in Britain and the effect of this on girls entering the profession ("Dirty hands' put girls off engineering" report, July 10).

However, the physics teacher you quote as saying that "girls can't do electronics" may be interested in the performance of this year's third-year students in this department. Three of the top four marks were achieved by female candidates, despite there being only nine girls in the total of 58 third-year students.

Yours faithfully, RICHARD B. JACKMAN, University College London. Department of Electronic and Electrical Engineering, Torrington Place, WC1

teristics" of work patterns, it is pursuing an objective that is recognised as legitimate under EC law.

If later this year the European Court adopts that view, it will then be for this country's courts to determine whether our Sunday trading laws indeed pursue such an objective and whether they comply with the proportionality principle.

Thus, although the national court will give the final judgment in the national litigation, to speak of the "exclusive competence" of member states is to ignore the reality that, in doing so, the court is required to apply rules of Community law.

Yours faithfully, NIGEL P. GRAVELLS, University of Nottingham, Department of Law. University Park, Nottingham NG7 2RD.

Rights and dues in student unions

From Mr Norris McWhiner and Sir Rhodes Boyson, MP for Brent North (Conservative)

Sir. According to the senior deputy vice-chancellor of the University of Exeter (letter, July 7), "most students ... would not term their union membership compulsory but automatic, not an infringement of liberty but a right". One would think that someone were challenging this right, rather than proposing an additional one — the right not to join a student union if one does not wish to do so. Dr Coleman's claim, on behalf of

'most students", is inaccurate; opinion polls show students and the public heavily in favour of union membership being voluntary, not "automatic" or any other euphemism for compulsion.

No reform of the National Union of Students can possibly work if students remain locked into their individual college unions. Dr Cole-man's language is reminiscent of the excuses formerly made for comsimilarly equipped.

Meanwhile our political leaders condemn, and the UN debates, while the destruction and misery in Yugopulsory unions in industry.

Student unions operating on a voluntary basis work well in Europe. Even the emerging democracies of the East have given students the right both to join and not to join them. People take pride in a body they freely choose to join: without choice there is no pride or sense of belonging.

Voluntary student unions will cease to be the monopoly intermediary between college and student. Essential welfare and catering services will be provided by colleges and will be available to all students. whether members of student unions or not, and the unions will have to recruit members like other clubs or societies by improving their services. They can then campaign legiti-mately on behalf of those students who freely choose to belong to them.

We have the honour to be your obedient servants,

NORRIS McWHIRTER (Chairman), RHODES BOYSON (Member),

The Freedom Association, 35 Westminster Bridge Road, SE1.

From Mr Alan Fidler

Sir. The heavy usage of student unions' commercial and welfare services does not suggest that students are totally dissatisfied with the present arrangements. If the unions' commercial activities are truly profit able (subsidising welfare services) the change from "automatic" to "voluntary" membership should not detract from student use of trading services (shops, travel bureaux, bars. etc.), provided that block-grant funding of non-commercial activities

Students who chose to join the union (for a nominal subscription) could elect from their number those to represent them to the college authorities, manage facilities and organise group activities. The difficulty, of course, arises in determining a fair sum to be paid over for the running of the non-commercial activities and ensuring that subsidy is not being provided only to those who elect to join. The college could require the union to provide its services and facilities on an equal basis to all registered students.

If the government wishes to question the husbandry of union funds provided from the public purse it has recourse to the vice-chancellors or directors, who are accountable ultimately to the Public Accounts Committee. It does not negotiate with small fragmented groups of malcontents: the universities and colleges can quite properly expect to deal with a single student voice.

Abolish student unions at the college level at your peril, Mr Patten. Yours faithfully.

ALAN FIDLER (Manager, Union Society, University of Newcastle upon Tyne, 1983-91). 44 Alma Place. North Shields,

Tyne and Wear.

Crossword addicts From Mr Hugh Murray

Sir. As a Times crossword addict for over 30 years (letters, July 6, 11) I have developed a system for ensuring that wherever I am in the world -travelling on the Trans-Siberian railway or salling amongst the islands of the Caribbean — I can get my daily fix without having to suffer any withdrawal symptoms.

Some years ago, while on a visit to the USA, I forgot to cancel my newspapers and found on my doormat on my return home three weeks' accumulation of The Times. Since then I have used this as a stockpile and when going on holiday merely cut from the pages sufficient crosswords to last for the time I am away. These are, of course, replaced from the continued deliveries made over the same period.

Yours sincerely. HUGH MURRAY. 46 Burton Stone Lane, York. July IZ.

From Mrs Gay Bramwich

Sir, Completing the crossword is comparatively easy. The real skill lies in being one of the five drawn out of the hat.

G. BRAMWICH. Poultons Hatch, Mill Road, Aldington, Kent

COURT CIRCULAR

Hall, Whizley.
The Hon Mrs Legge-Bourke

afternoon at a performance of the Royal Tournament at Earls

The Lady Margaret Colville.

Major Sir Ralph Anstruther.

Bt. and Captain the Hon

Edward Dawson-Damer were in July 14: The Princess of Wales. President, Barnardo's, attended a Conference to promote awareness of HIV/Aids issues amongst young people at a Conference at the Royal Lancaster Hotel,

Lancaster Terrace, London W2. Mr Patrick Jephson was In July 14: The Duchess of Glouces-ter today received the Captain of HMS Gloucester (Commander Duncan Fergusson, RN).

July 14: The Duke of Kent, Grand Master, accompanied by The Duchess of Kent, this morning attended the Annual Service of the Most Distinguished Order of

St Michael and St George in St

Mrs Fiona Henderson, Commander Roger Walker. RN and Captain the Honourable Tom

The Duke of Kent this evening took the Salute at the Royal Tournament at Earls Court,

Captain the Honourable Tom

THATCHED HOUSE LODGE July 14: Princess Alexandra, Patron of the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art, this evening attended a Gala Performance of "Anything Goes" at the MacOwan Theatre, Logan Place,

Afia

Coke were in attendance.

Coke was in attendance.

KENSINGTON PALACE

YORK HOUSE

Paul's Cathedral.

London SW5.

ST JAMES'S PALACE

KENSINGTON PALACE

CLARENCE HOUSE July 14: Queen Elizabeth The Queen Mother was present this

BUCKINGHAM PALACE
July 14: The Queen, Sovereign of the Most Distinguished Order of St Michael and St George, this morning attended the Service of the Order in St Paul's Cathedral.

Having been received on arrival at the steps of St Paul's Cathedral by Sir Brian Jenkins (the Rt Hon the Lord Mayor) Her Majesty was received at the West Door by the Dean and Chapter of St Paul's with the Bishop of London.

The Duke of Kent (Grand Master of the Orden and The Master of the Order) and The Duchess of Kent were present.

The following Officers of the Order were on duty: the Bishop of Coventry (Prelate), the Lord Carrington, KG (Chancellor), Sir David Gillmore (Secretary), Sir John Graham, Bt (Registrar), Sir John Morreton (Gentleman Lisher John Moreton (Gentleman Usher of the Blue Rod), the Dean of St Paul's (Dean) and Lieutenant Colonel Anthony Mather (Deputy Secretary).

The Duchess of Grafton, Sir Kenneth Scott, Lieutenant Colo-nel Blair Stewart-Wilson and Mr James Bowes-Lyon (Page of Honourl were in attendance

Her Majesty's Body Guard of the Honourable Corps of Gentle-men-at-Arms and The Queen's Body Guard of the Yeomen of the Guard were on duty.

Mr Sydney Chapman, MP
(Vice-Chamberlain of the House-hold) had an audience of The Queen and presented an Address from the House of Commons to which Her Majesty was gra-clously pleased to make reply. The Rt Hon John Major, MP

(Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury) had an audience of The Queen this evening.

The Queen this evening.

The Hon Mary Morrison has succeeded Mrs John Dugdale as Lady-in-Waiting to The Queen.

The Princess Royal, President, National Federation of Young Farmers' Clubs, this morning attended the Great Yorkshire show at Harrogate and was received by Sir Marcus Worsley, Bt (Her Majesty's Lord-Lieuten-ant for North Yorkshire). Her Royal Highness, President, Animal Health Trust, afterwards

Today's royal engagements

The Queen will give a garden party at Buckingham Palace at 4.00.

The Prince of Wales will visit the Nunional Clinical Positron Emis-sion Tomography Centre at St Thomas's Hospital at 11.30.

The Princess Royal, as Master of the Loriners' Company, will at-tend a court meeting and lun-cheon at innholders' Hall at 10.55; and, as patron, will amend the Royal Tournament at Earls Court at 7.15.

Princess Margaret will attend the Royal Tournament at Earls Court

The Duke of Kent, Chairman of

of Edinburgh's Commonwealth

Study Tour in Kent and will at 2.15.

Benevolent Fund).

London W8.

Mrs Peter

Receptions

NCH George Thomas Society
The Prince of Wales was host at a reception held on Monday at Highgrove House for the Nat-ional Children's Home George Thomas Society. Mr Neville Shulman, chairman, presided and Viscount Tonypandy also spoke. Among others present were the Earl of Portsmouth, Sir Anthony and Lady Cleaver, Sir Reginald and Lady Eyre, Mr Tom White, Mr Ian Wradslaw

All Party Soviet Jewry Com The Speaker presented the annual Henry Moore award to the Israel Folk Dance Institute at a reception held yesterday at the House of Commons. Lord Archer of Sandwell, QC, chairman, pre-depart from Waterloo at 11.10. Royal Fine Art Commission Lord St John of Fawsley, Chair-man of the Royal Fine Art Princess Alexandra will attend a reception at Forbes House, Halkin Street, at 7.00 held by Commission, was host at a reception held last night at 7 St James's Square to mark the launch of the Square to mark the faunch of the Commission's Annual Report. The Right Hon David Mellor, QC, MP, Secretary of State for National Heritage, was the guest of honour. Among the guests were members of the Diplomatic Corps, the Lord Chancellor and other members of the Chinacellor and The Earl of Iveagh A service of thanksgiving for the life of the Earl of Iveagh will be held in St Margaret's Church. Westminster Abbey, on Wednes-day, July 22, 1992, at noon. other members of the Cabinet and members of both Houses of Tickets are not required. All are

Westminster School and the son of Mr Justice Cresswell, being given an enthusiastic send-off by his father yesterday when he and a school friend, Alexander Massey, set out on a 700-mile cycle ride from Westminster to the Outer Hebrides to raise

Mark Cresswell, aged 16, a pupil at money for the Cystic Fibrosis Trust. The two cyclists have already raised £20,000 for the trust and towards lung monitoring equip-ment for Queen Elizabeth Hospital for Sick Children at Hackney, east London. Four years ago, Mark's brother, Oliver, died of the Incurable disease.

Architecture

Threat to Georgian chapel

By Marcus Binney, architecture correspondent

ONE of the most complete interiors in any late eighteenth century country chapel is in imminent danger of destruction. Over the next few weeks all the original Georgian box pews. built-in central pulpit and brick paving will be removed from the Baptist chapel at Great Gidding, near Huntingdon. "It will be a tragedy and reveals a major loophole in the listed buildings legislation," says Matthew Saunders, secretary of the Ancient Monuments Society. "We have approached the relevant authorities and are fully at liberty to make these improvements," says the minister, Mr John Mutton. While the owner of a secular listed building needs consent to remove fitted woodwork from an interior, the chapel benefits from the so-called ecclesiastical exemption granted to buildings of England has its own form of faculties but most other denominations have no such arrangements. In 1974 the House of Lords ruled that the complete demolition of a listed chapel did require consent. The position on major alterations, partial demolition and stripping of interiors remains unclear. A few years ago the complete panelled interior of the eighteenth century Huguenot chapel in Spitalfields, east London, then in use as a mosque, was sawn up and thrown into a skip, with the listing authorities saying they were powerless to intervene.

In 1986 Lord Skelmersdale promised that the government would tighten up control but the latest discussion paper is dismissed by Matthew Saunders as "a paper tiger; the government proposes no more than control over external alterations used for worship. The Church which, in most cases, require planning permission any-

The chapel at Great Gidding, built in 1790, is the only grade two star listed Nonconformist chapel in Cambridgeshire. It is one of 300 chapels singled out as "most worthy of preservation" in a parliamentary white paper of 1985.

While eighteenth century box pews were removed or cut down in most parish churches during the nineteenth century, the Great Gidding chapel retains the original 3ft 9in high pews with children's seats at the

"If the government cannot take action, it shows that no chapel interior, however fine, however unaltered, is safe," says Mr Saunders. He added that if the interior is lost the chapel will almost certainly not be eligible for English Heritage repair grants in the

Memorial services

Sir Bryant Godman Irvine The Speaker attended a service of thankspiring for the life and perst thanksgiving for the life and work of Sir Bryant Godman Irvine held of Sir Bryant Godman Irvine held yesterday at St Margare's Church, Westminster Abbey. Canon Donald Gray officiated. Sir Douglas Dodds-Parker and Captain Victor Law, son-in-law, read the lessons and Viscount Tonypandy gave an address. Sir Edward Heath, KG, MP, was represented by Mr David Madel, MP. Among others present werte. M.P. Among others present were: MP. Among others present were Mrs. Victor Lew and Mrs. Jack Godman twine (daughters), Machiew Lew and Chartey Lew (grandsons): the Canadian High Cornulssioner, the Duke of Fife. Viscount Whitelew, KT, CH, Viscount Kemsley, Lord and Lady Murton of Lindisfarme. Lord and Lady Cranthester. Lord English of Morpeli, Lord Shackleton, RG, Lord Orr-Ewing, Lord Shackleton, RG, Lord Orr-Ewing, Lord Stocker, RG, Lord Orr-Ewing, Lord Stocker, Lord English of William Clark, Mr Bernard Westherill, the Mon Peers Brooke, CH, MP, Sir Edward and Lady du Carm. Mr Nicholas Scott, MP. Mr Peul Channon, MP, Mr John Büfen, MP, Mr Michael Jopling, MP, Mr Auther Jumes.

Authory Jumes.

The Hon Sir Clive Bossom, Sir Clifford Southon (Clerk of the House of Commons) and Lady Bostman, Sir Michael Neuben, MP, Sir Jahn Hannam, MP, Sir Olies Shaw, MP, Sir Geothry Johnson Smith, MP, Sir John Hannam, MP, Sir Charles Gondon, Sir Peter Thomes, Shr Dwid Hunt, Sir John Stokes, Sir Victor Goodhew, Sir John Bradshaw, Sir Robin Vanderfelt, Sir John and Dame Guisevere Tiliney, Dame Jame Guisevere Tiliney, Dame Jame Guisevere Tiliney Speaker, Lady Dodds-Parker (also representing the Patrotide Society), Sir John Osborn, Sir William van Straubenzee.

Mr John Sweeman (Clerk of the Commines of the Rouse of Commons, her Peter Cobb (also representing the chairman, Commonwealth Parlamentary Association (UK branch) and Mrs Cobb, the Donald Kember East Susset Councy Council, Mr Control Recommence, her David Assistent Child and Company), her J Cyster (Betchill and Bettle Conservative, Association). Mr Clifford Dann (Mustylerpoint Agricultural Association), Mr Rupert Alsson, Mr. Mr Tim Raithone, Mr. Mr Tim Califord, Mr Rupert Alsson, Mr. Mr Tim Raithone, Mr. Mr Tim Califord, Mr Chaires Wardle, Mr. Mr Singul Lak, Mr. Mr Harty Greenway, Mr Vice-chairman, Greset London Conservative Mrs. His Honour A E Holdsworth, QC, Mr D W Limon, Mr Mr Nichola Lakham, Mr Donald Box, Mr Nicholas Flower, Mr Nicholas Flower, Mr Nicholas Flower, Mr Simon de Surgh, Mr Kat M Nesman and Mr Treor T Simmonds.

Mrs Heather McConnell A memorial service for Mrs Heather McConnell was held yesterday at St Luke's Sydney Street. The Rev Derek Watson officiated. Mr William Duck read the lesson and Mrs Briget Mul-lens read from the works of Baha'u'llah. Miss Vera Harley and Mr Raymond O'Shea gave

Tallow Chandlers' Company

The following have been elected officers of the Tallow Chandlers' Company for the ersuing year. Master, Lieutenant Colonel P.W.S. Boult: First Warden, Mr. D.G. Milne, Second Warden, Mr. A.M. Street Warden, Mr. Third Warden, Mr. A.M. Street Warden M.M.L. Sutcliffe; Third Warden. Professor P.G. Moore: Fourth Warden, Mr C.A. Holborow. Sir Peter Cazalet has been appointed. Deputy Master.

Chartered Architects' Company

The following have been elected officers of the Chartered Architecis' Company for the ensuing year: Master, Mr Stuart J. Murphy: Upper Warden, Mr B.A. Barker, Renter Warden, Mr J.M. Welbank: Junior Warden, Mr

Meeting Parliamentary and Scientific Sir Gerard Vaughan, Chairman of the Parliamentary and Scientific Committee, presided at a meeting held yesterday at the House of Commons. The Hon

William Waldegrave, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancager, was the ## Forthcoming marriages

Dr P.W. Burn and Miss S.G. Parker The engagement is announced between Peter, elder son of Captain William Burn, RN. and appearance. Dr Julia Burn, of Windsor, and Sandy, youngest daughter of Mrs Mary Parker, of Enniskillen and the late Mr Andrew Parker.

Captain C.G.H. Campbell and Mrs C.A. MatKingon The engagement is announ-between Captain Colin Campbe of Ropley, Hampshire, and Mrs Caro MacKinnon, of Bighton Bottom, Hampshire.

Mr E.J.P. Crawford The engagement is announced between Edward John Payne, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Crawfurd, Thursley, Surrey, and Arny Louise, daughter of Mr Timothy villiers-Smith, Stonegate, East Sussex, and Mrs Anthony Gortfon, Limassol, Cyprus.

Mr R.A. Hookway and Miss E.C.E. de Vece Hunt The engagement is announced the engagement is announced between Actred, eddest son of Mr and Mrs C.F. Hookway, of Tiverton, Devon, and Emma, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs J.P.H. de Vere Hunt, of Bleachingley, Surrey.

Mr A. Kerry and Miss D.A. Helm The engagement is announced between Andrew, youngest son of between Andrew, youngest son of the late Mr B. Kerty and of Mrs G.F. Griffiths, of Shrewsbury, and Deborah Anne, daughter of Mr and Mrs M.A. Holm, of Mr P.M. Magill and Miss S.E.G. Straker The engagement is announced between Patrick, youngest son of Mr and Mrs D.B. Magill. of Mulberry Hill, Baughurst, Hampshire, and Sophie, eldes daughter of Mr and Mrs D.C. Straker, of Aydon Grange, Corbridge, Northumberland.

Mr S.G. MeBride and Miss C.M. Lloyd The engagement is announced between Simon, younger son of Mr and Mrs B.J. McBride, of Walmer. Kent, and Minule, of daughter of Mr and Mrs P.H. Lloyd, of Uppingham, Leicestershire.

Mr A.B.N. Peal and Miss E.S. Jones

and MISS E.S. Jones
The engagement is announced between Andrew, youngest son of Mr and Mrs Colin Peal, of Blackmore End. Essex, and Elen. younger daughter of Mr and Mrs Stuart Whiles, of Rossett, Clwyd. North Wales.

Mr A.A. Salmon and Miss S.A. Spielman The engagement is announced between Andrew, son of Mr and Mrs Michael Salmon, of St John's Wood, London, and Saily, daughter of Mrs Prudence Spielman and the late Mr Roger Spielman, of Richmond, Surrey

Mr A.D. Williams and Miss S.C. Kearon The engagement is announced between Adam, younger son of Mr and Mrs George Williams, of Nunney. Somerset, and Selina, younger daughter of Mr and Mrs Peter Kearon, of Wickhambreaux, Kent. Marriages

Dr R.O. Barourd and Mrs B.G. Paston-Cooper The marriage took place of Dr Robin Osler Barnard to Belinda, widow of Mr Astley Paston-Cooper, on July 14, at Guildford. M J-Y. Deries

mad Miss H.S. Glaister
The marriage took place on Sahaday, July 11, In Orford, Sulfolk, of Jean-Yves Deries, only son of M and Mme H. Deries, of Pau. France, and Hilary Glaister. daughter of Dr and Mrs R.M. Glaister, of Orford.

Mr A.M.M. Dodd and Mrs LA.C. Bailey
The marriage took place quietly on Tuesday, July 14, In Clwyd, of Mr Antony Dodd and Mrs
Lorraine Bailey.

Dinner

Birthdays today The Sultan of Brunel celebrates his birthday today.

Elliott, former general admin-istrator, National Theatre, 56; Air

Fraser, 85: Sir Simon Courley.

former president, National Farmers' Union, 58; Sir John Graham, diplomat, 66; Mr Ronski Had-field, chief constable, West Midlands, 53: Mr R. Hammond

htmes, author, 79: Mrs App Jellicoe, playwright and theatre director, 65: Mr C.H. Kelly, chief constable, Staffordshire, 62; Sir. Larry Larrio, former editor, Daily

Expréss, 63: Professor Brendig Millier, meuropsychologist, 74;

Danbe iris Murdoch, Hovelik, 73: Mrs. Juliet Pannett, pestralit painer, 81: Mrs. Marion, Roe, MP, 56: Miss Linds Ronstaft.

singer. 48: Lord Shackleton, KG. 81: Mr Ron Smith, trades union-ist. 77: Air Chief Marshal Sir-

Rothven Wade, 72.

night in Speaker's House in honour of a parliamentary Mr John Building, racehouse trainer, 47; Professor Sir James Balk cheirman, Legal and Gen-eral, 59; Sir Jeffrey Benson, chairman, The 600 Group, 70; delegation from Mexico led by Senador Angel Sergio Guerrero Mier. The Mexican Ambassador was present. The other guests Sir Harriste Birtwisse, com-poser, 38; Mr Julian Bream, guitaries and lateriss, 59; Mr Geoffrey Burgon, composer, 51; Dr Joceivir Beil Burnell, astronomer. 49; Lard Button of Alsa, 74; Miss Carmen Callil, publisher. 54: Mr Robert Conquest, writer, 75: Professor Sir David Cox, warden, Nuffield College, Orsord, 68; Sir Alexander Durie, a furiner vice-president. AA: 77: Lord Edintund-Davies, 86; Mr M. A. Elliott fortune gastreet, educing

MOTE LOTT RIPPORT OF HEXISTEN, QC. Mr. Jacques Armold, MP, Mr. 100 Ashlori, MP, Le Michigan, MP, Mr. Taru Dalyell, McS, Mr. Akan Ouncon, MF, Drane Jame Pookes, MP, Mr. Don Fosser, MP, Mr. McCagols, MP, Mr. Don Fosser, MP, Mr. Raiph Howell, MP, Lero & Milleart, Mr. Martin, Cherill, Mr. Dr. Robert Raiph, MP, Str. Chert, MP, Dr. Robert Raiph, MP, Str. Chert, MP, Str. Chert, MP, Dr. Chert, MP, Str. Chert, MP, Str. Chert, MP, Dr. Robert Raiph, MP, Str. Chert, MP, Str. Chert, MR, Str. Chert, Mr. icolm Thornton, MP. Mr Jo Rivino, MP. Miles Mary-Anne Chr ty de Freiten, Dra Eleua Utbe dd. Chrofn Dornald Grity. Mr Jo Brood, Mr, David Mingrave, 8 noch Gapoett, Mr John Penney a Peter Kitcas.

Lancheon

Association
The Hon Peter Brooke, CH. MP. and Mr Alfred Morris, MP. were hosts at a luncheon given by the United Kingdom branch of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association yesterday at the House of Commons in honour of a delegation of members of the House of Keys, Isle of Man visiting Westminster.

And the second

P. 5214

47 1 1

univer

4

Sec. 2.

Brewers, L

Alexander

Lord Ashley of Stoke

The bite barony conferred on Mr Jack Ashley. CH, has been gazetted by the name, style and mile of Baxes Ashley of Stake, of Widnes in the County of Cheshire.

Telephone 071 481 4000

ANNOUNCEMENTS

litesed be the Lord, whose unfalling love for me was wonderful when I was in pore straits. Peakn 31:21 RES

BIRTHS

HOSCAWEN - On July 10th to Virginia unde Bearel and Nicholas, a daughter, a sister for Louisa BROWNE - On July 14th, to Juliet, wife of Benjamin - a BUCHANAN - On June Son

Alexander Hamilton
CARDALE - On July 10th. to Sue rine Groomi and Tork. a daughter. Tamsin Jame.
CLARKSON - On Monday
July 6th 1992, to Carol triee Huggins) and Nick, a son, Joshua. B brother for Benjamin, weighing 8lbs 202. HAYNES - On July 14th, to Uirlka (nee Hoist-Sande) and Nicholas, & son, Thomas Carl-Erik Lankesler. HETWOOD - Set Browns.

Hill - On July 5th, to Tracy (nee Smith) and Androw, a daughter, Sarah Louise. daughter. Sarah Louise.

KINDE - On Thursday July

9th. to Marianne tree

Wylson: and Jakob. a daughter. Alexandra. a sisler for Christian and Geraldine.

KRUCZYK - On July 10th. at the Humana Hospital

Wellington. to Mirrek and

Florence. a son Benjamin

Henry.

LOGUE - On July 9th. to

Eleanor tnee HydeThomson!, wife of Nell. a son. Michael Danie!

POPE - On July 5th 1992. at Lini ersity College Hospital.

to Rosemary thee Reidi and pulip. a son. William

REED - On July 7th 1992. at

REED - On July 7th 1992, at Epsom General Hospital, to Sarah Wilkins and Geoff, a son, Benjamin Louis, 7ths 2V:07.

von CELSING - On July 9th.
to Virginia and Hans. a son.
Christian Frederick

COLDEN ANNIVERSARIES

KIRKWOOD:COLLINGS
July 15th 1942 St Alban's Cathedral, Pretoria, Kenneth and Deborah by Very Revd CR Rumbold, Ocan Now
Oxford Ex unitate vires.

ABRAHMSOHN - On June 30th, Brett, aged 12. son of Glean and Jo, brother of Samantha, grandson of Zena and nephew of Trevor and Lisa, in Milami, Florida, after a courageous and long fought battle against leukaemia. To live in the hearts of those loved ones left behind is never to die.

BEEBY - On July 13th, Helen BEEBY - On July 1 3th. Helen Elizabeth. dear wrife of George Harry and mother of Valerie and the lale Roger Service at Randalis Park Crematorium, Leatherhead. on Monday July 20th at 2.50pm. Enquires and flowers. If desired, to James & Thomas Lid F/D. Mili Road. Cobham. Surrey, let: (0932) 862009

BIRKBECK - On July 9th Penelope Cladys (Ginger), widow of Ben Birkbeck, peacefully at home, in Mombasa. Kenya, in her 9dith year. Much lot ed skier, aunt and greet-aunt and sadily missed by everyone BOURNE - On July 13th, at St

Christian Frederick
WATTS - On July 2nd 1992.

To Gillian thee Gray) and Peter, a son. Thomas

GRISPIN - On July 12th, peacefully in hospital, wintifred, widow of Geoffrey Crispin Q.C., much loved mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. Private cremation followed by Thanksgiving Service at St. Paul's Church. Chipperfield. on Monday July 20th at 2.30 pm Family flowers only but donations if desired to N.W.H.R.A. Scanner Appeal, Hemel Hempstead. General Hospital.

BOURNE - On July 1.3th. at St Barthofomew's Hospital. Ruth Marian. much loved wife of Paul and Ireasured mother of Susan. Julia. Claire. Jonathan and James and deer grandmother The service will be held at St John's Church. Sevenoaks. Family flowers only please For Juli details contact W. Hodges (0732) 454457.

CARESS - On July 10th in hospital. Caro Caress OBE MA PhD. of Wetwyn Garden City. aged 88 years, beloved husband of iris and father of Robin and Sussan and the late Helen and Tony. grandfather and great-grandfather Cremation at West Herts Crematorium. Garsion. I pm on Friday July 17th No flowers please.

flowers please.

CLIFTOR - On July 11th 1992, peacefully at Bedford House. West Worthing. Joyce triee Marshall need 82 years, wife of the late John Clifton of Goring-by Sea Much lor ed sister of Grare. Joan and Martin and greath missed by Joan and Eric Sleedman, and her retainee and so many friends Dear Joyce. Cremation Service at 2 20 pm at Worthing Crematorium on Wednesday July 22nd By her request, no flowers, dynations to Alzheimers Disease Society C/o H.D. Tribe Lid., 136 Broadwater Road, Worthing, let: 109031 234516

SE COUNCY MORMAN - OF July 13th, peacefully after a courageous fight against cancer. David Hitary beloved husband of Diana and father of Louise. Vertis and Sophie, Funeral strictly private. Family only No flowers please, but if desired donations to The Radiotherapy Research and Benefit Fund, The Radiotherapy Dept., Charing Cross Hospital, London W6.

DOCKER - On July 13th
John Frederick, following a long illness and a well fought fight Much loved husband of Amazda and father of Sophie and William, Funeral Friday July 17th at St James's Church, Alveston, 10 30 am Close family duly please Thanksgiving Service to be arranged shortly Family flowers only, otherwise donallons to Imperial Cancer Research Fund, P.O. Box
123, 44/49 Lincolns inn
Fields, London WC2A 59X

FINDLAY - On July 13th 1992, peacefully at home. John Neil. Belowed husband of Kestrel, much ioved father of Max and Louise and grantifather of Polly, Owen. Anionia and Charite Funeral at St. Martin's Brasled, on Monday July 20th at 2 pm. No flowers please, donalions if desired to The Army Benevolent Fund.

GRIFFITHS - On July 11th, peacefully in hospital fellowing a stroke, the Revd John Whitmore. A K C. Ph.D., aged 79, belot of husband of Evelyn dearest father of Kil and Paula and proud grandfather of Frances. Saráh Melissa and Christopher John Funeral on Monday July 20th at 10 45em at St. Peter's Church. North Tawton, Devon. Family flowers only but donalions. Il desired, to Save the Chuldren Fund. 17 Grove Lare, Camberwell London SE6 SRD.

GERARD - On July 11th.

peacefully at home. Robert William Frederick Alwyn.
4th Baron of Bryn. Funeral at Widford Parish Church at 12 noon on Friday July 17th

LUDEMAN - On July 13th, peacefully after 2 long tilness, Joseph, aged 69, betoved husband of Joan and devoted father to Ketth, Jane, Elizabeth and their HARVEY - On July 12th Diana Eira Claude, widow of Dans Erra Caude, widow of Roger Edward Lennos. eldest daughter of Str Harry Mainwaring 5th Baronet recreated. Funeral arrange-ments to be announced. HISCOCK - On July 12th Norah, loyal and beloved wife of Bob and much loved mother of Peter, pracefulls at home Funeral at Boston Crematorium on July 20th at 2 pm

HOPKIRS - On July 14th, peacefully. Cocil William Mark. at The Maric Curie Clinic. Calerham Devoled husband of Chris father of Fiona, grandfather of Clive. Toby and Christopher. Service at Surrey and Sussex Crematorium. Tuesday July 21st at 215 pm Memorial Service Aberuthsen. 2 pm, Friday July 24th Family flowers, donations please, to Marie Curie. Calerham Enquiries to Stoneman (0737) 76:3356

IRONSIDE - On July 13th. Christopher. O B.E. F.R.B.S. F.S.I.A. aged 79. after a short illness, Deares husband of Jean, much loved and terrific father of Virginia. Kale, Sukle and Christiam. grandfather of Will. loved unche of the cousins Funeral Friday 17th 2pm. Christopher. Andover Memorial Service in London to be arranged (MIGHT - On July 1 th 1992. Sudden), Mick. aged 54 much loved husband of Math. beloved father or Christopher and Lorrane will be greatly missed by altamily and friends. Church Service at St Barnabus Church. 12 pm, followed by cremation Lawrence: On July 17th at 12.45 pm, followed by cremation Lawrence. On July 17th at 12.45 pm, followed by cremation Lawrence.

husband of the late Marione May, dearly lot ed father of Patricia and Roy, much admired grandfather of Richard, Andrew, Michaeta and Max Syrvice af Randalis. Park. Crematorium, Leatherhead, on Thursday July 16th at 11.30 am Enguirlei to Sherlock and Sons (0306) 882266

MATHER - On July 9th 1992, Derek Griffilh aged 70 years, dearly beloved husband of Mary, much beloved father of Rowena. Caroline and John, a dearly loved father-in-law and grandfather. Family flowers only Done tions if desired to S Ann's Hospice, Heald Green Service will take place on Friday July 17th at Dialstone Lane Methodist Church at 12.15 pm followed by committal at Stockport Crematorium at 1 pm All donations and enquiries c/o J & T Rhodes Lid., tel 10611 430-2094

MILLAR - On July 13th, peacefully in hospital, william James Kinnear Milliar, BA LLB. Bartister at Law and Bencher of Grays Inn. Funeral Service at St George's Church. Woodford Avenue. Ganis Hill. Blord. on Tuesday July 21st at 2pm followed by cremation at City of London Crematorium Aldersbrook Road. Manor Park. London E12 at 3.10pm. No flowers. donations if desired to Friends of St Francis Hospice C/o Mrs D Kirby. 14 St Edmunds Avenue. Cranbrook. Blord. Essev

NOCUSET - On July 10th 1992. Laurence L. of Little Waitham. Esses. in his 80th year, peacefully Dear grandfather. Formerly of the Foreign Office and the Board of Trade Journal (DTI) Senice, Chelmsford Crema torium 11 am July 20th

PARK - On July 13th 1992 John Raymond (Reverend Canon), peacefully at home, aged 81 Beloved husband of Eva. much loved father of David and Caroline, grandfather and UJ.
Requiem All Saints Churc...
Upper Pottleton, York, on Tuesday July 21st at 2.30 pm followed by cremation at York Crematorium No flowers please, donations if desired to Chust. Heart and Stroke Association Plate available at the Church iO756i 792173.

SMALLPEICE - On Sunday
July 12th, peacefully at Epsom Hospital. Str Besti Smallpeire KCVO, dearly loved husband of Rita.
Funeral at Christ Church, Esher. at 2.45 pm on Monday July 20th followed by private cremation Family flowers only. Donations, if desired to British Heart Foundation c/o James and Thomas. Mill Road, Cobham.
Surrey.

PRIZEMAN - On July 11th, peacefully al home, like a grandfather. Funeral at St. Bartholomew's Church. Albourno, Sussex. 2.30 pm. Thursday July 16th. Donations to Brighlom heart Support Trust. Royal Sussex. County Hospital, Brighlom.

RAVEN - On July 9th. suddenly. Marcia Joan aged 71 years. Beloved wife of the late. Este Kenneth ikeni. much loved mother of Jacqueline and Paula, grandmother to Keeley Ann. Lauren and Richard. Private cremation. All friends are welcome to a service to be County Hospital, Brighton.

RAVEN - On July 9th.

suddenly, Marcia Joan aged 71 years. Beloved wife of the late Lesile Kenneth (Ken), much loved mother of Jacqueline and Paula, grandmother to Keeley Ann.
Lauren and Richard, Privale cremation. All friends are welcome to a service to be held all SI Mary's Church, Hedgerley, Bucks. on Friday July 17th at 1 pm. Flowers please direct to the Church.

ROBINSON CO. Robert 18th.

ROBINSON CO. Robert 18th.

ROBINSON CO. Robert 18th. SHAW PORTER - On July 13th, peacefully in hospital. Cladys Hilda Shaw Porter, beloved wife of the late Robert Kime, a dear mother to Sarah Elizabeth and the late Robert Mark. Cremation Salisbury 945 am Friday July 17th: Service of Thankspiving Tuesday July 21st 2.30 pm al All Saints Church, Upper Clatford Flowers, but donations if desired to British Heart Foundation. All equipres to Andover Funeral Home, 2 Church Close, Andover, Hamis, IP10 10P, let: (2204) 334436. ROBINSON - On July 13th. Harold 'Robbie', lale of Clayhall. Ifford. Essex, aged 85. At Westminster Nursing Home, York. Family Juneral at St Thomas Parish Church, Osbaldwick, York, on July 22nd at 10 45 am. A Memorial Service will be beld in London in mid August, details will be announced next week. Flowers or donations for St John's Ambulance to Cooperative Funeral Directors, Cromwell Road, York.

SAVILL - On July 12th. at Airedale General Hospital Steeton, nr Keighley, West Yorishire, Kenneth aged 82 Years, of Garris House, Airton, nr. Skipton, North Yorkshire Loving husband of Cecity, loving father of Jeremy, Philippe and lotting brother of Guy. Funeral Friday July 17th, Service at St Michael's and All Angels Church, Kirkby Matham Skipton, at 3 pm prior to interment in the churchyard Family flowers only please, donations if desired in aid or Cancer Research will be received on plate provided at Church or c/o Howcrofts Funeral Services, Duckett Street, Skipton, North Yorkshire, BD23 2EJ or tel (0756) 792173.

SMALLPEICE - On Sunday July 12th, peacefully at ROBINSON - On July 13th. 334436.

WOODS - On July 13th.
Margaret Murray Infe
Owen!. peacefully at Hemplonfield. Lower Icknield Way. Calnnor.
Oxon. aged 100. mother of the Laie Elison Woods. grandmother of Git. and great-grandmother of James.
Hattle and Simon. Family flowers only Service at Headington Crematorium,
Oxford. at 11 48 am Monday
July 20th.
WERELIT. On Indu 9th 1992

July 20th.

WRIGHT - On July 9th 1992.
In Greenwich. Comm. peacefully after courageously building her long liness.
Mary, much loved wife of Christopher and adored mether of Szran. Cabir ami
Christopher. Momorial Service in England on August 1st. Donaldoss please to Cancer Research. MEMORIAL SERVICES

IVEASM - A Service of Thanksgiving for the Life of the Eart of Iveagh will be held at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster Abbey on Wednesday July 22nd et noon. Tickels are not required. All are welcome.

MEMORIAL SERVICES LE POER TRENCH - A Sirvice of Thanksgiving for the afe-of Patricia Le Podr Trench, will be held in S. Nithola, Collegane Church, Galviny, Elre, on Monday July 2781 1992 dt 11.50 ftm. IN MEMORIAM * PRIVATE sent by Heaven Broin 13th May 1921 to 18th Jay 1965, parted in body but everiasting together in spirit. I am yours and you are nime until the Stars Forget to Shine. Henry. LEGAL NOTICES

CARE SOFTWARE
TECHNOLOGY LTD AND CARE
RYTERACTIVE SOFTWARE,
TECHNOLOGY LTD AND CARE
RYTERACTIVE SOFTWARE,
TECHNOLOGY LTD AND CARE
RYTERACTIVE SOFTWARE,
TECHNOLOGY LTD AND CARE
TECHNOLOGY LTD AND CAR

Joint Administrative Holomber

Disse Ann Lair E.

Motice is hereby division of the following and to Section 90 of the laid.

Section 90 of the laid.

Yeary Act 1996, then a helder-senior of the section of the laid.

Joint to Section 90 of the part 1998 at 11 30 a.m. for the part 1992 at 11 30 a.m. for the part

Telefax 071 782 7827

LEGAL NOTICES The handwency Act 1986 TEMPO SYSTEMS

© CONFROLS LLMTED
(In Liquination)
FOR 2 1-5-21
That Persice John Roper F.LP.A.

of 4. Chartestropice Square London Lettington of the Sald Company of Confession
Confession
Confession
Confession
Confession
Confession
Confession

The Alberta Marketine THE INSCLVENCY ACT 1986
ANTIONY DAVIES ASSOCIATES LIMITED
POTICE IS HERESTY GIVEN
PURSUANT IN SECTION 98 of the Reblyonich Act 1986 that a Charlestolide Section 98
Local Section 1986
Local Section 98
Local McCon 1986
L PERSONAL APPEARS IN LIFE & TIMES SECTION the desiration because Front Processing of the sale Act who will furnish Creation with the confidence of the sale Act who will furnish creations with slucil information as they may require. DATED this and they of July 1982 BY ORDER OF THE BOARD AS ORDERS OF THE BOARD AS CREATED THE SALE OF THE SOURCE OF THE S PAGE 11

100 4 300 A STATE OF THE STA

Answers from page 16

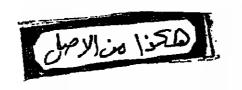

IMPENNOUS

(c) Having 35 wings, from the Latin int- privative + stant a wings. As executing in reckoned amongst intermore insects by many. DECOMEASED .... (b) Behended, from the Latin secolars to cut off at the needs "histonic of turning of the lights, he would libraries his ratiting face with a pocket-torch, a detailment built's head brave above a kind of heli-

STERTILE AND THE (b) A variant form of startle; Authory Burgess, Editor Product Startle thunder contrasted terribly. Specific he said with sober contrasted.

CHAOCENOUS CHAOGENOUS

(ii) Jurising out of classe, fishing the Greek chaos +
gaments is aging or become or any born: "Chaogenous drains of revenue were faming in his serpent brain."

OBITUARIES .

fluty is

WAR SHOWN

Action 1994

1 1 mm

-4° (-)

PART (VE)

THE PARTY OF THE P

建设持续

建华 27 N L

Mr. Marie

M. MARKET

羅美 彩練 1

AND REPORT !

ssed

直接数 ボンコン

bridge

1119

Property of the second

CAMARÓN DE LA ISLA

José Monge Cruz, a talented flamenco singer known to his fans as Camarón de la Isla, died on July 2 aged 41 in Badalona in northeast Spain. He was born on the Island of San Fernando in southwest Spain.

JOSE Monge Cruz was the most celebrated flamenco singer of his time, a cantaor who dominated all the styles of this musical genre: bulerias, fandangos, alegrias, seguiriyas and the rest. Curiously he first rose to fame as a revolutionary in the Spanish music world because of his experimental songs linking rock and flamenco; yet his subsequent reputation was based on his unparalleled domination of classic

A small, shy man who did his best to avoid the publicity which his talent invevitably provoked, he genuinely loved music, and above all the kind of music which is in the soul of every Spanish Gypsy. Monge had what the Spaniards call duende, a spark of genius. Temperamental as a prima donna, he reputedly rejected many lucrative con-tracts, occasionally refused to show up for scheduled performances and sometimes walked off the stage after only the briefest of appearances. Camaron's abuse of drugs, heroin and cocaine, may have been a cause or an effect of that aspect of his personality. He lived life to the hilt, and, in true gypsy fashion, he mistrusted physicians; when in need, he consulted faith-heal-ers and "wise" men or women. He was aware, however, at least since May, that he had lung cancer, yet even then he continued to smoke heavily. His wife, Dolores 'Chispa' Montoya, remarked that, while he was only 41, he had lived more than most people who reach the age of 80.

Although he did not quail at the prospect of singing night-club style flamenco. complete with orchestra and chorus. Camaron seldom looked at his audience in such circumstances. Head down, his hands marking the his wife, rhythm, he looked up only when he rose to acknowledge applause. In other places, in circumstances more belitting the often spontaneous char-acter of "deep" flamenco, he would glance from time to time at his guitarist. Tomatito, also a talented gypsy musician, and raise his head to take in the audience. He did not like to sing unless he felt empathy with his audience. Although he commanded high fees for his recitals, he often gave the impression that he was not as concerned about money as about his music. He would frequently ask his intimate friends after a performance: "Did you like

An uncle unwittingly gave him his stage name, "Camaron de la Isla", when he was still a boy, likening him, because of his pale complexion, to the big shrimp in the waters surrounding the island of San Fernando where he was born. Although he died young, his career was long. He began singing as a child, swapping songs for tips aboard the trams which linked Cadiz, San Fernando and Chiclana He got his start as a real professional in his early teens. performing along with other singers, dancers and guitarists at a tavern known as the Venta de Vargas. Soon after-wards he headed for Madrid where for several years he formed part of the flamenco show at Torres Bermejas, a night chub. It was there that he began to attract the attention of critics, flamenco buffs and rock fans.

Cameron made about 20 records, only a minority of which would be classed by purists as unadulterated flamenco. Despite his habits and his temperament, Cameron was not only admired for his talent, he was loved by his fans. Somehow they sensed his need for their heartfelt approval when he launched into the hourse laments of flamenco, switching from one tone to another with uncommon ability.

José Monge is survived by

CHRISTOPHER IRONSIDE

Christopher Ironside, the painter and designer of the obverse side of Britain's decimal coinage, died in Winchester Hospital on July 13 aged 79. He was born on July 11, 1913.

THE world of coin designers is generally quiet and anony-mous. Within it Christopher Ironside was an exception: he was undoubtedly a character, inclining to the flamboyant. When the news of the new decimal coins, and the rumour that he had designed the obverse with the national emblems of the United Kingdom, leaked out in 1967 he was totally delighted with the slightly invidious position this put him in. He was to be found giving expansive interviews to the papers, refusing exactly to confirm that he was responsible, but equally refus-ing to deny. Chatting about his various other coin designs (for Tanzania, Brunei and two Gulf states), he observed that he never signed them, because it would spoil the

Anette Fischer, chairman of Amnesty International's international executive committee, died aged 45

July 13, 1946.

design and it would be arrogant to do so. Then, he added gleefully, there was a third reason: it was even more arrogant not to do so. Apart from their longevity, the coin designs were perhaps not so remarkable purely as design, though his later un-successful litigation, when he sued the Mint for additional royalties, added to their notoriety. Much of his other work was along similar lines to the decimal coinage: he latterly specialised in medailions for institutions like the Tower of London, clocks, coats of arms and tapestries, and memorials such as that for the Earl and Countess Mountbatten in Westminster Abbey. But he began as a painter, and a very painterly painter at that.

His two main painting shows, at the Redfern Gallery in 1944 and at Arthur Jeffress in 1960, were in fact shared with his elder brother Robin. But though they were personally close and even sometimes collaborated on theatrical designs, postage ate of Camouflage. He stamps (including one of the worked for the Air Ministry 1964 Shakespeare commemoration issue) and even one or with a number of other painttwo paintings, their talents ers in Learnington Spa. were in many ways radically dissimilar. While Robin's When peace was declared work was all delicacy, grace and a slightly surreal fantasy, he found himself in charge of the education section of the Council for Industrial Design. He gave this up in 1948 in view of his increasing number of design commissions, which included much of the decoration of Pail Mail for the Coronation in 1953. From 1953 to 1963 he taught part-time at the Royal College of Art, and was appointed OBE in 1971.

Famously handsome and sociable, Christopher Ironside had considerable charm. He often dressed to match his dark good looks, favouring white suits. He was married twice, to

Janie Acheson, by whom he had a daughter, the columnist and novelist Virginia Ironside, and, after that marriage was dissolved in 1961 to Jean Marsden, by whom he had one son and two tee, composed of elected

volunteers oversees this work

Anette Fischer's task was to steer this body on a careful course that balanced the continuously growing demands of a vigorous voluntary movement with the conflicting realities confronted daily by the professionals. To this sensitive task she brought knowledge and skills gained in Amnesty International for more than 20 years. She remained sure of her objectives

Her role for Amnesty International took her into a world of suffering and pain. She was all too aware of tragedies resulting from torture and other punishment, political killings, extrajudicial execu-tions and "disappearances".

and was interested in cultivating grass-roots activity.

working as a volunteer between councils.

APPRECIATIONS

Anne, Countess of Rosse

OF ALL those whose families have given their houses and gardens to the National Trust, Lady Rosse (obituary, July 11) was one whose contribution to the continuing development of the garden was most keenly felt. She and Lord Rosse, who himself was a major figure in the National Trust, played a vital role in the garden at Nymans after it passed to the Trust on her father's death in 1953.

Whereas a house may be preserved more or less unchanged, a garden needs a creative mind in almost daily charge of it if the changes imposed by growth and decay are not to impair its quality and character. Anne Rosse at once understood this and the importance of retaining, wherever possible, the direction of a garden in the hands of a single individual possess-ing the skill and the eye to carry forward the work of the garden's creators.

She never ceased to remind anyone in danger of forgetting it that "depersonalisation", as she called it, was the fate of gardens run by institutions and she was determined to avoid this at Nymans. Accordingly she formally assumed, with the Trust's ready agreement, the role of director of the garden. enthusiastically supported by her husband, Michael. They were both admirable, experienced gardeners and their knowledge, their taste and their dedication to Nymans, combined with the devoted work of their head gardener, Mr Nice, maintained Nymans as a garden of which the standards matched the renown.

Anne Rosse showed remarkable resillience in old age when the storm of 1987 struck Nymans and inflicted some of the worst damage suffered by any National Trust garden. She will be remembered with affection and admiration by all those who worked with her at Nymans.

Lord Gibson

DURING the war I was privileged to meet Anne, Countess of Rosse at a little inn in Wincanton, where she and her husband, Michael Rosse, (who was serving with the Irish Guards) and my husband (serving in the Scots ano i staveo wner the 32nd Brigade was stationed at Charlton Musgrove. I got to know Anne well, and to love and admire her. She was personally warmhearted and very understanding and kind to me at that time when I was expecting my first child.

She gave impeccable and inimitable little dinner parties at the inn in Wincanton with always white flowers adoming the table. She and her husband came to stay with us in a house we shared called Grove House, Semiley, near Shaftesbury. this just before the birth of my first child and again she was wonderfully supportive and understanding. Michael and Anne were a unique couple complementing each other in every way, intellectually and artistically. They used to send wonderful Christmas cards with a piece of extra dark green tissue paper to preserve the reproduction.

July 15

ON THIS DAY

We kept in touch with them over the years; they were equally lovely to the old - my parents - as they were to the young — my eldest child who was Michael's god-daughter.
Anne came to the French embassy when my husband was given the Legion d'Honneur. This last month we visited the Church of St Martin's at Womersley and saw the most beautiful alabaster plaque executed by Simon Verity - in memory of Michael Rosse, and were told that "and his wife Anne" would be added when the time came, as it has now

I remember when Michael had his last illness I spoke to Anne on the telephone, and she said: "I am remembering all the good times."

Her brother, Oliver Messel died at this time, and soon afterwards her daughter Susan, whose wedding my mother and I attended years ago when Anne designed and sewed every stitch of her daughter Susan's wedding

Anne was unique, exquisite and talented. She enhanced her memorable Victorian home in Stafford Terrace and beautiful Nymans and was an inspiration to all.

Lady Meyer

noi-

·ST.

ths ich

.75

au-

ıan

ing

œw

me

æ

ᆀare on

YOUR obituary of Anne. though it is, omits to mention several of her other achievements. In particular, no mention is made of the Victorian Society of which she was the founder in 1958. The first meetings took place in the drawing room of her grandfather's remarkable house at 18, Stafford Terrace, Kensington. This is now Linley Sambourne House, and is run as a house museum by the Victorian Society. The preservation of the extraordinary late 19th century interiors of this house will surely be Anne Rosse's most lasting

Christopher Wood

1965

EDMUND SKONE JAMES

Edmund Purcell Skone James, barrister, died on June 23 aged 65. He was born on June 14, 1927...

FOR the last half century the name Skone James has been synonymous with copyright law. It was the field of both Edmund Skone James and his father. They practised from the same room in the same Chambers, and Copinger and Skone James on Copyright, the undertaking of both, was an authority for all those needing information and guidance on the subject. Edmund Skone James's advice was sought internationally. He covered the whole field of literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works from the classic to the comic. His professional life spanned a period of vast change and he saw the impact made by modern technology on the copyright field. As a member of the 1977 Copyright Committee, Skone James was all for any possible simplification of what had become by that time an overcomplex mixture of statute and case law.

He was understandably disappointed to find, when embarking on the latest edition of Copinger, that, in spite of all recommendations, the legislature appeared still to be capable of making things even more difficult.

The son of Francis Edmund Skone James, Edmund was educated at Westminster School and New College, Oxford. He was commissioned in the RASC during his nat-ional service and in 1951 was called to the Bar in the Middle Temple where in 1977 he becarne a bencher. In the last few months, like his father before him, he was head of his chambers. He was associated with Copinger and Skone James on Copyright from its 9th edition in 1958 to the 13th in 1991. He is survived by his wife, son and daughter.

with her husband in a car crash in Florence on July 11. She was born Anette Klausen in Copenhagenon INSPIRED by what she saw of the powerlessness of the oppressed, Anene Fischer devoted herself to promoting preventative measures to counter human rights violations. She believed it was not enough to react emotionally to such violations — practical steps had to be taken to prevent them.

For this goal of prevention, Anette Fischer was a driving force behind Amnesty International's efforts to promote human rights education. She played a key role in furthering programmes in Asia, Africa, South America, the Middle East and the Caribbean. She was instrumental in decisions to locate regional human rights resources centres in Bangkok and Costa Rica. The aim was to teach people about, among other things, their own rights and the opportunities to get redress for violation of them.

career lecturing at the Royal Danish School of Librarianship in the early 1970s and had her first taste of work abroad in Dar es Salaam between 1972 and 1974 for the Danish Association for International Cooperation. She joined the Danish section of Amnesty International as a volunteer in 1969. Rapidly she became noted for her dedication, sometimes, after Anette Fischer began her a day at work, spending until 1 3 am preparing posters and national executive comp campaign materials for mailing. From 1983 to 1989 she was a member of the board of the Danish section, and its chairman from 1986 to 1989. Her section frequently chose her as a delegate to the movement's governing inter-national council. In 1989 the council elected her to the international executive committee, which oversees the movement in between councils, and last year she was elected chairman of the committee Anette Fischer's position on

Christopher's was, from the first, much broader and grander in scale with a real feeling for the sweeping landscape, whether in oils or in watercolour, which brought him comparisons with Steer.

on whom Robin wrote a monograph. Although he was labelled an academic realist, critics were not niggardly with their praise of his masterly handling of his medium and his sure feeling for deco-career in a fairly traditional way. He studied at the Central School of Arts and Crafts and was just getting profes-sionally started at the outbreak of the second world war. In common with many artists, during much of the war he served in the Director-

Ironside came to this dual rative effect.

ANETTE FISCHER

the international executive committee put her into a crucial Amnesty International role. There is a formidable organisation structure with which she coped deftly. The committee is elected by the movement's governing international council, a gathering of representatives from all sections throughout the world which meets biennially to determine Amnesty International's policies and set priorities. The council, representing the volunteer movement, makes the decisions while the international secretariat, the professional executive headquartered in London, coordinates their implementation. The inter-

And she remained an idealist in the face of often indiscriminate actions by those who violated human rights.

She was married in 1972 to Carl Eli Fischer, an electrical technician. They loved Italy, where they died. They were returning from a trip on which they had been seeking to buy a house with a group of friends.

European touch at flower show

Horticulture

By ALAN TOOGOOD, HORTICULTURE CORRESPONDENT

AMONG the more innovative exhibits at the Royal Horticultural Society's flower show, which opened yesterday, is a display of flower arrangements representing European countries.

Staged by the National Association of Flower Arrangement Societies, of London, all the exhibits have been created from summer flowers and foliage. The Italian offering is in a terracorta urn; the Irish design is all green: Great Britain's is a large triangular display of summer flowers; and Belgium's a formal vertical arrangement.

Members of the RHS Lily Group have come up with a different way of displaying lilies. They are arranged with the light and airy flowers of grasses, which contrast well with the solid, heavy lily flowers. Consisting mainly of trumpet or Aurelian lilles, there is also a selection with Turk's cap flowers, including Mr Jim Eaton's second generation of North Hybrids, in shades of orange and red.

A collection of ornamental grasses and grass-like plants illustrating the range available is being shown by Hoecroft Plants, of Dereham. Norfolk. As well as variegated, "blue", green, bronze and flowering grasses, there are some unusual viviparous kinds which produce plantlets on their flower stems - more novel than attractive, though the foliage of the parent plants is good. Those being shown are Festuca vivipara, which has a cascade of plantlets on arching stems and fine green leaves; Poa x jemtlandica with large clusters of plantlets and deep green erect foliage; and Deschampsia alpina whose plantlets are carried on tall erect stems above a fountain of deep Woodstock Orchids and Exotics, of Great Brickhill, Buckinghamshire, are showing some new miniature phalaenopsis orchids with speckled flowers in various colours. Also a new miniature dendrobium named 'White Heickhen'. with sprays of small, white, purplelipped flowers. Both are ideal for growing on windowsills indoors.

Moisture-loving and aquatic plants have been artistically staged by Rowden Gardens, of Brentnor, Devon. A particularly eye-catching group consists of Ligularia przewalskii with tall spikes of yellow flowers, and Dierama pulcherrima (wand flower) with mauve flowers on arching stems, both excellent poolside plants.

The RHS summer fruit and vegetable competition is also being held. There is a revival of interest in this event, entries having doubled over the past two or three years, with some of the top vegetable growers returning — and all because the prize money has been doubled. In the fruit division, Mr J.I. Uren. of Sawley. Derbyshire, won the class for six dishes of fruits, and the Hayes and District of Hythe, Hampshire, won the classes for six and four kinds of vegetables. In both he is showing huge Prizetaker leeks with at least 18 inches of blanched stem. Mr J. B. Holohan, of Hornsey. north London, won the class for recently introduced cultivars of potatoes with the pink-flushed 'Rubinia'

AND THE RESERVE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

Horticultural Society took the affiliated societies class. In the vegetable division, Mr J. Trim.

The British National Carnation Society's summer competition is much reduced as many flowers are over because of the earliness of the season. It consists of perpetual-flowering and border carnations and pinks. In the six-bloom classes for perpetuals, Woodfield Brothers, of Stratford-upon-Avon, Warwickshire, won the George Munro cup with the white John Falkener, also judged best vase in these classes.

Sir George Terry, of Polegate, East Sussex, won the George Allwood goblet for most points in the division for three stems of pinks. His exhibits include the double white cultivar 'Haytor', judged best vase. This cultivar is also being shown by Mr G. D. Giddy, of Halesworth, Suffolk, in the class for 12 stems, gaining for him the M. C. Allwood cup, and a silver medal card for best vase. The show, in the New Honicultural Hall, Greycoat Street, Westminster, is open today from 10am to 5pm.

Appointments

Latest appointments include: Lord Justice Kennedy to be a member of the Privy Council on his appointment as a Lord Justice of Appeal.

Sir Peter Swinnerton-Dyer, FRS, to be Chairman of the Secretary of State for National Heritage's advisory committee, the Library and Information Services Council, from October 1. He succeeds Mr Royston Brown.

Mr John Burn. Headmaster of Longbenton Community School. Newcastle upon Tyne. Dr John Marks. Director of the Educational Research Centre, London, and Professor Alan Smithers, Director of the Centre for Education and Employment Research, Manchester University, to be members of the National Curriculum Council.

The Rev John Gordon Haslam to be Regional Chairman of Indus-Tribunals for the Birmingham region from August 3. He will succeed Mr Richard Smith, who will be retiring on July

Latest wills

Lord Havers, of London SW10. former Lord Chancellor and Attorney General, left estate valued at between £70,000 and 000,0013

Mr Stanley Douglas Lyon, of Whitby, North Yorkshire, a for-mer deputy chairman of ICI, left estate valued at £209,229 net. He left £5,000 to Danby Parochial

One of Lord Northcliffe's innovations when he became proprietor of The Times was the Court Page article.
Originally written by the staff it soon became the preserve of the amateur. In such hands li was always agreeable, sometimes hilarious, occasionally sentimental and never dull. In 1966 it was dropped, much to the regret of many readers.

Splash into the South China Sea

Had Wordsworth ever made a parachute descent, he would have cherished that serene and blessed moment when the canopy develops, the roaring of the disappearing aircraft is sud-denly stilled, and the earth swings far below. Soon there will be rude bellowings from the loud hailer, and the earth, defying the laws of Newton. will smite one with great force from an unexpected angle: but the moment of peace, while it lasts, is intense and trancelike. and the nature mystics are the parachutist's brothers. I had made a few such descents in places as far apart as Rawalpindi and Oxfordshire, when a sadistic instructor suggested that I try one into the English Channel in January. Two years later the chance came again and this time it was in Singapore. Further, the descent was to be made from a helicopier, which eliminated most of the strenuous hangur training and the elephants' dancing-school drills that are considered necessary inside large aircraft. We rose at 4 a.m. — which always seems to be necessary. even if the descent is timed for the afternoon - and by 7 o'clock the Command Navigation Officer and I, bowed down with parachutes, Mae Wests. and devices whose use we only dimly understood, were hoisted aboard a naval helicopter by our professional R.A.F. dis-patcher. Our tumbril had net-ther seats nor safety belts, so we squared on the floor.

The sea was calm at the dropping zone and two launches idled beside it, waiting to pick us out of the water. "Action stations, No. 1 pair!" bawled the dispatcher above the roar of the engine: there was no other pair, but procedures are procedures. I stood up, and was promptly told to sit down. The Command Navigation Officer, who was to go first, propelled himself in a sitting position across the cabin floor to the open doorway. His hands clasped the sill. his feet stuck out into space, and he glared straight ahead in the approved manner. The red light came on. The green light, which should have followed within five seconds did not Eternity - another half minute - passed. Another. And yet another, "What do I do?" bawled the Command Navigation Officer. It's all right. Sir", yelled the dispatcher, avoiding the question. The victim's mouth opened again. Retreat and rebellion were plainly in his mind. But the green light came on, and the Command Navigation Officer vanished into space even as he gave unerance.

My own departure was unexciting, and the blessed moment came, alone in the heavens. I floated meditatively down to the South China Sea 'Rhubarb!", roared the loud hailer. I must be doing something wrong even now. A gentle splash, the clamber into the launch, the unavoidable cup of rea, and back to Changi in a truck full of the Command Navigation Officer and his some electrical fault caused the red light to stay on so long, perhaps? His cold eye suggested that it was not for the R.A.F. to question the electrical arrangements of the Royal Navy, but he replied amiably enough: "No, old boy, I was waiting for the biggest shark I've ever seen in my life to swim

m-DΩ ær 福

dripping parachute.
There I mei the pilot. Had

Brewers' Company

The following have been elected officers of the Brewers' Company for the ensuing year: Master, Mr M.G. Delahooke, Upper Wanden, Mr J.H. Morgan: Middle Warden, Mr M.J. Griffiths: Remer Wanden, Mr P 1 Transer. Warden, Mr R.I. Turner.

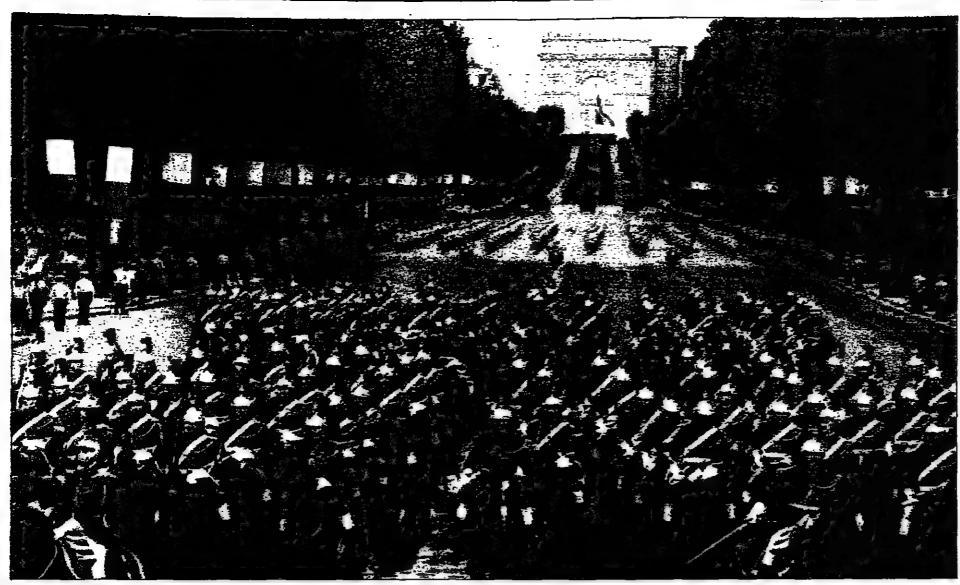

BIRTHS: Inigo Jones, architect. London. 1573; Rembrandt, painter, Leiden, The Nether-lands. 1606; Henry Edward Manning, cardinal archbishop of Westminster 1865 to 1892. Tayreidas, Herfordshire, 1808; Toneridge, Hertfordshire, 1808;

Anniversaries

Alfred Harmsworth. 1st Viscount Northcliffe, proprietor of The Times 1908-22, Dublin, 1865. DEATHS: James Scott, Duke of Monmouth, illegitimate son of Charles II, executed London, 1685; John Wilson, botanist. Kendal, Cumbria, 1751; Jean Antoine Houdon, sculptor, Paris. 1828; Carl Czerny, pianist and music teacher, Vienna, 1857; Amon Chekhov, dramatist, Badenweiler, Germany, 1904; Hugo von Hofmannsthal, poet and dramatist, Vienna, 1929;

Washington, 1948; Paul Gallico. novelist. Canada, 1976. The Royal Society received its charter, 1662. Napoleon Bonaparte surrendered to the captain of HMS Bellerophon, 1815. Charist riots in Bermingham. 1839. The National Insurance Act came into force in Britain. 1912. Today is Saint Swithin's

John Pershing, c-in-c of American troops in the first world war.

Parisian pomp: Republican Guards ride down the Champs Elysees yesterday in a parade by 4,200 men and women to mark Bastille day. EC "yes" essential, page 9

Dutch look for a way to get rid of their art mountain

FROM TOM WALKER IN THE HAGUE

ALONG with the butter mountain, the Dutch government now has a more arcane problem: an "art mountain' of 200,000 unwanted paintings, sculptures, tapestries and other creations.

For years, the government paid artists of indifferent talent in a vain attempt to keep alive the tradition of Van Gogh. Though the Dutch did not then realise it, this was the first example of European Community set-aside policy: paying people to do nothing

Now the Netherlands Office for the Fine Arts is fed up with storing all this unwanted genius and is looking for someone to take it off their hands. Six years after the scheme was stopped, the bureau is embarking on a 1 million guilder (£300,000) scheme to foist the stored art on public institutions, such as hospitals, schools and government offices.

The idea behind the liberal largesse between 1956 and 1986 was to display the art in public spaces, but the welfare art programme soon spiralled out of hand and government warehouses statted filling up. Artists of dublous talent were making up to 30,000 guilders a year for works that will never be saleable.

Having become wary of media speculation as to the destiny of the "art" - Italian newspapers had alleged that Hedy D'Ancona, the Dutch minister for culture, was going to burn the lot - the office has decided to open its warehouses to the curious. "It's a bad legacy for us," admitted Jacob de Jong, the Office's head curator, as we wandered through garishlycoloured tapestries woven in somewhat freestyle fashion, now hanging in a warehouse in a suburb of The Hague.

The first "painting" we ex-amined was called "King Emperor," dated 1973. It depicted a god-like head hang-ing in limbo, a red arrow pointing to one temple and a stream of custard-textured paint spilling out of the opposite ear. "It can function as quite a nice decoration," protested Mr de Jong, noticing the winces of his audience.

The artist of a 1974 painting featuring a snake, a spi-der and a leopard at least had the decency to call it "A Bad Dream." Mr de Jong explained: "The artist is looking through a looking glass into a dream world . . . apparently. We moved on to a 1975 montage entitled "Good Morning, Cupboard."

Ministers ready to raise rates

Continued from page 1 that surveys by the Organisation for Economic Coopera-tion and Development and the London Business School had forecast recovery would be under way from the second quarter of this year.

When Mr Kinnock argued that "perpetuating recession with high unemployment in an attempt to suppress infla-tion" had all the features of the slump of the 1930s, Mr Major told MPs: "I know it is not easy. I know it is uncomfortable. I know it is irustrating when that growth does not immediately appear. But I am determined to stick to policies that I believe are in our medium and long-term

Final questions, page 8 A leader misjudged, page 12 Political sketch, page 16

Croatia says refugees may be sent to West

Continued from page 1 interpreted as an appeal for help. The international community must share the burden. Croatia is at breaking point in terms of its own resources and if they [potential donor countries] don't do something immediately, the Croats may well start trucking them up to the borders," she said.

Leaders of Bosnia's three warring factions yesterday agreed to unconditional talks in London with Lord Carrington, the European Community's peace envoy. Haris Silajdzic, Bosnia-Herzegovi-na's foreign minister, Radovan Karadzic, the main Serb political leader, and Marte Boban, a leader of Bosnia's Croat community, will hold separate talks with Lord Carrington today. After this initial contact, José Cutileiro, a Portuguese diplomat and EC mediator, will also have separate talks with them in the hope of moving to joint negotiations.

In Washington, the Pentagon said that a US Navy cruiser had locked its fire radar on suspected Yugoslav military planes four times in the past few days, after the aircraft descended towards two naval ships off Yugoslavia. It was not immediately clear whether the planes had intended to attack the USS Biddle and the USS heo Jima. The warships are providing radar and communications support for American relief flights into the besieged airport at Sarajevo.

British doctors and nurses were yesterday flying out to help sick and wounded children trapped in Sarejevo. The South Manchester Accident and Rescue Team was to leave Manchester for the Croatian capital of Zagreb.

Panic in charge, page 9

Political sketch

Kinnock's sun

A strologers may know which suns and stars were colliding in distant constellations yesterday; for within a few hours Neil Kinnock made his final appearance at Westminster as leader of the Opposition; Denis Healey, the nearly-leader, took his seat in the Lords; and Geoffrey Howe, whose knife in his leader's hack installed our present back installed our present PM, depriving Mr Kinnock of the ultimate prize, joined Lord flealey, in ermine. It is aways a poignant moment when a Labour MP goes to the Lords, With apologies to J.M. Barrie I suspect that every time a socialist becomes a baron a little fairy somewhere dies.

I know nothing of Denis Healey's principles and do not think him treacherous but still I was put in mind of a poem by William Kean Seymour, written long ago. Let me be thankful, God, that I am not A Labour Leader when his life work ends, Who contemplates the coronet he got,

By being false to principles and friends;

Who fought for forty years a desperate fight With words that seared and stung and slew like

And at the end, with victory in sight.

over in the Lords.
Over in the Commons,
Neil Kinnock was squaring up for his final spat with the prime minister. This was the Commons' last PM's questions before the

After this Saturday, a new Labour leader will be installed.

As usual at Westminster when the moment is solemn and the mood dignified, something silly happened to spoll it. The something silly was, in this case, John Bowis (C. Battersea), first to question Mr

It is not that Mr Bowis is inherently silly. He is a ca-pable chap whose girth has grown with his growing Commons reputation. Nor was there anything inher-ently silly about his question. It was the marriage of this question with this questioner which caused mirth.

"Does my Rt Hon friend agree," said Mr Bowis, his tummy seeming to swell enquiry, his buttons almost strologers may know which suns and stars ere colliding in distant instellations yesterday: rwithin a few hours Neil innock made his final appearance at Westminster leader of the Opposition; leader of the Opposition; leader of the pearlyful disquisition on the need to keep inflation — retail price inflation, that is — in

1.30

$1.50°

271

1

4.67

د در المسلم عليه مالهواد

胸中

145

78

r jedi Sarti

1

1.30

3.3

-

check. Then came Neil Kinnock. He rose. Jocular shouts of "resign!". Then mood changed Mr Kinnock wan-ted to know where the eco-nomic recovery that the PM had promised had gone.

It was a simple, serious question, simply and seri-ously put. It was one of his best. It struck me that asking a serious question, without "spin", is one of the few tacks Mr Kinnock the few tacks Mr Kinnock has never really tried. He has tried gravitas, which is quite another thing, and in-spired only giggles. He has tried humour, and pro-voked only scorn. He has tried long questions, and been mocked for long-windedness; and he has tried short questions, and been dismissed as gimerack. But yesterday he indicated to the PM what everyone knew was a real problem, and played it straight.

Mr Major commenced his reply with a graceful tribute. "Generous," the press will call it, but of course it costs a PM nothing and goes down well. It was nicely done. John Ma-jor is a foxier fellow than at first we knew.

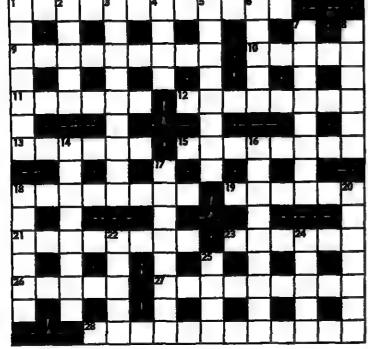

Kinnock replied that It had been an honour to serve his country in this way, and repeated his ques-tion about the economy, reinforcing it with examples. Major remarked that he and Kinnock shared common goals but differed as to means. By now the goodwill was becoming tiresome. MPs fidgeted.

Kinnock reminded Major that he was equally sin-cere, and Major gently suggested that at least they could agree about that. MPs began looking to-wards doors and windows for escape routes ... And it was over, very dig-nified. Nothing became his office like the leaving of it. One remembers with similar affection Mrs Thatcher's marvellous exit. Like a giorious tropical sunset, a resigning politician is a beautiful sight.

MATTHEW PARRIS

THE TIMES CROSSWORD NO 18.971

- as Lady Bountiful? (12).
- 9 Turning aside from amusement
- 10 Dread loss of opener to slip (5). 11 Brought back Egyptian costume
- 12 Insincere, like Janus, perhaps (3-13 Cue for reappearance to sing a
- 15 Leopard seen by lair in grass (8). 18 Dweller in desert is nomadic (8).
- 19 The game may be up for him (6) 21 Instrument relating to reform
- 23 Plastic factory closing about one
- 26 He arranged notes in subtle harmonies (5).
- 27 Miner working in gallery is cut off (9). 28 He was buttonholed on the way to a Union meeting (7-5).

Solution to Puzzle No 18,970 COPPER SPORTING
O A L F H E M L
MORTISE RELAPSE
P S M L E Y E A LONGISLAND IRON
A I N E W I LMPEACH TWILLED
N F E CYCLOPS
E D V H D T

- 1 Hounds or what they may seek
- 2 Service upset about female entry? By no means! (5).
- 3 Agitator appeared to inspire fb
- Chastened husband in police custody (4). 5 Noted architect beheaded, hav-
- ing confessed (8). 6 Women not wanted on this board
- 7 Zone in which soldiers join supreme commander in exercises
- 8 Sleeping accommodation available for small charge (6). State with very little illumination
- superior position (9).
- 17 Puffed-up learner defiant when
- baby (6).
- 20 Withdraw to sanctuary (7). 22 Tender found by railwaymen on
- Conscious respect surrounding rising artist (5).
- 25 Brownie leader bolted cereal (4). This puzzle was solved within 30 minutes by 61 per cent of the competitors at the 1992 London B regional final of The Times InterCity Crossword Championship. Concise crossword, page 11 Life & Times section

By Philip Howard IMPENNOUS a. Poverty-stri b. Uverhangu c. Wingless DECOLLATED

STERTILE c. The arch of a filed real

Answers on page 14 A SECONDARY BY LESS FOR Burk Buys 2,85 2,170 61,70 62,71,90 61,70 62,70 61,70 62,70 62,70 61,77 62,75 Benk Sufe 19.80 Sr.30 12.245 10.75 7 10.75 2.76 340.00 14.40 10.97 235.25 175.50 175.50 10.86 DNS

SAVE ON COST. NOT ON QUALITY Flect 17 covers you for those erations that can restore the dity of life... at half the cost. Make sure with

Health Insurance

count forecast is LOW SELDANE

jor advance in haylever freatment.

Today's pollen

North-east Scotland will start bright, but most of Scotland will be wet, especially the west. Northern Ireland and the Lake District will be cloudy with patchy rain. Most of England and Wales, after a damp start, will be dry. Many places will brighten up a little, with some longer sunny spells this afternoon, especially over central and eastern England and north Wales. Outlook: warm and bright in the south-east; patchy rain in the west and the north.

LONDON earday: Temp. max Gam to Gpm, 19C n: rain Gpm to Gam, 18C (61F). Humidity: r, 79 per cent. Rain: 24th to Gpm, 0.08in. : 24th to Gpm, 0.2th. Ber, mean sea lavel, r, 1,517.2 millibars, rising. O millibars=29.53in.

AN HONOMATCH E For the latest AA traffic and road-works information, 24 hours a day, dat 0836 401 followed by the appropriate code.

London & SE C London (within N & S Circs )
M-ways/roads M4-M1
M-ways/roads M1-Dariford T
M-ways/roads Dariford T-M23
M-ways/roads M23-M4
M25 London Orbital only

AA Rosdwalch is charged at 38p per minute (cheep rate) and 48p per minute at all other times.

For the latest region by region forecast, 24 hours a day, dial 0891 500 followed by the appropriate code. Devon & Cormeal
Wits, Gloues, Avon, Sore
Berks, Bucks, Oxon
Beds, Herts & Essex
Norfolk, Suffelk, Camba Northal, Sumbar, Canara West Mid & Sth Glem & Gwent... Strops, Herefds & Worcs Central Midlands... East Midlands N E England..... Cumbria & Lake District S W Scotland....

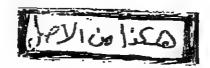

est aumy rein of the second of realt is charged at 30p per (chasp rate) and 40p per minute her times.

MODERATE

89 24 44 83 53 35 49 1.7 44 68 PM 12.39 11.28 1.17 7.46 6.36 7.21 6.16 8.46 1.18 7.29 8.18 8.58 8.04 8.21 8.20 7.08 12.12 6.38 1.58 1.01 1.47 7.82 3.43 11.2 4.9 6.1 4.7 4.8 5.9 5.9 5.2 12.13 12.10 12.42

COMMERCIAL PROPERTY 23 BUSINESS TIMES

SPORT 24-28

WEDNESDAY JULY 15 1992

BUSINESS EDITOR JOHN BELL

case for a new regime in occupational pension schemes, with a regulator playing an important role

TOKYO WALES

Japanese companies are behind the strong growth in Weish engineering and the resulting increase in

RESISTANCE

Lloyd's, whose chairman is David Coleridge, is fighting against a judicial review of the insurance Page 19

ra i mbra igis

LOOSEN HOLD The OECD is urging the Bundesbank not to tighten monetary policy, despite the growth in money

WARMING UP

$

学。"""

has increased half-time pre-tax profits

THE PARTY

US dollar 1.9162 (-0.0110) German mark 2.8494 (-0.0038) Exchange index 92.2 (-0.3)

Bank of England official close (4pm)

STOCK MARKER

FT 30 share 1897.4 (+7.1) FT-SE 100 2484.0 (+5.7) New York Dow Jones 3336.77 (-0.54)* Tokyo Nikkei Avge 17064.63 (-137.10)

INTEREST RATES

London: Bank Base: 10% 3-month Interbank: 10%-10% 3-month eligible bills: 9%-9%% US: Prime Rate: 6% Federal Funds: 3%% 3-month Treasury Bills. 3.21-3.19%* 30-year bonds: 1031*s-103**s*

$1.9140 DMZ.8400 SMFr2.5780 $ DM1.4900* $: SwFr1.3478* $: FFr5.0300* $: Yen124.98* ECU: 90.716467 SDR: 90.752138 C ECU1.395737 C SDR1.329725

GOLD

London Fbdng: AM $350.40 PM $349.30 Close $350.40-350.80 £183.00-183.50 New York: Comex $ 351.05-351.55*

NORTH SEA OIL

TETAL PRICES PI: 139.3 June (1987 = 100)

Major's confidence hits scepticism

Fall in output clouds hopes of recovery By COLIN NARBROUGH, ECONOMICS CORRESPONDENT

A DROP of 0.6 per cent in manufacturing output in May dismayed the City yesterday, combined with a 1 per cent fall in industrial production.

The prime minister, however, voiced confidence that recovery is already under way. John Major's belief in renewed growth in the second half of the year met deep scepticism in the City, where analysts have become increasingly gloomy about prospects for recovery. Many have downgraded their forecasts for this year to show further economic contraction instead of the 1.25 per cent growth Norman Lamont, the Chancellor, predicted in the Budget. The renewed fall in industrial output, after encouraging gains in recent months, would appear to rule out hopes of the. economy expanding in the second quarter, even if the fails in manufacturing and energy

June. A further fall in output in the quarter would take the recession into its eighth quarter.

The latest survey from Dun & Bradstreet, the authoritative business information group, shows that few firms in Britain feel assured about substantial improvement over the next three months. Just over half the firms surveyed expect new orders to remain unchanged or fall, a decrease in optimism since the last quarterly survey.

Phillip Mellor, marketing manager for D&B, said: "The expected confidence boost for UK companies from the government's re-election in April has failed to materialise; there is now no certainty of recovery getting under way before 1993". There was a risk of stagnation. Although all the D&B survey's main indicators were positive, none of them was substantially stronger than three months ago. The seasonally adjusted in-

Economy fears send the pound sliding

BY OUR ECONOMICS CORRESPONDENT

THE pound dropped below 2.85 marks after government figures on industrial output reinforced market fears that recovery remains elusive. The frail state of the economy combined with the currency market's fears about a monetary tightening by the Bustlesbank at its council session tomorrow. The expectation that some German tightening will take place increased the pressures that were pushing the mark and the pound in opposite directions in the European exchange-

In Whitehall, it was made clear that John Major is determined to defend sterling, even if it means raising interest rates. This follows repeated efforts by the government to dispel the widely held view in the conversey market that the pound would have to be devalued especially if the Massiricht treaty fails to secure ratification. Calls from within the Conservative party for devaluation have heightened dealers' fears. After falling to a low point of DM2.8464 yesterday after-noon, its lowest since April 8, the pound inched ahead to DM2.8494 at the official London close of 4pm, down from its DM2.8532 firlish on Monday. Sterling's effective

BRYAN Townsend, the chairman and chief executive of Midlands Electricity, enjoyed a 22 per cent rise to £221,000 in his pay package in the year to the end of March. The company reported a 30 per cent rise in pre-tax profits to Mr Townsend's pay rise was made up of a 7.5 per cent salary increase to £183,000, a performance-related bonus of £32,000 and some benefits in kind. Mr Townsend's salary increase for the current financial year had been set at 4 per cent and any further bonuses

£142.1 million.

floor against the mark, at which the authorities are obliged to intervene to defend the currency's ERM fluctuation bands, was DM2.8330, down from its DM2.8532 finish on Monday. Avinash Persaud, a currency analyst at UBS Phillips & Drew, said there was still scope for the pound to fall as the floor against the peseta, now the strongest currency in the ERM, would be dragged down under the weight of the weakest currency in the system, the pound. The worsening market sentiment for the pound was reflected in its dollar rate. It closed at $1.9162 in London. down by more than a cent. Sterling's trade-weighted index was 0.1 lower at 92.4. Some currency analysis believe that the pound will gain support from being close to its ERM lows, a position in which it has previously managed to regroup before gaining ground. The Bank of Italy was forced to intervene in support of the lira, but no Bank of England support for sterling was detected. In New York, the dollar came off its highs for the day against the mark and other ERM currencies and scarcely responded to the latest Ameri-

Electricity chief's pay rises 22%

would be based on perfor-

on pay and profits increases in the privatised electricity indus-said, while two, at Yorkshire and Southern, had seen their pay treble. Over the past four years, since the run-up to the state sell-off started, the power industry had seen profits rise

by 150 per cent, he said.

The news came as Frank Dobson, the shadow energy secretary, renewed his attack mance, the company said.

dustrial output figures issued yesterday prompted renewed fears that the economy could be heading into a fresh downtrend, with both corporate and consumer sectors continuing to retrench rather than expand. Overall industrial output, which includes the volatile energy sector, fell 1 per cent in May. Revisions also halved the April rise to 0.3 per cent. Compared with May 1991, industrial output was, however, up 0.5 per cent.

Manufacturing, a better guide to the state of the economy, fell 0.6 per cent in May for a year-on-year drop of 1.1 per cent. April, originally reported as a 0.2 per cent rise, was revised down to an 0.1 per cent decline. Ian Shepherdson, economist at Midland Montagu, said the manufacturing figures sug-gested that the promise of recovery after the election would prove another "false dawn". With the consumer still very cautious, increased production in recent months has gone into stocks, which manufacturers will have to run down. This could mean falls in output in the months ahead, Mr Shepherdson said. The Treasury focused attention on the figures over the latest three months, which showed manufacturing output rose 0.6 per cent, albeit a slight slowdown from the 1 per cent growth in the three months to April. "Manufacturing output s typically bumpy on emergence from the trough of a recession," a Treasury spokesman said. The weak state of the economy was reflected in factory gate prices for manufacturing industry. These rose by a provisional, unadjusted 0.1 per cent in June, leaving the annual increase unchanged at 3.6 per cent. Excluding food, drink and tobacco, output prices showed an annual rise of 3 per cent in June, up from 2.6 per cent in May. While the pickup in the core rate gives little immediate cause for concern, it could help discourage the government from any early cut base rate. ☐ In America, retail sales rose

0.5 per cent in June, helped by a sharp rise in car sales. Excluding cars, sales gained a modest 0.1 per cent. Commerce department data showed consumer prices rising 0.3 per cent in June, as the biggest surge in energy prices for 20 months outweighed muted cost increases and declines elsewhere. In May, the seasonally adjusted consumer price index rose 0.1 per cent.

BET to buy back $500m of shares

By MICHAEL TATE

BET, the business services group that ranges from Initial towel rental to Shorrock security, is to buy back most of the $500 million of preferred shares issued three years ago. It is asking its equity shareholders to fund the exercise through a rights issue. The group is offering one new share for every four held at 110p each, to raise £200.7 million. That will be used to redeem $380 million of the auction market preference shares, known as Amps. John Clark. BET chief exec utive, said the group, which cut its debt from £425 million to £107 million in the year to last March, intended to redeem the remaining $120 million from its own resources at the appropriate time". Much will depend on how speedily the group's £200 million disposal programme is Amps, which became popular in America in the 1980s, are a hybrid form of capital. They are redeemable, like preference shares, only at the issuer's option, but pay interest at money market rates BET was the first British company to issue them, in March 1989.

Although other British companies, including Bardays Bank, ECC, Tarmac, Redland and Ratners, followed suit. many have since redeemed $500 million now represents more than 25 per cent of active non-US issues. This is too large relative to a market that has shown signs of having less investor capacity than expected, Mr Clark said.

The timing of the move also enables the group to take advantage of the dollar's weakness against sterling.

Mr Clark said that inthe past 15 months, BET had carried out "a phased programme of debt reduction. cash generation and cost reduction. "Preference share redemption is the next step", he BET shares closed 4p lower at 129p.

try. The chairman of J I out of 12 regional distributors had more than doubled their pay as a result of privatisation, he

ICI joint venture and Shell are investigated

Cartel busters call on plastic players

CHEMICAL industry sources in Brussels and London have revealed that the European Commission last week launched another of its cartel-busting dawn raids. The victim, yet again, of this pan-

European swoop by men in grey suits was the poor old PVC industry, already picked on three times by the commission. CEFIC, the chemical industry association in Brussels, has said it believes Sir Leon Brittan, the competition commissioner, is trying to run it into the ground. The sources say the commission is getting its own back for the debacle before the Court of First Instance in Luxembourg, earlier this year, in which fines, dating from 1988 and totalking 25 million ecus, on a PVC cartel were annulled because Jacques Delors, the commission president, had neglected to sign the commission's original decision. EVC, ICI's joint venture with Enichem of Italy, was raided last week along with Shell and 12 others, several in Germany. EVC's headquarters in Brussels and regional offices in Runcorn both received visits from commission delegations.

"I don't think it was what you would call dawn, more like mid-morning," an ICI spokesman said in London, aware that no self-respecting Eurocrat should be called into action at too early an hour. An EVC source in Brussels took up the story: "Between eight and 12 people came to reception and made a statement saying where they'd come from. They asked to see the managing director and gave him a document, a sort of warrant. They then took photocopies of some files, using our secretaries and photocopiers, and left." He said there were no police present, although he had heard from colleagues in some member states. Portugal in particular, that police sometimes accompany the commission's crack cartel busters. Sir Leon's office is currently saying nothing about the latest PVC investigation, which could take anything up to a year to complete. The ICI spokesman in London said that his company, "does everything it can to abide by the rules".

· German pipes, page 19

Lord King to relinquish the controls at British Airways By COLIN CAMPBELL

ing achievement of my working life." he added.

demise of Lord King are, as the 74-year-old chairman of British Airways himself noted yesterday, somewhat exaggerated. The obituary writers have been too quick with their inky fingers, the very much alive and noble peer told the company's annual meeting. Lord King is staying on as BA's chairman at least until

REPORTS of the corporate the 1993 annual meeting, at which point he becomes life president and Sir Colin Marshall has his vote to become BA's new chairman. In a formal handing over of the controls, Sir Colin, cur-rently a deputy chairman and BA's chief executive, was yesterday vested with "complete charge of executive management of the company".

Lord King said his single most important decision taken in rebuilding BA had been finding and recruiting Sir

"It is everybody's hope to leave some small footprint on the sands of time", he said. "For me, the honour of leading this company from its position as an ailing organisation ... to its present health ... has been the crown-

Lord King has decided to cut his executive role immediately, but will remain chairman of BA for another year. After the 1993 annual meeting, at the suggestion of the board, and as provided for in the articles of association, he becomes BA's president. "I" have accepted [the appointment| with pride" he added. Since the 1987 privatisation, and in the past five years, BA had carried 125 million people, become the world's most profitable airline, and is holding fast to its ambition to become global.

Even now BA is negotiating a possible link with an American airline, but the discussions were sensitive and he would say no more. Shareholders arriving at the Barbican well before the moon start were treated to a variety of on-ground, rather than in-flight, entertainment. There was BA's own band, playing com-pah music, and those catchy BA advertisements on a massive stage screen. There were flashbacks of the Queen and a former lady prime minister, rousing declaration that BA would for ever remain British. BA yesterday assumed unto itself powers previously held by the transport secretary under which BA can forever ensure protection from a foreign take-over. The company estimates there are 41 per cent "foreigners" on the share Lord King said. There is a 15 per cent limit on any single foreign shareholder, he add-ed. "We welcome foreign investors. British Airways even flies foreigners — but they cannot take us over", the very British Lord King declared.

and it all finished with a ngs 5.2 6.7 ths

ich .75

me

ıes

sue

are

The formal business done there was a boliday feeling in the air, as shareholders were urged to visit the Barbican lobby, the BA shop, the customer service counter, and browse through the BA holiday brochures. Close your eyes, and you could have been at Heathrow. The meeting had everything except rugs, pillows and pre take off drinks. But Lord King's year long round of farewells has only just begun.

Comment, page 21

TO PLACE YOUR PROPERTY ADVERTISEMENT

THE TIMES

TRADE ADVERTISERS TEL: 071-481 1986

> ADVERTISING FAX NO. 071-481 9313 TELEX 925088

PRIVATE ADVERTISERS TEL: 071-481 4000

> MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED

By Ross Tieman, industrial correspondent

JAPANESE investment has triggered a surge in engineering employment in Wales, despite a huge decline in manufacturing employment nationwide.

Television, audio equipfactories built by Far Eastern investors typically employ more than twice as many people as plants built by European and American firms. Thanks, in part, to a rise in Japanese-owned manufacturing capacity, engineering employment in Wales rose 44 per cent, to 115,000, in the half-decade to 1990.

The findings, by Stephen Hill and Max Mundy of the Cardiff Business School, provide some of the strongest evidence to date of the benefit to Britain of investment from Japan. The study, for the Anglo-Japanese Economic Institute, shows that from 1985 to 1991, Japanese firms accounted for more than 30 per cent of new jobs in Wales in every year except one, when Ford, the American carmaker. made a huge investment.

Now, the authors calculate, Japanese companies provide more than 12,000 direct jobs in Wales. They also contribute to the creation of a higher than average number of indirect jobs through their "buy local"

From 1983 to 1990, the study says, more than 40 Japanese firms spent £377 million to increase output. In the process, they created or safeguarded 7,500 jobs. Japa-invested in Wales include Sony. Matsushita, Hitachi, Sharp and Brother.

Traditionally, Wales has seen a strong inflow of foreign investment in industries such as chemicals and petroleum. metals, mechanical engineer-ing and vehicles.

But the balance has changed. In 1974, North American companies account-ed for almost 90 per cent of employment in foreign-owned firms. By 1988, that proportion had fallen to 60 per cent.

Between 1976 and 1988, employment in North American companies fell from just over 36,000 to a little over 30,000. Even in the slow, early phase of their growth, Japanese companies more than accounted for the difference. During the same period. they lifted employment from virtually nothing to 6,900.

The specialisation of Japanese investors in electronic engineering appears to account for much of the difference. North American investment projects typically pro-vided only 68 jobs each. European projects averaged only 50 jobs each. But Japanese firms created on average 131 new jobs for every project. Measuring the spin-off benefits of Japanese invest-ment is difficult, the authors say. But there are "a growing number of instances where Japanese firms have placed business with local suppliers. thus aiding their rapid growth and development".

Bucknall again passes dividend

By MATTHEW BOND

LOSSES continue to mount at Bucknall Group, the quantity surveyor and project manager. In the year to April 30, the company made a pre-tax loss of £1.9 million, compared with a E1.2 million profit the Following the example set at the interim stage, when losses of £752,000 were reported, the final dividend has been scrapped, leaving shareholders with a zero payout. Last year's final was 3.5p, making a total of 4.9p.

David Bucknall, the chairman, said: "These results must be seen in the context of the continuing problems in the United Kingdom construction industry, which represents 75 per cent of our market." The next 12 months, he added. were likely to be "very tough". The announcement of the osses comes just 11 months after the company raised £2.4 million through a placing and open offer; part of the proceeds were used to buy a German This international expansion strategy has produced a 98 per cent increase in turnover to £4.5 million. fund-raising also helped to reduce gearing from 123 per cent to 75 per cent. The pre-tax losses include £383,000 of exceptional costs relating to an overhead reducing exercise that saw staff numbers cut by 51, to 367, in the second half. Among those who departed was Stephen Halbert, whose role as chief executive is being assumed by Mr Bucknaff

As part of the cost-cutting egime, main board directors have taken salary cuts averag-ing 22 per cent while directors of subsidiary companies and senior management have agreed to 10 per cent pay reductions.

Brave faces: George Pope, left, and Ian Homersham, joint chairmen of John D Wood, the upmarket residential estate agent reported a pre-tax loss of £497,000 for the year to April 30. As at the halfway stage, the company passed its dividend. Last year, it Mr Pope said both and country houses had continued to suffer from recession. That, and election uncertainties, had made £15,000 pre-tax and paid a total dividend of 1.5p. London residential property led to an 8 per cent drop in turnover to £4.7 million. There had been an increase in activity recently, contract or with solicitors with more sales under

than a year ago

Dunkel agrees to stay on at Gatt until 1993

ARTHUR Dunkel. 59, director-general of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, has agreed to stay as the head of the organisation until the middle of 1993. Mr Dunkel's decision, which had been widely expected, was announced at a meeting of the ruling council, which formally agreed to extend his mandate until the end of next June.

The 103 member countries of Gatt last week asked the former Swiss trade diplomat to postnone his retirement.

former Swiss trade diplomat to postpone his retirement, which was originally due at the end of this year. His prime task will be to seek conclusion of the long-stalled Uruguay round of world trade negotiations. Completion of the round, launched in 1986, has been held up largely by disputes between the European Community and America over farm

Courtaulds gloomy

A GLOOMY trading statement from Sir Christopher Hogg, chairman of Courtaulds, the specialist chemicals and materials group, at the annual meeting sent the shares down 12p to 490p, although they rallied to close at 498p. He said economic conditions remained difficult and although America showed signs of an upturn, these had not yet been translated into real sales growth. Philip Morris, at Smith New Court, cut this year's pre-tax profits forecast from £222 million to £215 million.

BBG and Glaxo link

BRITISH Bio-Technology Group, the newly listed biotechnology concern, is to collaborate with Glaso Holdings, the pharmaceutical company, to develop a new oral asthma treatment drug. BB-882. The drug was designed and made by BBG. Glaso will pay about £1 million for pre-clinical development and will conduct and fund the human clinical testing of the drug. BBG said if clinical trials were successful and the drug received regulatory approval, the company expected Glasso to make and market the asthma drug.

Charter's Chinese deal

CHARTER Consolidated, the industrial holding group, has won an El 1.6 million contract to supply mining equipment to China. Charter's Anderson group beat competition from Germany, Japan and China. The contract includes equipment to be supplied by NEI Mining Equipment, part of Rolls-Royce Industrial Power. The order was signed with China National Technical Import and Export Corporation, on behalf of Lu'an Coal Mining Bureau.

THE TIMES UNIT TRUST INFORMATION SERVICE EY LINIT TRUST MANAGETS HALIFAX STANDARD TRUST MANAGEMENT LTD PO Box 460. Edinburgh EHIS 11 0800 835546 Global Advisio. 25.34 25.94 FIDELITY INVESTMENT SERVICES | U. September | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | 10.00 | Cartellate | 46-97 | 20.4 | 0.00 | 0.00 | 5.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | 1.00 | | Delitopiess | 107.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.00 | 127.0 | POINT | School | Primate | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST | 423 POINT | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST | 423 POINT | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST | 423 POINT | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST | 523 POINT | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST | 523 POINT | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST | 524 POINT | St. London | EUCA 2 PV1, ST. London | EU American Inc. Mill 2 30-70 0.00 1400 Mill 2 100-50 11100 0.00 0.00 Sers of Am 100-50 11100 0.00 0.01 Sers of Am 100-50 11100 0.00 0.00 1.00 Sers of Am 100-50 11100 0.00 0.00 1.00 Sers of Am 100-50 0.00 0.00 0.00 1.00 Sers of Am 100-50 0.00 0.00 0.00 0.00 Sers of American Graphs of Control 11100 0.00 0.00 0.00 Sers of American Graphs of Control 11100 0.00 0.00 Sers of American Graphs of Control 11100 0.00 0.00 0.00 Sers of American Graphs of Control 11100 0.00 0.00 Ser of Control 11100 0.00 0.00 0.00 Ser of Control 11 ### Spec Opps ### Sp

Bundesbank warned by OECD not to raise interest rates

By Wolfgang Münchau in london and Ian Murray in bonn

THE Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has warned the German Bundesbank not to overreact to the recent rise in the money supply, and to refrain from raising interest rates or tightening monetary conditions.

to stay il 1993

Other

1X. nk

In the first report on the economy of unified Germany, the Paris-based organisation says special factors are responsible for the recent strong rise

Westpac makes cutbacks

Westpac, the Australian bank, is shutting its Eurobond operations in London and two banking departments as part of a worldwide reorganisation. The bank is also closing its Paris office, the last of its operations on the Continent. The closures are the result of a strategic review that followed the A$1.7 billion (£659 million) loss Westpac suffered in the half year to end-March.

Westpac was one of the leaders in the Australian dollar Eurobond market, but Paul Lahiff, the chief strategic planning manager, said yes-terday that Westpac had failed to make any money from the business in the last three years. The closure will lead to the loss of up to 20 jobs.

The bank is also closing a corporate finance department in London, which advised British and European business, and its special industrial groups unit, which handled project financing in the energy and engineering sector.

Sterling up

Sterling Publishing, the business publishing and exhibi-tions group that owns Debrett's Peeringe, earned pretax profits of £2 million in the year to March 31 (losses of £1.1 million). A final dividend of 2p (1.35p) gives a main-tained 2.5p. Writedowns and provisions against closure costs resulted in an extraordinary charge of £5.3 million.

Loss at CMW

CMW, a London-based group of architects, interior designers and planning specialists, reported a loss of £471,000 in the six months to May 31 (pre-tax profits of £252,000). Redundancies cost £111,000. There is again no interim dividend.

Kalon bid

Kalon Group, bidding £91.5 million in new shares for Manders (Holdings), had acceptances from 6.3 per cent by the first closing date. The offer is extended to August 3.

Brewer offer

Greene King has inched forward in its hostile £101 million offer for Moriand & Co, the Thames Valley-based brewer, with a handful of further acceptances taking its total to 47.2 per cent. The offer closes finally on July 24.

hereby declares to have received rectification of a previous announcement by the Stichting Preferente Aandelen Philips under the Major Holdings in Listed Companies Dis-closure Act of the Netherands. The content of this notification is available upon request free of charge at the following address: Philips Electronics UK Limited, Financial Department, 1-19 Torrington Place, London WC1E 7HD.

Eindhoven, June 30, 1992

in the M3 broad money aggregate used by the Bundesbank as a barometer for interest rates. The OECD warning comes after the voicing of concern by Norman Lamont, the Chancellor, and other European finance ministers at the prospect of a German rate rise.

However, the OECD stops short of calling for lower interest rates. "A temporary. above-target monetary expansion would not seem to call for further tightening of mone-tary conditions," it says, "but there should be no let-up in the pursuit of lower inflation. even if this means high interest rates for a prolonged

The OECD's sceptical assessment of the relevance of M3 as a reliable policy indicator contrasts startdy with the alarm at these figures frequently expressed by the Rundeshank

The German central bank is, however, unlikely to be influenced by such warnings and will probably press ahead with a tightening of monetary policy at a council meeting tomorrow.

The OECD says M3 growth of almost 10 per cent - about twice the Bundesbank's target rate of growth has probably been due to unforeseen cyclical or one-off factors. The report says the possibility that unification has fundamentally changed at least the short-run behaviour of monetary aggregates more than allowed for, cannot easily be dismissed",

It also gives warning that there is still a danger that public sector debt could soar out of control, despite the government's efforts to cut the budget deficit progressively from DM 40.5 billion (E14 billion) this year to DM 20 billion in 1996.

"While contingencies have been made for such events," the report says, "there is a risk of a rise in public sector indebtedness beyond current official estimates, which could have adverse implications for financial market confidence, preventing interest rates from falling."

It concludes that tempo-rary high public borrowing has been acceptable in view of the exceptional circumstances" but "should now be brought down progressively. government also, with a view to priving the way for easier monetary conditions."
The OECD appears well pleased with the speed at which the east German economy has been developing into a market-based private enterprise economy. high rate of privatisations and the smoothness with which this has been achieved is a major policy success and a vindication of what seemed over-optimistic expressions of intent in 1991." However, the OECD adds that revenue raised by privatisation has been far below expectations, causing the Treuhand privatisation agency to build up debts equivalent to 1 per cent of GNP. The OECD suggests that partial privatisation could help to speed up the process of selling off the remaining companies although it warns that hard budget constraints will remain essential in such companies to avoid the danger that they will come to rely on subsidy.

Overall, the OECD concludes that the massive transfers of resources from west to east Germany are beginning to bear fruit, although excessive wage settlements in the east have put many out of work and the need to pay unemployment benefits has substantially increased the

Coleridge: no bailout

Lime Street Action Group.

which represents about 450 names that are placed on loss-making syndicates by the Lime Street members' agency.

has attacked Llovd's record of profits, saying losses go back well beyond the natural disas-

One member, who was placed on the Gooda Walker and Feltrim syndicates, has lost £400,000 since joining

He lost £260,000 in 1989.

compared with £28,800 in 1988, and is facing advance cash calls of £44,000 for the 1990 underwriting year. Lime

Street went into liquidation in March. A spokeswoman said:

The losses are not just a recent event. There has been a deficit for names for some ters of the late 1980s.

Lloyd's in 1984.

Reversal of ruling sought by Lloyd's

BY JON ASHWORTH

LLOYD'S went to the High Court yesterday in an attempt to reverse a decision allowing names on the stricken Gooda Walker syndicates to apply for a judicial review of the insurance market

The hearing before Lord Justice Leggat is expected to last three days. Gordon Pollock, QC, presented the argument for Lloyd's.

Seven syndicates once managed by the Gooda Walker underwriting agency, together account for more than a quarter of the £2.06 billion losses suffered by Lloyd's syndicates in the 1989 underwrit-

The 2,200 members of the Gooda Walker Action Group have pledged 52 million towards the cost of their legal

As legal moves continue, underwriters and brokers have confirmed they hope to raise £50 million by the end of September towards a hardship fund for those names suffering most. Steps to create such a fund follow the refusal of Lloyd's, of which David Coleridge is chairman, to bail out the hardest-hit names.

A market-led fund will ease pressure on the Hardship Committee led by Dr Mary Archer. Lloyd's intends to make it easier for names in financial trouble to approach the committee for help, but has refused to provide money from the Lloyd's central reserve, used to guarantee payments to policyholders.

Lloyd's underwriters have agreed to put up £25 million towards the cost of the fund if brokers are prepared to match the figure. Auditors and solicitors involved with the insurance market are also being approached to contribute. Money raised will be used to guarantee a basic income for names in the most difficult circumstances. Not all companies working at Lloyd's are keen to contribute, but most are likely to fall into line. The

THE

ACCOUNTANCY

AND FINANCE

APPEARS IN THE BUSINES NEWS PAGES EVERY THURSDAY

TO ADVERTISE PHONE

MARY COLLINS 071-481 4481

or FAX

071-782 7828 071-481 9313

COMPANY NEWS IN BRIEF

EPS: 16.8p (11.8p) Dtv: 3.95p, mkg 5.45p MORRIS ASHBY (Fin) Pre-tax: £1.2m (£1.05m) EPS: 10.7p (8.7p) Dtv: 3p, mkg 4.7p PELICAN GROUP (Fin) Pre-tax: £453,000 Div. 1p (1p) NOBO GROUP (Fin) Pre-tax: £1.11m (£2.05m) EPS: 6.34p (12.35p) Dlv: 2.5p, mkg 3.5p AITKEN HUME (Fin) re-tax: £2.3m (£3m) EPS: 2.12p (3.59p) Dly: 0.5p (1p) CASTLETOWN (Fin) Pre-tax: £399,154 EPS: 9.36p (7.37p) Div: 0.9p, mkg 1.845p MULTITONE (Fin) Pre-tax: £1.9m (£1.4m) EPS; 8.33p (5.75p) Div: 1.75p, mkg 3p (2p) HEITON HOLDINGS (Fin) Pre-tax: £1.5m (£1.8) EPS: 3.24p (3.57p) Div: 1.35p, mkg 2p

Profits up 28% from last year's £761,000. Last year's final was 3.45p, which made 4.95p. Tumover: £13.5m (£12.5m). Total dividend shows 14.6% rise on last year, Turnover up 22% to £15.3m. Board confident of record profits in current year. Profits up 63% from last up 34% to 98.3m. EPS diluted by share issues. Interest costs fell to $663,000 ($1.02m). Previous final dividend of 4.18p made 6.8p for the year. Exceptional deductions of £582,000 (nil). Provisions of £2.68m for bad and doubtful debts in UK and CI banking. Results are in Irish currency. Group purchased William Caple. a Laicester colour printer, in May. Turnover was £23.2m (£21.2m). Group hopes to increase its market share despite difficult conditions. Results are in Irish currency. Total dividend is unchanged on last year's

Low profits higher. Jim Leng, left, head of European operations at Low & Bonar, the plastics and packaging group, and Roland Jarvis, group chief executive, beat the recession with a 4.9 per cent increase in pre-tax profits in the first half of the financial year

EC to scrutinise German pipes alliance

FROM REUTER IN BRUSSELS

THE European Commission said it had "serious doubts" about the competitive impact of a joint steel-pipe venture between Mannesmann Röhren-Werke and Hoesch of Germany.

The commission is enquiring into the venture, despite protestations from German authorities that it comes within their competence. "We have to be sure beyond all doubt that it's only a problem on the German market," a commission spokesman said.

British Steel is almost totally excluded from the German tumbles

Birse

into loss

BY MATTHEW BOND

BIRSE, a construction and plant-hire company that was floated on the stock market

pre-tax loss of £13.2 million for the year to April 30.

compared with a restated profit of £10 million the year before. Peter Birse, chairman, described the year as "very disappointing".

Most of the damage was done by £13.1 million of exceptional charges, which included a previously announced £8.5 million loss on a failed hotel and golf development. April's warning from the company that Quiet-waters, the project's developer, had been placed in administrative receivership, knocked the shares from 67p to 43p.

Yesterday they closed at 23p. Exceptional charges included a £4.6 million write-down in commercial and residential property values. Combined with total losses of £11.2

million, this resulted in net assets falling from £50.1 million to £27.2 million. With net debt rising to £24.9 million.

gearing stood at 92 per cent.

rose 13 per cent to £356 million, of which Birse Construction accounted for £338 million. The division has a forward order book of £268

million, compared with £280

The company has passed its final dividend (3.85p) leaving the total at the maintained million a year ago.

interim level of 1.65p.

Turnover during the year

market for steel pipes, which is worth about $200 million a year. The enquiry could take up to four months. 'After a preliminary investigation, the commission has come to the conclusion that the proposed concentration raises serious doubts as to its compatibility with the common market in relation to the market in Germany for steel pipes used for gas pipelines," the EC executive said in a statement.

The commission can veto or force changes in mergers and

CREDITORS of the disgraced Bank of Credit and Commerce International, appealing against a compensation plan, called on the Abu

Dhabi majority shareholders to release documents to the

by Abu Dhabi and Touche

Ross, the liquidator, to compensate those who lost money

when regulators closed BCCI in July last year. On the second day of the appeal, the creditors liquidators.

harm competition on EC markets. The commission turned down a request by the Bundeskartellamt, Germany's antimonopoly watchdog, to hand over responsibility for the Mannesmann-Hoesch case under its discretionary powers. The commission is better placed than the Bundeskartellamt to collect the information necessary...and it is thus appropriate for the commission to retain jurisdiction," it said.

BCCI creditors seek documents said Abu Dhabi should withdraw from court proceedings

unless it agreed to give liqui-dators unrestricted access to

They say compensation terms offered by Abu Dhabi are too little, too late and that creditors. Michael Crystal, the liquidator's lawyer, said the court-appointed receiver in

Abu Dhabi had secured BCCI files which are needed for civil prosecutions of BCCI officials.

key documents.

A group of creditors want the senior judge who aptroval for a scheme backed overrode the wishes of the

The statement said the Mannesmann-Hoesch alliance created a 50-50 joint venture for precision pipes, to which the two companies would transfer almost all their respective activities in this

The link-up also involves the transfer by Hoesch of all its non-precision steel tube opera-tions to Mannesmann and the surrender by Hoesch to Mannesmann of a 50 per cent stake in its Gebrüder Fuchs subsidiary.

The commission has four months to complete its enquiry into the deal under EC

The creditors want to introduce new information into the appeal hearing, an unusual step, since discussion is normally restricted to points of David Hunt, the creditors' lawyer, said the new material, including submissions from

the Luxembourg Monetary regulator, would cast an unflattering light on Abu

Dhabi's attitude to the liquidation and its degree of cooperation with Touche Ross.

Institute, BCC1's

Merrill reports record profits

FROM PHILIP ROBINSON,

CORPORATE rights issues and new issues powered Merrill Lynch, America's largest stockbroker, to record profits in the first half of this year. The broker announced vesterday that half-time earnings rose 38 per cent to $505.2 million on total income of $6.7 billion for the six months ended June. Its shares, which have traded between $66.75 and $39.375 this year, climbed 25 cents to $51.75.

Analysis had turned cautious on the big Wall Street firms, which have been building even higher earnings than last year's record figures through heavy share trading volumes and huge underwriting profits.

Merrill said that while revenue rose across all its business segments, underwriting grew e most, at 27 per cent are still wary that boom times will continue. The new issue and rights issue market is already showing signs of falling off and fund managers are beginning to take profits on the sharp market rise over the past six months.

They are beginning to show nervousness at the prospect of a Democratic victory in the US presidential elections in November, which analysis say is not priced into the market. PaineWebber Group, another big American broker, reported a 35 per cent increase in second-quarter earnings on revenues 14 per cent higher and said each of its core businesses contributed strongly.

PaineWebber has added about 350 brokers in the past year, bringing the total to

Virani is remanded in fraud case

By OUR CITY STAFF

NAZMUDIN Virani, chief executive and chairman of Control Securities, the public houses and property group, charged with fraud in connection with the failed Bank of Credit and Commerce International, was further remanded until December I at City of London magistrates court

Mr Virani, 45, of Putney, London, had been granted

INVESTORS seemed pre-

bail previously with two sureties of £500,000 and one of £250,000. Conditions of his bail include surrender his passport and remaining in

Mr Virani is charged that he "dishonestly and with a view to gain for himself or others, or with intent to cause loss to others, did conspire with Mohammed Moizul Haque and others to account falsely, in mations to Messrs Price Waterhouse, the external auditors of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) showing that Duffleland Ltd. Impactlight Ltd and Virani Group UK Ltd owed, over the said period, $4 million, which to his knowledge was misleading, false or deceptive...

BRITISH FUNDS

that the furnished audit confirpared to shrug off the pound's continuing slide against the SHORTS (under 5 years) dollar and the mark and chase prices higher at the longer end of the market. City fund managers are taking the view that sterling has started to find a new resistance level and may soon bounce back dragging the gilts market Brokers say that sentiment has also been encouraged by the growing belief that the German's will not push up interest rates at the Bundes bank's meeting tomorrow. They say there is scope for a further rise in prices. But most of the demand was in the longer end of the market, with gains of at least £4. Treasury 9 per cent, 2008, was one of the better performers, climbing 12 ticks to £10116/22. At the shorter end Exchequer 10 per cent, 1997, ended unchanged at £10421/32.

27								104.8	100.0		1001		40.00	794
	102%	100%	Exch 13'/% 1992	100.0	- '-	1342	492	198 <sup>22</sup> u	50%	Fund 35% 1999-04	P6"-	* 'y	5.10	7.5
d	45.47	981"	Puma 646, 1969	97%	- 1	6.10	9.40	HD47g	COLUMN TO SERVICE	Corn 9/% 2004	104	· 'p	413	8.9
w	Một.	Wante.	Tatas 81/4, 1993	90', 1	- 4	8.31	4.4R	113%	103.4	Treas 11:/% 2001-04	112%	- S	10 14	9.7
	RDCL*	49%	Twee (0% 1993	100%	- 14	9 99 12 18	9.24 9.57	1042.	90"4	Conv 9:/% 3005	104.4	• •	9.13	8.4
O	M35.m	101"-	Trees 12-A 1993		- 14	13.10		1247	1100	Trees 12:14 2003-05	123"-	0 1g	10.14	91
el	100.4	1014	THESE 131% 1003	108	- %	4.01	964			LONGS (over	TE seem
	97.	96/-	Trees, 8-76, 1994	38.4s	- 14	4.01	9.17
k,		46/4	Trees 10% 1994 Trees 10% 1994	100	- 1	9.91	440	93	134	Trests (4% 2002-05)	92.0	1.5	8.66	R.G
et	1017	103"	Each   2:%   994	1050	- 4	11.84	4.50	97.	99"	THE PARTY NAMED IN	97 1	W No.	E.7h	8.00
-	1077	105/-	Exch 13/6 1994	105.0	- 1	1270	9.52	118 pt	110~~	Treas 111/8-2003-07	1175	* *a	10.00	9.1
	309°	106°'×	Trens 161/% 1994	107%		1354	9.60	101 	93" <sub>L</sub>	Trees 9% 2008	101'-	* '=	H 57	8.8
nt	914	25.	G45 3% 1990-95	93%		3.21	5.30	132%	(23"+	Treas 131.% 2004-08	130° v	* *	10.32	91.
		et.	Each IOVA 1995	MOZ4		10.02	9.34	63.7	15°-	Treas 8% 2009	47.0	* 5	8.62	8.8
y	J03%		LIGHT 152 1660	105-4		11.35		102	93"a	Conv % 2011	101 .	* 'r	8 83	8.7
IC.	106°-	1035	7000 12% 19%	10974		HAT	9.00	70	62"	Treas 51.% 2008-12	70".	- 1	7.7%	8.5
	Hos				_	11.63	830	90"-	8174	Trens 7% 2012-15	QP <sub>m</sub> I	• '-	P. 60	8.7
P		]	MEDIUMS (5	to 15 ye	त्याजे			130°e	120%	Each 12% 2013-17	130%	• "4	9.77	8.4
S-	107.	96%	Trent 9% 1992-95	90%	- 1	9.06	918			UNDAT	ED
W.	103"	No.	Conv 10% 1996	10200		974	9.21	27-	244.	Consols 21/b	27's		8.97
	112.	DE.	Each 134% (6%)	311Cm		11.84	945	27%	34"-	Trons 21/8	27°a	7 7	9.03	•••
8	114'-	110%	Titals   4%   996	- 115:	٠.	1237	4.48	32	39"	Treat Pa	12	4.5	9.21
ıt.	110-0	1147%	Treats 15V% 1990	118%	2.50	12.92	9.40	67.	59	Corry 3:%	οZ.		5.57
	99"-	96	Treas 8:75 1997	98':	- 4	5.28	9.11	44%	39	Consuls 4%	44's 1		9.07
Ŋ	105°c	100%	East 10-/5, 1997	104-2a	4.5	10.03	4.21	30)	35	War LN 3'A	39	10	5.89	••
ŧ.	114%	110%	Trens 13:/4, 1907	113.	~ ~	11,64	9.30	34.7	77.5		-		247	•
-	123	1187	Each 15% 1997	12244	4.5	12.25	449			INDEX-LI	NKED
١.	93%	20.7%	Trees 6:45 1995-98	92"-	4 %	7 32	8.45	127.	122.	Treas IL 2% 1994	1275	4.5	2.39	39
B.	103	47°4	Exich 9'./L 1998	100°'-		9.51	9.14	1844	(76)	THES IL 14 190m	163"4		331	4.0
	113%	107.1	Exch   2%   1998	1127	4 %	1043	4.25	148.	143	Treas IL 2"/5 2001	147		1.06	44
n-	1200	127	Trees 15' % 1908	128%	4.5	12.09	9.16	144*	1347-	Treas (4.2 % 3003	140 .		4.10	44
0	103%	97"	Tates: 01/C.   990	102°4	4.5	9.34	6.90	147	30	Treus 11, 2% 2006	1460	4.5	4.14	1.3
	1067	IOP's	Com IOA 1999	IOS".	4.5	906	9.09			Treas IL 2/% 2009	133%	- 1	4.15	43
d,	107°-	101%	Treat (0.% 1999)	106"-	40	9.82	9.09	134%	125%	Tress 11, 21%, 2011	136°a	- 7.0	4 15	44
7.	125-	100	Eart (2'.4, 1999	114	1.0	Kles	9.24	136*	129%		113%	-	4 15
-	100%	60.	Chirty 64, 2000	100-		8.99	8.05	1647-	106%	Tress IL 2/6-2013		- 3		4.3
ıt –	1215	114°-	Tress 13% 2000	120%	4.4	HUAS	87)	1215	1125	Treas IL 2 % 2016	1215	- 1	4.12	1.2
	1064	95.	Trees 100, 2001	105%	1.7	9.39	9Dr	1175	107	Treas IL 21 % 2000	110%	- 3	4.11	13
	loo.	44.7	110K 104 200	DE-A	• .	4 - 28	atte	T.	99 ·	Trees 11, 21% 3024	40.	- %	4.06	42
=	=	=			(							-	==	- 1

MAJOR CHANGES

72p (-10p)

Diploma 293p (-9p Proudloot Alex 235p (-10p Rank Org 604p (-11p Wolseley 353p (-10p Liberty Life 557p (-13p RIMC Group 536p (-8p Tilbury Douglas 580p (-8p Wilson Bowden 360p (-12p
C Wilson 134p (-13p Alexon 217p (-8p

RECENT ISSUES

		==		_
Brem Walker Wis	3		Latin Amer Inc/Ap (£10%) £9%.	- 4
British Bio-tech (425)	425		M & G Recovery Inc 35
Country Casuals 5p (130)	139		-do- Recovery Inv Cap 13
Dwyer A	21		-do- Recovery Inv Grd Uts 49
EFM Japan Trust (100)	95	-1	-do- Recovery Pckg Uts 103
EFM Japan Trust Wirmis	35		Multitrust Warrants 11
Grosvenor Inns	74	-11	The Telegraph (325) 297	+4
HSBC HK10 (351)	355	-4
Henderson Eurotrust Ord	67	-1	RIGHTS ISSUES
-do- Eurotrust Units	97		BSS Group 20p n/p (330) (	3 -2
do- Eurotrust Zero Pri	29'.			á
	390	-1	Claremoni Gar 16p n/p (205) 29	-4

Low & Bonar packaged for long-term

LOW & Bonar, the packaging and plastics company with products ranging from plastic grass to breakfast cereal packets, has reinforced its reputation for steady if unspec-tacular growth. Strong gains in Europe in the first half have been tempered by reduced profits in America and Canada. Profits before tax advanced 4.9 per cent to £11.81 million in the six months to end-May. Turnover fell from £152.2 million to £151 million, while earnings rose 6.7 per cent from 8.80p to 9.39p a share. The interim dividend stays at 2.7p. European operations, which focus on consumer packaging, including biscuit wrappers and compost bags. lifted profits 20 per cent to £10.9 million, helped by in-creased margins of 10.6 per cent (9 per cent). Competition in the industrial shipping sack sector dragged operating profits in North America down to £2.2 million (£3.3 million). Conscious of the need to clean up its North American operations, the company has found a new chief executive for its operations there. He is Jim Heilig, a respected player in flexible packaging circles. In addition to about 200 redundancies in Europe in the past year, leaving the workforce at 4,500, it will not be surprising to see jobs lost across the Atlantic. Mr Heilig's appointment is part of the biggest oent reshuffle at the company in nearly ten years. Roland Jarvis steps down as group chief executive at the end of the year, handing on to Jim Leng, head of European Cost benefits from new systems will flow through in the coming months, and a stranglehold on niche areas — Low & Bonar is the biggest supplier of silage wrapping in the UK — will be reflected in acceptable margins.

The shares, up 4p at 281p, are trading on 14.2 times earnings, assuming pre-tax profits of £25.5 million for the current year, and could be attractive in the long term.

Triplex Lloyd

ON the face of things, Triplex Lloyd is just the kind of company one would expect to be feeling the worst ravages of re-cession. Servicing the motor, engineering and building industries is scarcely the most lucrative of trades in the present climate, but the group has held pre-tax profits at £7.1 million in the year to end-March, just 6.5 per cent lower than

The group's success in the motor industry, largely responsible for the automotive and engineering division's advance from £2.66 million to £4.25 million, justifies the heavy capital investment poured into the business in recent years, giving it a competitive edge. So much so that Triplex, of which Colin Cooke is chairman, is angling for supply contracts in Japan.

Hand on the wheel: Colin Cooke, left, chairman, and John Foley, of Triplex Lloyd

No such benefits came to the aid of the building products division, where profits fell from £2.36 million to £1.30 million, and all that can be claimed is that costs have been taken out pro rata to the fall in demand. But the growth in the gas turbine market enabled precision castings profits to grow from £2.57 million to £3.63 million.

Past investment is paying off, and the group, with John Foley as finance director, will not stint on necessary capital expenditure in future, but cash flow remains positive. Whether there will be business to win as the prospect of an economic recovery disappears over the horizon remains the biggest imponderable, but the dividend, held at 7p for the year, and covered 1.6 times by earnings looks safe enough, at least for the current year. At 138p, on a 12.1 multiple, Triplex would be a good recovery stock, if there were to be a

Eurotherm

JACK Leonard, founder and chairman of Eurotherm International, is a believer in the cynical economist's maxim that recessions were invented to shake up slack management. He accepts that his com-since 1989 because it went into the downturn as a loose federation of 34 separate companies, several of which were charging down low-margin blind alleys, with little direction from the centre. One telling example: a group whose 20 per cent compound growth over a quarter of a century had been based on sophisticated control equipment found itself by historical accident the owner of an American office cleaning business, now sold.

Cutbacks in spending by the big industrial groups have sent Eurotherm's sales force in search of new markets, with some success. The first fruits of a more focused approach, and a belt-tightening exercise that cost the jobs of 20 per cent of the workforce, were on offer with interim figures showing pre-tax profits up 47 per cent to £6.71 million to end-April. The dividend is up 20 per cent to 3p, although half the rise is to correct the imbalance with the final payment.

Eurotherm should make £14 million without struggling this year, putting the shares at 361p on a forward multiple of 17. falling to about 13 for the next financial year. The shares have risen from 240p a year ago and while they remain a firm long-term hold, with no sign of an upturn in the company's chosen markets most of the recovery potential looks to be in the price already.

WORLDWARKETS

Dow slips in early trade as investors stay away

New York — Blue chips drifted in sluggish late-morning trading as investors showed little interest in shares. The Dow Jones industrial average slipped 1.31 points to 3,336. ☐ Tokyo — Shares wound down a quiet day to close easier, but above the lows. The Nikkei index fell 137.10 points, or 0.80 per cent, to 17,064.63. Turnover was about 200 million shares compared with 193 million on Monday. Profit-taking following Monday's strong gains took its toll on prices, although the Nikkei index stayed above 17.000. ☐ Hong Kong — Prices finished slightly firmer in quiet trading with a lack of direction. The blue-chip Hang Seng index rose 11.34 points to 6.097.19.

☐ Singapore — Shares ended mostly weaker with no fresh incentives, but the key market index was slightly higher on selective blue-chip buying. The Straits Times industrial index inched up by 0.9 of a point to 1,483.78. Frankfurt - prices were slightly weaker at the end of a subdued day. The Dax index ended 2.40 points lower at 1,734.10. ☐ Sydney — Share prices closed marginally lower. The all-ordinaries index closed 0.1 of a point down at 1,638.8.

Amer Stores Amer T & T Anto Data Pro Avery Dennison Avery Products Baker Hughes Bakirn Gas & E

STOCK MARKET

Bulls and bears clash over German rates

A TWO-WAY struggle developed in the equity market with the bulls and the bears placing their bets on whether the Germans would raise interest rates at tomorrow's meeting of the Bundesbank. By the close of business, it looked as though the buils had gained the upper hand, but only just. The FT-SE 100 index ended a volatile day with a small rise of 5.7 points to 2,484, having rebounded from an early full of almost 17 points and helped by an opening rise on Wall Street

Brokers said that a decision to peg the German discount rate would remove some of the pressure from sterling and sustained rally in the equity market after the recent heavy falls. City sceptics are convinced that the equity market has further to fall. But the meagre turnover -- only 374 million shares changed hands indicated that even the most optimistic investor is not prepared to get too carried away. International companies put in a late rise, encouraged the dollar's renewed strength against the mark. They were led by Reuters, the international news agency and financial information group, which climbed 28p to £11.69 as Goldman Sachs, the New York securities house, became a buyer before the interim figures next week. These are expected to show the pre-tax profits £20 million higher at £190 million.

There were also gains for Cadbury Schweppes, 7p to 481p, BP, 64p to 2074p, BT, 3p to 355p and Cable and Wireless, op to 540p. BAT Industries recovered from an early fall to finish 1p firmer at 777p as Hoare Govett, the broker, started picking up stock before the half-year figures later this month. Hoare Govett also likes J Sainsbury, increased its profit forecast for the current year by £10 million to £735 million. Fund managers are looking to increase their weightings in the food retailers. The sector is seen as a defensive play in times of economic hardship.

Carlton Communications, the film and video services group, which takes over the London independent television franchise from Thames next year, enjoyed a late rise, adding 9p to 616p as at least one big buyer began chasing

MARKS & SPENCER: SHARES SLIDE AHEAD OF ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

> makers short of stock. BET, the industrial services the shares and caught market- Preference Shares. A total of $500 mulor was issued in 1989. But John group, fell 4p to 129p after Clark, the chief executive, was Vodafone rose 4p to 309p with Henderson Crosthwaite, the broker, recommending the shares. Henderson expects Vodafone to match the low-user tariff proposed by its rival, Cellnet. Pre-tax profits in the current year are set to grow from £271.8 million to £330 million.

MAJOR INDICES

TRADITIONAL OPTIONS

1638.8 (-0.1)

Brussels:

London:

Last Declaration

announcing a one-for-four rights issue at 110p to raise £200.7 million. The proceeds will be used to buy back $380 million of Auction Market claiming that he could see little evidence of any recovery in BET's main markets.

Fisons continued to recover

FTSE Euro 100: 1124.22 (-2.59)

Zurich: SKA Gen ....... 454.9 (-3.5)

SEAQ Volume ______ 374.1m USM (Datasmm) _____ 124.04 (+0.25)

...... 1338.14 (+2 02) ------ 65.7 (+0.4)

from its recent losses with a rise of 6p to 211p. The shares feii sharply last week after claims that the weekend press would contain another bearish story about the group. The story never appeared and now Kleinwort Benson, the broker, has been taking advantage of the subsequent weakness to buy the shares. Kleinwort has been saying for some time that Fisons has been oversold.

The newly floated British Biotechnology Group was unchanged at 425p after announcing a link-up with Glaxo to develop an oral treatment for asthma. Glaxo is paying British Biotechnology El million to carry out prealso fund clinical trials. Glaxo recovered from an early fall to finish 3p better at 693p.

Marks and Spencer dipped below the 300p level as analysts became increasingly pes-simistic UBS Phillips & Drew. the broker, is believed to have cut its profit forecast for this year and 1993 by £30 million to £720 million and £800 million respectively. But UBS refused to comment this. County NatWest WoodMac is forecasting a rise in pre-tax profits at M&S during the

FT-SE 100 Previous open Interest: 43008

Three Mth Eurodollar

Three Mth Euro DM

US Treasury Bond Previous open interest: 2501

Long Gilt Previous open interest: 67289

Japanese Govmt Bond

current year from £626 million to £740 million. The shares eventually closed op lighter at 299p before Friday's annual general meeting. Intercare, the USM-quoted medical supplies group, jumped 6p to 140p after UBS Phillips & Drew came out with a buy recommendation. The broker says the shares have underperformed the market by 15 per cent since the nou to early min to finish all-square at 23p, after plunging into the red with a pre-tax loss of £13.1 million, compared with a profit of £9.9 million. But the group says it has a satisfactory

89.56 89.83

89.48 89.79

95.05

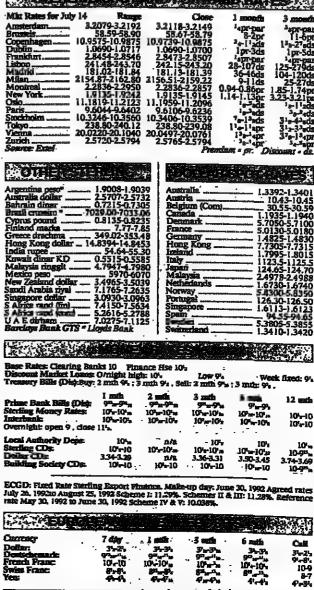

6028 2015

89.52 89.83

91.06 91.35

COMMODITIES

interim figures were published a month ago. UBS says the shares now represent good value for money and it is forecasting compound earn-ings growth of 19 per cent for this year and next with pre-tax profits set to climb from £1.52 Birse Group, the builder, touched 19p before recovering Dana Chrp Dayton Ruden Deere Deita Air Linns Deitare Corp Demak Edison Digital Regip Dissey (Wai) Donnelley (W John D Wood cased 2p to 32p in the USM after reporting a loss of almost £500,000, against a profit of £15,000. MICHAEL CLARK LONDON FINANCIAL FUTURES 国建筑的国家"企"。 Close Volume (day's range 92.2-92.5). 96.45 96.01 96.48 96.01 96.44 96.00 90.27 90.47 90,28 90,52 1204 101-29 102-01 101-24 103.77 101,71

MADON

83.47

Bullion: Open $349.80-350.20 Close: $350.40-350.80 High: $350.70-351.20 Lose: $348.60-349.10 Kingerrand: $349.50-351.50 [182.50-183.50] igns: Old $81.50-83.50 (£42.50-43.50) New $82.00-84.00 (£42.75-43.75) ### $391.75 (£204.00) Silver: $3.95 (£2.055)

FT-SE VOLUMES Cm Union Counsulds MB Cardn 1.000 MEPC 2,800 Eng China 1,900 Enterpr Oil 1,900 Euromni U 323 Angyti Gp Marks Spr 5,100 NPC 477 Sears 2.000 Syrn Trent 490 Shell Trans 3.000 2.000 490 Nat West Bit 3,900 Nat Power 947 Nth West W 1,000 2,500 5,100 1,500 Forte GRE 5mg) Bcb 1,100 GUS A Gen Acc Gen Elec Glazo Nihrn Fda P & O Smith Nph 2,600 Smith (WH) 494 Sun Alince 1,100 149 451 225 1,900 286 1,800 915 3,800 268 730 578 677 629 117 538 271 448 Pearson
Pilkington
PowerGen
Prudential
RMC
RTZ 1,800 TSB 3,300 Tate & Lyle 1,000 Grand Met HSBC 11,000 Thm EMI 1,000 Rank Org Reckin Col Redland 2,400 2,200 3,400 2,400 LASMO LAdbroke Brit Gas Brit Steel LIFFE OPTIONS

Tokyo: Nikkzi Av'ge . Hong Kong: Hang Seng ___ 292 973 452 298 1,000

REPORT: Cocoa futures closed with sharp losses as speculators and fund buyers liquidated long positions, but they expected the market to consolidate around current levels. Robusta coffee futures bounced from lows to end mixed in short-covering activity. When no selling emerged at lower levels, people started short-covering. Volume | Table 18 WHITE SUGAR (FOB)
Mar .... 27 | 9-70 5
220 May .... 279 2-70 5
295.0-44.0 Aug .... 279 2-77.0
270 5-64 1 Oci .... 271 2-56 1
259 4-66.0 Volume 107 MEAT & LIVESTOCK COMMISSION Average laistrick prices markets on J Caule 109.19 -0.55 109.20 -0.81 -1.5 111.78 LONDON MEAT FUTURES

BARLEY (close E/I) HI-PRO SOYA (dose (/t) POTATO Open Zinc Spec Hi Gde ($/100.ne) ... Tin ($/100me) ...

um Hi Gde (S/tonnel

Offer: 221 (+1) 185 (+1) 187 (+2) 189 (+1) 84 (+1) IPE FUTURES GNI LM GAS OIL 185.00-85.25 Nov 186.75-87.00 Dec 189.50-89.75 Jan ..... 191.50 BID BRENT (6.00pm) UNLEADED CASOLINE High: 1060 1095 1128 1208 Low: 1044 1080 1125 1208 Vab1045350 117900 710725 9890 1348325 43206

FT-SE INDEX (#2:481) 78 94 102 117 2½ 22 35 43 135 131 135 143

ه عن الاصل

arly trade

Handsome legacy from Lord King

ord King hands over the reins of a thriving company to his successor, Sir Colin Marshall, who will take over as chairman of British Airways next year. BA was not always as it is today. strong operationally and, despite the recession, easily the most profitable of the world's leading airlines. Among BA's peer group, financial disasters have been commonplace. In the US, several have been forced to the brink of bankruptcy and now survive courtesy of the courts and the protections afforded by Lord King and Colin Marshall have been a formidable combination of fire and ice that has stood BA in good stead over the past few years. But Lord King's Yorkshire doggedness and determination to press for improvement year after year have been the driving force behind the transformation from an overmanned loss-making bureaucracy in the days before privatisation.

Without constant pressure to streamline and willingness to absorb the attendant costs of redundancy and restructuring, BA would have remained vulnerable to the airline recession that effectively destroyed so many of its competitors. Instead, BA launched a further ferocious attack on its cost base and squeezed out profits of £285 million last year. Lord King's eagerness to take BA into the private sector and to resist the constraints and incursions of his Whitehall regulators won him little popularity in government and even led to a carpeting at 10 Downing Street

But there have been failures too. In order to keep delivering to shareholders, and pre-empt its competition, BA must expand abroad. There are limits to cost-saving from the existing corporate structure though this year's target is a further £150 million. The planned links with United, Sabena and KLM came to nothing in the latter case because BA's obsession with cost-cutting was too uncomfortable a prospect for its would-be partner. But if the latest efforts to establish a cost-effective deal in the US come to fruition, the earlier setbacks will be seen as nothing more than that. BA has identified its corporate strategy and is underliably pursuing it vigorously.

Positive BET

ET first ran out of road when its buses were nationalised by the post-war Labour govern-ment. It seems to be have been going round the houses looking for an identity ever since. Whether the new crew can chart a profitable course for the 110 companies the previous managements have flung together in bursts of expensive acquisition activity, time alone will tell, but the early signs are positive.
John Clark, chief executive, and Robert Mackenzie, finance director, bit the bullet a month ago when loading £90 million of exceptional charges into the 1991-2 figures, and more than balking the dividend.

Now they have turned their attention to the balance sheet, and the controversial Amps, which at best were unwieldy in terms of total shareholders' funds and at worst represented a potential landmine. BET led the cavalcade of British companies into this mercurial form of late eighties designer financing, which, despite winning Accounting Standards Board classification as non-equity shareholders' funds, still retained too many characteristics of debt for the liking of many purists. The market has resolved the dilemma. Amps have lost their appeal and become too expensive, so they are going, even though it means a rights issue at not the most opportune of times. A successful underwriting exercise and a resilient share price point to the market's belief that at last BET appears to have a strong pair of hands on

Referee is needed to make firms play the pensions game fairly

Sean Hand argues that the legal framework for pension schemes ought to be replaced by a new system, with a regulator playing a crucial role hat trust law in its present form is an inadequate legal framework for occupational pension schemes was the unequivocal conclusion of the Social Security Select Committee. There are indeed irrefutable arguments in favour of a new regime for occupational (that is, employer-sponsored) pension schemes, comprising a pensions act, a pensions tribunal and a single pensions regulator. Abolition of the trust law basis is, however, unlikely. Codification by legislation is the more likely outcome.

The fundamental question confronting Professor Goode's committee should be how best to secure an employer's pension promise. The current system of regulation and law is complex and bewildering, for several reasons:

There are four regulators with peripheral responsibilities, — the DTI (insured schemes) the Inland Revenue, the Occupational Pensions Board and the Investment Management Regulatory Organisation

There is a vast body of constantly changing, highly technical tax and social security legislation. Trust law, while ensuring flexibility, provides an inadequate yardstick for the behaviour of trustees and employers, because of the generality of many trust concepts and the ease with which they can be excluded from occupational pension scheme trusts.

The current structure has grown piecemeal and is now wholly unsuited to safeguarding the pension

If the trust law framework is to be retained, a pensions act is essential to codify and supplement the application of trust law principles to schemes. It is all very well to oblige a fiduciary to act honestly, in what he believes to be the best interests of the beneficiaries. But how is a trustee even an honest one) to apply that principle in the numerous areas where he may come into conflict with the employer? The pension benefits of about 19 million people are at stake and we can no longer naively assume that trustees will always be true fiduciaries. The law must do everything possible to ensure that they perform their function properly. To achieve this, we need a clear set of rules, a monitoring system to ensure compliance and effective sanctions for non-compliance to deter those tempted to berray their office.

Consideration should be given to requiring proposed trustees to satisfy fit and proper person criteria.

They should be subject to disqualification by a regulator if they fail to maintain standards. The widespread practice of trustees excluding their own liability for negligence and having indemnities out of their funds should be abolished and replaced with compulsory insurance for trust-ees and scheme assets and fiduciary bonding in the American style.

Many of the most difficult questions facing trustees involve serious conflicts of interest. As an interim measure, the dangers arising from such conflicts could be diminished by requiring employers to appoint at least one professional trustee, who could be obliged to seek independent professional advice. In the longer term, issues giving rise to conflicts of interest need to be addressed and resolved. Trustees should be accountable to scheme members. Consultation with members should be required at least annually and on all important matters such as proposed amendments, investment policy changes, appointment and removal of trustees and scheme advisers.

The traditional view of the employ er in must law (a donor of imilateral benevolence) is entirely inappropriate to occupational pension schemes. The voluntary nature of the employer's pension promise and his financial interest in the scheme, of course, entitle him to retain control over his own funding rate and, arguably. some interest in real surpluses that might arise when final salary schemes are wound up. Beyond that, the balance of power between em-selection of trustees, development of investment policy and discretionary benefit improvements should be determined by persons independent of the employer and subject to clearly defined fiduciary responsibilities. The employer should be encouraged to maintain an active interest through consultation, and representation on the board of trustees, but at no time should he be allowed to have control of the trustees. The employer's continuing financial interest in schemes (that is, in minimising the cost to him) conflicts with the interest of members in maximising benefits.

iven that occupational scheme assets in the UK are estimated to be worth £300 billion, it is not surprising to find strong vested interests in preserving the status quo. If Imro continues to authorise trustees to invest schemes' assets themselves (rather than delegate that function), investment restrictions should be introduced and policed by a regulator. Fund managers and banks handling schemes' assets should have to designate those assets and assume full fiduciary obligations to members, as is the case in America. Unit trust managers are already in this position. Fund managers should also be required to obtain voting instructions from trustees and be prohibited from investing schemes assets in connected enterprises. The propriety of pooling arrangements for schemes' assets and the prudence of allowing trustees or fund managers to be asset custodians as well should also be reviewed. Schemes' auditors should be required to carry out periodic checks of custody arrangements and report findings to a regulator.

Without adequate funding and skilled staff, an occupational pension scheme regulator could prove to be ineffective. The regulator will need either to bring under one umbrella the functions of the Inland Revenue, the Occupational Pensions Board and Imro (together with its own new regulatory powers), or to develop a system of more effective co-operation than exists currently. The powers of the regulator should include responsibility for monitoring: trustee appointments; schemes' financial reporting; investments; activities of schemes professional advisers and interaction between them. In addition, a regulator would need an investigatory and enforcement facility linked with a pensions tribunal, so that rapid and effective action could be taken when necessary.

One of the greatest iniquities of the present system is the inability of occupational pension scheme members to obtain redress for grievances. Access to the High Court is slow and expensive and members find i difficult, if not impossible, to fund actions. In resisting claims, trustees are usually able to rely on scheme assets. A pensions tribunal comprising a senior lawyer and pensions experts should be established and a method of funding members' claims found. The tribunal should have powers comparable to those of the High Court.

Scheme members are the real investors, despite the failure of the Financial Services Act to recognise this. A pensions act should not only remedy that defect but also recognise that pensions are deferred pay, with all that that implies for employers' trust law powers. Scheme members should have rights akin to those of company shareholders.

The right of members to share in scheme surpluses should be established and appropriate formulae for equitable distribution of surpluses between employers and members drawn up. Judgments of the mid-1980s, which have been revered as if they contained oracular utterances about employers' rights to surplus in balance of cost schemes, should no longer be regarded as the be-all and end-all. Judicial thinking has moved on, but many in the industry appear to have been left behind.

pend model deeds and rules. Their adoption by L individual schemes should be optional but the principles expressed should be set out in the act and made mandatory.

Standardisation should not be limited to schemes' documentation. One of the greatest sources of conflict, after the right to a share in surpluses, is the actuarial principles on which final salary schemes are funded. The lack of uniformity in these principles makes inter-scheme transfers needlessly difficult and deprives the concept of an actuarial surplus (that is, a notional surplus in a continuing scheme) of meaning. It also makes interpretation of surpluses disclosed in company accounts difficult and, in some cases, misleading for prospec-tive lenders. Consideration should be given to introducing standardised funding assumptions, along with statutory criteria for calculating and paying transfer values within specified time limits.

All this will take time. What is to be done meanwhile? Several immediate improvements were suggested in the Select Committee's report, notably in the areas of information disclosure and financial reporting. Figures published by Dun & Bradstreet this week reveal that company failures rose to 30,722 in the first six months of this year. Many employers facing the threat of insolvency will doubtless be looking closely at their pension funds in the coming months, it remains to be seen whether the government can stomach the ideological consequences of intervention, particularly in the light of the privatisations of

Sean Hand is a partner in Cameron Markby Hewitt, a London firm of

Chemical a reaction AS THE Chemical Corporate

The state of the s

Challenge gets under way in Battersea Park today - known as the Manny Hanny run before the merger of Manufacturers Hanover Trust with Chemical Bank - it seems the "merger of equals" between Chemical and MHT has not been so equal after all. A year after the merger, fewer than half of the original 36-strong MHT foreign exchange team remain while most of the larger Chemical forex team still have their jobs. Six MHT staff left immediately the merger was announced and ten others have resigned or accepted voluntary redundancy in the past six months. The final straw for MHT staff came on Friday when Chemical scrapped its four-strong strategic trading team, headed by former MHT man Ray Payne. Only one was retained - the sole Chemical man. Alan Brann, Chemical's foreign exchange manager, says there has been "no ostracisation" and that the strategic dealer retained was simply "the right man for the job". In the past six months, he says, eight Chemical forex people

History repeated

ALASTAIR Ross Goobey, James Capel's chief investment strategist, who spent a year before the last general election as a special adviser to Norman Lamont, did not spend all the time focusing on politics. He also wrote a book on the 1980s property boom and crash, Bricks & Mortals, which Century publishes this month. Ross Goobey was at work on the final proofs when Olympia & York and Mount-leigh crashed in May, which explains why only a few pages are devoted to the collapse of Canary Wharf. But he man-aged some references to O&Y's fall and insists "the fact that I am covered by my prognosti-cations on Canary Wharf is fine by me". His central thesis is that the property men of the 1980s such as Rosehaugh's Godfrey Bradman made the same mistakes as the fallen men of the 1970s crash whereas survivors like Lord Sterling and John Rithat avoided them the second time. 'The new men thought they could walk on water," says Ross Goobey. They made the same mistakes as their predecessors. It's a story about human nature."

André thunders in MERRILL Lynch is planning to step up its UK research effort after the appointment of

Andre Sharon as head of its European equity research desk in London. Egyptian-born Sharon, who studied at the London School of Economics, was formerly director of international research for 15 years at Drexel Burnham Lambert in New York. He left in 1985 to set up his own asset management firm before heading the global asset management group of American Express Bank International. Mike Young, Sharon's prede-cessor at Merrill Lynch will now become a full-time strategist and Sharon, who has inherited a team of 12, says he will be "expanding opportunistically" into new research areas - such as utilities, banking, the motor sector, and forestry - as and when suitable

Stepping down THRICE-MARRIED Sir Desmond Pitcher, chief executive since 1983 of the Littlewoods Organization, is to hand over the reins just weeks after being knighted in the Queen's birthday honours. Sir Desmond, 57, will step down next March, becoming a nonexecutive vice chairman of the group, and will be succeeded by Barry Dale, group finance director. Dale, with a reputation for being a tough man manager, becomes group chief executive designate immediately. Pitcher's departure, announced to staff on Monday, was first flagged in the Liverpool Echo last Thursday. Traditionally a secretive company, Littlewoods has made no public announcement.

CAROL LEONARD | only be solved by the success of

BUSINESS LETTERS

aiready (what is "enough?") carry little weight. If Mr Lester believes in the benefits of

One lump privatisation of coal is not the answer From the editorial director, there is enough competition

Institute of Economic Affairs Sir, Mr Lester (7th July 1992) comments on the differing views on coal privatisation expressed by Mr Meads and by me. I was not, of course, arguing (intentionally or otherwise) for a reduction in competition. Nor did I say that electricity from existing coal stations is cheaper than from new gas stations: I said a competitive market would settle

The "one lump" view of coal privatisation seems to me dangerous, particularly since it is so similar to the arguments used successfully by British Gas and the CEGB which led to the unfortunate results outlined in my article. I accept that interest groups such as management and unions in industries to be privatised will make what case they can to avoid division and consequent loss of market power. But that does not mean we should accept their views. Claims that competition, as he seems to do, should be not want coal-tocompetition? There would be obvious advantages in having companies competing to mine and market coal in British conditions: new knowledge and new ideas would be produced, there would be more entrepreneurship and innovation, as is the way with competitive markets. The benefits of competition among a few large companies producing different fuels are likely to be much less. An additional benefit from breaking up Britgroup which would always be lobbying to keep out imports. Or is Mr Lester's case that action to make electricity generation more competitive is not on the political agenda? "Political impossibility" is perhans an even more dangerous for Lloyd's syndicates being able swiftly to achieve profits for their capital base, the names. The amount of help which can be provided by the chairman and Council of Lloyd's in this endeavour is will ensure that underwriters make profits - which is our

No amount of regulation strictly limited.

only salvation.

1984-1987

Yours faithfully

Dawson House.

SIR PETER MILLER

Chairman of Lloyd's

Nor is two. Nor is the piecemeal intervention inevitably ish Coal is that it would avoid associated with either. Instead we need genuine rivalry both the continuance of a pressure in electricity generation and in Yours faithfully. COLIN ROBINSON. Professor of Economics, University of Surrey,

Economic Affairs

tition already" since it leads to inaction or action too late. If the ill-considered structure of generation does remain and lead to a "one lump" form of coal privatisation, it may well

then be claimed that the need to alter the structure of generation in much diminished. Alternatively, if in a few years'

time generation is made more competitive, even though the unitary structure of the coal industry will then be inappropriate it will no doubt be argued that it is "politically impossible" to change it.

Editorial Director, Institute of

One lump is not the answer.

Profits, not regulations, will save Lloyd's

From Sir Peter Miller Sir. The novelty of the latest explanation for Mr Hay Davison's untimely and uncalledfor resignation from Lloyd's in 1985 should not distract attention from the inadequacy of his analysis of the problems facing Lloyd's today (July 9). In the ten years since the passage of the Lloyd's Act, 1982, enormous advances have been made in the process of regulation at Lloyd's. While the recent Walker Report highlights areas where further work is needed, further regulatory upheaval - as suggested by Mr Davison - is not the resolution to "Lloyd's woes". The commercial problems which Lloyd's faces today can

The Faldo index From Mr Donald Jamieson the individual underwriters

Sir, Mr Baggott (Business Letters, July 10) may be interested to know that it's all to do with Nick Faldo. July 16, 1987, when the FT-SE 100 index reached its then all-time high of 2,443.4, was the first day of that year's Open Championship, held at Muirfield. Faldo won, since when his fortunes. like the stock market's, have been in relative

July 16 is again the first day of this year's Open Champion-ship — again at Muirfield. If Faldo wins, will it be a good or bad omen? Yours faithfully.

5 Jewry Street, EC3. Letters to Business DONALD JAMIESON. and Finance can be Broomieknowe. sent by fax on 071-782 5112. Lasswade, Midlothian

BUILDINGS INSURANCE SHOCK

Premiums rising up to 100%— Now it pays to shop around

Subsidence and storm damage claims have forced most Insurers to drastically raise premiums - but not all. As top brokers in home insurance business for over 30 years, CGA is uniquely qualified to shop around for you. We can arrange transfer from your mortgage lender and pay the fee (normally £25).

- 10% discount for over 55s
  - Monthly payments
- 10% discount for £50 excess for £100 excess

■ 15% discount

- Contents cover from £50

Helpful claims

CGA Insurance Brokers Ltd

Specialists in home insur	ance for 30 years
Or send to: CGA insurance Brokers Ltd.,	=
	T$0)
Name Address
j Postcode
Tel. (Daytime)	(Evening)
Buildings: Brick□ Stone Walls □	Other
Roof Tile 📋 Thatch 🗎	Other
Buildings: Renewal date/	sum insured £
Contents: Renewal date	sum insured £
Jovelery/valuables:	sum insured £

LEISURE

L3 41 = 17 7.6 47 17.3 30 ... 54 17.8 19.0 68 9.1 20.0 27 16.4 2.1 2.8 14.1

= 1 14.5 7.1 ... 7.3 4.1 14.8 ... 1.5 22.2 1.0 ... 1.20 9.1 6.2 ... 8.3 9.7 10.5

40 154

134

DAILY DIVIDEND £2,000

• 1

82 105 92 79 57 139 105 11 226

*3 200 102 8.9 ... 64 8.5 8.4 ... 0.5 8.3 ... 10.5 ... 11

-1 1.3 1.1 36.6
-5 1.3 1.1 36.6
-5 1.1 16.0 26.8
-1 1.2 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.3 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.4 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1 1.5 11.3 11.4
-1

SHOES, LEATHER

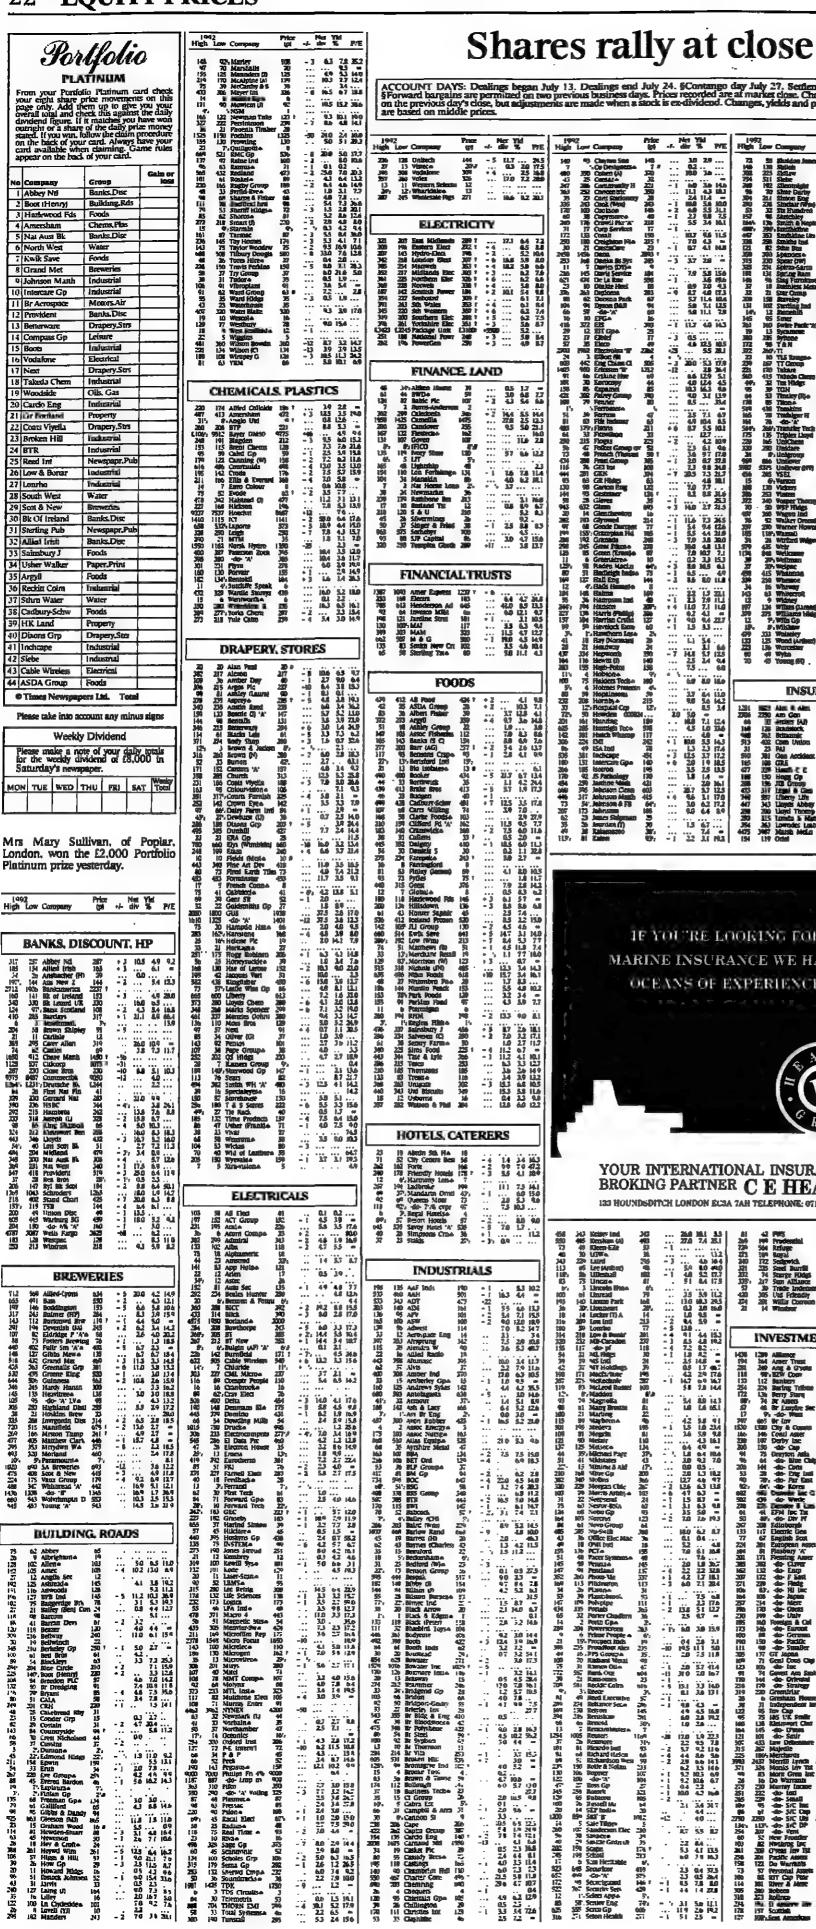

TEXTILES

TOBACCOS

TRANSPORT

-12

PROPERTY

-3 37 29 = ... 78 58 156 ... 36 196 ... 36 196 ... 57 14 49 43 ... 59 11.1 29 ... 6.0 A.0 IL. INSURANCE + 4 ... + 4 245 + 5 234 + 5 234 - 2 24 - 2 24 - 2 34 - 3 188 - 11 173 + 2 135 + 2 135 + 2 135 + 2 135 + 2 135 73 1145 640 1142 140 1649 741 1947 640 = 15 67

IF YOU'RE LOOKING FOR MARINE INSURANCE WE HAVE OCEANS OF EXPERIENCE YOUR INTERNATIONAL INSURANCE BROKING PARTNER CE HEATH

《特殊是是各种的社会节编型》(1927年),1927年,1928年,1

INVESTMENT TRUSTS

《新兴》(1922年)1922年,1922年

NEWS, PUBLISHERS

OILS, GAS 以代表所名《新花》:"《新花》:"《新花》: " 《新花》: " 《《新花》: " 《《新

13. Aberdenn Pesa
11. Aug Trang
12. Aug Oll & Greg
23. Aug Oll & Greg
4 Greg
4 Greg
4 Greg
5 Greg
6

PAPER, PRINT, ADVIG

44万里经过日本产品的第一万年中的方面的中国经济工作中等12万mm

المكذا منالاصل

YORI VOUST

PROPERTY .

Shipshape and easy on the workers

An office building in London was designed and built with staff in mind. Christopher Warman assesses its user-friendliness

he entrance to the astonishing new ship-shaped office building. The Ark, in Hammersmith, west London, is modest compared with some 1980s buildings with their proud expressions of status. The first surprise on entry is followed by another: a bar and informal meetpang place affectionately known as Ralph's Bar after the building's 78-year-old British designer, Ralph Erskine, who has lived in Sweden for 50 years.

Ralph's Bar is the hub of the ground floor and both features are planned to make staff feel at ease in the 150,800 sq ft of space built by the 150,800 sq ft of space built by the Swedish developer Ake Larson. The Ark, clad in glass and copper, which cost about £20 million to build, represents Mr Larson's view of what a 1990s building should be. He believes the 1990s leave behind the grandeur of the previous "designer decade" as companies become more interested in showing that they care for customers and staff.

His argument is that although other modern buildings, with their atriums, have impressive public areas, the office space behind them has not changed. This building is intended to be a "user-friendly" place where the staff like to work.

The building, now completed, is coming to the market, and John Higginbotham, of Herring Baker Harris, joint agent with Richard Ellis, says a rental a little over £40 a sq ft is being sought. That commanagement style, with an emphasis on the people who work there. He believes the Ark will appeal to the non-hierarchical company; where people work in teams, generating ideas. There has been interest from advertising and relevision companies.

Open view: inside The Ark

A single company is not expected to take the whole building, al-though international companies would probably want between a

Peacock feather in Surrey's cap

THE Peacocks is Surrey's new regional shopping centre at Woking, 500,000 sq ft

developed by London & Edinburgh Trust

An integral and surprising part of the £130 million development, and amply demonstrating the community gain from such large schemes, is a £20 million arts and entertainment centre, including a library and the largest new theatre in the

The New Victoria theatre, designed by Renton Howard Wood Levin, cost £8 million and can seat 1,300 people. It is a joint venture between £ET and the Turnspie Group, a leisure management and theatre production group, which has been responsible for a string of successful productions, including Carmen longs at productions, including Carmen Jones at the Old Vic, and has recently bought the Duke of York's Theatre in London.

(LET), but it has more than shops.

pares with a £37 top rent in Hammersmith, but Mr Higgin-botham explains that for such a building the rental is not a prime consideration. Some companies will want to bring their staffs to this building, and by doing so will make a statement about their management style with an emphaand bustle, which will have an effect on others," Mr Higginbotham says.

The Ark consists of a building within a building. The arrium building is linked to the surrounding offices by bridges and balco-nies. The flexibility means individual offices can be small, while the use of social areas and meeting places could eliminate the need for larger offices but improve working conditions.

An emphasis on natural light, with constantly changing air, and ever changing views from the street scene on the ground floor up to the summit room, reached by wall climber lifts to give a London panorama from Docklands to Heathrow, bring a thoroughly new atmosphere to the office building. Furthermore, in line with today's green" thinking, the materials used are environmentally friendly. The wood is mainly British Columbian and Oregon pine, none of it from the rain forests.

Unlike most new buildings, which fail to draw many potential tenants at this low point in the market. The Ark has already attracted wide interest, and the agents are confident that it will

Just right for teamwork: The Ark, available now, could be ideal for a non-hierarchical employer

The Crown in profit

comprehensive of its type, has two theatres. landed estate that is part of the monarch's hereditary possessions, paid £70 million and a library. The small theatre was built in the 1970s, and it is a tribute to the to the Exchequer for the year ending in March 1992, an increase of 14.8 per cent over the previous year's £61 million despite the worst property recession since the 1930s, Christopher Warman writes. Although revenue surplus was up 12.2 per cent from £63.9 million to £71.7 million, recession reduced the property portfolio's capital value by 15 per cent. from £2,085 million to £1,772 million.

The estate owns more than 250,000 acres of agricultural land in England, Scotland and Wales, and substantial blocks of property in central London. including Regent Street.

Christopher Howes, the second commissioner and chief executive, attributes the annual results partly to "reading the signs of recession". He says: "We decided in the summer of 1989 to stop new development. We even stopped one scheme at Millbank that was under way, and grassed the site over."

In addition, there was increased revenue from other developments and rent reviews, but Mr Howes says one important reason for the revenue increase was its financial management. "We had to improve our financial management because of the recession and we have done so," he says.

A sign that the development programme remains active will appear in Regent Street in the next few weeks when a huge hoarding will cover the listed façade of number 172-182, which the estate is developing independently to provide a 100,000 sq ft retail and office scheme. MARKET MOVES

Grosvenor reappraisal

THE severe reduction in rents caused by the recession is demon-strated by 49 Grosvenor Street, a fine office building in the heart of Mayfair, London, that was the headquarters of the Mountleigh

The building was comprehensively refurbished by Grosvenor Estate Holdings and let to Mountleigh in the heady days of 1988 at about £60 a sqft. The estate, recognising the changes since then, is now asking for a rental of £265,000 a year for the 10.670 sq ft building, equating to only about £25 a sq ft. Joint agents the BBP Partnership and Baker Lorenz believe that at this level the building will have great appeal.

Cheaper law

ANOTHER sign of the times is that Weatherall Green & Smith, acting for the Law Society, has succeeded in reducing the rent paid for the society's headquarters in Chancery Lane, London, from £690,000 a year paid in 1980 to £454,000 a year at the review date of November 1991, an overall reduction of £10 a sq ft.

Law Society House provides 27.459 sq ft of accommodation, for which the rent during this period has dropped from £27.50 to £17.50 a sq ft for the prime space.

Weatherall suggests that this reduction brings into sharp focus the benefits of an upward/downward rent review clause for tenants in present market conditions.

Style seekers

CHESTERTON, the international property consultancy, has entered the hairdressing business, being retained by two companies to find new sites for their expansion.

The Neville Daniel Hairdressing Salon, the Queen's hairdresser. operating from Knightsbridge, is looking for a further 10 outlets in locations that must reflect the exclusivity of its hair and beauty business, where hair styles can cost £100 for women and £45 for men.

Chesterton is also looking for 50 outlets in the UK for Magicuts, an innovative chain based in the United States and Canada, that provides a no-nonsense approach to hairdressing, providing only haircuts, without appointments. Chesterion is considering sites at airports, railway stations and motorway service stations throughout the UK.

Trade: 071-481 1986 Private: 071-481 4000

Staying in charge: Howard Panter

COMMERCIAL PROPERTY

071-481 9313 071-782 7828

YORKSHIRE 3 INDUSTRIAL SITES

LARGE INDUSTRIAL MODERN UNIT INDUSTRIAL/WORKSHOP INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT LAND

Large Industrial Unit of 12,000 so ft and 2 further income producing smaller units. Ample parking. Close to Motorways. Currently trading as Engineering Co. CNC and other various machinery included. Order book with good outlook. Situated Leeds area. OIRO £475,000 as going concern.

Industrial/Workshop. Nr. Filey, N. Yorks. Outstanding views, with specious living accomodation. Total ground floor workshop of about 2150 sq ft with front and side access. 3 phase electric installed. Would suit variety of uses subject to planning. 2/3 bedroom, CH first floor flat with large lounge and modern kitchen and bathroom. Suit owner occupation, letting, office use etc. OIRO £75,000.

Industrial Development Land. Adjacent to industrial estate in prominent situation with outline planning permission. Approx 4.4 scres. Situated Nr Filey. N. Yorks. In the first instance please

Mr C. Brown, Norrie Gibson Ltd, 102 Beverley Road, Hull, North Humberside, HU3 1YA. Fax: 0482 223972

No.2 Devonshire Square

three cinemas, a nightclub, two restaurants

strength of local lobbying that the centre

Howard Panter of Turnstyle believes that the joint bid for the scheme with LET to the local authorities succeeded because of the decision to operate it as well as build it.

"We will stay in charge, and hope that it becomes a real part of the community."

Ticket prices are cheaper than the West End, free parking is available and Mr Panter estimates that an evening at the

New Victoria will cost half that of the West

End. He does not want it to be merely a satellite for London, however, and is working on establishing a provincial was built round it.

Self-contained office building with Banking Hall — approx 6,000 sq. ft. Close to Liverpool Street Station

YOUR ENTRY TO PRIME OFFICE ACCOMMODATION

This attractive development provides an opportunity for a central office or headquarters location only 35 minutes' drive from Edinburgh and 25 minutes from Dundee. With immediate access to the motorway network, Glenrothes has two railway stations nearby offering a half-hourly rail service to Edinburgh. The town centre and other amenities are within easy walking distance from Caledonia House. The office provides 30,500 sq ft of modern accommodation in a 2 storey/2 wing layout. This can be easily sub-divided for single occupancy or multi users. As you would expect, double glazing and central heating are standard. In order to meet the demands of modern users, access floors and suspended ceilings have been included. The development also provides generous car parking facilties and can vehicles.

accommodate | 25

Caledonia House provides excellent value and flexible lease terms are available at competitive rental levels.

To find out more, please call the Marketing Department on:-0592 610714

(Fax 0592 756035) or return the FREEPOST coupon.

GLENROTHES, FIFE
GOOD FOR BUSINESS. GREAT FOR LIFE.

י טוב opening match.

To Marketing Dept., Freepost, Glesrathes Development Corp., Balgonie Rd., Markinch, Glearathes, Fife RY7 68R.
NAME	POSITION		_
COMPANT			_
ADDRESS	POSTCODE	TEL	_
_

LIMEHOUSE COURT, E14 Just off the Isle of Dogs

Summing office development of great character, converted from traditional warehouses and providing individual buildings with Variety of sizes, totalling 45,000 square feet.

071 537 2324

THESTIMES

COMMERCIAL PROPERTY appears in BUSINESS TIMES bi-weekly. Our next issue will be published on 29th July 1992,

To advertise or for further information please call Carol Reed or Matthew Coots on 071 481 1986

GLANFORD BOROUGH COUNCIL

Brigg, on the A15/M180 is located between Scunthorpe, Grimsby and Lincoln.

An international design company working on our behalf has created an outstanding concept for a small unit, speciality retail development adjacent to the heart of this busy historic town.

"Angel Court", in its adapted Eighteenth Century group of buildings, will form the principal frontage to the newly pedestrianised market square which will rehouse the street market in a high-quality environment.

Brigg is being established as the quality town of South Humberside and North Lincolnshire for shopping in style. Part of the development site incorporates quality riverside housing and flat

We are seeking developers who have the sonsitivity and ability to bring this opportunity to fruition. For further information contact:-

Paul Edwards. Glanford Borough Council, Station Road, Brigg DN20 8EG. Tel: 0652 652441 Fax: 0652 650288

ATHLETICS

US team tries to keep Johnson out of relay

By David Powell athletics correspondent

BRITAIN'S chances of adding the 4 x 400 metres Olympic gold medal to the world title they won in Tokyo last year may be enhanced by a move among leading memto keep Michael Johnson out

Danny Everett, the world indoor record holder, and Steve Lewis, the defending Olympic champion, said in London yesterday that they would be putting to Mel Rosen, the head US coach, the case for leaving out Johnson. Johnson, who beat Roger Black convincingly at Crystal Palace on Friday, is the acknowledged world No. 1.

Johnson prefers the 200 metres to the 400 metres in Barcelona, leaving Everett as the favourite. Lewis is a close second-favourite and both are in England to compete in the Vauxhall invitation meeting at Gateshead on Friday. They keep faith with its timehonoured policy of choosing the first four from the US Olympic 400 metres trial.

Because he did not run the 400 metres at the US trials, Johnson was not included for the relay at the world championships, a decision which may have cost the US the gold in a close-run race. Nor did Johnson run that distance in the Olympic trial last month.

The US trials were arranged so that Michael could do both events, but he did not take up that offer," Everett said. "I feel Steve and I are

Why take the No. 5 off [Andrew Valmon) and put the No.4 on when No.5 went through all the hard work to get there? Michael should be on the sidelines saying: "I am there if you need me."

Everett and Lewis are alarmed that Johnson is want ed not for the rounds, but only for the final. "Mel wants Johnson to skip the rounds and then run the final, but Steve and I have been racing hard all season at 400 metres while he has been racing mainly 200s," Everett said. "It is Mel's decision, but it is up to us to voice our opinions

After the victory in Tokyo the British quartet said that it had won half on talent and half on team spirit. Everett is concerned that US team harmony will be lost if Johnson is included, "You do not neces sarily need your four best guys.

While Black, Derek Redmond, John Regis and Kriss Akabusi showed team spirit in Tokyo, Everett and Antonio Pettigrew were at odds in the US team. Everett had ithplored Tom Tellez, then head coach, not let Pettigrew, the individual gold medal winner, run the last leg.

"I told him that I did not believe Pettigrew would be able to win if it came down to the finishing stretch and what I said came true," Everett said. afterwards? "Oh, yes, a lot." And relief when Pettigrew

Guide for Akabusi

HAVING done his bit to British record he set in taking make sure that, after his retirement, his event is left in good hands. Kriss Akabusi tonight runs a 400 metres hurdles that should offer a guide to how his farewell Olympics will go (David Powell writes). "Nice is the big one," Akabusi had said five weeks ago, assessing his Olympic warm-up races. Now Nice is here, he has no reason to think differently. Five of the world's top six are in Nice: only Kevin Young. the world leader, is missing. Akabusi, after pelvic and viral troubles, has returned to form, running 48.30 and 48.26 and moving closer to the 47.86

FAIRGROUND

WEYHILL, ANDOVER

HAMPSHIRE

FOR SALE

98,000 SQ FT ON

14.5 ACRES

REDEVELOPMENT

POTENTIAL

BUTCHER

0272-277402

bronze medal.

"I am hoping to come away from Nice with a similar time." Akabusi said. "This year I have developed my last half of the race, but my deficiency is my basic speed. I am half a second slower in my first 200 metres than in previous years but that gives me something to look forward to."

Akabusi suggested to Jonathan Ridgeon, the high hurdler, that he try the 400 metres hurdles. Ridgeon ran 51.30 on his debut. He will race at Gateshead on Friday with Akabusi predicting: "I think he can run sub-50 seconds."

COMMERCIAL PROPERTY

Toast to success: Sanderson drinks to personal triumph in the Barcelona Olympic Games

Sanderson rejoices in record

By David Powell, athletics correspondent

WHAT began as a bet for a bag of chips will culminate in British record number of month when Tessa Sanderson goes to Barcelona. Daley Thompson's failure to make the team has left Sanderson alone as the first

Sanderson was aged 14 when she first tried the iavelin and struck the het with a school friend she could By 22 she was Commonwealth champion, by 28 Olympic champion. She goes to Barcelona saying she can win again, or at least get a medal, at a time in her life when she is closer in age to the team management than she is to most of the team.

But, just because she is 36. she is not conceding to younger women. "What is 36 supposed to feel like?" she said yesterday. "I feel better than I have ever felt. They say I will be throwing for the

Freehold

Factory/Warehouse

WATERBEACH

CAMBRIDGE

35,000 sq. ft.

on 4.5 acres

Offers in the region of $425,000

* Extensive concreted open storage area

* 18 it. eaves height

* Suitable for a variety of industrial/warehousing uses

Contact A. D. Locke - Sole Agents

Januarys

(0223) 315716

grannies, but I will be doing way." Those were in her 9st days: now she is 11st. Through three Commonwealth gold medals and a

It to the best of my ability." Again this season, her nineteenth as an internationrivalry with Fatima Whitbread, Britain's 1987 al competitor, Sanderson's arm is still among the ten most capable in the world. world champion, which has Her best distance, 64.88 seen them fall out as friends, metres, ranks her tenth, only Sanderson has led a contro-She has fought not just controversy but injury. She thought that an Achilles tendistance she believes it will gold medal. All that is holding her don rupture which prevented back, she said, is her speed her from throwing at the 1988 Olympics had ended on release and that is what her cureer she will be giving her attention to over the next fort-But there was and three night. "It is in the run-up that years later the former Sky television presenter was back take to win a second Olympic

I am going to find my extra five metres," she says. making the news instead of These days she looks the part of a javelin thrower, reading at: at the 1991 European Cup she was Britain's only woman winner. Then a back injury ruled her strong and athletic, but it was not ever thus. In 1976, at her out of the world championfirst Olympics, she recalls walking through the arcade ships and it was only in to go to her event and being January that she began traintapped on the shoulder by ing again. A few months Karin Smith, the American work and she was in shape thrower, who said, pointing for another British Olympic her finger: "Sprinters that

LONDON OFFICE

FURNITURE AUCTIONS

PRESENTS

EVERYTHING

furniture over 10 go under the bemmer, 90% brand new furniture from leading manufacturers. Over 2009

chairs, 1000 desks, storage, tables, filing etc.

on 22nd & 23rd July at Washin

(Viewag on 21st July) For a colour catalogue call

081-203 4000

ALL BOX

NUMBER

SHOULD BE ADDRESSED

rystecus furniture, confer

Her interest has been standards, the product of drug abuse by use of random How effective? "Better than ever," she says. Once she was playing the Genie of the Ring in panto at Brighton when she was called for a test. "I jumped out with my magic wand and the next thing I knew the world governing

"Very few people have got the physical capabilities to do well." Brian Roberts, Sanderson's coach, says. Even fewer have the mental capabilites. But to find someone who has both, and to have the drive to carry on for as long as she has, is remarkable.

body was on the phone," she

"I have had a lot to overcome emotionally and physically." Sanderson says. I know the opposition at these Games is going to be tough but I know I can win."

A spell-binding mix of bravery and technology

By HENRY KELLY

these columns, after a Nigel Mansell motorracing victory that I found quite exciting considering my total lack of interest in the sport, I wrote that I feared the men in white coats would eventually come and take me away. After Mansell's victory at Silverstone on Sunday, which I watched with absorbed fascination and delight. I think the fellows are camped on the lawn!

It was great stuff from start to finish and I even found myself urging on the pit workers as they changed Mansell's wheels, an urging that was unnecessary because they had, as Murray Walker told us, "all the time in the world to do it". They were deliberately slow and did it in just under 12 seconds in order to make no mistakes.

If I can identify my newfound interest in the motorracing game, it is that it combines great personal brav-ery and skill with what is obviously mind-bending technical knowledge. I suppose at another level, so, too, does horse racing, in which, as you may recall, I have an occasionl passing interest.

The day, Sunday at Silverstone, belonged to Mansell and his screaming followers who, at the end of the race, looked like a crowd of England football supporters at an away game, with their waving Union Jacks and clenched fists.

There, the comparison ends. The motor-sport crowd did not look aggressive, though they nugged and pulled at poor Mansell within seconds of his victory and could have caused a serious accident by, as it were, running on the pitch the way they did.

the Silverstone au-thorities and the colice doing about all this? One brave policeman, evoking memories of that constable on the white horse at Wembley all those years ago, seemed to stand between Nigel Mansell and suffocation. Where were the stewards? Where the extra police for such an eventuality? I do not know the answers but; to coin a phrase, I think we should be fold.

The emphasis on crowd control today, at every sport, is almost over the top. At Lord's, I often get the feeling the authorities would still like to have the use of the rack for those who dare to step on the pitch at the end of a game. Yet within the last 20 years. I have been to Lord's for Test matches where we ambled on to the pitch at the end of the day to peer at the pitch.

Today, barriers, lines of policemen and stewards stop

SPORT ON TELEVISION

THE WEEK

ing surface after a football match. Yet when serious trouble and injury could have resulted from supporters flooding on to the track a Silverstone, while cars were racing by at speeds of one hundred miles and more per hour, there was no security whatsoever. Crazy.

Watching the scenes, the ever-enthusiastic Murray Walker was moved to change his mind from one of approva to one of understandable disapproval. He was supported by James Hunt, who is fast becoming a very good television commentator.

There is a rumour going around that Walker and Hunt do not always see eye to eye or perhaps talk ear to ear. If this is so, they conceal it well and are every bit as good a double act as Peter Alliss and Alex Hay on the golf.

new cricket star was born over the weekend, though like a famous character in the novel At Swim Two Birds by Flann O'Brien. this character was born at the age of 33. I refer to Simon Hughes, the former Middlesex bowler, now doing even better for Durham. He was one of the BBC team at Lord's for the Benson and Hedges Cup final on Saturday and Sunday and a very fine fist be made of it, too.

He is clear, precise and a good reader of the game, and the Beeb should snap him up now for when his retirement arrives. Then someone should teach him how to smile, just once or twice a year, and he would be perfect.

Yosser", as he is known to his friends, perpetually has the air of a man who could tell you he had just won the pools and make it sound like bad news. As a cricket commentator, however, he is first class.

One final point this week. I was fascinated to watch the slow bowling on Sunday afternoon of Hampshire's Udal who took three wickets and kept his nerve while the hatsmen were trying to hit him of his length. I can promise you that, when I was 16 years of age, I bowled at roughly the same slow pace as Udal. Gentle, to be sure, but, one hoped, guileful Could the Kent captain then please tell me what on earth his batsmen were doing wearing their wretched hel-mets while the slow bowler

SANDOW

BOTTO IN HELDER

THE PERSON NAMED IN

TENNIS: FIRST-ROUND DEFEAT FOR SOUTH AFRICA IN FEDERATION CUP

Canada's triumph spoils the script AUCTIONS

FROM BARRY WOOD IN FRANKFURT

THE return of South Africa to international team tennis after an absence of 15 years was marked by a first-round defeat against Canada in the Federation Cup yesterday. Winners of the competition in 1972, when they defeated Great Britain in the final in Johannesburg, they last played in 1977 at Eastbourne.

Yesterday's result means that South Africa will now have to win both their reversedraw play-off matches if they are to qualify automatically for next year's finals.

Mariaan De Swardt was defeated 2-6, 6-2, 6-2 by Rene Alter, and Amanda Coetzer. perhaps the most improved player this year, lost by the same score to Patricia Hy, who arrived in Canada by way of Cambodia and Hong Kong. The latter match was a delightful spectacle, in which the initiating countless absorbing rallies, rather than as an act of aggression. Both players combined to produce beautiful touch tennis, exhilarating exchanges at the net and skilful baseline play. "We might have felt a little pressure because we are not used to playing team events, and we both held back after winning the first sets instead of going out to win," Coetzer said. "But it was a good experience for us and when we come back we'll be a little wiser," de Swardt added.

So Canada can look forward to a second-round match with the defending champions and second seeds, Spain. There were long faces among the Argentine team. despite the win over Mexico. Argentina's participation in the Olympics is in doubt.

ing deal with Adidas to cover all those participating in Barcelona, but the tennis players are already endorsed by other manufacturers. The players have offered to wear all white clothing with no endorsements, but that is apparently unacceptable to the AOC, and the team now fears it may be prevented by its own. country from participating.

"They are being very inflexible, and there is a real danger

we will be unable to play," Mercedes Paz said. In other matches, Nathalie Tauziat was defeated by China's Li Fang, but France won the deciding doubles. Spain won both singles rubbers in their 2-1 victory over Belgium. Conchita Martinez beat Dominique Monami, 6-1, 6-4 and Aranda Sánchez Vicario beat Sabine Appelmans, 6-1, 6-2, HESULTS: First round: Spain bt Belgium, 2-1 (Spanish names first): C Martinez bt 0 Mornam, 6-1, 6-4, A Sánchez Viceno bt 8

Accelerans, 6-1, 6-2; Sánchez Vicario and Appelmans, 6-1, 6-6; Sánchez Vicario and Pérez lost to Monaru and Appelmans 5-1, 4-8 Australia bit Bulgaria, 2-1 (Justralia harnes tiraf) R McCullian lost to M Malaeva, 6-7, 2-6; N Provis to K Melseva and M Malaeva, 8-2, 6-1, 8-weden to Switzentand, 2-1 (Swedien names tiraf); C Dahlman bits. 2-1 (Austrian names tiraf); P Ritter lost to R Dragomir, 4-6, 1-6; J Wiesner bit Romenta, 2-1 (Austrian names tiraf); P Ritter lost to R Dragomir, 4-6, 1-6; J Wiesner bit Spirise, 6-0, 6-3; Ritter and J Wiesner bit Dragomir and Spirise, 7-5, 6-3.

Carrada bit South Africa, 2-1 (Carradian names tiraf); R Simpson-Atlar bit Manaan de Sward, 2-6, 2-6, 2-7, 4-7, 3-6; France bit China, 2-1 (Franch names tiraf); P Ritter lost to U. Farig, 1-6, 7-6, 3-6; T Laudet and 1 Demongoot bit U Fang and Tang Min, 6-3, 7-6. (Si bit Finland, 2-1 (CS) names firsf); E Malacrova and Manayutova bit Dahlman and Thoman, 7-5, 4-6, 5-1, Malacrova and Manayutova bit Dahlman and Tarochostovations to the tire tire.

Czechoslovskia bt Hungary 3-0 (Czechoslovsk nemes first): R Zrubskovs bt A-M Foldenyl, 6-7, 6-2, 6-1; Movotne bt A-M Foldenyl, 6-7, 6-1; Novotne and A-Stmadovs bt Ternesvari and V Csurgo, 1-8, 7-5, 7-5. South Korea, lead tally, 1-0 (Korean names first): R-South Korea, lead tally, 1-0 (Korean names first): R-South Korea, lead tally, 1-0 (Korean names first): R-South Korea, 1-8, 4-4 Argantina tally (Korean names first): R-South Korea, 1-8, 6-4; 6-4; M-Saton St. L-Noveto, 6-2, 6-1; M-Paz bt A Gavaldon, 6-3, 5-7, 8-2. Paz and F Tarabim bt Noveto and Gavaldon, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Putting more wheels on courts

By Allx Ramsay

GETTING enough time on court at a busy tennis club is difficult enough at the best of times but for people with disabilities it can be an almost impossible task. Yesterday, the LTA Trust retail price goes to the fund launched a special edition cassette to be sold to raise TO: BOX No.:money for Tendis, which promotes the game among people with disabilities. The single "We Carry On", from Jeff Wayne's forthcoming album. Spartacus. will be sold C/O THE TIMES NEWSPAPERS, PO BOX 484, VIRGINIA through the clubs, at the STREET, grand slam tournaments and LONDON EI 9DD by mail order through sports magazines Nearly all of the £3 and the aim is to raise £250,000 over the next two

The money will be used to provide access ramps for wheelchairs and any facilities for people with special needs. Part of the campaign is to promote awareness and to help the move toward integraincluding the deaf and the mentally handicapped. Wheelchair tennis is unique in disabled sport in that it is classified by tennis ability rather than physical disability and it is also simple to play between able-bodied and disabled athletes, the only difference in the rules being that the ball is allowed to bounce twice for the wheelchair athlete. "At the moment we have about 100 players but we want to increase that to 1,000 within the next five years," Martin McElhatton, chairman of the National .Wheelchair Tennis Association, said. Once people are encouraged to take up tennis, the aching is no different than that given to the able-bodied. "We can show the coaches that the people in the wheelchairs know about the chairs. They just need coaching in the techniques of the tennis strokes," he said.

THE TIMES WALLSTEIN

> RACING Call 0891 500 123 Call 0891 100 123

> CRICKET Reports and results from Call 0839 555 510

Calle at 36p per min chesp rate, 48p per min other times inc VAT

KNIGHTSBRIDGE, SW1 EXCELLENT VALUE SHOP TO LET 1450 Sq. Ft. NEW LEASE CLUTTONS 071 408 1010

High Yielding fully let frushold industriel investment. Net income £88,000 p.c. (including quoted rent reviews 4 long term leases on 3 Considerable redevelopment aried Location -Wechester & At Offers invited DOCHERTY & CO. Tel 0342 833466,

CORNER OF BLANDFORD ST CHILTERN ST W 1
Two Retail fully fisted steps TO LET comprising 260/270 as it
New leases available at rests from £15,-17,500pc exclusive [MMEDIATE POSSESSION Tel: 071-405 2377 Ref DL/EW

OFFICES South Audiery Street, Superb sell contained office actions of office actions of office actions of office actions of the condicion in surface of 1050, 150 a fth or evaluable in surface of 1050, 150 a 900 at h. Long lease or short left sowipolite are cample, overoging 5.23 per sq 1, laured cited postession. Apply: 07 1 409 2377

Ref DI ISM

المكذا من الاصل

THE WELL

IN REVEN

WY WAY

Gone Savage is favourably drawn

NOW that the starting stalls will be on the far side of the sprint chute at Sandown this evening. Gone Savage has a good chance of repeating his recent victory over the same course and distance from his No 12 benth.

He is my nap to win the LBC Newstalk 97.3Fm Mike Dickin Handicap in the hands of Steve Cauthen.

A smart two year-old two seasons ago when he was Lirained by Paul Cole, Gone Interestingly, he was bought back by one of his breeders. Rex Mead, and sent to Toby Balding who did so well for them with Gone Savage's elder three parts sister, Rivers Rhapsody.

Hopes that Gone Savage would repay their faith were partially fuelled when he was beaten two short heads at Salisbury in May, only to be dashed on his return to the Wiltshire track early the fol-lowing month when he fin-

MICHAEL PHILLIPS

and the dreaded virus. Whatever the reason, the Gone Savage who made all the running to win the Victoria Amateur Turf Club Handicap at Sandown on Eclipse day was a totally different horse.

Relishing the softer condi-tions underfoot, he never Altho looked like getting caught by Yet or Olitantsiontein and with that confidence restoring run behind him I now expect Gone Savage to account for Olifantsfontein again, albeit on worse terms.

At their best, Masnun, Letsbehonestaboutit and Paddy Chalk would all go well but they could be fighting a losing battle with the disadvantage of their low draw.

The programme can begin with Iron Merchant putting his experience to good use in the EBF Supersloane Maiden

Although officially still a maiden this Reg Akehurst trained two-year-old has in fact won at Windsor where he pipped the useful Port Lucaya, only to be demoted for causing interference to the runner-up. Iron Merchant can be the first leg of a double for Akehurst, to be completed by Lazy Rhythm winning the Harpers and Queen

Handicap A success for Ahbab in the Yellow Glen Handicap can also trigger a double for Willie Carson, who should win the Bon Chic, Bon Genre Claiming Stakes on Regal Racer.

Mick Naughton, on his local Catterick track, looks all set to land another two-timer with Carlingford (3.30) and Rock Opera (4.30).

Jeune in demand for Ascot

By RICHARD EVANS

RACING CORRESPONDENT JEUNE emerged yesterday as the unexpected springer in the market for the King George VI and Queen Eliza-beth Diamond Stakes at

Geoff Wragg's Predominate Stakes winner was backed down from 25-1 to 16with both William Hill and

A R Dennis as punters went in search of an each-way alternative to St Jovite, the

by Michael Hills, was desperately unlucky in the King Edward VII Stakes at Royal Ascot when a fast-finishing

Wragg said yesterday: Jeune has been working very well since Ascot, where he was unlucky, but I would ideally like to have fast ground and would not want to see any

St Jovite, the impressive

Irish Derby winner, worked over seven-and-a-half furlongs yesterday and delighted his trainer, Jim Bolger, Partnered by Christy Roche, he eased short-priced favourite. Jeune, who will be ridden second to Beyton.

more rain."

ASCOL

Pollen Count recaptures top form at Saint-Cloud

FROM OUR FRENCH RACING CORRESPONDENT IN PARIS

POLLEN Count wined away the memory of two disappointing efforts when outpointing fellow British raider Great Palm in the group two Prix Eugene Adam at Saint-Cloud yesterday. Steve Cauthen made virtually all the running on the John Gosden-trained Pollen Count and had enough in reserve to fend off Great Palm by half a length. Fast Cure was a head away in third.

Pollen Count, winner of the Thresher Classic Trial at Sandown in April, was returning to his best after finishing sixteenth in the Derby and then seventh in the Grand Prix de Paris.

Cauthen said: "He was well suited by making the running today as he lacks a turn of foor and needs to take the sting out of his rivals early on.

"He had a slight injury after winning at Sandown and it in a listed race.

was an interrupted preparation which caused him to run badly in the Derby."

Great Palm was running for the first time since finishing seventh in the Epsom classic. His jockey, Alan Munro, was delighted with the performance of the Paul Cole's colt in the ten-furlong contest. Pat Eddery, who finished fourth on Non Partisan, later partnered Euphonic to victory

	last year and he was eventually	ished last
	4014 IUI 3.318) OPTIMAN	That dismal performance
	Newmarket in the autumn.	has since been ascribed to a combination of back trouble
		·
	63 7
	the diameter of the second MANDARIN
	2.30 Grouse-N-Heather	THUNDERER
	3.00 Touch N' Glow -	2.30 Grouse N-Heather. 3.00 Hi Nod.
	3.30 Carlingford.	3.30 Kirsten.
	4.00 Maritime Lady. 4.30 Rock Opera.	4.00 Dune River.
	5.00 Green Flower.	4.30 Rock Opera_ 5.00 Wand.
	5.30 Breezy Day.	5.30 Never Late.
.14	Our Newmarket Correspondent: 5	00 Green Flower
116
	GOING: GOOD DRAW: 5F-7	F, LOW NUMBERS BEST SIS
	2.30 A ONE APPRENTICE CLAIM (£2,259: 1m 5f 175yd) (5 numers)	ING STAKES
	(	·
	1 (2) 00-5000 MEDIA STAR 23 (0.F.G) (T Kg 2 (5) 3-00534 SE THE BEST 26 (Ton-Sis Line 3 (6) 0003-10 File SCAT S ACC ON LINE	9 M Hardister 4-8-13
	(1) 60-1051 GROUSE-N-HEATHER 14 (C.P.	Der) M Toropkies 3-8-6
	5 (3) CHZ-DOT MYSTERY LAD 9 (BLF) (Saling) BETTING: 11-8 Septem H Handrer, 9-4 Mystery Lad, 9-	9 M Hesphini 4-8-13
		2 150 3500, 13-2 36 The Best, 20-1 Made She. D Holland (2-1) 8 160s 6 fan
		FOCUS
	BE THE BEST 11 4th of 12 to Khear in a bandon
	at Redcar (1m 31, firm). FULL SIGHT best Natral Exchange 41 in a 6-manur	Avocate 11/41 is a 7-resider claimer, here (1mr 44, good to firm).
	claimer, over course and distance (good), an pen- ultimate start, GROUSE-N-HEATHER that Lord	MYSTERY LAO beat Milityel 11 in 6-current claiming median at Edinbarch (1m. 71, nood to them).
	Wildrake start, GRADUSE-N-HEATHER best Lord	making at Edinburgh (fm. 71, good to firm). Saluction: GROUSE N. HEATHER
	3 00 (1100000000000000000000000000000000
	3.00 HUDDERSFIELD SELLING S (2-Y-0: £2,364: 7f) (10 ranners)	TAKES
	1 (4) 0043 DOC SPOT 11 (Mrs G Reen) J	H Wilson 8-11
7	2 (3) 503012 FANFAN 12 (B.D.BF.F) (P Save 3 (2) 042 HI NOO 13 (B Nortes) NI Carre	D M H Feelerha (L11 Y Darley C1
	4 (19) OR GAY HUNI 12 80 (Rodyle 150)	B Starsiev 8-41
	5 (8) 08 KARIOCA 25 (8F) (Mrs F Mose 6 (9) MUCHAL PRINCESS (S Hussai 7 (8) ROSE OF MAIN (J Chyton) J Be	alt) M Tompides 8-6
	7 (B) ROSE OF MAN (J Clayton) J Be 8 (7) 6 SEAN'S DELIGHT 13 (A4s S Be	17 8-6 0 Carter - 6 Month 60
	4 (B) D SEVINCH 7 (MB A Hassin) M 1	W Easierby 8-6, J Marsinal (7)
	10 (1) 082 TOUCH M ($1.0W 7 (Fell Circle BETTING: 9-4 Touch N Gion, 11-4 Figure, 4-1 Hi No	: Thomogéanach ( Phr.) N Trador 8-4 M Shiph' 96
	Princess, 12-1 Bay Russ, 18-1 others.
	THEN ALIVE AND IQUIES 9-2
	FORM	FOCUS
	DOC SPOT 241 3rd of 7 in Westerdon Lad to a natur at Boverloy (71 100yd, sod), FANFAN 61 2nd	TOUCH N' BLOW mick 2nd of 13 to Boldstille Break In a chainer at Redoor (71, good), with SEVINCH a
	OF 12 BO GET AL TOP GREE HI & CLAUMER AL SOLUTIONS	goor 196.
	(AW, 71, standard), with BAY RUM a poor 10th. Previously, best Wester George 2566 in a 7-moor	goor 198s. MEDSHAL PRINCENS (histor, his 14, cost 17,000grad in a half-stein, by Pencius Walk, lo steing witness kontants and Editors Mar. ROSE- OF MAN (Mar 30) is a pull-stein, by Bidd Onl, to seller at Carlisle (71, hard). HI NOO 141 2nd at 5 to Spring Species in an auxilian	glaylog whomas Molliants and Edition little, RUSE - OF MAN (Mar 30) is a pull-cister, by Bold Cod, to renden, here (61, good to flom). KAFIOCA 61 3e1 of 9 to Semply Arniss to a patter of Manusch (61, film).	ten-tus2 winner Four For Unch.
	A D Deliby will D I come of hereaft for each
	3.30 tetley bitter handscap (	E3 172: 1sp 4f 44vd) (6 runners)
	A NU RESIDENCE MATTER SEA SECTION OF THE PARTY OF THE PAR	A 10 Mileston # 8.0.10 T Dolon 97 (
	2 (6) 6/16-00 (METERSOUR 36 63 ON Cook) M	d as the last of the last States (1996)
	4 (2) 801111 CAPUNEFORD 2 (0.5) 546 519	had if Shugton 6-6-13 (Par) J Whater (6) 96 is J Marrales 6-8-11 Dean McKeown 95
	(4) 3453351 13421 (80 (18) (1804)00206.2) (	R Allerand (2-9-0 (Saul
1	RETTING: 9-4 Carlingtons, 11-4 Kirgles, 7-2 First Bid, 9-
	1991: DOCTOR'S REMEDY 5-7-6 S
7	FORM 1
	KATY'S LAD 3161 4th of 5 to Benden Bey in a - )	(ten 31, good to firm). MENGUS 1941 3rd of 7 to More Glas in a learning at Chester (firm 4f 60pt).
	RESIDENT THE CAMPAGE TO G & E-COMPAGE OF THE COMPAGE OF THE COMPAG	poort. PRST BID best Hillarb 141 in a 7-access bestdoor
	handican at Haydrock (1911 2) 120 pd. good to solit. REGITED has the Apolle 7 to a Fernance remains only CAPTED REFORM completed implies whose basting Attureus a hand in a 4-number handicap Edinburgh	at Redox (im 3t, pool in soil).
	COURSE ST	PECIALISTS

TRAINERS

-

BETTRIG: 13-8 Dane River, 7-4 Martines Lady, 7-2 Stilica, 16-1 Spartling Stiles, 25-1 Stamphen. 1991; REHAAN 9-0 L Detion (1-4 lav) L Cumani 5 ram FORM FOCUS DUNE NIVER'S best effect was when 41 End of 6 to Say Number to a craftion of Brighton (Ton., goad), who SULCA (same forms) 79(1 46), MARTITAE LADY'S 30 of 0 to Agues Ferencing in Minusten (16), good) makken. IMALICA (19) 440 of 7 to Owner's Orean to a making at Brighton (71, 5mm). STAMSHAW 231 last of 7 to Tomessod in a padumiton rece at Northeybarn (61, good to firm). Selection: MARITIME LADY 4.30 JOSHUA TETLEY HANDICAP ($2,384: 5f) (7 runners) (5) SD1553 CATHERIDES WELL 13 (CD.F.6.5) (R Cod M W Estatoly 9-8-13 ... K Darley 99 (2) 362-41 ROCK OPERA 13 (CD.F) Device) M Maughton 4-9-7 ... J Weaver (5) 97 (7) 09-0705 HBAGWORTH LAD 25 (CD.F) (Mrs C Calver) P Calve 3-9-3 ... A Culture 86 (2) 030234 SDEPTIME THOUGHTE 25 (CD.F) Gurr A Castroph D Chemma 8-9-1 Fracting (3) 96 (1) 65-0 STYLISH GURCH 11 (C Buckton) M W Estatoly 3-9-2 ... J Massald (7) - (6) 030236 LAST STRAW 8 (Marin Pound Racing Lin) A Junes 4-8-2 ... Claire Building (7) 98 (4) 4000-46 COTTABE BALLETY 16 (M McDonagh) W A Stephenson 4-7-11 . S Maloney (5) -SETTING: 15-8 Rock Opera, 7-2 Catesions Well, 11-2 Sobering Thoughts, 13-2 Lest Stans, 8-1 Cottage Belley, 16-1 Herrsworth Ltd., 14-1 Stylish Dutch. 1901: LADY'S MANTLE 7-7-12 8 Danson (10-1) 9 Bestimen 12 cm FORM FOCUS ROCK OPERA bast Serious Honry a neck in a 7-resener handicap, here (SL good in Bard), with CATHERBES WELL (Sin baster ett) 25 and HEMSWORTH LAD 7741 lest of 5 to Educated Pet in a handicap at Apr (SL form), SCREENING THOUGHUS 3544 this of 3 to Suip Carbon in a handicap at Southwell (AW, St., standard). STYLISH DUTEH 12 less of 7 to Ratio-A in a maiden at Beseriny (St., 2010). LAST STRAW's less meant effort sea when head 2nd of 10 in The Noble Dat in a location at Worksmann (St., possil to film), CUTTAGE GALLERY ST 6th of 9 to Hare Comes A Ser in a headlesp at Headlesn (St., film). Selection: CATHERINES WELL 5.00 DEWSBURY MAIDEN STAKES (£2,469; 1m 4f 44yd) (7 nunders) O/ MARESEN 1251 (A Bottou (Etoline) Ltd) Jimmy Fitzgenid 4-9-7 K ( Denlay OR RANDYRAY 6 (S Tahoma) J Mackin 7-9-7 M Birch SUPER BLUES (W Carriet) T Barron 5-9-2 Afex Gramme TUDEN PARK SOL (J Achley) P Beaus 8-9-2 N Concarion TUDEN PARK SOL (J Achley) P Beaus 8-9-2 N Concarion Sol G REEN FLOWER 7 (M A Makingan) M Stouts 3-8-3 K Toul G SREEN FLOWER 7 (M A Makingan) M Stouts 3-8-3 T Coden 0-8 WAND 84 (Chreston Stud) H Carel 3-8-3 A Mackingan METING: 5-4 Ward, 2-1 Breen Flower, 11-2 Diran Bag, 12-1 Mijrangan, 14-1 Randylany, 20-1 Soper Blund, 55-1 Thilan Perf. 1991: LATWAN 4-9-7 C Dayer (5-2) R Allen 4 re FORM FOCUS R.BASSEN, wicolog leuroler, 171 8th et 21 to Sectiol in a maiden at Donassier (St. groot). DIME SAG SAF 6th of 11 to lywase to a maiden at semantet (1m 41, good to fice) on penaltimate fact. Selection: WARD

DETTING: 13-6 Real Statem, 9-4 Streety Day, 7-2 Nover Late, 11-2 Thris-No-Finish

Guynor's Gift.

1991: NO CORRESPONDING RACE FORM FOCUS

BREEZY DAY 71 2nd of 4 to Stoding Sage in a Heart in a bundicap at Classer (71 122yd, good to riskner at Fendeck (87, ferst), REAL STITIANER | Term).

CEST fired.

THRE-NA-HELAH 3141 but of 6 to Hund On My

Subscious XEAL STURMEN

Gift from Tompkins

INDUSTRIAL relations at Mark Tompkins's Newmarket yard provide a model of goodwill when it comes to the efforts of Prize-money won by the filly is split among the stable staff and she contributed £2,500 to the pool by emphatically justifying 13-8 favouritism in the seller at Folkestone yesterday.

Tompkins was even prepared to buy her in for £3,500 guineas.

Hannon waits for tests

Cup at Newmarket.

Such a gesture would merit a greater reward than he has enjoyed of late — this was his first success in 37 days.

 $7.55\,$  LBC NEWSTALK 97.3 FM MIKE DICKEN HANDICAP

4.00 LEYBURN MAIDEN STAKES (3-Y-0: £2,259: 71) (5 runners)

away from two work compan-3.15 CHELSEA CLAIMING STAK (3-Y-0: £2,343: 1m 4f) (9) ions with ease. "I like the way the horse is at present. He is as well as he was when winning at the 5.30 LEVY BOARD FILLIES HANDICAP (£2,846: 5f 212yd) (4 runners) Curragh," Boiger commented. "He will canter for a few days and do more fast work on Friday or Saturday, depending on the going at Leopardstown. If the ground at the track is on the good side he will work ten furlongs

Saddlers' Hall continues to be well backed and William Hill trimmed the second favourite from 11-4 to 5-2 yesterday.

Victorious in all four outings this season, including the Coronation Cup at Epsom, Michael Stoute's big hope will work at Newmarket this morning and on Saturday. Stoute yesterday expressed himself "very happy" with Saddlers' Hall.

(£2,259: 6f 3

11-4 Farmer Jock Sincel Lil, 10-1 Pe

With the start of the National Hunt season just over a fortnight away, Mark Dwyer confirmed yesterday he will not have a retainer with Jimmy Fitzgerald for the first time since coming over from

Bolger: delighted

SOUTHWELL	3.45 ARMCHAIR CLUB HANDICAP (£2,448. 1m 4f) (13)
MANDARIN 2.15 Palacegate Prince, 2.45 One Magic Moment. 3.15 Firefighter. 3.45 Lord Advocate. 4.15 Dhahran. 4.45 Eriny. 5.15 Grubby. THUNDERER 2.15 Morning News, 2.45 Glenelianne. 3.15 Firefighter. 3.45 Lord Advocate, 4.15 Dhahran. 4.45 Times Are Hard. 5.15 Arrogant Daughter.	1 0325 SPRINGS WELCOME 4 (CD.F.6) C Cyzer 6-0-13 A Munru 6 2 4-42 MIZYAN 25 (87) 1 Barries 4-9-6. N Dey 2 4-42 MIZYAN 25 (87) 1 Barries 4-9-6. N Dey 3 500-11 HE LUCIDISSER 445 (0.75) R Hollieshead 5-0-10 W Ryam 11 4 4340 PLEASURE AHEAD 32 M Doom 5-0-6. Date Gibson 16 5 0002 LERBO ARVOCATE 14 (V.CO) M Maphton 4-9-2. M Ruberts 16 0034 CHEENY POT 9 (5) (V) Dennys Smith 4-9-1. J Lower 17 0050 MILZO 6 55 (V) J Brander 5-8-1. N Adams 8 0406 ARMASHDOCER 12 D Sesse 4-7-13. D Biggs 2 9 0004 XDMORY 39 K Hong 4-7-12. A Gard 77 2 10 -000 ARMOCY 32 (R) S Mettin 4-7-9. Darie Mettin 6-100 ARMOCY 32 (R) S Mettin 4-7-9. Darie Mettin 6-100 SWELL TIME 16 C Alten 4-7-7. Daries (S) 13 050- ANDERSON ROSE 551 (G) D Wintle 4-7-7. R Smet 4-9-4 Lord Admocate, 100-30 Springs Welcome, 4-1 Miners, 6-1 Placeter Amend 8-1 Queens Tour, 16-1 Obers.
GOING: STANDARD SIS DRAW: 5F-1M, LOW NUMBERS BEST	4.15 BLACKFRIARS MAIDEN STAKES (2-Y-0: £2,427: 7f) (9)
2.15 MAYFAIR SELLING STAKES (2-Y-O: $2.385: 61) (11 runners)  1	1 DHAHRAN P Cole 9-0. A Moore E 2 NOVAN 25 (8P) IN Bed 9-0. M HHs 5 3 (80) PME ROSE LAD 51 B Bessley 9-0. D Michols 8 4 6362 PRINCE PAINTER 9 R Febre 9-0. J Lowe 5 5 SOLOMAN SPRINGS S Norton 9-0. J Cornel 8 HEART BROWEN Jamery Fitzgeslu 8-1. K Febra 7 LA BONTA J Berry 8-9. J Carrol 8 ISANX MORRACH R Hollinshand 8-9. W Pryss 3-9 6 SABA RLLE Bod Jones 8-9. K Day 9 7 FABA RLLE Bod Jones 8-9. K Day 10-1 Heart Broken, 20-1 other: 10-1 Heart Broken, 20-1 other: 4-45 BDO BINDER HAMLYN HANDICAP (£2,406; 1m) (6)
2.45 BATTERSEA HANDICAP (£2,364: 6f) (10)  1 3430 TATE DANCES 12 (6) R Assistant 3-9-10	1 4551 ERBNY 4 (CO.S) S Norton 3-16-1 (Ser)
Emma O'Gormient (2) 5 4 0243 WELLSY LAD 25 (CD, 8) D Chapman 5-9-1 S Wood 3 5 5555 JOVAL KATE 4 (CD) B Clison 5-8-9 A Marro 2 6 1020 SWINGING LADY 4 (CD) W Heigh 4-8-8 F Norton (3) 1 7 2324 FIGHTER SQUADRON 4 (V,C,BF) J Glover 3-8-3 J Fortume 6 8 2020 HUBBERS FAVOURITE 12 Mrs N Macauley 4-8-2 N Adianus 4 9 -001 ONE MAGIC MOMENT 4 (CD, 8) C Cyzer 4-7-12 (7es.) D Biggs 8 10 6-04 GLENELIANE 8 (B) J Harris 4-7-7	5.15 LEVY BOARD MAIDEN STAKES (3-Y-0 fillies: £2,196: 7f) (6)  1
3-1 Tate Dancer, 4-1 Fighter Squadron, 9-2 Land Macker, 5-1 Swinging Lady, 8-1 Polococols Racing, 8-3 Methods Foreigns, 14-1 others,	COLIDGE OBECIALISTO

	COURSE SPECIALISTS
ŒS	TRAINERS: C. Nelson, 12 winners from 37 runners, 32-4%, Mar Whotfeld, 3 from 11, 27-3%; B Elscon, 3 from 13, 22-1%; J Barry from 118, 20-3%, W O'German, 25 from 128, 19-2%; C Cycs., 9 t 44, 18-2%.
W Ryen 3 W Neverse 5 A Adams 6 A Berth (7) 1	JOCKEYE: M Pobers, 6 vermine from 25 ridge, 23.1%; D Pear kern 15, 20.0%, W Ryan, 13 from 77, 16.9%; Erman O'Enrintin from 132, 15.9%, M Day, 13 from 83, 15.7%, D Michails, 16 from 14.8%.
M Roberts 7 M Godsate (7) 9 K Fallon 2	Blinkered first time
J (Dudam 8	CATTERICK BRIDGE: 2.30 Full State, 3.00 Bay Plan SAN

7.30 APPLEGATE HANDICAP

MANDARIM 6.30 Yes. 7.00 April Double. 7.30 Wassela. 8.00 Jaliaat. 8.30 Drought. 9.00 Rive-Jumeile. THUNDERER 6.30 Yes. 7.00 Miss Fayruz. 7.30 La Kermesse. 8.00 Jaliaat. 8.30 Drought. 9.00 Shirring Jewel. RICHARD EVANS: 8.00 Jaliaat. Our Newmarket Correspondent: 6.30 INDIAN ENDEAVOUR (nap). 7.30 La Kermesse.	1 0214 WASSEA 11 (BE) A Scotl 9-7 J Fortons 3 2 0315 BEAR WITH ME 15 (BE) M Bell 9-7 M Hills 1 3 2110 MAND ON HEART 8 (D.F) W Happe 9-6 N Day 2 4 9704 MILET 13 (6) B Harbory 9-6 R Dockmare 4 5-4 Hand On Heart, 100-30 La Kermesse, 4-1 Weenels, 8-1 MERIS, 10-1 Bear With Me.  8.00 RIVER BURE MAIDEN STAKES (2-Y-0: 52,259: 61 Syd) (9) 1 03 65-54 MALER 11 J Physic 9-0 R Cockman 8 2 1 JALLAR 19 L Costan 9-0 L Deltor 4
GOING: GOOD DRAW: 8F 3YD-1M 3YD, HIGH NUMBERS BEST	3 0 SIDE BAR 9 M Ryan 9-0 M Tebboth 3 4 0 TAIDE 37 0 Morley 9-0 P Robbuson 6 5 UME RIVER M Tomphius 9-0 P Robbuson 6 6 0 HOME AFFAM 7 D Thom 8-9 8 Raymond 6

DRAW: 6F 3YD-1M 3YD, HIGH NUMBERS BEST  6.30 BATCHELDER HANDICAP (52,259: 6f 3yd) (9 runners)  1 5002 ROWN SIDEANOUR 13 (6) R Gund 3-10-0	6 O HOME APPEN 7 O TROM 8-9 7 43 JADE FILHRIER 18 Mes N Macauley 8-9 8 40 RED BALLET 23 Mes N Macauley 8-9 9 ROYAL FLEX Mes L Piggot 8-9 9-4 Jakan, 3-1 Jack Runner, 4-1 Royal Flex, 11-2 Red 10-1 Une River, 12-1 others.
2 0064 FARMER JOCK 11 (CD FS) Mcn M Macauley 10-9-9 M Roberts 5 3 0342 YES 11 (CD GS) D Them 4-9-6. 4 0-00 DORROWS LAD 8 (D.6.5) M Trouplants 10-9-8	8.30 COURTHOUSE CLAIM! (£2,427: 1m 6f 17yd) (7)  1 /022 BRIGGSCARE 13 (CD.F) W Jurys 5-9-11 2 0262 SHARP TOP 14 (S) M Ryss 4-9-6 3 D UGLY 32 R Had 6-9-3 4 /180 SPARKUER GEBE 25 (B.D.6) R O'Sulhest 5 DROUGHT 12 M Stoute 3-8-5 6 -002 SHARI R YER 8 S Weets 3-8-3
7.00 HARRISON SELLING STAKES (2-Y-0; £1,548; 7f 3yd) (5)	7 4000 ROSER RÅBBIT 6 R Boss 3-8-0

7.00 HARRISON SELLING STAKES (2-Y-0: £1,548: 7f 3yd) (5)	7 4000 ROBER RABBIT 6 R Boss 3-8-0 M M Roberts 3 8-2 Drought, 7-2 Briggscare, 9-2 Shairp Yop, 8-1 Sharrib Flyin, 8-1 Roger Rabbit, 10-1 Spanifer Geba, 14-7 Ugly.
1 000 LEFAL OANCER 11 R WRitens 8-11. — A Cockrand 6 2 900 LOFFV DEED 19 M Prescot 8-11. — M Roberts 4 8 Roberts 1 4 36 MRSS FAVRIZ 13 Mis 1 Piggot 8-6. — L Piggot 3 5 005 MRSS FAVRIZ 13 Mis 1 Piggot 8-6. — L Delton 5 L	9.00 HORNING HANDICAP (£2,259: 1m 2f 21yd) (7)
Evens Miss. Fayroz, 9-4 Lotty Deed, 8-1 April Double, 8-1 Miss: Fibrare, 10-1 Legal Dekotr.	1 3110 BOWDEN BOY 4 (B.D.F.G.S) N Callaghat 4-10-0 M Roberts 4 2 5131 SHIMMS JEWEL 14 (C.D.F.S) Mrs L Propost 5-9-12 L Propost 2 3 4305 RAVE-JUMELLE 42 (D.F.G) M Boll 4-9-10
COURSE SPECIALISTS	4 3142 TAYLORS PRINCE 19 (CD.F.6) H Collegation 5-9-8 C Hawksley (7) 7
TRANSPIS: M State. 22 womes from 64 names. 26.25; 7 Gosten. 11 from 49, 22.4%; W Harpes, 10 from 45, 22.2%; N Callaghan, 7 from 44, 15.9%; D Wilson, 4 from 25, 15.4%. DOCKEYS: 1. Piggot, 6 wiscers from 21 roles, 28.6%; L Detion. 20 from 105, 19.0%, M Roberts, 37 from 204, 18.1%; M Hills, 6 from 50, 16.0%; R Cochane, 14 from 108, 13.0%; M Tebhitt, 5 from 42, 11.9%	5 0-00 CLIFTON CHABE 11 (BF) M Jerves 3-8-3 6 Creatock 5 8 2005 MARJONS BOY 8 (B.D.G.) C Broad 5-7-7 C Hawtestey (7) f 7 AU- RASHITA 356 G Eden 5-7-7 G King 8 3-1 Bouden Boy, 100-30 String Jewel, 4-1 Rhe-Junefis, 6-1 Taylors Prince, 8-1 Citizon Cosse. 10-1 Marjors Boy. 12-1 Rashita.

7-4 Firelighter, 100-30 Winter Lightnung, 4-1 Thursletterd One, 5-1 Tanana, 10-1 Militador, 20-1 others.

YARMOUTH

_	4 0 TALOUT 37 D MORRY 9-0
6	9-4 Juliani, 3-1 Judin Russes, 4-1 Royal Riss, 11-2 Red Ballet, 8-1 Silen Miller. 10-1 Uline River, 12-1 collects.
556139247	8.30 COURTHOUSE CLAIMING STAKES (£2,427: 1m 6f 17yd) (7)  1.422 STARGESCARE 18 (50.9) W Janus 5-9-11
7	2 0352 SHARP TOP 14 (5) M Ayas 4-9-5
	8-2 Droughs, 7-2 Briggscare, 9-2 Sharp Yop, 8-1 Sharth Flyin, 8-1 Roger Rabbit. 10-1 Sparider Gebe, 14-7 (fgly.
64185	9.00 HORNING HANDICAP (£2,259: 1m 2f 21yd) (7)
#	1 3110 BOMDEN BOY 4 (B.D.F.E.S) N Calleghan 4-10-0. M Roberts 4 2 5131 SHWINIO LEWEL 14 (B.D.F.E) Nrs L Piggot 5-9-12 L Piggot 2 3 4905 RWA-JUMELLE 42 (D.F.E) M Bail 4-9-10
1	5 0-00 CLIFTON CHARE 11 (BF) M Janes 3-8-3 G Creatock 5
	8 2005 MARJONS BOY 6 (E.D.G) C Broad 5-7-7 C Hawksley (7) 1 7 /OU- RASHITA 356 G Eden 5-7-7 G King 6
1	7 /OU- RASHITA 356 G Eden 5-7-7 G King 6

		(£2,951: 5f 6yd) (12 runners)
MANDARIN 6.25 Iron Merchant. 6.55 Lazy Rhythm. 7.25 Ahbab. 7.55 GONE SAVAGE (nep). 8.25 Regal Racer. 8.55 Retouch. RICHARD EVANS: 6.55 TIGER SI 7.25 Dance On Stepence. The Times Private Hendicappers	HOOT (nap)	(11) 610121 PLASH FACT 16 (CD.F.S.S) (C Weight) J Mile 7-10-0
GOING: GOOD	DRAW: 5F 6YD, HIGH NUMBERS BEST	8.25 BON CHEC BON GENRE CLAIMING STATES (3-Y-0: £2,630: 1m 2f 7yd) (9 runners)
3 (4) RECOM ACCREAMY 9 (C Spins 4 (3) 32 ENDM MERCHANT 9 (C Spins 5 (1) 3 KISMETM 11 PH Kapit 8 Lim 5 (7) 4 RACING TELESPAPH 14 (BP 7 (9) REALTIES (S Yames) 6 Ham 7 (9) REALTIES (S Yames) 6 Ham 9 (2) 43 THE PREMIER COPPES 9 (P) (2)	P Milchell 9-0 S Castinan - R Purisan (3) - (3) - (4) Schellin 9-0 R Purisan (3) - (4) Schellin 9-0 R Purisan (3) - (4) Schellin 9-0 R Part Eddery 99 ks 9-0 R Price (5) 75 (6) (7) (7) (7) (7) (7) (7) (7) (7) (7) (7	1 (9) 4 HARCLET 18 (C Lines) D Cospose 8-10 A Shouts 82 2 (4) 000-063 KANDY SECRET 6 (V) (C Chibes) R Hamon 8-7 Pat Eddey 79 8 (6) 8-16290 REGAL RAISER 12 (5) L South) D Bourath 8-7 W Carson 99 8 (8) 8-16290 REGAL RAISER 12 (5) L South) D Bourath 8-7 Bourath 8-7 R
1991: SAHARA STAR 8-	9 J Reki (5-2) M Stoute 9 asa	8.55 OKAY YAH HANDICAP (£3,301: 1m 6i) (9 runners)
(10) 023005 SWET HERM COMMUNER 22 4 (16) 00-0605 MORTHERM COMMUNER 22 5 (3) 3-02054 SR OLIVER 21 (As S Approx 6 (15) 2503-50 PETIDOLIT POMER 32 (V.F. 7 (7) 3-3054 SUDAMOR 22 (0 Stad) M He 9 (14) 60-3564 TISER SHOOT 16 (V.S) (C. 10) (72) 11 (13) 6560-6 ALL EATZ 13 (R Cost Racia 12 (6) 435362 SAREEN EUPPESS 11 (D) (C. 13 (4) 5000-6 MARRYS LAUY 16 (4) SMHY 14 (19) 500-6 TRYANYS CASE 76 (4) Reserved	R Hausen 4-10-0 P. (Pin Dat Sathle) M Prostoll 3-9-12. G Daffield 9 Pers N Desteld B Milliona 4-9-12. J Williams 89 (G.F.E) (M. Ewent) T Alonghton 4-9-8 Paul Estimy 86 (G.F.E) (M. Ewent) T Alonghton 4-9-8 Paul Estimy 86 (G.F.E) (M. Ewent) T Alonghton 4-9-8 Paul Estimy 86 (G.F.E) (M. Ewent) T Alonghton 4-9-8 Paul Estimy 96 (G.F.E) (M. Ewent) Nor B Westing 5-9-2 N Hower 91 (M. Estimos 3-9-9 (M. Estimos 3-9 (M. Estimos 3-	7 (9) 3-17322 PROSEQUENDO 3S (6) (2 Deniets) M Dece 5-8-2. Dele Gibenn 94 8 (8) 244-44S NAMEDOR SAYADAN 11 (Derien Rechard) R Simpson 4-8-0. A Teclar (5) 96 9 (2) 083048 PRINSCACY 4 (0) (6 Berenson) C C Bissy 4-7-7. J Lowe 97 Lang handless: Infectory 7-4. BETTIME: 11-4 Prosequendo, 7-2 Barrish, 6-1 Manager Sayadan, 6-1 Habridaes, 8-1 Releach, Castle Courageous, 18-1 Jungle Dancer, 14-1 Marine Society, 16-1 Infectory.  1891: WITHESS 8(0X 4-9-1 S Cauthen (16-8 tay) J Gestion 6 ran  COURSE SPECIALISTS  TRAINERS Wits Rus % JOCKEYS Witness Ridgs % M Prescott 7 29 24.1 S Cauthen 40 214 18.7

	19 20 BETTI soat F	(5) (8) (8) (0) (5)	206500 206500 (-2 Prince Samen Eq	SPRESANT METHYLL 9 (CD.A.S.) (B.LRameel) P. Hondrig 3-7-72 (Kum manus II) V SPRESANT METHYLL 9 (CD.A.S.) (B.LRameel) P. Hondrig 3-7-72 (Kum manus II) V Of Continess. 5-3 (Contines) P. Zanbon, 8-1 (Rose, Lazy Royalma, Sir Chem., 10-1 Pass- DESS., Scalance. 12-1 (Applicant Companies, Swift Bornance, 16-1 others. 1981: THRESHFIELD 5-9-7 J. Raid (3-1 for) B. Curley 2D con
ন্য	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11		413530 31-5306 3-60046 5-315 0-06110 010540 00020 102303 42-2310 030-503 34000-4	CIWGLEN HANDICAP (£2,929; 7f 16yd) (12 NETNEIS)  EIRO FESTIVAL 4 (50,9) (6 Pisca) Miss L Sidoud 3-10-0 D Hardson (5) 94  LA BAMEA 25 (D.EF.F.G.S) (4653 M MacRies) 6 Phicheod-Sprion 6-9-13 W Hood 96  CAROLES EXPRESS 14 (D.G.3) (Mr. 5 Cares) R Alement 4-9-11 L Carter (7) 97  ARBUR 5 (D.G.) (H Al-Haldson) P Veldera 3-9-9 W Cares 99  CAROLES EXPRESS 16 (D.G.) (H Harbory) 8 Harbory 9-9-7 W Cares 99  TRY LEGIAND 14 (D.G.) (J Develoy) W Carter 3-9-1 G Carter 19  REGISTRY 15 (D.G.) (1 (A) (1 (A)

1981: NO CORRESPONDING RACE

Beverley
Going: good to soft
2.00 (im 11 207)(d) 1, ARDISIA (M Roberts,
10-11 fav); 2, Kadari (B Raymond, 20-1), 3, Cutteer (J Caroll, 11-10) ALSO RAN 50
Ugithing Spark (4th), 4 ran, 71, 51, nk, P
Cole at Whatcomba. Tota, £1 70, DF: £3.90
CSF, £10.30.
2.30 (2m 35)(d) 1, MY DESIRE (J Lowe, 2-1); 2, Samain (N Carissia, 4-1); 3, Cabochon (Paul Ecidery, 13-8 fav) ALSO RAN:
6 Attachale (4th), 23 Hithaal (5th) 5 ran, Nh,
14, 77, 151 Mrs G Reveley at Sathum. Tota
£2.60; £1.30, £1.80, DF: £3.80, CSF 59.15,
2.00 (21 30, £1.80, DF: £3.80, CSF 59.15,
2.00 (21 100)(d) 1, ROUND BY THE RIVER
(G Duffield, 13-8 lay); 2, Aca Gal (F Norton, 15-8); 3, Gliddy Heighre M Roberts, 12-1).
41.90, 10, 51 W Hagh at Melton, 10-1, 15-83, 3, Gliddy Heighre M Roberts, 12-1).
41.91, 10, 51 W Hagh at Melton. Tota
£2.30, £1.90, £2.00 Ep. £2.40, CSF 59.85
3.30 (5t), 1, MSDEMEANOURS GIRL (B
Doyle, 15-2); 2, Playful Poet ($ Maloney, 7-2 tay); 3, Pagaboy (K Darley, 9-2), ALSO RAN: 7 Drum Sergeant (4th), Mercelth, B
Germin Fire, 12 Sumnie's Special, 14 State
Flyar (5th), 16 Seamere (5th), Toel-tha
Comet. 10 ran, 194, 11, 91, nk, 91, M
Charmon at Upper Lamboum. Tota 22.90;
£2.40, £1.90, £2.00, DF, £2.20, £1.06. Thosas: £119.35
4.00 (5th), 10 Viv's Pet (5th), 20 Contrac
Courness, Ring Tern, 35 Comet Whistpool
33 Apolio De Onertie, 10 ran, 194, 11, 114, 116, 1194, 1194 RICHARD Hannon is awaiting the outcome further tests to determine the reason for Shalford's flop in last Thursday's July The results of tests yesterday revealed that Shalford has a high 248.19. (Im 100yd) 1, CAPPAHOOSH (M Roberts, 15-8 fav), 2, Allegramente (M Birch, 13-2); 3, Anguish (F Norton, 9-1) ALSO RAN: 4 Denim Bus, 6 Maruffle (20), 11 Young Valentine (40), 12 Najeb, 20 Centrack (30), 33 Caherea School 9 ran, 41, 3, 41, 54, 154, H Collinghidge at Newmarket, 70th 22 40, 51, 40, 52, 20, 52, 30 DF 58.40 CSF 513.71. Tricost: 579.59 level of fibrinogen (protein) in his system.

Shalford was a heavily-backed 9-4 second favourite, but he dropped out tamely after making the early running and finished Hannon said: "A high fibrinogen level wouldn't be the reason for his run at Newmarket and we are hoping to throw more light on the problem when we get the results of more tests tomorrow.

VESTERBAYS RESULTS 5.00 (71 100)cl) 1, ARGYLE CAVALIER (Times Private Handicapper's top rating; N Kennedy, 11-2); 2, Amengue (N Certise, 10-1); 3, Regal Aure (M Roberts, 92), ALSO RAN: 15-8 law Boldwille Bash (4th), 15-2 Natty Brown, 8 Don't Be Sald, 12 Atherton Green (5th), Contract Else (8th) 8 zan. 1 kl, shift, 21, 214, 314. F Lee at Wirnstow Tote: 98.70; 21.80, 82.50, 82.10; DF: 825.70. CSF: 850.87, Troast: 8241.71. Piecepot: £41.00. Folkestone

Going: good to firm

1.45 (im if 149yd) 1, Shamshom Al Arab, (D Biggs, 14-1); 2, Long Furlong (3-1 say); 3, Amazon Express (16-1), 14 ran, 14, 34, W Carrer Tote: £53.70; £7.80, £1.20, £8.90. DF £175.30, CSF £55.41, Tricasl: £842.62, 2.15 (im if 149yd) 1, Bászon Of Troy (T Ounn, 25-1), 2, King's Guest (9-1); 3, Continuity (13-8 tax), 7 ran, 2, 5, 1 T Inomson Jones Tote, £19.70; £5.10, 54.80 DF £75.60, CSF £187.68, 2.45 (61 189yd) 1, Karducky Stadet (W Carson, 10-1); 2, May Hits Lagacy (11-1), 3, Honey Viscon (15-2) Shalmen 7-2 fav 11 ran, 2, 31, R Hannon, Tote £7.60; £2.50, £2.50, £2.30, £2.30, £1.30 DF £190.50, CSF, £102.57 Tricast, £787.26.
3,15 (81), Guyrnors Gift (P Robinson, 13-8 lay); 2, No Editas, (9-2); 3, hifam Protege (16-1), 8 ran NR Tax Avoidance, 41, 191 M Tomplons, Tote: £2.60, £1.20, £1.50, £3.30, £7.50, £9.00 CSF, £9.59, 3, 45 (61), 1, Maybe Gold (T Ouinn, 9-1); 2, Trivoursinspoints (11-4); 3, Defenceless (11-2), Field Of Vision 7-4 fav, 7 ran, 2, 141 D Arburhoot, Tote: £3.60; £1.40; £2.00 Eff. £1.00 Eff

Windsor Bohigt good 6.30 (1m 2f 7yd) 1, Shaffaari (B Raymond, 7-1), 2, Bengal Tiger (4-1), 3, Big Par (9-4 law) 22 ran. NR. Kalamoss Nk., 161. P Evens. Tote: $12.60, $3.30, $2.10, $1.70 DP $299.20 CSP: $23.99

8-55 (SI 10)(d) 1. Millyant (M Roberts, 8-1); 2. Two Times Tweete (13-8); 3. Bichette (Evens lav), 9 ran. 21, 21 R Guest, Tote-09.40; 52.00, 51 10, 51.20 DF- 55.60 CSS. 521.15. P2.1.15

7.20 ($f 217yd) 1, Ingenuity (M Roberts, 7-1), 2, Kipin (8-1); 3, Grey Charmer (8-1); 4, Chance To Dream (25-1), Rock Song 4 lav 17 ran. 3:94, 21 Lord Huntingdon, Toter 62.10; 5:160, 5:210, 5:20, 5:5 70. DF, 5:24.60. CSF: 5:39 62. Thoast: 2416 61 Shocking Times (12-1) was withdrawn, not under orders — rule 4 applies to all bets, deduction 5 p in the pound.
7.50 (im $1.35 set). Helipsping (F Open 7. 7.50 (1m3 135yd) 1, Mahrajan (T Cunn, 7-1), 2, Beccaby Boy (5-1); 3, Plan Ahead, (9-2), 1-lay) Tour Leader, 9-2, 1-lay) Tour Leader, 12 ma, 3, 2/4, C Benstead, Tote: £8.40; £2.80, £2.00, £1.60 DF: £36.70 CSF: £8.43, Tricast: £290.53 8.20 (5f 217yd) 1, Carrantia (Stephen Davies, 10-1); 2, Abbey's Gai (15-8 tay); 3, Dataish (7-1); 11 man, NR; Poly Leach, 94, 31, B Paling, Tote; 121,60; £4,60, £1,80, £2,20 DF; £28,20, CSF; £30,63 8.50 (1m 2 7yd) 1, impertal Ballet (Pat Eddery, 1-4 tay); 2, Desen Peace (8-1), 3, Clurcan (20-1), 5 ran 6l, hd. H Cecil, Tote, £1 20; £1 10, £2 40, DF (2.20, CSF; £2 81. Placepot £30.10,

Beverley Going: good to soft 6.35 (1m 3! 216yd) 1, Storm Dust (G Carter, 6-4 tav); 2, Arfey (7-4), 3, Tudor Island (12-1), Hd. 294. J. Fanshave. Tote: 52.40, 51.10, £1.50, DF. £2.20 CSF: £4.30. 7.05 (1m 1f 207yd) 1, Floering Line (G Cener, 11-2), Jazzlan (3-1) 3, Touch Above (8-1). Arak 9-4 lav 6 ran. %1, 114. P

Monday's late results Wighern, Tota: £8 40, £2.60, £1.60, DF. £16.60, CSF £20 31. 7.85 (1m 100yd) 1. Pride Of Pendle (Anthee Farret, 9-1); 2. Brilliant (2-1 tav), 3. Thundering (7-2) 10 ran. NK, 5. P Celver. Tote: £10 90. £170, £150, £160. DF £11 80, CSF. £23.57. Tncast: £82.23 8.05 (5h) 1, Classic Storm (J Carrol, 2-1 ji-lay), 2 Broin Gern (14-1); 3, Purchased By Phane (2-1 ji-lay) 6 ran 1 lbl 2 lbl J Bern, 10re: 53.20, 51.90, 55.0 DF 19.20 CSF, 523.36. After a stewards' enqury, result stood. 9.05 (1m 3/ 218yd) 1, Europeist (Alex Greaves, 11-10 tsv); 2, Hauf-Bnon (5-1); 3, Satu (7-1) 5 ran. 5, 4l. T Barron Tote $1,80; £1.50, £1.60, DF; £4.00, CSF; £8.32 Placepot: £162.40. 0891-168+ ALL RESULTS 168
ALL COMMENTARIES 268

Derbyshire in strong position after first day

Hampshire collapse cannot be blamed on the pitch

but a green-looking pitch was dry at the start. It certainly played more slowly than Derbyshire must have hoped when they chose to field, although there was always some bounce available for those able to exploit it and who better than Bishop and Mal-colm? Later when the sun broke through some heavy cloud on a humid day, it was the turn of Warner, Mortensen and Cork to bene-

Bishop always bowled with control and fire and had Terry held at third slip in his first spell. It proved to be his only success but it was interesting to hear Kim Barnett, the injured

Derbyshire captain, saying that Bishop this season has responded with his third championship century of the season against Worcester-shire at Trent Bridge. The former Oxford University captain hit 14 fours in his 115, made in five hours. With Paul

Johnson and Derek Randall providing livelier contribu-tions. Nottinghamshire just managed the fourth batting point but finished well placed at 350 for six. Simon Kellett and David

Byas hit painstaking half-centuries as Yorkshire, without the injured Tendulkar, were restricted to 247 for five in 110 overs by Warwickshire on a slow pitch at Sheffield. Allan Donald bowled 29 overs while taking three wickets. Warwickshire missed Tim

Munton, resting a thigh strain, but he expects to play in the next match and to be available for the fourth Test.

PORTSMOUTH (first day of three; Derbyshire won toss): Derbyshire, with eight first-innings wickets in hand, are 16 runs ahead of Hampshire FOR Hampshire to be dis-missed for 158 before tea was hardly the start they wanted as they set about their declared ambition to add the Britannic Assurance championship to their weekend triumph at Lord's, Hampshire, at the start, stood second in the table, 19 points behind Essex, as the championship resumed yes-terday after a week's break.

The pitch was never sufficiently difficult to explain how Hampshire came to lose their last nine wickets for 60 in 28.5 overs, although Derbyshire, of well equipped pace attack than

When Derbyshire batted Brown and Morris quickly fell to catches at second slip. Morris providing Marshall with his 1,000th wicket for Hampshire in all games. Bowler, however, underlined there was nothing too spiteful about the pitch that determination and positive strokeplay could not counter.

Bowler, who is second to Gatting in the national averages, reached his fifth hundred of the season in the day's last over with 13 fours from 143 balls. O'Gorman supported him well, although when 11 might have been caught by Parks down the leg side. The United Services ground ciently since his back opera-tion during the winter than at any previous time.

Before this match Bishop had taken 24 wickets at 19.58 each in first-class games this year and has not had a single twinge in the back. The spe-cialist advised Bishop to bowl with a slightly more open chested action to relieve the strain on his lower back and Barnett believes this has also helped him to bring greater variety to the ball that leaves the batsman late. Malcolm tended to be more wayward in direction than Bishop but in mid-afternoon dispersed any question of a later Hampshire rally by tak-ing three wickets in one over. He should also have had the wicket earlier of Gower who with 54 was the highest Hampshire scorer and who always made batting look simple. Gower was 32 when he was dropped by Bishop.

Hampshire's slump began when Gower was out at 98 in the last over before lunch. He played an indeterminate stroke against a near yorker from Mortensen and was leg-

Otherwise Middleton, who stayed nearly 24 hours in his most introspective mood, was the only batsman to linger long. Warner, that much underrated bowler, dismissed Middleton and Smith in successive overs. Middleton was caught behind by a ball that both lifted and left him and Smith edged an outswinger to second slip. Malcolm bowled better in his later spells before his personal highlight came in what was the 57th over. Nicholas was undone by bounce and held at short-leg from the second ball; James hooked a catch to long leg from the fifth; before Parks was beaten by pace against the sixth.

Boundary-bound: Thorpe cracks a four for Surrey off Ealham at Guildford

Surrey make slow progress

BY GEOFFREY WHEELER the absence of Chris Broad,

Hodgson makes Gooch pay

CUMBRIA is hardly renowned for producing firstclass cricketers but one of its sons, Dean Hodgson, the Gloucestershire opening bats-man, played the innings of his life against Essex, the champ-yesterday.

Finishing the day with only one bowling point, against the of batting points in the competition, can hardly have been what Graham Gooch had in mind when he asked Gloucestershire to take first innings.

ionship leaders, at Southend

Hodgson, 25, relished the challenge, batting throughout the day for a career-best 145 as Gloucestershire scored 311 for three, taking maximum batting points for the first time this season.

Hodgson, who has blossomed into a more attacking player this season, has so far hit 19 fours. His captain, Tony

Wright, supported him well with 69 before he fell to John Childs, the former Gloucestershire player's 47th wicket of Of the candidates for the Headingley Test on view at Uxbridge, it was the recently deposed Allan Lamb who commanded attention. The Northamptonshire captain, who rapped his fourth, fifth and seventh deliveries from Charles Taylor to the boundary, made 65 from only 70 balls against Middlesex, hitting 14 fours and treating the fast bowlers with disdain, before he was caught at slip off

Nigel Felton and Kevin Curran also scored half-centuries as Northamptonshire maintained a brisk scoring rate, despite the showers, to reach 316 for seven.

Mark Crawley, promoted to open for Nottinghamshire in

Umpires backed

DAVID Shepherd and Roy Palmer, the umpires who were at the centre of the stormy

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Test and County Cricket Board (TCCB) at Lord's, it was agreed unanimously to re-emphasise the support given to the umpires by the match referee. Conrad Hunte, for their handling of the incidents involving the Pakistan captain. Javed Miandad, and the fast bowler

Shepherd. Palmer and the stand-by umpire. John Hold-er, will each receive a letter of support from the board's chief executive, Alan Smith.

In it Smith writes: "The conduct of the umpires was impeccable throughout. "We would not, of course, expect anything different, but overs of spin, even Hooper taking Sargeant's wicket his wicket with Marsh standing back. For the rest of the time Igglesden, Ellison, McCague and Ealham took it in turns to see what they could do, and for a while it was only when they got the odd ball to lift that they

By JOHN WOODCOCK caused much concern. Off one of them, in the sixth over of the day, Stewart was caught at the start had been delayed by 80 minutes. Generally speaking the batting was of a higher quality than the bowling. Thorpe became the first Surrey batsman to score 1,000 first-class runs this season, adding 87 with Bicknell in a left-handed partnership for the second wicket. Bicknell had got rather live. In readiness for a match bogged down by the time he which they decided to contest at medium pace, both sides was well caught at the wicket left out a spinner, though if the off the bustling Ealham, an averages are anything to go outside edge just carrying to by, Davis has been Kent's Marsh. most successful bowler this

> If Ellison were eligible and had the same control of the ball as he did six or seven years ago, he would be just the bowler wanted by England for next week's Test match at Headingley. But it was

Kent's bowlers, and there is not much chance of his being chosen. McCague has played he was brought up, was born in Ireland, particularly admires Dennis Lillee and is very large: in other words he lacks nothing in aggression. It was Igglesden, though, who forced Ward to retire with a nasty blow to the thumb, a result of the none-too-predictable

☐ A dashing partnership of 98 between Charlie Mulraine and William Kendall pushed MCC Schools towards an unlikely victory as they entered. the last 20 overs of their game with MCC at Lord's.

Requiring more than 6.3 runs an over after a start in which the Schools made sluggish progress, both Mulraine, the captain, and Kendall, mixed the orthodox with the inventive to telling effect. Mulraine completed his fifty when he lifted Fay for a six before being run out. Kendall had the bit between his teeth, however, and dragged his new partner, Renshaw towards an exciting victory He finished with a superb undefeated 69. The MCC, captained by Clive Radley, had declared their innings at 195 for five after 47

CYCLING

Bastille Day sees Lino still in lead

By Our Sports Staff Strasbourg: In the first mass sprint of this year's Tour de France, the Dutchman. Jean-France, the Dutchman, Jean-Paul Van Poppel, beat the field into Strasbourg in yestes day's tenth. 217km stage from Luxembourg. There was no change in the main placings. the favourites, still feeling the effects of Monday's time-trial, saving themselves for the Vosges mountains today.

For the seventh successive day the leader's yellow jersey was retained by Pascal Lino. On Bastille Day, his stature as his countrymen's new hope and hero increased with every kilometre the Tour retraced its steps back into France. His team captain, Charty Mottet, a pre-race favourites but in defiore-race ravountes out in car-cit, lost a further 14 minutes yesterday when impeded by a fall of riders. With Mottet now out of the main reckoning, the RMO squad may deploy him more usefully defending Lino. At the finish, Lino said: "I'm etting used to the yellow jersey and above all I wanted to keep it on July 14."

Van Poppel, 29, won the points standings green jersey and four Tour stages in 1987. Yesterday he scored the first pattle between the sprinters, edging out the "Tashkent Terminator", Djamolidine Abduzhaparov, and Laurent laiabert, the Frenchman employed by the Spanish team, ONCE. The Belgian, Johan Museeuw, took the green jer-sey from Jalabert thanks to intermediary sprints during intermediary sprints during the stage.

At 150km, the race had come to life with an attack of 11 riders including two of the victims of Miguel Indurain's stumming time-trial on Monday, Glanni Bugno, of Italy, second to Indurain last year, and Stephen Roche, the Tour winner in 1987. Both Indurain and Isno, sent their domestiques in pursuit. Bogno and Roche were caught after 10km but the other time stayed away until absorbed three kilometres from the finish. from the finish.

flelped by his team, bat was overtaken by Abduzhaparov, the green jersey witiner in Paris last year. Van Poppel surged ahead a few metres from the line to win. The sprinters will play little part in today's eleventh stage to Mulhouse, which had seven climbs, one of the first category Grand Ballon.

Category Grand Ballon.

RESULT: Terth stage (Lusembourg-Simebourg: 217am): 1, 3-P van Poopal (Holl-Poola), POM, 5 th (Carpin Assets: 2, D Abdezzepsov (CB, Carrera); 3, L Jaiebart (Fr, ONCE): 4, J Musseuw (Bel, Loso); 5, O Ludwig (Ger, Panasonic); 6, G Piderza (I), Getoracle); 7, A van der Poel (Hol, Tulio), 8, P vanderson (Aus, Motorole), 9, E vanderson (Aus, Motorole), 9, E vanderson (Bel, Budder); 10, S Lihot (Den, Tulio), all sense (Motorole); 120, M Earley (Ira, Powins, 153, S Roche (Ira, Carrera); 39, S vates (Motorole); 120, M Earley (Ira, POM); 122, R Miliar (GB, TWA), all sense time. Oversit: 1, P Lino (Fr, RMO), 42:01-48; 2, M induraln (Sp. Benesto); at Irmin 27sec. 3, J Sobby (Den, TWM), 3:47:4, 8 Roche (ira, Carrera), 4:15; 5, G LeViond (US, 2), 422; 6, G Bugno (tr, Gatorado), 4:30; 7, J Happner (Ger, Telekom), 4:52; 8, C Crisopuoci (Carrera), 4:15; 1, G Penni (I), Carrera), 6:50: 12, P Delgado (Sp. Barreto), 7:11; 13, L Fignon (Fr, Gatorado), 7:44; 14, A Alcale (Mex, PDM), 7:46; 15, G Rué (Fr, Caetorama), 8:14. Others: 30, Millar, at 12:21; 38, Kelly, 14:55; 63, Vasse, 29:33; 87, Earley, 30:32.

Today: Sbasebourg-Mulhoute, 249-Sion.

Today: Streebourg-Mulhouse, 249.5km.

771

Mary seen

RIFLE SHOOTING

Two out of three for Collings

STUART Collings, an osteopath from Marlow, Bucks, won the Hopton Challenge Cup - the match rifle championship — at Bisley yesterday, for the second time in three years (a Special Correspondent writes).

After close competition over four days he finished with a total 965 out of 1,025, 12 points clear of Rhoddy Voremberg, who has been we placed in the championship for several years.

Martin Kent, who, like Collings, is a first-class target rifle shooter as well, was third, a further three points back

David Dashwood (Old Harrovian) who is still a tyro, was the top-placed young shooter in fourth place, two shooter, in sourm piace, two points above leading shots like Philip Saul and Alan Camp-bell-Smith, both on 943. Old Harrovians distinguished themselves, winning the F. W.

themselves, winning the F. W. Jones Trophy against ari assortment of clubs.

Softment of clubs.

REBULTS: Insurational Service Pine Matoir 1, GB, 2576: 2 Catada, 2 471: 3 States, 2 577: Withinhead Cup Pineto Landing Committee Pinetonal Committee

Versatile Watkinson returns best figures for three years

SOUTHPORT (first day of three; Leicestershire won toss): Watkinson took one wicket with his medium pace, that of the promising Smith, after Morrison had blasted out Lancashire, with eight firstinnings wickets in hand, are Briers and Whitaker with only 18 on the board. With figures of 7-3-13-1, he reverted to off THERE used to be a number spin and occupied the same of dual-murrose howlers about end pretty much throughout - Ray Smith, of Essex, Bob the rest of Leicestershire's in-

Appleyard, of Yorkshire, and nings.

He did meet his match on a the great Garfield Sobers to couple of occasions. Boon name but three — but the county scene boasts only one at stayed afloat precariously in a sea of early disaster and emerged to play well for the oresent Lancashire's Mike Watkinson moves from medium-paced seamers with a day's highest score of 76, grunt, to a scarcely slower which included a six and 11 brand of silent off spin, and Then there was Wells, who yesterday he used both varieties to considerable effect, takbatted with few inhibitions ing six for 82 as Leicestershire and a freedom denied his were bowled out for 257. colleagues. Wells it was who Given a pacey pitch and a fast, dry outfield, this was made Watkinson look relatively expensive, twice losing the probably well below the aspiball as he hit the off spinner rations harboured by Briers over mid-wicket onto the nearwhen he won the toss and by railway line. Since the ball elected to but. Certainly, was lost on both occasions, this Fowler's superb innings of 62 was expensive indeed. Wells for Lancashire will have done also treated Barnett in similar little to allay any misgivings. fashion and scored his half-Yet Watkinson obtained century from only 66 balls. considerable purchase for his These were two brisk innings spin, bowling from the Harrod Road end on this which gave Leicestershire respectability at least.

But even though Fowler delightful ground, and it may yet prove to have been a good and Atherton later moved past toss to win if Leicestershire's a century opening partnerspinners come up to scratch. ship, the day belonged to Watkinson, who would be the first to acknowledge the help he received from Atherton, at slip and round the corner, and Speak close up in front of the wicket. They took two catches apiece off him. And in achieving his best analysis in three years, Watkinson took two return catches, the second, to get rid of Parsons, from the sharpest of chances.

☐ Sri Lanka is ready to act as joint host with India and Pakistan for the next World Cup tournament in 1995 or 1996. The Sri Lankan Cricket Board secretary, Neil Perera, has revealed that the offer was discussed at the International Cricket Council (ICC) meeting at Lord's last week. "We are capable of hosting at least five World Cup matches and India and Pakistan have agreed to this idea if they are given the opportunity to host the tournament once again," Perera

India and Pakistan jointly organised the tournament in 1987. In 1992 it moved to Australia and New Zealand. The ICC has said a decision on the host of the next World Cup will be taken by next January. Twelve teams will take part next time, compared with nine at the last World by TCCB strong vote of confidence.

scenes that sullied the Test match at Old Trafford last week, were yesterday given a Aqib Javed, after the latter had been cautioned by Palmer for bowling too many shortpitched deliveries at Devon Malcolm.

we would like you to know that we believe these difficult incidents were very well handled and we should like to restate our total confidence in ## between the interruptions GUILDFORD (first day of three; Kent won toss): Surrey.

with five first-innings wickets in hand, have scored 236 for 5 THOSE things with which recent Guildford weeks have become associated - unsettled weather, not quite a textbook pitch, a needlessly slow outfield and much corporate hospitality — were all in evidence yesterday.In the 79 overs that were bowled between the stoppages Surrey scored 236 for

> Whereupon, until he hooked a long bop to deep square leg, Lynch provided, by some way, the most entertaining cricket of the day, doing things that come a lot more naturally if you happen to have been born in the West

McCague who looked as though he might cause Pakistan as much trouble as any of YESTERDAY'S BRITANNIC ASSURANCE COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP SCOREBOARDS T J G O'Gorman not out .

Bonus points: Hampshire 1, Derbyshire 4. Umpires: R Paimer and R A White.

Surrey v Kent

LET'S GET IT RIGHT

If you have a complaint about an item in this newspaper which concerns inaccuracy. intrusion, harassment or discrimination, write to the editor about it.

If you're still dissatisfied you can write to the Press Complaints Commission, an independent organisation established to uphold an editorial Code of Practice for the Press.

THIS NEWSPAPER ARIDES BY THE PCC's DECISIONS

I SALISBURY SQUARE LONDON EC4Y SAE Telephone 071 353 1248

Facsimile 071 353 8355 This space has been donated by the published

RUGBY UNION

Simon to tackle Italians

L'Aquila, Italy: The French captain, Serge Simon, has been declared fit to play against Italy in the first semifinal of the Student World Cup here today (Chris Thau

Simon, the Begles prop. returns to the side despite a shoulder injury, as the French make three changes to their pack in an attempt to strengthen the forward platform which was exposed by England's scrummage in the quarterfinals. The back division of the side that knocked England out 9-6 on Saturday is

Italy have named the team that beat Romania 27-7 in Cagliari. However, the venue of tomorrow's semi-final between New Zealand and Argentina - a repeat of the 1988 final - was changed yesterday from Naples to the town of Castellammare di Stabia.

Essex v Glours

SOUTHEND (first day of three; Essex won loss). Gloucesterahire have scored 311 for three wickets agental Essex. GLOUCESTERSHERE: First Invings Extras (b 1, lb 5, w 3, nb 8) .....

ESSEX: "G A Gooch, J P Stephenson, M E Waugh, P J Prichard, N Shehid, J J B Laws, †M A Garrhem, N A Foster, M C liots, S J W Bonus points Essex 1, Gloucestershire 4 Umpires: N T Plews and V A Holder,

Yorks v Warwicks

SHEFFIELD first day of three. Yorkshire won toss) Yorsichire have scored 247 for five wickets agarest Warendshire YORKSSHIRE: First immigs "M D Mozon c Twose b N M K Smith 34 S A Keileft c Reeve b Donald 59 D Byas thre b Donald 59 D Byas thre b Donald 59 T B J Baker C Piper b Donald 56 TR J Blaker C Piper b Donald 56 TR J Blaker C Piper b P A Smith 10 C White not out 12 5 Total (5 wkts) ...... Score efter 100 overs 232-5.
P J Hantley, P W Jarvis, J D Betty and M A Roberson to ball.

FALL OF WICKETS 1-48, 2-137, 3-187, 4-203, 5-225 203, 5-229
WARWICKSHIRE: A J Moles, R G Twose,
"T A Lloyd, D P Ostier, T L Penney D A
Reeve, P A Smith, †K J Piper, N M K Smith,
G C Smet and A A Donald Borrus points Yorkshire 2. Werwickshire 2. Umpres J D Bond and B Lossibnoise

Notts v Worcs TRENT BRIDGE (first day of three Not-tingnamshire wort toss). Nottingnamshire have scored 350 for six wickels against NOTTINGHAMERINE: FOR IMPG

NOTTING AMERICA: First invariant of the North Price Total (6 wkts) .....

Score after 100 overs 300-6 18 N French, M G Field-Buss and J A Afford FALL OF WICKETS, 1-55, 2-87, 3-187 4-250, 5-268, 6-288 WORCESTERSHIRE: "I S Outs, W P.C.
Weston, G A H.c., T M Moody D A
Leatherdate, S R Lamper, TS J Rhodes, P J
Newport, R K Mingworth, N V Radford and R D Stemp

points Nottinghamshire 4, ershire 2 Umpires: B J Meyer and P B Wight Middx v Northants

Total (7 wids, 88 overs) . J P Taylor and N G B Cook to ba

FALL OF WICKETS 1-55, 2-102, 3-170, 4-207, 5-215, 6-249, 7-305.

Bonus points' Maddesex 3. Nonhampton-shire 4. Umpres: R Julian and A G T Whitehead Lancs v Leics

SOUTHPORT (first day of three, Lacester-shire won toss): Lancashre, with eight first-mungs motels in hand are 132 runs behind Lacestanshre LEICESTERSHIRE: First Innings

"N E Briers b Morrison b Morrison
J J Whitasker c Altrienton b Morrison
B F Smith c and b Watterson
L Potter c Speak b Watterson
V J Wells c Heigg b Morrison
W K M Benjamin b Morrison
G J Parson c and b Watterson
C J Hawkes not out

Crawley: 115 for Notts

M A Atherton c Benjamin b Potter G Fowler c Smith b Milins P J Martin not out NJSpeak notout... Extras/b.9 bb 5. nb 5) *N H Fairbrother, G D Lloyd, M Wattenson, NW K Hegg, J D Fitton, D K Morrison and A A Barnett to trail FALL OF WICKETS 1-114, 2-114 Umpires I. E Palmer and G Sharp Hants v Derbyshire

Extras (b 4, lb 8 w 2. nb 3) ...... 17

9-43-0, Wattonson 12-0-70-4 Martin 18-9-43-0, Wattonson 26-7-82-6, Barnett 7-0-38-0 Fitton 4-1-12-0

LANCASHIRE: First innings

season and Kendrick, Surrey's

I am not saying, for all that, that Davis would have made

It was dank and often dark, and the longer the day went on the more the ball moved about. There were only two much impression yesterday.

most improved cricketer.

PORTSMOUTH (first day of three, Derby-shire won toss) Derbyshire, with eight first-nings wichets in hand, are 16 runs ehead of Hampshire HAMPSHIRE: First Innings
T C Middleton c Krikken b Warner .
V P Teny c Corv b Bishop
D I Gower tow b Mortensen ....
M C J Nicholas c Brown b Malcolm
M C J Nicholas c Brown b Malcolm
M D Marshall c Bowler b Monersen
IR J Parks b Malcolm
S D Udar not out ....

Total (64.1 owers) FALL OF WICKETS 1-19, 2-98, 3-115, 4-117, 5-143, 6-144, 7-144, 8-152, 9-156 BOMING Beshop 12-0-26-1, Malcotm 17-3-51-3, Mortensen 14-3-31-2, Cork 7.1-0-25-2: Warner 14-3-21-2 DERBYSHIRE: First Innings P D Bowler not out A M Brown c Terry b Connor "J E Moms c Terry b Marshall

Total (64.1 overs)

GUILDFORD (first day of three; Kent won toss) Surney have scored 236 for five wickets against Kent SURREY: First Innings

D J Bicknei c Marsh b Eathern 44

"A J Stewar c Marsh b Eathern 52

"M A Lynch c Ward b tiggleaden 48

D M Ward retired hurt 12

J D Roberson not out 24

fN F Sargeant but b Hooper 29

M P Bickneil not out 4

Estras (ft 9, w 3, n b 8) 20

Total (5 wide, 79 overs) 286 Total (5 wkis, 79 overs) _______ 236
AJ Musphy, J Boiling, 1N F Sargeant and J E Benjamin to bet.
FALL OF WICKETS 1-19, 2-106, 3-122, 4-177 5-232 177 5-222
KENT: TA Ward, "M R Benson, N R Taylor, C L Hooper, G R Cowdrey, MV Fleming, 1S A March, M A Eathern, R M Elison, M J McCague and A P Igglesden, Bonus points Surrey 2, Kent 2
Umpires: J H Harne and G A Stockley. RAPID CRICKETUNE SECOND XI CHAMPIONSHIP: Collingham: Hampshire 362-6 (R S M Morrs 186, A N Ayrnes 112 not out, D B Pennett 4-69) v Notingham-thre not out D B Pennett 4-69) v Nottunghernshire Ashington: Northumberland 175-6 deg end 272-6 dec (G Morris SP P Dutton 61, 0 Youl 44), Staffordshire 225-2 dec and 223-4 (S Myles 50 P Shaw 64 not out, Staffordshire won by se vickets. Hinchley: Locasand in 175-9 v Middlesse. Bedford School Sussex 282: Northeamp-torshire 11-0 Ebbw Velit: Summarel 105-6 v Gamorgan. Wordester: Gloucestershire 209-5 (T H C Hancock 54, M G N Wingdows 71) v Worcestershire. Durham; Kent 208 (D P Fullon 106, P W Handerson 5 for 62) v Durham.

المكذا منالاصل

New women's pair may break Britain's duck

By MIKE ROSEWELL

BRITAIN has never won an Olympic medal in a women's rowing event but Miriam Batten made it clear yesterday that she has no liking for fourth place. Batten, together with 45 other male and female yourself. female rowers, left Heathrow yesterday for heat acclimatisation in Varese, north Italy, before moving on to the Olympics on July 22.

LA IS THE

stay 993

11

Batten, petite by rowing standards and an "ardent member of Britain's café society", made history last year when she and Fiona Freckleton, a school mistress at Westminster, won Britain's first women's world rowing medal, a bronze in the coxless pairs in Vienna

The progress of the pair towards Barcelona stuttered through the winter when Freckleton suffered glandular fever and, after being forced to withdraw halfway through the Lucerne Regatta in June when she was again below

par. a decision was taken to ucts and Britain's leggy dou-move Jo Turvey into the top ble scull, finished sixth in move Jo Turvey into the top pair with Batten.

Turvey, the least experienced of the British women's squad in Vienna and taller and heavier than Batten, was "surprised but excited but Batten considers that the combination is "coming together very well and is good, long and strong".

Brian Armstrong, the inter-

Brian Armstrong, the inter-national rowing manager, said yesterday that "the worn-en's team, the largest and strongest that Britain has produced, could win two or three medals if it all goes right". Batten has no illusions about the opposition in her event. "The Canadians are ton of her list. We don't fine." top of her list. We don't fear them, we look forward to racing them," she said, add-ing that the Germans, the French and the Americans have an awful lot to prove". Ali Gill and Annabel Eyres two Oxford University prod-

Vienna last summer and third in Lucerne behind two German crews. Ron Needs, their experienced coach, considers them to be going well al-though high winds at their recent altitude camp in Switzerland meant "they were frustrated by the difficulty of getting enough water work".

The British eight, with Preckleton at No. 3 and the double world lightweight silver medal winner. Kate Brownlow at stroke, suffered illness as well as the elements always the ebullient spokeswoman, has made a remarkable recovery to competitive rowing following a back operation last January. Her experience is a vital ingredient in the leadership of a crew that has been strengthened since finishing fourth in Lucerne just one length behind the

A medal in mind: Batten, left, and Turvey, Britain's new partnership, look forward to the women's coxless pairs at the Olympic Games

GOLF: UNFULFILLED SPANIARD APPROACHES THE OPEN LOOKING TO PROVE HIMSELF ON A MAJOR STAGE

Olazábal out to end the doubts

BY MEL WEBB

TOM Kite's victory in the United States Open last month was a significant one for José-María Olazábal. No. it is not as silly as it sounds; it meant, you see, that the young Spaniard was left unchallenged as the best player in the world not to have won one of four major championships.

It is a title he does not want: at the still comparatively tender age of 26 he would sooner be looked upon for what he has achieved, rather than what he has not.

Indeed, if his career were to be cut off overnight, it would still have been hugely success-and almost £5 million banked since he first hit a ball for money. Quite a c. v., that.

And yet, and yet.
Whether he likes it or not, the fact remains that genius that he is, he has still to put the notch on his belt that will finally silence the knockers that you will find hiding away in dark and dusty corners in every sport, from where they can be heard but rarely seen. From the moment he burst on to the professional scene by winning the European Tour qualifying school in 1985, having won just about every honour in the amateur game that he could by the age of 19, it became obvious that we were witnessing a special talent; the best player to come out of Spain since Severiano Ballesteros a decade before. And it was with Ballesteros that comparisons were inevitably made. Both were Basques, both were imbued with the dark good looks and the mercurial intensity of their nation within a nation. Both were men apart. One day, said the sages, the youngster from Fuenterrabia in the foothills of the Pyrenees would surely assume the mantle that had been worn for so long by his distinguished compatriot.

Today, almost seven years on, the comparisons are still being made, and no matter what Mr Sony and his rankings say, the world and his wife still regard Seve as the Theirs is an unspoken rival-

Parry with favourite Champion who has put ry, the sort of rivalry that can only be engendered between friends. Together, they form the most potent partnership in the history of the Ryder Cup. Apart, they refuse to admit to the compention between them. Secretly they know it is there; get either talking about the other and it becomes

To most of his peers, Olazábal's record in the last season and a bit would be enviable. Four titles in Europe, one in the United States. Good enough for any man, you might have thought.

But Olazabal is not just any man, and he knows for sure that it has been an unfulfilled 15 months. The big one still has not happened for him, and it all dates back to a warm

Faldo Sunday afternoon in April 1991, in Augusta, Georgia. fashion It was on that day that Olazábal came within one shot of forcing a play-off in the Masters that was eventually won by Ian Woosnam. The shot was his drive on the 72nd hole. It found a fairway trap, and the best chance of his career of landing the big one was buried in the sand along with his ball. He has not

He has been quiet in recent weeks, citing fatigue and overwork as the reasons for his brief sabbatical. Who knows if the rest has done him good?

We shall soon find out, but one thing is certain — the time is right for José-Maria

hol. Good, Australian red wine is his favourite tipple and the championship trophy, a claret jug. had often been put

A loss of form, attributable,

he explained, to too many distractions off the course, had led him to vow to give up red wine until he won again in the US.

"But I weakened before the US Open, as I had not been playing so well and decided my body needed a bit of claret," he said. "But not too much. I've been in control."

Baker-Finch is 31, a handsome, tanned 6ft 4in and 134

stone, at his physical peak apart from the need to wear spectacles for distance. His wife Jennie is the daughter of a teaching professional which has no doubt helped to create a well-knit golfing family.

For millions of television viewers the lasting memory of Birkdale in 1991 was of their daughter Hayley, then two, playing happily in a bunker while her father achieved

He tied thirteenth.

to its original purpose.

threatened in a major since.

BY MITCHELL PLATIS

COLIN Montgomerie yesterday revealed that he is ready to dedicate himself to the game in a similar manner to Nick Faldo in his attempt to become the best golfer in the Montgomerie partnered Faldo in a practice round for the Open at Muirfield. He said: "I'm prepared to do it the Faldo way, even if it does mean losing a few friends. If I can follow his example, it will be worthwhile because the rewards are so high.

"In many respects, we are very similar and we are becoming good friends. But my will to win is still stronger than my admiration for him. The point with Nick is that he is the one guy I want to beat the you will be there or thereabouts."

Montgomerie, whose odds to win the Open have been cut from 25-1 to 20-1 by Ladbrokes, added: "Nick is playing extremely well. He must be because David Leadbetter, his coach, walked off after nine holes and was clearly satisfied with the way

Nick was hitting the ball. "I'm also happy with my game. I plan to work only on my chipping and putting on Wednesday. I hope it blows because I hit the ball lower than most and I'm not worried about how difficult the conditions get."

Annison puts herself in contention

ERICA Annison, who plays off a handicap of three at Sleaford, takes a two-shot lead into the final round of the English senior women's championship at Pleasington. Lancashire, today. She had a first-round two-over-par 76 in her attempt to take the tide and win a place in the English team to compete in the European senior ladies' championship in September.

LEADINE FIRST-ROLING SCORES: TE: E Amuson (Sieaford) 78: H Green (Wilpshire). A Thompson (Sieaford) 79: S Donald (West Sussen). 80: A Howard (Whitefeld). 81: A Duck. (Northants and County), B Hox (Sieaford). I Brattan (Presson, P Riddliand (Royal Ashdown Forest).

Following | Ireland need draw to secure title

By DAVID RHYS JONES

IRELAND, who beat Wales on Monday, surprised England at Bournemouth yesterday, and emerged as favourites to win the women's home international series for the first time in the 45-year history of the Irish Women's Bowling Association.

Scotland, the holders, after their confident first-day victory over England, fell from grace, and were despatched by Wales, who played with far more spirit than they had against the Irish.

Margaret Johnston and Phillis Nolan, who combined their talents to win the world pairs title at Ayr last month, went their separate ways and skipped their Irish rinks to big wins over the English rinks skipped by Norma Shaw and Mavis Steele.

Maureen Mallon, another member of Ireland's world championship team, weighed in with a 21-16 victory over Mary Price, while Margaret McGarrity drew with Wendy Line, and Nan Aliely was pipped by Barbara Fuller after leading for the first 18 ends.

A fine 31-13 win for Mar-garet Heggie's rink over Marie Barber's quartet made inroads into the Irish lead. England squared the match at 102-102, but a late surge saw Ireland home 118-111.

A draw against Scotland today would give Ireland the RESULTS: Wales bx Scotland 115-93 (Wales ships first) J Ackland 18, D Barr 23, A Danton 21, J Lindores 13, A Lewis 15, H Mason 20, M Davies 23, F Whyte 13; B Morgan 18, S Gourley 14, R Jones 24, S McCrone 10, Instand bit England 118-111. Rink scores (#eland ships first): M Johnston 25, N Shaw 15; M Malton 21, M Price 16, M Barber 13, M Heggie 37; P Notan 23, M Steele 12, M McGarray 19, W Line 19, N Atley 17, B Fuller 18.

FOOTBALL

Ted Fenton dies

TED Fenton, who organised the youth policy at West Ham United that produced the England World Cup trio, Bob-by Moore, Geoff Hirst and Martin Peters, has died from injuries sustained in a car crash aged 77.

Fenton, who later played 150 games for the club, became player-manager of Col-chester United in the Southern League after serving as a company sergeant major instructor in the army in the second world war.

As West Ham's manager, he led the club into the first division for the first time and later managed Southend United before moving to Gloucestershire. His brother Benny. who also played for West Ham and Colchester, managed Leyton Orient and Millwall. Fenton was travelling to a family reunion on July 4 when his car was involved in a headon collision with another vehide whose driver and passenger were also killed. Fenton was taken to hospital with a broken rib and punctured lung. Complications set in and he died at Leicester General Hospital at the weekend. Fenton's widow frene is still in hospital with whiplash injuries. His son and daughter escaped with cuts and bruises.

HOCKEY

Wales hold off late surge

WALES successfully held off a late surge by the New Zealand Olympic team to draw 1-1 at Bisham Abbey yesterday (Sydney Friskin writes). Seizing the initiative, Wales went ahead in the eighth minute, with Tony Colclough breaking through from a free hit to score.

New Zealand took control at the start of the second half and when Smith hit the ball in hard from the left, Grundy levelled the scores. TeveTled the Scores.

WALES: C Ashcroh; M Williams, R Jones, P Edwards, T Moore, A Grimes (sub M Harnon), D Hecker (captain), C O'Sulfwen, A Colcough; Hughes-Rowlends, D Knapp (sub D Colcough)
NEW ZEALAND: I Woodley; A Thomson, G McLeod (captain), S Hobson (sub D Penfold), P Patel, B Leaver, D Grundy (sub A Parign), J Radovonich, P Miskmmin, C Russ, J Smith.
Unipiret: J Helkacre and M Grimsdele (England)

favourite for the Open Championship for many years, has been drawn to share a three-ball with Craig Parry. of Australia, and Peter Mitchell, of Rochester and Cobham, on the first two days at professional golf, needs a major to join the élite and may prove a strong challenger to Faldo. Mitchell has no similar pretentions but his recent victory in the Austrian Open should at least insulate him

GB and les unlass appeal

GS and as unless award

O715 (concerne) and 1145 (Friday); P Way,
K What, M Mouland

O725 and 1165; D Eddford, J Hobday, * S
Pullan

O735 and 1205 D W Beeson (SA), K Jones, H Clark

O745 and 1215 B Andrade (US), M
Cataneochia (US), M James

O755 and 1225 G Turner (NZ), C Rocca (t),
C Sadiar (US)

D305 and 1240 T Nakasima (Jupan), D
Feberly, C Strange (US)

O820 and 1250 D Hammond (US); H Irvini

(US), A Forsbrand (Swe)

O830 and 1300 R Mackay (Aus), J Spenos,
B R Brown (US) B R Brown (US)
840 and 13/10 L Jersen (US), A Magne
(US), M McNaisy (Zm)
950 and 1320 D Weldorf (US), J Mudd
(US), M Hawood (Aus)
9500 and 1330 ° M Vogee (US), D Gilliord, J

0800 and 1830 * M Vogee (US), D Gillord, J Maggert (US) 0810 and 1845 T Wasson (US), P Azinger (US), V Snoth (Fil) 0825 and 1855 B Langer (Ger), W Paley (Aus), L Waddors (US) 0835 and 1405 L Trevnto (US), S Pale (US), J Rivero (Sp) (Q445 and 1415 P Matchell, N Faldo, C Parry (Aus) 0855 and 1425 P Senior (Aus), M Brooks (181) S Pallecters (Sp) (US), S Bellesteros (SD) 1005 and 1436 E Bs (SA), P-U Johansson (Swe), L Mize (US) 1016 and 1450 C Beck (US), J Nicklaus (US), Woosnem (US), Woosnem 1030 and 1500 | Baker-Finch (Aus), S Torrance, J Daty (US) 1040 and 1510 G Emparan, K Waters, G Torbett 1050 and 1520 T Hamiston (Card), P Price, C Post (Den) Post (Den) 1100 and 1530 D Williams, J Plystrom (Swe), C Brooks 1110 and 1540 J Michany, P Materay

(See), J Hay 1205 and 0715 *D Lee, I Spencer, N Shigos 1215 and Griz's E Giraud (Fri), O Vincent E (US), M Sunesson (Swo) 1225 and Griz's G Player (SA), T Westcopi (US), "G Wobstarbolme 1240 and Gris's E Player (Mg), P O'Malley 1250 and Gris's E Pomero (Arg), P O'Malley 1250 and Gris's E Pomero (Arg), P O'Malley 1250 and Gris's E Pomero (Arg), P O'Malley (US), A Sherborne
(US), A Sherborne
(US), A Sherborne
(US), A Sherborne
(US), J-M Canzzusa (So)
(Si) and 0805 C Pavin (US), T Purizar
(US), J-M Canzzusa (So)
(Si) and 0800 I Palmar (AA), S Richardson, R Tway (US)
(S20 and 0830 D Mijovio (Carri), P
Broadmant, J Gallagher Jr (US)
(S20 and 0830 D M Cashi plasard), A Lyle, M
O'Meara (US)
(S45 and 0850 D Love H (US), J Cook (US), R Davis (US)

1345 and 08500 tower in (List), it does now, it R Deris (Aus).
1365 and 0900 F Couples (US), if Machase (US), C Montgomerie.
1405 and 0910 N Ozate (Japan), F Funk (US), P Stewart (US).
1415 and 0825 K Trimble (Aus), G Brand Jr. B Lene 125 and 0935 M Cleyton (Aus), M Devis, 3 Stumen (US) Stumen (US) 435 and 0945 W Grady (Aus), G Evens, R 1455 and 0555 K Chemoster (US), R Ratierly, S Eldington (Aus) 1500 and 1005 T Johnstone (21rd), G Norman (Aus), J-M (Occabel (Sp) 1510 and 1015 S Bennett, M Mexicanzos, P

Mayo 1520 and 1030 D Padgett, P McGiritay, L. Rinker (US) Fenter (US)
1530 and 1040 J Robeon, H Butsmenn (SA), A Cottent 1540 and 1050 M Lanner (Swe), D Clarks, M Knight M Knight 1530 and 1100 J Robinson, R Boxali, R Karlsson (Swe) 1600 and 1110 A Chamley, * M Welch, C Menn (Aus) 1510 and 1120 C McClellan (US), F George, B Marchbank 1620 and 1135 M Ros, C Grey (Aus), M McLess against being overshadowed.

THE interview yesterday ended with the commonplace parting shot, "Have a good week". Except that this time it was the Open champion addressing the scribbler, rather than the other way round. Ian Baker-Finch is that sort 1155 and 1620 R Chapman, N Lindabled of man, so genial, so transparently genuine that it was almost a relief to hear that he had broken his putter across his knee in a paddy after missing the cut by one shot in the Australian Classic in Sydney a few months ago. Not just any old putter, you understand, but the one that had woven such magic at Royal Birkdale a year ago. He repented to the point of having it not only repaired but recon-stituted to its original specification, and it has been restored to favour. He did not think that being the Open champion had changed him or his family. "If it ever does, let me know," he at 14. added. The financial advantages flowing from Birkdale were hard to pin down because the contractual arrangements were progressive, but he thought $1 million would not be far from the mark.

As Open champion he had more inner confidence, but it had meant spending time on other commitments and had taken him away not only from his golf sometimes but also from his wife and two little daughters. During the six days of the Australian Open he had had to make five afterdinner speeches. That sort of thing told on you.

THE OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Baker-Finch is many removes from the Australian stereotype so falsely parodied abroad. He is articulate, well spoken and well read, mostly because of his zest for selfimprovement. He left school He does, however, share the 10moh.

TOMORROW: Rain spreading from the west during the atternoon and evening. Wind moderate to fresh southwesterly at times.
FRIDAY: Rain overnight, becoming drier later. Wind anotherate to irresh.

WEATHER TODAY: Alain early, heavy and persistent at times, becoming other during the afternoon. Wind south or southwesterly 16mph, becoming southwesterly

This time, all being well, there will be two little girls in the sand pit.

☐ Jiro Sullivan, aged 52, who was to have caddied for Andrew Sherborne in the Open. collapsed and died on Monsuper-stardom.

day. He worked for many years for Brian Barnes.

1120 and 1550 A Hare, P Hamson, W Guy 1135 and 1600 D Smyth, M Archer, J Payne 1145 and 1610 P Lewis, J Cooses (Arg), P Wesselnoth

ORIENTEERING Kristiansawo: Norway: Sortands-galoppen ab: day event: Frael day: Men. 7. A kvalel (Nor), 32min 20acc; 2, P Hague (CB), 32:34, Overalt: 1, 1 Edistrom (Nor), 3,252pts; 2, B Bengt Noolsan (Nor), 3,676; 3, N Hesta (Nor), 3,875, British: 8, Hague, 3,550, Women: 1, Y Hague (GB), 38:56, 2, K Brysh-Jones (GB), 41:18; 3, 1 Othom (Nor), 42:18, Overalt: 1, Hague, 4,000pts, 2, C, Bollent (GB), 3,630; 3, Brysh-Jones, 3,469.

ATHLETICS

SALAMANCA, Spain: Grand prix meeting:
Men: 100m: 1, 8 Surin (Can), 10.05enc; 2, 6 m: 100m: 1, 8 Surin (Can), 10.05enc; 2, 6 m: 102m: 1, 102m: 3, 7 m: 102m: 1, 102m:

11.10. 400m; 1, S Richarda (Jem), 51.96, 2, N McLean (Cuba), 53.00; 3, M Mayberry (P Rico), 53.10. 800m; 1, A Quirot (Cuba), 1.59.52; 2, M Zuniga (Sp), 201.28; 3, S Hemilton (US), 2.02.14; High jump; 1, S Kostadinova (Bul), 2.00m; 2, I Quirtero (Cuba), 1.65m, 3, Y Henry (US), 1.85m.

EASTBOURNE: Wootwich Open tourne-maint: Singles: Fifth round: T Howard bit N Smith, 21-11; C Wright bit K Beeney, 21-17, E Randell bit S Rowe, 21-17; R Carr bit R Coussoits, 21-3; A Creed bit R Winchesser, 21-15; S Heynes bit M Prentice, 21-16; D Weever bit If Spencer, 21-7; S Rigos bit J King, 21-9; D Ben bit JW Smith, 21-10; W Ward bit B Evens, 21-13; J Wesson bit R Reper, 21-14; A Irons bit S Hell, 21-20; P Seunders bit G Brown, 21-12; P Reynolds bit M Needham, 21-15; C Taylor bit J Hams, 21-20; G Irons bit A Davis, 21-8.

CRICKET ROTHMANS VILLAGE CHAMPIONSHIP: Saith round: Woodhouses 189-8, Burnesde 179-6; Kridey 88, Stocksfield 90-4; Stock 172-8, Blediow 127; Colemans Hard: 142-7, Hursley Park; 143-3; Methley 155-6, Cerston 52; Eleaston 103, Plumiree 104-9, Marchwiel 153-9, Millord Hall 146; Columb 175-8, Thomps Amold 177-8.

Colegii 175-9, Thorpe Amold 177-8.

MINOR COUNTIES CHAMPIONSHIPWarrington: Cheshire 203-7 dec and 234-3 dec 6 Cockben 100 not out): Shropshire 183-8 dec and 187 Cheshire won by 98
nms Brookhampton: Hartbordshire 181 and 114 (S Watchdop 5-34, R Gerick 4-35):
Dorst 169-8 and 39-1. Match ebandoned as a deaw. Ashington: Northumberland 175-6 (G R Monts 76, R Spiers 4-48) and 10-0. Saffontshire 225-2 dec (J Waterhouse 84, D Banks 55 not out).

BLACKPOOL: Devid Hughes benefit match (40 overs): Rest of the World XI 290-5 (R B Richardson 100 not out, C G Greenidge 106): David Hughes X 296-9 L) D Fidon B1 not out) Rest of the World won by 4 runs. BAIN CLARKSON TROPHY: Mont: Essex 205-4 (N V Knight 102 not out); Sussex 193-8 (C C Remy 57). Essex won by 12 nms. YACHTING HOYAL COURT YACHT CLUB: Ford week (all results provisona): Class 0: Race 1: 1, (a Goulus (P Thompson), 3:25.50secs, 2, Pyewacket (P: E Dieney), 3:25.21; 3,

Lightwave: Race 1: 1, Intsh Mes (A O'Leany); 2, Expedite (J Ethiologe and 1 Skow); 3, Amendia Kulu (A C Porter) Race

CRICKET Tour match 11.0. 104 overs mánimum CHESTER-LE-STREET: Durham v Entunnic Assurance county championship 11.0. 110 overs minimum SOUTHEND: Essex v Gloucestershire PORTSMOUTH: Hampshire

SOUTHPORT: Lancashire Leicestershire
UXBRIDGE: Middlesex

Northemptonshire TRENT BRIDGE: Nottinghamshire

GUILDFORD: Surrey v Kent

RAPID CRECKETLINE BECOND 20 CHAMPIONSHIP: Ebbw Valle: Glamorgan
v Somerset. Maldspone: Kent v Durbern Hinckley: Leucesterative v Middlesset. Bed-lord. School: Northents v Susses.
Collinghent: Notes v Henrapshire. Learning-ton. Spa: Warwickshire v Yorkshire.
Wiccanan: Words v Gloucesterative. MINOR COUNTIES CHAMPIONSHIP-Fenner'et Cambridgeshie v Buckinghen-stere. Necestield: Curromend v Stafford-shire Mildenheit: Sufficik v Linconehire.

OTHER MATCH: The Over Surrey of England Linder-19 (second day). OTHER SPORT BOWLS: Women's home memationals and British championshop (Bournerhouzh). EQUESTRIANISM: Dublin Horse Show. RIFLE SHOOTING: gloley meeting. TENNS: Northern Beatric Open Chal-lenger (Newcastle).

Creckerjack (K.M.Miller), 3:28.28. Flace 2: 1.
Crackerjack, 1:38 46: 2. Tayon of Welles (P. Thomes), 1:39:34. CHS Class St. Race 1:-1.
Windspale (D.Barks), 1:35:48. 2. Gurndrap (F. and D. Andrews), 1:37:08: 3. CM, (P. Suuch 1:38.33. CHS Class 4: Race 1:-1.
Jeright (M.Carke), 2:50:53; 2. Rappares (H. Byrne), 2:51:26; 3. B. Jaces (P. Burke and R. Herry), 2:55:00. CHS Class 6: Race 1:-1.
Kies (J. Rice), 2:57:05; 2. 4. Wave (T. Durcan and D. Dwyer), 2:58:07; 3. Chisens (F. Riccher), 3:07:25.

TENNIS

2: 1, Irish Mist, 1.31.53; 2, Expedite, 1.33.04; 3, Alvino IX (H. Evers), 1.33.25. Sigma 36: Race 1: 1, Arthur (S. Smith and E. Nichoti), 2, Wayward (D. O. May); 3, Gusto III, Briton-Leven, Race 2: 1, Wayward, 1.30.50; equal 2, Supertramp IV (D. Lyons) and Yeorem 20,741 (O. Ashard, 1.40.46 Impate Class: Race 1: 1, Hugpy Beer (J. MecAlenburgi); 2, Stornsa (E. Michand, 3, Acrase (f. McCourt), Sigma 33; Race 1: 1, Legicas (A. Wilfarra), 2, Mary Jeanne (Beby, Hart and Smith); 3, Anila (C. Hobbs)

SONY WORLD RANGINGS: 1, F Couples (US), 17-80es; 2, N Faldo (GB), 17-21, 3, J-M Olezábel (Spl., 14-35, 4, I Woosnem (GB), 12-97: 5, B Langer (Ger), 12-66, 6, G Nomen (Ass), 12-01: 7, S Ballesteros (Spl., 11-85; B, D Love (US), 10-67; 9, P Azinger, 10-11; 10, T Yale (US), 8-83 10.11; 10, T Yole (US), 923 YOLMO ORDER OF MERRIT: 1, N Feldo (Eng), 5270,319 50; 2, T Johnstone (Sm), 5256 567.00; 3, A Forebrand (Swe), 5240,056.58, 4. C Montgomeric (Sou), 5200,023 44, 6. J Preson (Sp), 1279,095.55, 7, P Senior (Aus), 5778.869 50; 8, D Geloxd Engl., 5140,570.50; 9, V Singh (Fig., 5734,857.87, 10, P O'Malley (Aus), 5738,857.87, 10, P O'Malley (Aus), 5738,857.87, 10, P O'Malley (Aus), 5738,313.61.

FRINTON: Worner's satisfilite tournement:
Flux round: C Bilenthum (Oran) bit J
McMahon (Sussex, 8-2, 6-1; K Hend (Bericchne) of J Sentine (Wales), 5-7, 6-4, 7-5; C-Alberd (Wales) bit G Vassia (C2, 7-5, 6-0; K Cross (Deuco) bit N Resolonnelele
(Madagastar), 5-2, 6-1
STUTTGART: Men's fournament: Flux
fround: CU Slaeb (Sar), bit F Fortang (Fr),
6-4, 6-1, C Pioline (Fr) bit L Kostowale (Ger),

7-6, 6-1; R Furlan (t) to M Neauria (Ger), 6-2, 6-3; M Larsson (Swa) bt O Camporese (t), 5-7, 6-4, 6-3; A Cheanulov (CIS) bt J Burillo (So), 7-6, 7-6, M Rossat (Swar) bt F Santoro (Fr), 6-1, 6-4; A Medvedev (CIS) bt G Pipit: (Crearia), 3-6, 7-5, 8-0, O Delafre (Fr) bt A Boetschi (Fr), 6-4, 6-4; A Berasategu (Sp) bt A Jamyd (Swe), 6-4, 6-3; F Davin (Arg) bt T Champlon (Fr), 6-4, 6-3; P Escosolido (ti) to M Gustafsson (Swe), 7-5, 7-5; C Minitzet (Arg) bt G Perez-Roiden (Arg), 6-3, 4-6, 6-3; Second round, O Delafre (Fr) bt B Becker (Ger), 6-3, 6-4. NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE: Norther

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE: Northern Bactric Doen tournament; Men's Singles: First mundt K Kinnear (US) bit P Ratter (Aus), 7-6, 4-6, 4-0, Rhasoksi (Cari) to Ulyeu; (SA), 6-2, 6-3; S Smian (Fr) to Beecher (GB), 5-7, 7-6, 6-1, P Nytong (Swe) it M Kratzmann (Aus), 6-4, 1-6, 7-8, A Flicterdson (GB) bit C Mersh (SA), 6-2, 6-2; D Varoek (Ca) bit S Green (Hol), 4-8, 6-3, 7-6, 4, 6-4, F Wibier (Hol) to M Metz (El Sal, 6-3, 3-6, 5-5, 1).

WASHINGTON: Men's classic tourna-man: First round: W Masur (Aus.) by A Thoms (Ger), 4-8, 6-2, 6-2, J Stoltenberg (Aun.) by R Wesss (U.S.), 6-4, 8-7, 6-4, L Lavalle (Maye) bil S You (Aus.), 6-4, 7-6, K-6, Curren (US) by A Morriz (Ger), 8-7, 7-6, 6-4 M Derren (C.) by M Zoeckie (Ger), 4-6, 8-2, 8-1, AO Brien (U.S.) by C Adams (U.S.), 4-6, 7-0, 7-6, Fr Agency (Hall.) by K Brassch (Ger), 2-6, 6-2, 6-0; J Grabb (U.S.) by M MacPhie (U.S.), 8-4, 3-6, 6-3. 26, 6-2, 6-0; J Grabb (US) 21 B MacPhie (US), 8-4, 3-6, 6-3. WYTA RANKONGS: 1, M Sales (Yug), 2, S Graf (Gor); 3, G Sebesini (Aug); 4, M Navaritova (US); 5, A Sanchez Vicario (Sp); 8, J Capnati (US); 7, M J Farnandez (US); 8, C Maninez (Sp); 9, M Maleova-Fragnere (Swiz); 10, A Huber (Gor) Money winners: 1, Seles, 51,156,852; 2, Graf, 51,003,028; 3, Sabalini, 753,365; 4, Sánchez Vicano, 8579,805; 5, N Zversus (CIS), 8392,969, 8, Fernandez, $384,470

SPORT IN BRIEF Life bans on

two boxers The Welsh Amateur Boxing Association has imposed life bans on Neil Swain, flyweight champion, and Lee Taylor, a welterweight, following incidents at an hotel during a tour in Bavaria. Chris Beck, a lightheavweight who has since turned professional, was Damage was allegedly done to property and bills unpaid. Swain said he was depressed over the theft from him of £40.

banned for five years.

Thrower out

Athletics: Karny Keshmiri, of the United States, a leading discus thrower with the year's best of 70.84 metres, has been suspended after failing a drugs test. He won the US Olympics trial on June 22 but was later told a random test had shown positive.

Wembley best

Rugby league: Great Britain will meet Australia, the holders, in the World Cup final at Wembley on October 24. The Australians conceded ground advantage because of the London venue's bigger crowd

Ring comeback Rugby union: Mark Ring, the and better atmosphere.

Wales stand-off half, has made a surprise recovery from the knee injury that threatened his career and is back in training with Cardiff.

Exit Becker

Tennis: Boris Becker's preparations for the Barcelona Olympics suffered a setback yesterday when he was beaten in the Stuttgart Open clay court tournament by Olivier Delaitre, of France, 6-3, 6-4 in his opening match.

United States offers a strong and varied challenge for the Open Championship

Confident Kite can conquer again

GOLF CORRESPONDENT

TOM Kite has history to support his case that he can capture the Open Championship, which starts at Muirfield tomorrow, only 28 days after winning the United States

The Texan can point to Bobby Jones (1926 and 1930), Gene Sarazen (1932), Ben Hogan (1953), Lee Trevino (1971) and Tom Watson (1982) as the only golfers to have won the two Open titles in the same year. He can stress, too, they were all Americans.

"I would like to be the next one," he said. "I certainly hope I don't have to wait another 21 years before I win a major and I suspect it has to be a little easier for me now.

"The pressure of winning a first major is off; it is now just a question of winning two. I have a tremendous desire to keep competing and I have nothing to prove. I have a nice record but I would like im-prove on it if I can."

Kite is fiercely patriotic; there is nothing Hollywood about him. He is a proud man, proud of Uncle Sam and proud of what took place at Pebble Beach last month. It took him 21 years as a professional to come of age by championship but, with it, he continued an exciting golfing renaissance in the United

John Daly (US PGA championship), Fred Couples (Masters) and Kite (US Open) hold three of the major championships. If an American can loosen the grip of Ian Baker-Finch, an Australian, on the Open, they will have hold of all four for the first time since the spring on 1984. However, Mark Calcavecchia is the only American to have won the Open since Watson in 1983.

Even so, the American challenge has been galvanised by Kite's win. His success at the age of 42 has encouraged the likes of Raymond Floyd. Hale Irwin, Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Lanny Wadkins and Watson to fancy their chances at 40-plus rather than Kite's appetite for winning majors has been sharpened not satisfied by his US Open win. He is the first to admit that, while his success at Pebble Beach might not have been aesthetically pleasing, it was achieved in the traditional Kite manner.

"We have always been survivors," he said. "My grandfa-ther moved to Texas with Driving ambition: Kite, winner of the US Open, practises at Muirfield yesterday in preparation for his tilt at the Open Championship title literally nothing to his name and farmed during the Depression.

CHAMPIONSHIP

"If you could look into a guy's heart and gut, you could tell who'd win out here." Kite has fought adversity since his years in Austin, Texas, where he practised alongside Ben Crenshaw. A Sports Illustrated article suggested that, when they were at University of Texas, Crenshaw was the glamorous one, chased by the girls, whereas Kite wore glasses had pink skin and kinky hair.

Unearthing a '38 Alvis Speed

in your maiden aunt's country barn ...

Standing, trembling, at the bottom of a Black Run, looking back ...

selected to captain school rugger ...

Acquiring your first pair of Grensons ...

See Grenson shoes at high quality shoe and menswear outlets.

Grenson Shoes Ltd., Queen Street, Rushden,

Northants NN10 0AB. Tel: (0933) 58734

trying to keep Tom Kite, and his family life, as similar as it was," he said. "It is difficult. I will need to talk to my children, explain that there will be more demands on my time. I will tell them that if it gets out of control, if they feel they are being cheated, then they must come to me." Floyd, at the age of 49, still makes the game look like a stroll in the park. He won the Doral Open on the United States Tour in March; he partnered Fred Couples to whip Nick Faldo and Ian Woosnam 5 and 3 in the Ryder Cup last September; and, in 1986, he became the oldest man to win the US Open, at 43.

Kite is a private man. "I'm

If Floyd wins the Open, he will be the oldest man to do so — Old Tom Morris was 46 when he triumphed in 1867 - and only the fifth man to win all four majors. "I've thought about that," he said. "I've thought about that a lot."

Waison would equal Harry Vardon's record of six Open Championship triumphs if he was successful. Yet he is well aware that, despite Kite's win, a new guard has arrived to take American golf towards the 21st Century. Mark Calcavecchia, John Cook, Fred Couples, John Daly, Davis Love III, Corey Pavin, Jeff Shiman and Payne Stewart belong in that company. Azinger lost the Open at Muirfield in 1987 when he dropped a shot at each of the last two holes. "When I left here, I was heartbroken," he said. "At the time, I thought it might have been a once in a lifetime thing so I was Then I tried to use my performance as a measuring stick to what I could do. I realised I could stack up against the best players in the world so, even though it hurt, it gave me confidence." He cannot camouflage his craving to win this time but, if he fails, then Azinger, aged 32, can take comfort in the knowledge that age would appear to be no barrier in golf as Kite demonstrated last

First-day draw, page 27 Champion's year, page 27

Muirfield is shedding its aloof reputation

By PATRICIA DAVIES about laughing and a myth

For generations the Honourable Company of Edin-burgh Golfers, founded in 1744, has been regarded by outsiders as aloof and more than a little eccentric. Insiders would not disagree with that.

matches for odd members.

secreturies raised arrogant

high-handedness to an art form and the stories are Women are allowed to play

the course [with a handicap of 24 or less and a man in tow]

but Open Championships attract an irritating mass of known as female journalists.

Paddy Hanmer, the last secretary but one, had several run-was shattered.

PAYNE Stewart arrived at Muirfield for the Open Championship this week and presented himself at the hut that serves as a registration

A man in a blazer stepped forward. "What the hell are you doing here?" he demanded. "You can't play. I'm the secretary," he added, by way of explanation. No surprises there. Situation normal as far as Muirfield is concerned. It has a reputation for being the rudest golf dub in the world and Stewart had fallen foul of its exclusivity before, being refused a tee time when he was US Open champion.

Now he had no title to his name. What could he expect? He had probably not even telephoned to say he was coming.

"Gee whizz," was Stewart's admirably mild response before he and the secretary fell ins with one woman in particular. As she passed the clubhouse with her husband, also a journalist but a man and a former Scottish rugby international, Hanmer, who was renowned for his irascibility, said: There goes Norman Mair and his bad-tempered

When it comes to fixing up This faint heart quaits at the cry invariably goes up: "They're all odd." the thought of what he would make of the fact that women It hosted championships members of the Association of Golf Writers (AGW) are but as a private club paid little attention to its public face. Its allowed in the locker-room

Your not-so-intrepid corres-pondent and a colleague of much more pioneering spirit put this edict to the test, accompanied by the reassuringly large and official figure of Michael Bonallack, secretary of the Royal and Ancient. them, including those horrors and successfully breached the hallowed area. All we saw were two slightly bemused locker-room attendants but history, of a sort, had been made Hanmer's successor, less than affectionately known as Kojo after the commandant of the prison camp in Tenko. might never have allowed it but he has more weighty matters on his mind this week. No longer secretary but still a member, he has been put in charge of the rubbish. Unfortunately for the mythmakers, litter control is not how the incumbent. Payne Stewart's new buddy, regards the public element of his job. In Group Captain John Prideaux - he retains the title only because the club wanted him to - the Honourable Company has found the ideal front-man. He is charming. delightful and totally disarming, and when he insists it is the friendliest club imaginable you find yourself believing him. Munfield-baiting may never be the same again.

Botham greets triumph with much decorum

By PETER BALL

CHESTER-LE-STREET (first day of three; the Pakistanis first-innings wickets in hand, are 252 behind the Pakistanis

THE crowd — and the tabloid press — flocked to Chester-le-Street expecting confrontation to mark the first first-class match in the town. Instead, under the shadow of the church overlooking the pocket-sized ground in the back streets, peace broke out. After all the head shaking and warnings as to future conduct of the past week, the Pakistanis were on their best behaviour yesterday, and so, apart from a few dismayed gestures to his own fielders, was Ian Botham. With such volatile characters in opposition, the Pakistani pursuit of their eleventh of the 12 wins-necessary to claim -Tetley's £50,000 bonus could have proved incendiary.

But although Botham had the satisfaction of settling two personal scores, claiming the wickets of his old adversaries, Aamer Sohail and Javed Miandad, even those triumphs were accepted with impeccable decorum. The batsmen left without waiting for the umpire's decision; it was that sort of day.

But if their behaviour was impeccable, the Pakistanis may be less impressed with the performances. In front of an all-ticket 5,000 crowd, the touring team began as if out to equal the 1948 Australians 721 in a day against Essex— or at least Sohail did.

The opener was expansive from the start, hitting two fours in both the first two overs and racing to 41 out of 47 in the first eight. Raja's attempts to keep in step were less successful and, after surviving a half-chance to slip and a more genuine one to square leg, he was caught by Hughes leaping at mid-off.

Sohail moved on to his 50; off 50 balls, with mine fours, most struck with a flourish, but the arrival of Botham into the attack induced a rush of blood. A kinder critic described Sohail's shot, as be charged Botham, as a pulldrive. On the village green, or in a Durham senior league ground, it would be more accurately described as a

After that success; Botham found wickets hard to come by. He had little help from his fielders. Salim was dropped from a straightforward chance to cover, Mujtaba escaped an edge that Fothergill fumbled on the half-volley, to receive a blistering look from the legend; and, to add insuft to injury, a wild overthrow pre-sented Salim with a five. Hands on hips, Botham did his "disgusted of Durham" impression with some force. 1

***

4.5

多连

يتكونى سلاية

-

10 Y 27 10.

, a. de l

1

4

Such fielding was the last thing Botham needed. He at least proved that, whatever his shape, there is nothing wrong 🛴 with his stamina. Although he still swings the ball a long way — enough to finally persuade Javed into an injudicious cut be is now a stock rather than strike bowler. Figures of two for 73 are not a high recom-mendation for a stock bowler, even on Chester-le-Street's flat wicket and short boundaries. But if the bowling lacked enom, the Pakistani batsmen found ways of getting out to it. Even Mujtaba, whose innings had been a model of calm purpose, finally put his head in the air and aimed Berry's first ball at Ropery Lane.

They declared at 308 for seven but the rate of Durham's their work cut out to win this ☐ Asmer Schail's double century in the Old Trafford Test match has lifted him to fortieth place in the Coopers and Lybrand world ratings. Alec Stewart who scored genturies in the first two Tests, has risen tweive places to No. 9.

In the bowling, Wagar Young has dropped 55 points during the series but retains first place ahead of Curtly

DURHAM: First Innings.

Batres (10° 6, nb; 4) .

S Africans' visit is ruined by a thief

By JOHN GOODBODY

THE Chepstow police were vesterday investigating the oss of £4,700 from a jacket belonging to the manager of a group of South African athetes who are touring Britain.

This is the third occasion in recent years that cash has been reported missing by athletes or * officials in Britain. The latest episode occurred at the San Pierre Hotel Golf and Country Club in Wales, between the party's arrival on Saturday after competing at the Crystal Palace grand prix event and their participation at Cwmbran on Sunday. Tony Longhurst, the manager, two coaches and six athletes, three of whom will be participating at the Olympic Games, had a late dinner on arriving at the hotel Longhurst was carrying the money that he had received from the BAF to meet the cost of their air flights from South Africa. accommodation and pocket group — which was the last to mish eating in a private restaurant set aside for visiting athletes - retired Longhurst had left a tracksult lacket containing the envelope with the money on the back of a chair in the restaurant. When he returned it was gone. He reported the loss to the management at 10am. Michael Knox-Johnston, the hotel manager, said. "All the staff have been interviewed by the police but none could recall seeing the jacket. This is a highly unusual incident here." Longhurst said: should have been a wonderful time for these athletes, the experience of their lives. None of them have the money to pay for their costs and it will take two years for them to earn it."

The six athletes will still compete at Gateshead on Friday. Longburst said he had spoken to the BAF, which was "sympathetic", however, there was nothing more it could do

Just before midnight the to help.

Barnet give ultimatum

BARNET'S players have set their club until tomorrow to come up with their wages. On division club's players handed in a collective transfer request their chairman, Stan Flashman, after discovering a shortfall in their money. While the players trained ry Fry, said: "The chairman is coming down later in the week to sort everything out. He said it was a misunderstanding and everyone would be paid. The players are having a meeting with his wife, Helen, on Thursday. The players are adamant that unless it is sorted out they will go." ☐ Crystal Palace, the first British club to play in South Africa for 29 years, arrived in Johannesburg yesterday. They have agreed to wear black and white armbands calling for "Peace and Democracy" when they play their two matches at the weekend, but they will not have to risk their lives by travelling to the troubled Vaal triangle to pay their respects to those who died in last month's Boipatong massacre.

JOHN Jensen, a member of Denmark's successful European championship side, came to London yesterday to sign for Arsenal in a £1.1 million transfer deal. George Graham, the Arsenal manager, who was in Sweden through out the championships, made his first venture in the transfer market this year when he igned Jensen, who was 27 in Back home Palace have had May, from Brondby, his Dan-

By DENNIS SIGNY

Ideal host: Prideaux gives the club a friendlier image

a £2 million-plus bid for the new Scotland forward, Dun-The signing of the Dane, who can play on the right or centre of midfield, does not can Ferguson, rejected by Dundee United a week after Sheffield United turned down rule out Graham's longstand-£3 million for Brian Deane. ing interest in Geoff Thomas, the Crystal Palace and England left-side player. Graham said: "If the right players become available I will go all out to sign them."

Jensen, who has won 48 caps for Denmark, scored the first goal against Germany in the European championship final. That was his second international goal; the other was five years previously. Jensen, who had been linked with Nottingham Forest, played in all five games in the championship against England, Sweden, France, Holland and Germany. He hit a post in the 0-0 draw against England. Graham said: "I am delighted to have signed him. He is a good midfield player, which is something we have been looking for to supply our excellent forward line. We have watched Jensen in chib football at Brondby and also in Sweden. He had an excel-lent championship, and :we decided to sign him.

Arsenal bolster midfield with Jensen

"He has got a good engine."
He gets involved. He was a big influence in the Danish team. he was in action all over the

Jensen is the second player from Bronby and the Danish side to come to English foot-Schmeichel, the goalkeeper ted a year ago for £600,000.

One player leaving Highbury yesterday was the England Under-21 forward, Andrew Cole, who joined Bris-Andrew Cole, who joined bristol City in a club record £500,000 deal. Cole, aged 20, helped save the West Country club from relegation last season, storing eight times in 12 games after joining them on

The signing doubled the previous record transfer fee for City, whose manager, Denis Smith, said: "He is the player I've wanted all summer buf if Arsenal had turned me down I was ready to look elsewhere.

reets

orum

WEDNESDAY JULY 15 1992

When history passed the ink-blot test

Waterman, Parker, Biro - all names that have written themselves into history. Stephen Bayley traces the development of the pen from a simple writing tool to a masterpiece of design hen a man first picked up a burnt stick and wrote on the wall of his cave he made one of the small yet significant achievements of which our material civilisation is comprised — and the pen he had invented is one of its great

Historically, ink storage was based on Egyptian and Roman designs, with interlocking goose quills inside a metal body, creating a filling chamber. Delivery was through nibs of goose, raven or swan quills or, occasionally gold, but both feather and metal lacked

Remedies were sought with preclous stones, but these were too hard. (Those sceptical about the advantages of modern civilization may reflect on the disagreeable experience of writing with a sapphire-tipped nib on coarse, porous paper, with an ink which refused to dry.) Then, in 1841, an Englishman called Malet developed an usmium-iridium tip soldered to a gold nib. This was the first important breakthrough in fountain pen

Most people asked to name the great pen manufacturers would say Waterman, Parker and Bic. but increasingly they would say Mont Blanc and Pentel, too. It is Waterman and Parker that constitute the "grandes marques" of pens: here were companies which emerged in the American 19th century, contemporaries of Sears Roebuck, the railroads and the telegraph, when romantic national priority. Reliable pens were a necessary part of streamlined offices: every clerk had to have one.

Lewis E Waterman's great achievements were to be confident enough to guarantee his pens, and to be bold enough to acquire the habit of sitting in a New York show window demonstrating his prod-ucts to a sceptical public. It is remarkable that it took until the 1880s (when the telephone, type-writer and the automobile had already been defined) for the first reliable, modern fountain pen, Waterman's "Ideal", to appear in American markets.

eorge S Parker followed Waterman into business, manufacturing fountain pens in Janesville, Wisconsin, but it was only in 1921 when the "Duofold" was introduced with a distinctive bright red barrel and cap that Parker's newly conspicuous product stole any commercial advantage. In 1937 the Parker name became synonymous with pens when the Parker 51 was introduced. Designed by Kenneth Parker, Ivan D Tefft, Marlin Baker and Joseph Platt to commemorate the company's 51st birthday, the 51 is one of a handful of designs which define the mid century.

Parker made some half-hearted Parker made some half-hearted characteristic design around the ergonomic claims for the design, end cap, which has now largely

but the truth of the 51 is that it was a small masterpiece of streamlined modern styling. So completely did it summarise the technical and aesthetic achievements of industrial design that it was celebrated in the greatest 20th century art education book, the Bauhaus master Laszlo Moholy-Nagy's Vision in Motion (1947). This has sometimes led to the fallacious assumption that Moholy-Nagy was involved with the design. He was not, but he would have been proud to be.

Parker was soon producing a million 51s a year, yet it was always an exclusive product. The real proletarianisation of the pen occurred from two technical developments — one in South America, the other in Japan — which sidelined the traditional fountain pen and turned them into The capricious antiques. Laszlo Biro is one of those consumer, his rare geniuses—like William Henry needs Hoover and Louis Chevrolet - whose satisfied. surname became a generic for the popular product they developed. Biro left began to Hungary for Argentina, where in acquire a taste 1943 he patented a for exclusive balipoint pen with quick-drying ink fountain pens which did not blot.

In 1945 the biro was being manufactured by the Eterpen Company the company Martin Pen Company in London. Biro's design was made disposable by Marcel Bic(h), whose original Biro-Bic Company introduced the Bic Crystal to Britain from France in 1958. "Un bic" is as French for "ballpoint pen" as a "biro" is in England.

in 1946, at the same time Soichiro Honda was strapping small engines onto bike frames and Akio Morita of TKK was wondering what good purpose he could find for a tape-recorder, Yokio Horie founded Pentel, a name, like Morita's Sony which used nicely corrupted English, in this case a combination of "pen" and "pastel". For a long time Pentel produced the sort of merchandise which made Made in Japan sound like me-too mediocrity until, in 1960, the first Pentel pen marker appeared. This was the original felt tip, a clever advance on traditional bamboo-based techniques, which used osmotic action to feed ink from a dense tampon to a finer nib. In 1963 came the Pentel sign pen, where chiselled fibre replaced traditional bamboo, giving a rapid flow of ink at any angle, and suddenly signwriting became clean and reliable. The achievement reflected Waterman's, but Pentel's great-change came in 1970 with the introduction of the R50 ball Pentel, the green pen with a replaced the biro as the universal global writing instrument. Using soluble, fade resistant ink, the cushioned alloy ballpoint offers an almost calligraphic variation in line width, depending on the pressure exercial. Pentel's publicity says that since 1970 enough R50s have been made to allow five circumnavigations of the globe, but the real point about Pentel's success was indicated by the award in 1976 of the Deming Prize for "total quality

The very success of Pentel produced a reaction, since the problem with global products is that people will want something different. The capricious consumer, his besic handwriting needs satisfied, began to acquire a taste for exclusive fountain pens, ones which recaptured something of the trial and error experience of the past. The pen may be-come one of the first products to refute the verities of mass-production and re-establish the personal dimen-sion in owning a product. It was actually

Parker who took the first step away from pens as commodities. In 1954 introduced its biro. having waited nearly ten years for ballpoint technology to demonstrate its reliability. The Parker ballpoint used a retractable ballpoint, with a nylon ratchet that ingeniously turned the "nib" with every retraction. This obviated the assymetric wear which had bedevilled cheap biros.

art of the appeal of the Parker 51 was that it had been the first thin pen. Some of the appeal of the present celebrity pen, the Mont Blanc Meisterstuck, is that it is very

It is not surprising that the fat, expensive and exclusive pen became as much a token of the 1980s as the neat, cheap and disposable Pentel, yet it is significant, beyond mere consumerist excess, that one offered flawless performance cheaply, the other made demands on its owners and was extremely pricey. Mont Blanc began business life in 1908 as the Simplo Filter Pen Company in Hamburg. The top model was the Mont Blanc (because it was the highest peak in Europe); the familar white snow-flake appearing on the end cap in

The original Mont Blanc was a copy of a Parker Duofold, but by 1934 Mont Blane had introduced the screwthread piston filter, changed the company name to reflect its top product and added "4810" (the height of Mont Blanc in metres) to its nibs, where it

It was from stylus, the Latin pen. that we derive our own word style. It is, perhaps, not surprising that the misleadingly straightforward device we use to intermediate between a thought in the head and a word on the page is one that carries a great deal of meaning. Handwriting, according to Goethe, as something which "magically calls a person to mind". Consumers realise this and the accumulating success of huxury pens from Parker, Waterman and Mont Blanc threatens some of the assumptions about

More than £200 is a lot to pay for a pen, when a functionally similar device can be bought for 50p, but resent it. Certainly she got a bit thin and straggly when he first disappeared, and clawed at the windows rather pathetically. But now she is back to sleeping 20 hours a day, and quite often buries her face in a bowl of food, so I think she has

I have had her for six years, and she still surprises me. Her only probably fallen on her feet.

in troubled times more than £200 is not a lot to pay for something which adds a little magic even to signing the community charge cheque. In the future the restoration of such simple but fundamental pleasures will play an increasing role in commerce and manufacturing. The pen, once again, is a paradigm of industrial culture. It is not only mightier than the sword, it has replaced it as an item of day-to-day personal heraldry.

TOMORROW

Film: Catherine Deneuve in a sparkling new Belle de Jour

Million Same

TORONTO and NIAGARA

Fly supersonic on Concorde to Toronto. stav live nights at the deluxe Sheraton, and return by 747. Dine overlooking Niagara Falls, at the CN Tower and at Harbour Castle Hotel. Enjoy the city tour and the harbour yacht cruise. View the spectacular falls on your belicopter excursion.

See the Phantom of the Opera. Heathrow departures are on 13, 20 August, 17, 25 September and 8 October. The inaugural Concorde holiday from Manchester takes place on 13 September. The inclusive price is £1,999. The five night holiday costs £999 flying both ways by 747.

OE2 and CONCORDE

Journey on the Pullman train from London or Manchester to Southampton on 4 October. Cruise for five nights on the QE2 via Vigo, Gibraltar (option to Expo '92) and Malaga. Return supersonic from Lisbon on Concorde. The cost is £1,499.

Alternatively, cruise for five nights on the QE2 from Southampton to New York. The coach tour includes visits to Philadelphia. Washington, Corning and Niagara Falls before your Concorde return from Toronto. Departures are on 29 July, 9 and 24 September. The fifteen day boliday costs £2,999.

You could take our Concorde flight to New York on 11 September and spend four nights at the Madison Towers. Tour Manhattan by coach, yacht and helicopter, The cost is £1,499 with the 747 return.

Concorde subsonic from Manchester to London on 17 September for just £199.

For brochures, please telephone: 081-992 6991 SUPERLATIVE TRAVEL

43 Woodhurst Road, London W3 6SS

A cat's-eye view of human behaviour

hen night falls and she doesn't come in falls V tea. I usually start to worry. So I go outside and call for her (the old story), and then feel helpless when she still doesn't come. I tell myself that probably she is "eating out tonight" - because I know how easily she insinuates herself into other houses, and then cadges a meal by acting weak and pathetic. At the end of such an evening, she will come home to me in a tell-tale overexcited state, not really interested in food. Still, I will say this for her: she always makes sure I'm all right. Out comes the tin-opener, and there's half a tin of Felix, a handful of Kitty Crunch for my little jaws to work on, even a tub of Sheba if she's been drinking. But it's not the food I am worried about. It's just that I am only properly happy when I know she is safe indoors. curled up asleep on that warm hairy rug of hers, her ears flicking contentedly as she dreams of Jeff

Bridges, She was 31 when I got her. Mangy and with a bit of a whiff. but also affectionate. She took time to settle down, and it was clear she had been badly treated in the past. because her mood swings were abrupt and inscrutable — one minute numing about like a maniac, the next flaked out in weird angular poses in random places on the carpet. But gradually I earned her trust (and she learned some basic grooming), and now she has this peculiar habit of rabbing her face against my leg, which is quite pleasant actually, though a bit of a nuisance when you are trying to walk downstairs. To friends who haven't got one, I always say, "Get one". I mean it, no hesitation. Yes, they are selfish. Yes, they moult. Yes, they yowl a bit in the night-time and they make it difficult for you to go on holiday. But they make it up to you in so many ways. For one thing, they can sometimes be persuaded to pose with ribbons around their necks. And for another, they are absolutely fascinating to watch. For example, mine spends hour after hour just staring at a big box in the corner of the living-room, not moving an inch, but silently grinding her teeth and tensing her muscles as if to pounce. I have said it before and I'll say it again: I am convinced they can see things we can't see. For about three years, actually, I had a pair — a male as well as a female — but the male disappeared one day last summer, as abruptly as he arrived, and I never found out what became of him. Run over, possibly. Or locked in a garage by

SINGLE LIFE

If only they could speak. Lynne Truss lets her pet have his say mistake. The sense of loss was awful (that's the problem with getting too attached). They are so frightfully independent, yet incredibly stupid at the same time, so they nun into danger while you sit at home worrying yourself demented.

Anyway, my dilemma was should I get a new one immediately (friends said, "Get a younger one this time")? But I was worried how the female would react; she might unacceptable habit is that sometimes during the day she will suddenly drop whatever she is doing, dash for the door and disappear; and then an hour later return with all sorts of inedible rubbish - vegetables, pasta, washing powder — which she dumps on the doormat, looking pleased with herself. It happens about once a

Evidently this is standard behaviour, especially from childless fe-males, and I ought to respond magnarumously to these offerings ("Muesti, how lovely") rather than offend her. But it is so clearly a throwback to some primitive hunting and gathering instinct that it unsettles me completely. I just don't like to face up to the fact that, you know, deep down, she's an animal.
"Look what I got," she trills, and starts spreading the stuff on the floor. "Oh yuk," I say. "Why ever did you bring home joghur?" And

I give her one of my looks

Sorry, there's not much point to this. I just thought I d fill you in. A couple of years ago, you see, she read a pile of books called things like Catwatching and Do Cats Need Shrinks? and learned some quasi-scientific nonsense about cat behaviour that has honestly given me the pip. For example, she now believes that in the cat world it is a sign of friendship to narrow your eyes. I ask you. Round eyes means aggression, you see, while slitty eyes means "I'm just a sweet old pussycat and I'm your friend". Several times a day, then, she catches my eye deliberately and then squints. It gives me the screaming ab-dabs. But on the other hand, how sweet of her to try to get an insight. She read somewhere else that cats respond at some deep atavistic level if you lie on the floor, chest up. So she does this, too, and although I have no idea what atavism is, i certainly appreciate a nice thick warm body to lie on, so I clamber aboard, no problem. And this is how I think I will leave you. actually: with me snoozing happily

She is happy, lying here chest up, eyes a squint, for she is cocooned in the pitiable belief that she is practising cat psychology, when in fact cat psychology is practising on

CARL FLESCH COMPETITION: Spread onto two chemic of three colors, on each, part my of the final stage of the Carl Flesch International Violin Competition offers talent spotters a chance to near each of the sulfinalist chance to near each of the silinatiss playing a concerto chosen from those by Barrok (No.2), acceptoven, Brahms, Dwitel Mandels, oth, Stellus, Tchaiková y and Weston, Andrew Lirton conducts 11, incharmona Barbican, 11 linea, London EC2 (071-636-532), sonight, tomorrow, 6.30cm.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING: After MUCH ADC ABOUT NOTHING: After to rope sanging Madaumer highs in the tondon International Festival of Theatra has year, the Romaman director Akcandau Dane applies his ingenuity to amother of Shall espeare siplay in collaboration with O find Stage Company. The concolution goes not national 18-week four foliophing is Sheffield opening Lyceum Handle Sheek, Sheffield (1742 10-95)22. Tonight Sar, 7-45pm, mats tomorous, 343, 2pm.

mas temorrous, Sat. Spm
TERRIBLE MOSUTH: The Almeida
Opera learnal presents Rigel Osborne's new opera Currentscioned by BBC Radio 3 flore work or a collaboration with playwright enviand Barker and is based on the life of Ocya Dawid Pourtney dries, to 3 for that includes Cline Bayley.
Orisis Erochim Richard Van Allan and Etizaberh Euronic Dawid Parry conducts on Almeida Ensemble.
Almeida Innostre, Almeida Street.
London N. 107 (1-359 4404), tonight, tomorrow, Spn. Sat. Spm. CONG GASTLATE — PRINTS 1964 or gouging prit timesvood for his

ANGELS IN AMERICA: Thviling performances in Tomy Fushner's hisconaling state-of-the-Union drama on Auts, religion, colling, everything Mational (Cottosloe), South Bank, SET 1071-926 20527 Today, 1,30pm and 7,15pm, 210rnms

LI LE BOURGEOIS GENTILHOMME Richard Jones 3 95-60 production, with Tunoth / Spall x a boomsh hero. Fine wspate, fivial contect, Rational (Lytterton), South Bank, SE1 (071-928 2352) Tonight-Sat, 7,30pm, mals tornorow, Sat, 2 15pm, 140mms.

☐ DEATH AND THE MAIDEN: And Li Death And the Malber Anel porimal is scorching psychological drama on the longing for reverge! Geraldine James, Michael Byrne and Paul Freeman Duke of York's St Martin's Lane, VACS (071-836 5122) Mon-Set, Byrn, mats Thurs. 3pm, Sat, 4pm. 120mins.

DEJAVU: Jimm., Porter 36 years or Li Distance; jimm, Poner so years on Obsome: hero sant and whings but in a vacuum, and Peter Egan seems too good-natured to be the Angry Old Man Comedy, Panton Street, SW1 (071-867 1045). Hon-Sat, 1 45pm, mats Thurs, Spm, Sat, Apm. 170mins

THE DYERUX: July Passal's

to initial and an artistic production of the famous stated drama, transposed to a gheto in 1942. Rew End, Hampstead, NW3 (011-794 0002) Turs-Sun, 7 30pm, mass Sun, 4pm, 30mms, Analoges. CANAD HOTEL Muscal barley sugar Berlin in the Twenthes Sentimental American, entertaining Dominion Tortenham Court Road, W11071-550 9562; Mon-Sat, Spm, mats Thurs Sat, 2,30pm 120mms. III A MICOSUMMIER NIGHT'S DREAM

In A attosuperiet Night 1 Ottame In Tallor 5 pilk production, full of rough and tumble and evergreen comedy. Directale Lander plays Bottom Open Alf, Reports Fair, NW1 1071-486 2451; Today, 3 30pm and 8pm.

■ PHILADELPHIA, HERE I COMEI: Affectionate comegy of an Insh emigrant and his carping after ego.

NEVV RELEASES

TODAY'S EVENTS

A daily guide to arts and entertubiment compiled by Kari Knight sculptures, this important sculptures, this important contemporary German artist errors aggressively cutting into the lino block or etching the metal plate to create some arresting prints. This survey of his graphic work takes us from his earliest images of shattered body parts to his Strees prints leaturing wermors with paintbruches and latterly his sexual works, endlessly examining a single month.

Tate Gallery, Milbank, London SW1 (071-821 1373) Mon-Sat, 10am-5 50pm, Sun 2-5 50pm, opens today until Nov !

until Nov I

ANTONI TAPIES: The Serpenane
Gallery has staged a powerful exhibition which confurns Tapies's reputation as Spain's most distinguished living painter.
The show is confined to the work of the lifties and Suites, when Tapies was a leader of the European avant-garde and reveals just how uncompromising an artist he was Serpertitine Gallery, Kensington
Gardens, London W2 (071-402 6075)
Daily, TDam-Gipm, Until August 9

IMAGINE: From the team who created IMAGINE: From the team who created Good Rodyn' Tonite comes Imagine, a

THEATRE GUIDE

Jeremy Kingston's assessment of theatre showing in London

House full, returns only
Some seats available
Seats at all prices

Excellent revival of Brian Final's

SCHOPPEL THE PLUMBER:

King's Head, 115 Upper Street, N1 1071-226 1916), Tues-Sat, Sprn, mars Sat, Sun, 3 30pm, 120mms, Final week. (The play begins previousing at Wyndham's from July 21)

C P Taylor's warminearted version of Sternheim's Sabre on snobbery among music lovers. Merry performances. Greenwich, Crooms Hill, SE10 (081-858 7755). Mon-Sat, 7.45pm, met Sit, 2.30pm 140mms.

SIX DEGREES OF SEPARATION:

Stockard Channing recreates her role as the nch New Yorker transfigured by a black con artist in John Guare's fine play on human inter-dependence Royal Court, Sloane Square, SW1 1071-730 1745) Mon-Sat, Sprn, mats Thurs, 3pm, Sat, 4pm, 90mms.

☐ A SLIP OF THE TONGUE: A wolfish

John Malrowch in a lightweight drama that seems to equate East-European dissidence with gerining girls into bed Shaftesbury, Shaftesbury Avenue, WC2 (071-379 3399), Mon-Thurs, Spm, Frl, Spm and Spm, Sat, 4 30pm and 8.30pm, 150mms

M SOMEONE WHO'LL WATCH

OVER ME: Excellent playing by Alec McCowen, Hugh Quarshle and Stephen Rea as Belrut hostages in Frank

McGuriness's new play. Hampeteed, Swiss Cottage Centre, NW3 (071-722 9301) Mon-Sat, 8pm,

THE SOUND OF MUSIC: Nuns.

CHELTENHAM FESTIVAL: The Chilingman Quartet continues performances of music by Haydh and Bartich this week. Today, in the Priville Pump Room at 11 am, the programme includes the premiers of John Taivener's second quartet. The Last Sleep of the Virgin. Also today hish folk group the Dublimers (Town Half, Sprin and Northern Ballet Theatre in Swan Lake (Everyman, 7.30pm).

Cheltenham Intermational Festival of Music, Impenal Square, Cheltenham (0242 523690) BUXTON FESTIVAL: Tonight the lestwal offers Handel's opera Agrippina, produced by Adnan Slack and directed from the harpschoot by Roger Vignoles (Opera House, 7 45pm). Fastival Box Office, Buxton Opera House, Water Street, Buxton 40298 72190), until August 2. "musical celebration" of John Lennon's inte and works, billed as "perhaps the greatest story Liverpool has to tell" greatest story Liverpool has to uni The musical begins previous ronight and opens on July 23

Playhouse, Williamson Square, Liverpool (051-709 8363), tonight, tomorrow, 7.30pm, Frl, Sat, Spm

COLUMBUS: Subtitled And Discovery of Japan, this is Richard Nelson's contribution to the 1492 affair or report contribution to the 1492 affair lonathan Hyde plays the explorer under the direction of John Caird (see

Prism open red vectors as a second or several person or combetween her child, murn and mantinend in Sharman Macdonaid's new play which continues previewing in the West End Simon Callow directs.

Albery, St Martin's Lane, London WC2 (071-867 1115), torught-Sat, 8pm, mats tomorrow, 3pm, Sat, 4pm.

interview, page 31 Barbican, Sili Street, London EC2 (071-638 8891), preview toright, 7 15pm; opens ned Wednesday

CHELTENHAM FESTIVAL: The

Sadier's Wells, Rosebery Avenue, ECT (071-278 8916), Tues-Sat, 7 30pm, mats Tues, Thurs, Sat, 2 30pm. 165mins. I STRAIGHT AND WARROW Nicholas Lyndhurst, Ned Daglish and Carmel McSharry in likeable cornedy about a downg mother's wornes, notably her gay son. Aldwyddi, Aldwych WC2 (071-836) 64041 Mon-Sat, Spm, mats Wed, 3pm Sat, 5pm, 130mms.

Ci UNA POOKA: Sexual repression in Ireland; a supernatural visitor offers relief during a papal tour. Partchy black comedy by Michael Harding Tricycle, 269 Kibum High Road, NW6 (271-328 1000) Hon-Sat, Spm, mai. Sur. April. 130 mis.

ELA WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE M A WOMAN ON NO WINTERNAME, Philip Provise's stylish RSC production,
in London after a triumphant tour.
Callous ansocrat, wronged women:
melodrams laced with Wilde's wirt.
Theatre Royal, Haymarket, SW1 (071930 8800) Mon-Sat, 7,30pm, mats
Wed Sat 2 30pm, 165 mes. Wed, Sat, 2:30pm 165mm LONG RUNNIEG: N Blood Brother: Phoenix (071-867 1044) . . . . . . Buddy: Victoria Palace (071-834 1317)

St Martin's (071-836 1443).
The Phantom a - the Operus Her Mejesty's (071-494 5400).
Return to the Forbidden Planet: Cambridge (071-379 5299).
Starlight Express: Apolio Victoria (071-828 8665).
The Wilman in Black Fortune (071-836 2238).

Nacs, squeaky-clean tots and drops of golden sun: a sweet holiday from the real world. With Liz Robertson and Christopher Cazenove. Ticket information from SWET.

mat Sat. 4pm 140mms.

● BATHIAN RETURNS (12)* Quirky sportium tails on Alichelia Pfeiffer's

spoting trails on Auchelie Pleiffer's electrising Carwonan With Michael Reaton, Doors Devito, director, Tim Burron Barbican (C1-558 8891) Camden Parkway (C1-557 7034) Empire (071-497 9999) (mg/ml Balter Street (071-370 2656) Weith Fulham Road (071-370 2656) Weith Fulham Road (071-456 0310 Michael Carlond Street (071-456 Northing Hill Coronet (071-427 6705) Screen on the Green (071-226 6705: Scrater 55, the Green (071-226 3520: UC: Winitaleys (071-792 3332)

BIG WEGNESCAY (PG) Unwanted remail of their knies's portentous 1978 hymnite betters van-Michael Vincent, Wilkem Part, Gart, Busey Prince Chories (07 (+437 8181).

PEPI, LUCI, SOM:... Outrageous adventures of three Marind worms Amusing if disherentled jape from Pedro Almadovar, completed in 1980 Metro (671–487 0757)

● STEPKIDS (PGr Paintul comedy with step-paratificand supphildren galore, but no good joiles. Hillary Wolf Griffin Dunne, owe the Hoan Modular Silver

CURRECT

THE BEST INTENTIONS (12) Ingmat Bergman's fasonating tale of his parer to tarbulent counsing and marriage. Dull direction by Balle August; succlent performances /Pernilla August, Samuel Protein Gate 1071-727 4043: Lumiere (071-986-961).

THE BUTCHER'S WIFE (12) Aids THE BUILDHER'S WITH THE ACT WHITH YOU WHITH YE WAS TOOK DESCRIPTION OF THE SAMPED OF T

CINEMA GUIDE

Geoff Brown's assessment of films in London and (where indicated with the symbol ◆ ) on release across the country

MGM Fulkam Road (071-370 2636) MGM Tottenham Court Road (071-636 6148) MGM Trocadero (071-434 00311

CASABLANCA (U): The 50th answersary release of the cult favounte brilliantly written, awash with exotic atmosphere. Bogari, Ingrid Bergman, Paul Henreid, Claude Rains; director.

Michael Curis. Plaza (071-497 9999)

HOWARDS END (PG) Absorbing version of E.M. Forster's novel about two colliding families with different ideals. With Anthony Hopkins, Envira Thompson, Helena Bonham-Carter Director, James Jony Curzon Mayfair (071–465 8865) JACQUOT DE NANTES (PG); Magical made by his widow. Agnes Varda. MGM Swiss Centre (071-429 4470). THE LONG DAY CLOSES (12) Terence Davies's powerful evocation of childhood's lost paradise. With Leigh McCormad: Markine Yales, and a wonderful aural collage of Fifties

Britam Curzon Phoenix (071-240 9661) Curzon West End (071-439 4805) Scruen on Baker Street (071-935 2772) ◆ THE LOVER (18) Jean-Jacques

Amaud's over-careful, taithfully erons adaptation of Marguente Duras's autobiographical novella about an adolescent grif's discovery of sex and love in Twerthes colonal Indo-China MGM Fullham Road (071-370 2636)

GM Haymarket (071-839 1527) MGM Shaftesbury Avenue (071-836 6279/379 7025) MGM Trocadero (071-434 0031) UCI Whiteleys (071-792 33321.

◆ THE PLAYBOYS (12): Love and pelicusy in an Insh village in 1957 Strong performances (Albert Finney, Robin Wright, Arden Quinn), but too much blarney Director, Giftes

Camden Parkway (071-267 7034) MCM Chelses (071-352 5096) MGM Haymarket (071-839 1527) Odeon Kensington (0426 914666).

 THE PLAYER (15) Descring sattre on Hollywood, directed by Robert Allman from Michael Tolkin's novel. Tim Robbins as the studio executive who falls a writer, plus cameos and walk-ons galore MGM Choisea (071-352 5096) Odeons: Kensington (0426 914666) Laicester Square (0426 915633) Streen on the Hill (071-435 3366) UCI Whiteleys (071-792 3332)

THE RAPYURE (18) Disaplected The RAPTUME (18) Disprected woman (Muri Rogers, excellent) becomes Born Again Provocative exploration of spinitual malaise, written and directed by Michael Yolkin MGM Futham Road (071-370 2626) MGM Painton Street (071-930 0631) MGM Tottenham Court Road (071-636 6128) 636 6148:

& STEEPWALKERS (12) Allegard bungled horror move written by Stephen Firig. Enan krause as a reprilian in hunk's dothing, Måddhen Amod as the impeniled girl. Director, Mich Gams MGM Oxford Street (071-636 0310) Odeons: Kensington (0426 914666) Marble Arch (0426 914501)

VAN GOGH (12) Maurice Palat's masterly, no-nonsense portrait of the panter's last months. Fire performance from singer-turned-actor Jacques Dutrom. Minema 6071-235 4225; Renoir (071-837 8402).

THEATRE

Thriller-writers do it by numbers

OUTSIDE the Vaudeville, blank billboards were coyly hanging on Monday night, ready to be filled with plaudits culled from the reviewers. Unfortunately, I cannot manage "nervetingling", "spine-chilling", or "this will keep Londoners' flesh creeping for years". My donation would be "quite ingenious, but not in the same class as Sleuth" or "more fun than The Mousetrap, but unlikely to run as long". That wouldn't make much impact on those strolling up the Strand, would it?

There is one respect, though, in which Edward Taylor's play outdis-tances Sleuth. It is a thriller about not one but two thriller-writers. Smoothliving Harold is fed up with the drunken antics of Paul, the Esau of Lime Grove, and proposes to end a long collaboration penning serials for television. But Paul is the proud possessor of one of those secrets often found lurking up sleeves in plays like this. Harold once went in for some financial hanky-panky, and Paul will tell on him if the partnership ends. How is a self-respecting thrillerwriter to react to blackmail as crude as that? With a clever murder, of course. And Paul has himself provided Harold with an idea. In his scenario the killer, who must be an expert mountaineer, lures a less adept victim up some passing Alp or Himalaya, and leaves him to perish of hypothermia in a crevice. At this point the canny Harold Murder by Misadventure Vaudeville remembers that, yes, he lives in a flat whose balcony is inaccessibly perched on crags above the freezing English Channel. Suppose Paul gets accidentally-on-purpose locked out there, while he and his wife are in America. The perfect murder, isn't it?

Well, no. But now reviewers must become inscrutable. There are twists, reverses and ironies, some quite pleas ing, others not so clear and logical. I am still worrying about the relevance of an offstage character called Valerie Knight, who is Paul's mistress and -but here I must stop. I cannot be the cad on the commuter train who fills in your Times crossword when you are looking out of the window.

Not that Murder by Misadventure is as intellectually challenging as that The dialogue, though sometimes sharpish, also slips into "what are you playing at?". "I'm not playing, I assure you," and other such exchanges. Yet here too is a problem. There are occasions when what seem to be miscalculated lines and miscalculated acting turn out to be meant to be miscalculated. For instance, why does Angela Down, as Harold's wife Emma, react so insipidly to what may be exposure and imprisonment for life? Why must Greg Hicks's policeman

Paul (William Gaunt), Harold (Gerald Harper), Emma (Angela Down)

behave like a sharp-witted marauder in an early Pinter play? There are reasons. Still, Gerald Harper, blimpishly rasping his way through the role of Harold, seems more like some disortented squadron leader. Biggles without a compass, than the dangerous and finally frightened man he is. William Gaunt's Paul, rumpled, bearded and grumpy, is always a more powerful presence. As for Val May's production, what can I say? Competent, perhaps: another word unlikely to shimmer off those billboards onto the Strand.

BENEDICT NIGHTINGALE

THEATRE

Look back in anger?

A Woman of No Importance

Theatre Royal, Haymarket

WILDE's play is back at the theatre where it first delighted audiences 99 years ago; and for Philip Prowse's production, it is also a return. Opening last autumn at the Barbican, to mixed reviews (just as in 1893), it toured the country before coming back to London, and to a theatre grandly elegant enough to make it, nostalgia aside, the play's natural home. Yet it would be a mistake to think of this play only as a haven for famous quotes — "Nothing succeeds like excess". "The unspeakable in full pursuit of the uneatable". there is wit here in plenty, in the sparring between Lord Illingworth (John Carlisle in suavely cruel voice) and Jennifer Hilary's languid Mrs Allonby, in the absent-minded affability of Barbara Leigh-Hunt's Lady Hunstanton, and in the graciously enthusiastic Lady Sturfield of Mary Chater. But Wilde is also mounting a frontal attack on the hypocrisy and arrogance of society, and Prowse's

ONE of the more stimulating intellectual activities is the challenging of assumptions. For example, The Times asks me to review last night's Viewpoint '92 (ITV), sub-titled Moneylove,

and assumes that I will simply get on

But reviewing Panorama is not likely to make me rush out and stand for

election, any more than I have taken

up drug dealing as a consequence of

last week's documentary on the subject.

But I cannot be expected to hone.

refine and in other ways polish 500 or

so words in return for a modest sum

when I have just learned how to make Approximately. I need to get the details clear by contacting one Mark

Hughes, who runs an American company called Herbalife. It makes $200 million a year even though it £10.000 in five minutes.

The assumption is based on the fact that I have always complied in the past.

with it. How silly.

direction is fully mindful of this aspect. The American orphan Hester Jaye Griffiths) is rather a prig, in virginal white, holding an improving book, but Prowse makes us take close note of the opposition, the rich society ladies who will forgive a man everything provided he is good company at dinner. They are themselves good company, but this is not to deny their selfishness and complacency.

in the garden of the first act and the drawing-room of the second, Prowse daringly places characters almost in a line facing us, with Leigh-Hunt and Cherry Morris's Lady Caroline in the centre, turning their aristocratic faces to left and to right as the conversational rallies pass over their elderly heads. The framework is marvellously formal but every so often the fabric gives, letting rage and hatred burst through.

Mrs Arbuthnot (Carol Royle), the woman ruined by Lord Illingworth 20 years before, is seen to come close to ruining herself and her son by the ferocity of her loathing. In its psychological command, Wilde never wrote a more substantial play. Prowse gives us the substance, and with his own designs, the glittering surface. Never were stone urns encrusted with such moss, never so many cushions heaped upon so vast an ottoman; and never did a humble soul suffer poverty so luxuriously as Mrs Arbuthnot in her sumptuously draped cottage.

JEREMY KINGSTON | in the second act of Swan Lake,

DANCE

Talent on a sure footing

Royal Ballet School Covent Garden

THE Royal Ballet School is alive and well and promising much talent for the future. Its annual performance at the Royal Opera House showed a style of training that over recent years has acquired extra vigour and amplitude, in keeping with international ballet Arms no longer take up decorative rounded positions, but look airily elongated and dynamic, the energy running from the shoulder right to the finger tips. Legs and feet travel the stage sweepingly, yet lack nothing in clarity and precision. Could it be that physiques are also abroad? No, we must not generalise. True, Patricia Roivas and Christopher Hampson, tall and rangy, led the cast. of Soirée musicale, an attractive sequence of dances by Kenneth MacMillan to Britten's suite. They exploited their breadth to give the slow arcs and extensions of their pas de deux a luxuriant fullness and soft lilt. But Pamela Smith, the lovely Odette possesses the compact outline more usual among British dancers. She infused the choreography with a soft pliancy, all the while combining this with a firm technique that allowed her rock steady balances and a sophisticated response to the music. She and her partner, Eric Crockett, established a careful rapport through their eyes. marred only slightly by her inappropriately cheerful expression. She is joining

London City Ballet and is quite a catch. It was not just the soloists who impressed, but the unified and polished ensemble, from the junior pupils performing folk and social dances, to the immaculate swan-girls accompanying Odette.

Hans van Manen's Five Tangos. though, demands adult dancers, able to communicate sombre intensity rather than this adolescent cast's wellmannered balletic lightness. But equally the piece needs its Astor Plazzolla music in its recorded bandoneon version, not the watereddown, live orchestral equivalent that favours. (This performance was dedicated to Piazzolla who died recently.)

Shi Ning Liu was outstanding in Five Tangos, unravelling pirouettes 👛 with a creamy smoothness. But top marks for technique go to Yohei Sasaki in Soires musicale's pas de quatre, for his exceptional ballon and way of blending virtuosity with stylishness.

NADINE MEISNER

77) IN,

Pu

TELEVISION REVIEW

Doing it all for noughts

cannot spell its own name. All you have . to do is get hold of a package, or "a business in a box", supplied by Hughes and you are up and running as a marketer of herbal remedies. Hughes, the tele-evangelist of organic pill popping, holds conventions at which his existing sales force gives testimony to the enormous sums they make. Or I could marry someone who is rich. Admittedly this will involve divorcing someone who isn't, but once that is out of the way I shall be taking my cue from Ginie Polo, who was not rich until she became Ginie Polo Sayles. She "can't help loving people who are generous towards me". There you are, you see: the girl can't help it.

Mr Sayles was generous at the rate of $100 an hour, paid to Ginie just for talking to him. But the relationship biossomed, presumably to $1,000 and on to even nought-ier heights, so that now Ginie is rich in her own right, partly thanks to writing a book about how to marry a rich man. Not that loving money is necessarily as romantic as paying a woman to talk to you. There is more to life than that. There is more to LIFFE than I had imagined, because apparently dealers on the London International Financial Futures Exchange are coining it to the point where turnover has reached £50 billion a day. Imagine how much talking old Ginie would do for that

PLAYHOUSE 071-839 4401 RAY COOKEY'S New Corner

I expect the flaw in a programme like this, had I been paid enough to watch it closely, is that it gives the impression that all wealth-accumulation is a bad thing. This cannot be so, but programmes that show us fabulous wealth via a tut-tut style of narration are having their cake and earing it, the British loving to decry wealth almost as much as we love spending money.

I left the videotape running while I thumbed through Yellow Pages under Widows. Rich" and heard a man called Richard Evans, who sold his computer company and is now embarked on an eight-year programme to give away his money and counsel the unfortunate. A spoilsport, then. But rather than sit here earning the gas bill I am off to see if Evans can counsel me alongside Ginie Polo Sayles. Clearly. she needs a good talking to.

PETER BARNARD

TEL: 971-481 4000

MAJOR CREDIT CARDS

ACCEPTED

The state of the s

ENTERTAINMENTS

ART GALLERIES PLP VISIT THE COURTAULD INSTITUTE CALLERIES AT SOMERSET HOUSE,

A unique art collection, full of surprises, just a stone's throw from Covent Carden Open daily, Admission £3 ↔ Temple CINEMIAS

STRAND, WC2

CURZON WAYFAIR Curson St Telephone Booking CC 867 Telephone Booking CC 867
111 inu big ter Mun Sal
9am 9pm Exclusive presenta flori in 70mm Anthony Hop ins. Vanerus Redgrave in HOWARDS END (PC) "...a genuine triumph" D. Tel. Progs at 2 00 5 30 6, 8.50 CURZON WEST END Shafter ALP WI 071 459 4805 Anthony Hopk... Vanesa Redgrave in NOWARDS END IPG/ Pros at 12 u0 indi Suni 2 48 5 40 4 8 30

CURZON PHOCHEN Phoenix SL Off Charles Cross Rd 867 1044 THE LONG DAY CLOSES (12) 4 Rhe Po Tenne Dates Proposit 155, 4 to, 6 204 8 55

CONCERTS CITY OF LONDOR FESTIVAL
5-22 JULY 1992
TOAY 1 05pm Blahorspair
Hall, Cecile Ousset, 1,05pm Si
Mary Woolforth Prote and Poetry/Cabriel Woolf and Rosalind Shamks. 8 00pm
Sountwark Cathedral Corydon
Singerly/Corydon Orthesta /Best/Bowen 8 00pm All Hall
Iowa Ds the Tower. Maril

BOX OFFICE 071 248 4260 OPERA & BALLET

GLYMPEBOURNE FESTIVAL

Orth The London Philharmonic
The Gueen of Spandes Today

5 00 Sun 4 00 precents Tut

5 00 Death in Venice Torn, Sai
Mon 3 40 Januar 5 71 5 50.

Sold Out

Box offi-refrequed information Box oids r/recorded informati 0273 541 111

EXHIBITIONS

OLISEUM 071 836 3161/24 5258/Tickelmaster 071 379 AUSTRALIAN BALLET
ENDS SATURDAY
Ton's Tomor 7 30 OF BLESSED MEMORY / CHECKMAY / CALA
FILESCO SATURDAY
CONCENSATION
FOR SATURDAY
CONCENSATION
CONCENS GOVAL OPERA HOUSE 071 240
1066/1911 Slandby into B36
1903 5 CC 68 amphi seats at all
on the day
THE ROYAL OPERA
TON'T 7 SO I viagogle a Rolms,
THE ROYAL SALLET TOMOT 7 30
Les Sylphides/A Month is the Country/ Elite Syncopations.

THEATRES ADELPHI 071 836 7611 CC 071 379 4444/793 1000 First Call 24hr cc 071 497 9977 (no big feel Groups 071 950 6123 BOW SOOKING TO 287H NOV OW BOOKING TO 28TH MAY
ME AND MY GIRL
THE LAMBETH WALK
MISSCAL
NISHBY ST. 30 Mats Wird
at 2.50 4.50 0.8860
"THE HAPPIEST SHOW IN TOWN" Sunday Express
MR CONDITIONED THEATRE ALBERY 07: 867 11:5/11:1 CC 579 4444 (24hr/no bkg feet 497 9977 (28hr/bkg feet PAULIER COLLIES SHADES by Sharman Macdoneld Directed by Slanon Callow NOW PREVIEWING OPENS 23RD JULY at 7pm on Sal 8pm Mats Thu 3 Sal 4 ALDWYCH 071 836 6404 cc 379 4444 /no bkn (cc: 497 9977 MICHOLAS LYNDHURET CARMEL MISHARRY STRAIGHT & NARROW The new comedy
by JinMile C-INN
"Wonderha" LBC "Superb" Ind
Upropriously fusny" Daily Mali
Directed by ALLan DAVIS
Mon Sat 8 Mals Wed 3 Sat 5
All parks ZT2 & £8. The Best
Comedy at the Best Prices! AMBASSADORS 07; 836 6111 FROM A JACK TO A KING with wit, style, resental T Out A rock in roll rave from Bob Carlion the creator of Ferbidden Planes

Monday T Huryday 8 15
Friday & Solurday 6 30 4 8 30
All Seats 19 50 Friday 5 30 with PREVS TOMOR OPERS JULY 20 APOLLO ce 071 494 5070 ce 579
4444 pp blig feet/836 2428 lblig leet Grp Sales 930 5123
Eve 8pm. wed mat 3pm.
Sat 8pm & 8 30
ROW 10 115 200 YAR
TA SALEY DOMINOT SE DON'T DRESS FOR DINNER Gloriously Ostrageous" T C BOOKING TO JAN 1993 ARTS. 07: 856 2132 ct 413 1456/497 9977;24hr No big (ct REDUCED SHARESPEARE CO. In THE COMPLETE WORKS OF WILLIAM SHARESPEARE Abidged-All 37 plays by 2 hrs TRRESISTIBLE Ind on Sun

Mon Fri 8 Sat 5.45 & 8 30 COMEDY BO 07: 867 1045 (c) 379 4444 (No big for) 497 9977/793 1000 JIMMY PORTER IS BACK! PETER EGAN
" A MARIELLOUS PERFORMANCE " Gdm IN JOHN OSBORNE'S SCORCHING NEW PLAYMAI DELAWU
"ESSENTIAL" F Times
Ever 7.46 Mate Thu 3 Set 4.

CAMBRIDGE 071-379 5299 CC 071 379 4444 (2Ahr/no bkg fee) 071 497 9977(24hr/hbg fee) 071 497 9977(24hr/hbg fee) "Go in and Rock..." The Times "Belongs to a great English tradition" (Open Noven) "Awardene" What's On 1960 & Barrier Mysical RETURN TO THE FORBIDDEN PLANET DOMERNION CC Holline 071 413 1411 124 hrs Information 071 600 BSAS / 9642 179 8 071 HOLD AVEN 4 564 2 30 BROADWAY MUSICAL GRAND HOTEL Directed by Philip Prowse ugs 7.30 Mats Wed & Sel 2.30

DRURY LANE THEATHE ROYAL CC 18kg feet 24hr 7 6.159 071 494 5060/579 4444/240 7200/791 1000 Grps 831 8628/494 8454 1000 Grp. 831 8628/494 8454
MISS SAIGON
"MUSSCALS COME AND GO THIS ONE WILL STAY" & TIMES
EVEN 748 MAIDS WEEL SAI JOH
EDOO SIATS AVAIL FOR WED
BAT & SOME PERFORMANCES.
APPLY TO BOX OFFICE
NOW SOOKING UNTIL MAR 33
BOOKENGEN PERSONAL CALLERS 071 484 5000 BRG FEE OUCHESS BO/CC (24hrs/no bhg ee: 494 5075/379 4444 (with hg fee/497 9977 Grps 930 6123 FASILY THE FLANIEST PLAY N THE WEST END" D Express AN EVENING WITH

s: Arthur Smith & Chris England BRILLIANTLY WITTY'S Times Mon Thu B.Fri & Sat 6 & 8 45 THE WOMAN IN BLACK Acapted by Stebhen Mallstrain
A BRILLIANTLY DIFFERING STORE CHILLIF CHAPITON
—A REAL THRILL S. TIMES
—Take transpositions? T Out
Mon Sai 8pm Mats Tur 3 Sai 4
MORS BOOKEDE TO 2 JAM 1978

AIR COMPUTIONED THEATRE

GARY LINEKER

BEST PLAY THE MOST CELEBRATED PLAY DANCING at LUGHNASA DANCING 31 LUGINASA foaturing MICHAEL JAYSTON & SORCHA CISACK "Poignam, hibrions & spell-bind-ing' 5 Times Towers ever every other piny in eight 'NY Times Mon Sot 8 Mats Thur 3 Sat 4 HAYMARICET THES TES BOYAL Box Off & cc 071-930 8800 too big feet cc 071-930 8800 too big feet company The Royal Stakespeers Company in Oncer Wilde's A WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE

HER MAJESTY'S 24hr 494 5400
this fee! CC 379 4444/497 997 files fee! Group Suice 930 6125 ANDREW LLOYD WESSER'S AWARD WINNING MUSICAL
THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA
Directed by HAROLD PRINCE
E.co.? 45 Math word & Sal. 8
Booking Period Queen to Sept. 93
SOLID OUT HARTIL 28 FEB. 83
APPLY DAMY FUR EXTERNI CON PALLACUM SAIN SO OF SET OPE THI Suce che OT 1 494 5020 (379 4444/836 3464 Groups 394 3454 Andrew Lloyd Wabbers (aubgraff new market) & Audress Lloyd Brebber's Palledium Blockbuster" Oth JOSEPH & THE AMAZING

TECHNICOLOR DREAMCOAT
STATTING PHILLIP SCHOFFELD
DIF DY STEVEN PHILLIP
EVEN 7.30 NAME WEST & SOI 2.30
EXTREME TO LAN 122
GUELS DARLY FOR RETERINS LYRIC, Shafts Ave Bo & ct 071 194 So45 ct 379 4444 All tet Innes 24hr/7 days thing feet, c, 497 977 Grps 071 950 6123 The Joint Never Staps Jampin FIVE GIVS
MANNED NOE
THE OLIVER AWARD
WINDING MUSICAL
MON THE 8 FIT & Set at 6 & 8 45
NOW BOOKING TO OCT *92
APPLY BARY FOR RETURNS
AND CANCELLATIONS

LYNIC WARMSHEWSMITH OR! 74! 2511 Ict to b /tee 07: 836 346 ABSENT FRIENDS Ayelbours's bitter weet comedy from 28 July, Eve 7.45 Maie: Wed 2.35 But 900 LYNIC BTUPPO 081.74! 8701 FEN by Chryl Churchill until 18 July Eve 8.00 Mais: Thu 2.00 Set 4.30 NATIONAL THEATHE BO 071 222
2222 GTD 071 620 0741: 24hr cc
bkd fer 071 497 9977
GLIVER
TON'T & TONDO 7.15
LLOVER BASE
SHOWCASE
LYTTELTON
TON'T 25 TONE 2:5 & 7.30
LE BOUNGEONS GENTILHOUSE
DY MICH BASE
DY MICH BASE
AMERICA by TONY KURNER TONE 7.30 4 7.15 AMERICA
BARK SHOWCASE

NEW LONDON Drary Lane BO 071 408 0072 CC 071 404 4079 24hr 379 4444, G7P 930 6123 THE FROM PICKORN TYNNI THE ANDREW LLOYD WEBBER IT S. ELDT INTERNATIONAL AWARD-WINNING MUSICAL CATS

Ever 7 45 Mais Tue & Sat 3.00
LATECOMERS NOT ADMIT
TED WHILE AUDITORIUM IS IN MOTION, PLEASE BE PROMPT BAIT OPEN M 6.45 IMITED MO. OF SEATS AVAIL DAILY FROM BOX OFFICE

OLD VIC 071 928 7616 CC 071 579 4444 (no big (ee) 071 793 1000/071 497 9977 (big (ee) PHORES OPEN 24ims/7 days OSCAR HAMMERSTEEN 875 CARMEN JONES
Husse by Shart
Directed by Smoot Carlow
Wedget of S MAJOH
AWARDS lookeling BEST MUSICAL

PER AIR THEATRE Repents Park 5 071 486 2431 CC 071 Park $ 671 486 243; CC 0: 486 : 933/379 4444 fore for A MIDSUMMER HIGHTS DREAM TOOM 2.50 & 8.0 AS YOU LIKE IT Thur-Set

IT RUNS IN THE FAMILY
Previews from Ang 17 at 25 at 210. Opens Sept 14 PALACE THEATRE 071-434 090 or 24hrs (btg Sas) 071-379 LES MISERABLES
Even 7.50 Mats Thu & Set 2.50
Lescomers not admitted MOW BOOKING THRU MAR ST LIMITED NO OF SEATS AVAIL DALLY FROM BOX OFFICE PHOESEX BO & cc 867 1044 cc 867 1111/597 4444/795 1000 (cc) 467 9077 EEST HEREKEAL Other Toronto, Augusta BLOOD BROTHERS
Staring STEPHANE LAWRENCE
and CARL WAYNE
"ASTOMESHING" S Express
Briege the audience to its fee and roaring its approved 0 bit
Eves 7.46 Mists Thurs 3 Sit 4 CCAURLY BO 071 867 1118 1071 379 4444/497 9977 (A) 24thr no bits two Conting 930 6123/413 3321/240 7941. THE OPERANUSCAL WHICH WITCH OF ROMANTIC PASSION PREMERE 22 OCTOBER PREVIEWS FROM 6 OCTO PRINCE OF WALES OF 1839 8987 FF First Cali 24 hrs 2 days 836 3464 (No fee) 579 4444 (No fee) Groups 930 6125 Gening Mager and Mager GOOD ROCKIN' TONITE Be-open Joy Ties

All Scats Still £10 £ £152

BENEGE FI THE RESEARCH COMPANY LORDON COT COM

SSY AND LORDON COM

SSY AND LORDON COM

THE PIT THE DYBRAM

TOOLOGY 2.00 £ 7.16

STRATFORD LIFOUR ANDRE 27729

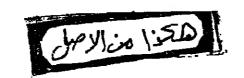

255623 CC May Say Say Say Say

STRATIONS LINCOLANGE COTES
275623 C. Non- Set Sun-Born)
ROYAL SHAKESPEARE
AS YOU LINE IT
TOST 7.30. TONOC, Set 1.30.
SWAN THEATRE
A JOVAL CREW TOST 7.50.
TONOC, Set 1.30.
THE OTHER PLACE: 1888
OSYSSEY THUS, PH 7.50
Ment/Tichet/Tichet package
CITES $1,0099 STATE OF THE SAME THE

MOYAL COURT 07: 836 5122 /730 1745 cc 836 2428 SIX DECREES OF SEPARATION by John Guste Eve 8, Thur Mar 5, Set Mer 4 Until 1 Aug. WHITEHALL 071 867 1119 02 867 1111/379 4444 (no fee) 497 9977 Gros 413 3521 A Musical Celebration of VIVIAN ELLIS SPREAD A LITTLE HAPPINESS Set 5.30 & 8.30pm MUST END 18 JULY A97 9977

PHILADELPHIA MERE I COME I

"Silerpt." STUMMENTO" S. EXD
Sed Price Previous 21 July Inc.
Frees Higher 22th July 47 7,00pm
Man-Fr S Wed 3 Set 5 & 8.16 THE SOUND OF MUSIC
THE SOUND OF MUSIC
SOURCE LIES HEAVE CANADA
THE SOUND OF T TO PLACE SHAFTYSERRY BO & CC 071 379 5399 CC 024try 379 4444 ine bkg feel 497 9977 fixe feet JOHN MALKOVICH "Is worth the price of edinisation alone" Ma London "SUPPRE" Observer YOUR ENTERTAINMENT ADVERTISEMENT · IN A SLIP OF THE TONGUE
TO DUSTY HUGHER
COMPULSIVE VIEWING T.O.O.
MON-FIT 8.00 Set 4.30 a. 830
ARE COOLED THEATER THE TIMES TRADE ADVERTISERS TEL: 071-481 1920 ADVERTISING MURDER FAX NO. BY MISADVENTURE Mon-Fri 8.00 Set 8.30 a. 8.30 Wed Mats 2.30 071-481 9313 ACTORIA PALACE Box off & cr No big fee 071 834-1517 CC big fee)071-579 4444/240 7200 Crouss 071 930 6125 TELEX 925088 BUDDY
The Sector Holly Sector
PRE LIART Sun PRIVATE-BUDDY ADVERTISERS.

Two-way Atlantic crossing

The Royal Shakespeare Company marks the Columbus quincentenary by premiering an epic play by the American dramatist Richard Nelson. Matt Wolf spoke to him days is less a historical figure than a one-man industry, as cultural events the world over reassess the Italian explorer 500 years after he "sailed the ocean blue". Two major films are en route, one directed by Ridley Scott and starring Gérard Depardieu, the other pairing Marlon Brando and Tom Selleck. BBC 2 continues to air the seven-part series Columbus and the seven-part series Columbus and the Age of Discovery and New York's Metropolitan Opera will launch Philip Glass's thematically related new opera, The Voyage, on — when else?—Columbus Day, October 14.

'Columbus

The theatre is making its own contribution Michele quincentenary contribution. Michele Celeste's Columbus: Blooding the Ocean, now at the Traverse Theatre in Edinburgh, views its eponymous traveller as the perennial outsider, and New York's alteris sympathetic native troupe, Hot and he's foolish Peaches, weighs in next week at the Drill Hall in Lonand he's sad don with Chrisand he's funny topher Street Columbus, the title a cheeky nod to the gay bars of Greenwich Village. But promising to occupy a category all its own is the Royal Shakespeare Company's mainstay event of the summer: Richard Nelson's epic Columbus, and the Discovery of Japan. it has a running time of three and a half hours and a cast of 26, headed by Jonathan Hyde. Can the fascination of Columbus survive this attention? Revisionists stand by poised for battle, eager to amend the so-called "legend". His discovery of America, they say, triggered an experiment in genocide that should be reviled, not celebrated. Nelson, by contrast, takes the ironist's perspective, standing outside the fray. An American dramatist now enjoying his third successive world premiere with the RSC, he values the Columbus saga for serving his affinity for ambitious and paradox-laden theatre, rather than for the kind of politically correct (or incorrect) point-scoring found elsewhere. "He's sympathetic and he's foolish and he's sad and he's funny," Nelson, 41, says of his re-imagined Columbus, aware that his play's timing comes as a mixed blessing. "Most projects, and I've had a Columbus idea for about ten years. It was very hristopher Columbus these worrisome, far more frightening to do it in 1992 than in any other time. To be trank, it hooks my play into an event that it really isn't about.

I stand clear of the ideological battle. The beginning point for me is this man who was in Spain and he was foreign and poor and he had never captained a ship in his life, and all of his charts and maps were wrong and were proven wrong by scholars. How did this man with these credentials, or lack of credentials, gain a royal charter and set sail with three ships across the open sea? What one is trying to do is give a rich texture of an individual on a journey in his relationship to his world." Columbus sounds in fact like the paradigmatic Nelson hero: a voyager adrift in an often alien social context, a world traveller ironically exiled from his own sense of self. One thinks of the naive American journalist plunged into Latin in Principia Scriptoriae, the play which marked Nelson's London debut in 1986, or the Czech theatre director and his actress wife uprooted to a tiny Manhattan flat in Between East and West, seen in Hampstead the next year.

Nelson's two previous RSC commissions dealt with similar issues of dislocation. In Some Americans Abroad (1989), American academics on a theatre tour to England sentimentalise plays whose titles they cannot remember and gather on Westminster Bridge in the rain to recite Wordsworth's poem about it. Two Shakespearean Actors the following season folded a love letter to the theatre within an examination of xenophobia run rampant, based on the riots that attended British actor William Macready's performance of Macbeth in New York in 1849.

At their worst, Nelson's plays come off as smug theses that never cohere buto full-blooded drams; at their best, they offer a distinctly wry and expansive vision at odds with the narrowly conceived naturalism that dooms many American plays in London. Not for Nelson the family drama representing many a writer's starting point: "I don't think in those terms. I'm more interested in how I

Born in Chicago, Nelson was introduced to theatre via boyhood

Nelson: "I'm writing for a large canvas, and not a lot of American playwrights have that ambition" trips to Broadway musicals with his mother, a former chorus dancer who gave up performing to raise two children. He won the playwriting competition at Hamilton College in upstate New York during each of his four student years, and had written "maybe 20" plays by the time he was 21. His professional debut came in 1975 in Los Angeles with The Killing of Yablonski, about the trial of union boss Tony Boyle. Three years later, he decided to enter the classical theatre, embarking on a concurrent career as a translator/adapter with Molière's

Don Juan. The decision was crucial. "For what I wanted to say in the theatre ! needed to find and deal in forms larger than just the last 20 years of Molière or Goldoni or Chekhov, it's a summer's Moscow coup as a co-

given that you have both the individual and the context for that individual. Very early on, I was interested in that conflict - if the world makes an impact on him or it doesn't, the successes and frustrations of it all. It's wonderful to see something one has heard about presented in a way that may be exciting and rich and new;

that's what theatre is." Nelson's theatre has proved adaptable to a variety of settings. The playwright notes proudly that he has had five shows on Broadway in the last eight years (among them the shortlived 1988 production of the musical Chess, for which he wrote a new book). Nelson enjoys a relationship with the RSC unique among American dramatists and, with Ruscould really see in New York. With written a comedy set during last commission of the RSC and the Moscow Art Theatre.

"it's something one has to train for," Nelson says of his interest in large-scale work well suited to Britain's subsidised theatre. And success here never hurts when it comes to productions back home. The Broadway staging of Two Shakespearean Actors this winter received five Tony nominations, including Best Play.

"I'm writing for a large canvas. and not a lot of American playwrights have that ambition. How could you begin to write a play like Columbus without a focus or a hope or a specific ambition of where you want the play done? The RSC's resources are part of the attraction. We found each other. and it's good in both directions." Columbus, and the Discovery of Japan

the Barbican Theatre (071-638 8891)

RADIO REVIEW

Weir far from happy ever after

obert Louis Stevenson R obert Louis Sievenson never finished his novel Weir of Hermiston. Last Saturday afternoon, Radio 4 finished it for him. Stevenson's step-daughter made notes of what he intended the ending to be - but Robert Forrest's version went its own, quite different way.

It was certainly a powerful dramatisation, with a particularly strong portrayal of old Adam Weir, the hanging judge. Played by Tom Watson, he spoke in such broad Scots that I doubt if a single English listener understood every word he said; but there was no mistaking his sarcastic relish in sending the wicked to the gall-ows in Edinburgh in 1813.

Stevenson goes on to describe the rebellion of the sensitive young Archie Weir against his father's ways. In the nine chapters the novelist wrote, Archie is exiled to his father's lonely farm, falls in love with Christina, the sister of four Black Brothers of the moors, and has his first quarrel with her. Stevenson intended that she should be seduced by a university friend of Archie's, that Archie should kill the friend, that the Black Brothers should rescue him from prison and that he and Christina should escape to happiness in America.

Forrest gave his sequel a far harsher flavour. The seduction was a noisy date-rape among the heather. The rescue from prison was a bit rushed and the Black Brothers had no time to appear more than a fairly pale shade of grey. But the really bitter moment was the reunion of Archie and Christina after his rescue.

She tells him, hesitant but confident in his love, that she is pregnant. His reaction is very different from what she expects: he stares down at her hands, he does not raise his eyes to her face. It does not look as if they will be going to America, after all ...

Stevensonians will have been disapproving. But RLS was growing palpably less sentimental in his last few years — and in my view, though he might not have written this ending, he would not have been in the least surprised by it. Radio 5, the youth and line in drama. The Wolfgang Chase by Jerry Green, which began on Monday, is something quite remarkable in that line. It is about a young music student who has his violin stolen in Paris and gets caught up in a story of skulduggery containing all the excitements in all the stories of skulduggery that ever were. But simple though it is, it is done with extraordinary delicacy. It is as if it were at the same time a drama and a lesson in drama, carefully calculated to delight young people who have never met the form before. It is even, in the French - with all the French phrases flung out by the characters defity and plausibly repeated in English, Education without tears: someone really seems to have hit on a contrast it with the following afternoon's Thirty Minute Theatre on Radio 4. The Bagel Philosopher by Kate Sterns. Here someone had merely hit on an old formula with a bit of top-dressing.

Stevenson: growing less sentimental at the end

A young woman, whose doctor-father has run away from his family, gets a night iob baking bagels, and gives up both career and men. It takes an ardent young graduate who has, in similar vein. become a postman to woo her and win her back.

That was all there was to it no wit, no subtlety. The oddity was that an American voice the bagel philosopher? - interrupted and droned platitudes about life at regular intervals. Perhaps the play was adapted from the American the whole community sometimes seemed more Brooklyn Jewish than English, Anyway, this was simplicity in all its full

DERWENT MAY

FRINGE THEATRE: Martin Hoyle reviews Schmucks at BAC in Battersea

Punchlines could hit harder

f Roy Smiles's two-act variation on a comic theme were condensed into one it would make an agreeable theatre dub entertainment to be enjoyed after a bibulous dinner. As it is, an act of homage to Lenny Bruce and Groucho Marx, complete with re-enacted cornedy routines. makes a belated bid for significance. The subsequent flittings over the psychological origin of comedy, its social functions and its relationship with cruelty come too late and look too tacked-on. The first half has spent so much time establishing the late comics' credentials and reminding us of their style that it resembles a separate, self-contained show.

James Helps's design inge-niously combines sordid pizza house, the London skyline, a showbiz aura (up to the minute, to judge by the Royal Opera Puritani poster) and even, with the help of Ian Tyrrell's lighting, a corner of the Palladium stage - swagged curtain, proscenium arch and all.

Joey Villis (the likeable Malcolm Ridley) is a Jewish standup comedian; a rotten one if we are to believe him, and

18 - 25 July Quoen Elizabeth Hall & Purcell Room

Cuba, Venezuela, South India, China, Senegal, George

Indonesia, Israel, Iran and the Lebanon,

For detailer let 071-929 8500 . - =

The second secon

William Marsh, Malcolm Ridley and Dave Mayberry

after hearing a soundtrack of his act, we do. His gloomy broodings are disturbed by the eruption on stage of two raunchy ghosts ("St Julius and St Leonard, patron saints of Jewish comics": Marx and Bruce) for it is they who advise Joey, to go on the town, get drunk, and quarrel. There is the fascinating stuff of drama in Bruce's drug addiction and fatal overdose in a public toilet. in Groucho's final isolation from his family. It all makes the writer's attempt to interest us in Joey's guilt — the non-achieving Jewish kid who never even made his cancerridden father's funeral - look a trifle perfunctory.

The arguments about hum-our and suffering, and the two comics' reciprocal accusations of hypocrisy, are ideal material for a hard, compact twohander. Groucho alleges that Bruce's satire had it easy in the indulgent 1960s; he counters charges of selling out by recalling the Marx Brothers' hard struggle to succeed in the Depression. He feels justified in mocking everything, slap-ping everyone down with a

The author, a performer himself, should take sides more openly. His opinions on the business are obviously worth hearing. But despite the pleasure of hearing "Lydia the Tattooed Lady" or "The Span-iard that blighted my life" (Dave Mayberry does an ade-quate Groucho, warming up in the polemics) and being reminded of how harmless Lenny Bruce now sounds, the piece has a fatally soft centre. As one character puts it, after the duelling of a foul-mouth and a wisecracking mask, "suddenly we're in the middle of a Frank Capra movie".

IN JUST A FEW DAYS YOUR DRIVEWAY COULD LOOK LIKE THIS...

By employing brand new construction techniques Western Driveways can now produce a range of beautiful drives, patios, pathways and pool areas that can withstand the rigours of constant use without sinking or spreading.

Anything from 'Traditional Cobbles' to 'Herringbone patterned bricks' can be authentically reproduced in a range of permanent colours to match any surroundings. However, the real beauty of this new Western Driveways system is that construction can be completed within a matter of days rather than weeks, reducing inconvenience to a minimum. The resultant sealed surface is very hard wearing > and maintenance free. Oil stains simply wash away and weeds become a thing of the past. Your new Western Driveway will not only

.OR PERHAPS THIS! the coupon to the address below-

...OR THIS!

there's absolutely no obligation. Please tick where appropriate POST THE COUPON TODAY 1 would like a: Free survey & estimate Colour brochure Video OR PHONE Pop the completed couper into an envelope and address it to Western Driveways, FREEPOST, TT15=7 sale, Cheshire M33 48T (NO STAMP NEEDED)

WESTERN DRIVEWAYS, 234 MARSLAND ROAD, SALE, CHESHIRE M33 1UI

ARTS BRIEF

Writers' forum

NORTH WEST Playwrights' Workshops, based at Manchester's Contact Theatre, is celebrating its tenth anniversary as one of the country's leading platforms for new writing with a two-week festival of plays, workshops and discussions, starting tomor-row. Founded when there was virtually no new work being produced in the area, NWPW now has an annual budget of £50,000 and funds bursaries and residencies for new play-

Five new plays get several days of workshops by professional actors and directors and are then presented as script-inhand performances. Playwrights chairing events include David Edgar, Trevor Griffiths, Louise Page, Peter Flannery and Charlotte Keatley. Further details on 061-274 4400.

Last chance . .

THE collections of the Corporation of London are a curious mixture of historical relics, like the First Charter granted by William the Conqueror in 1067, and artworks acquired by gifts, bequest or (occasionally) purchase. "The Celebrated City" at the Barbican Art Gallery until Sunday (071-638 4141) includes the whole of the 1987 bequest from Lord Samuel of Wych Croft: more than 80 17th-century Dutch paintings, among them a famous Hals. The Merry Lute Player. Also on view are many of the finest works by the Pre-Raphaelites and their contemporaries.

Art in Paris: sec European Arts, page 4

What, are you stepping westward?

John Russell
Taylor visits
some art shows

outside Paris and comes across unexpected treasure

Paris bulks if anything larger in the image of France than London does in the image of Britain. But that is by no means the lavoured idea of the French authorities: not only does regionalism thrive, but from the centre there is a strong impulse towards decentralisation and devolution. So much so that, for instance, the national collection of prints and drawings is at Gravelines, not in Paris, while the National Museum of the Renaissance is in Ecouen and the National Museum of Antiquities in St-Germain-en-Laye.

In the way of exhibitions, also, the regional museums take a strong line, especially in the West. Often the subject chosen has, as one might expect, important local connections. But not necessarily so. The only reason that a major retrospective of the now largely forgotten painter Henri Gervex starts its tour at the Musée des Beaux-Arts de Bordeaux for to be more precise, at its temporary exhibition space, the Galerie des Beaux-Arts) is that Gervex's most famous painting, Rolla, is in the museum's collection. A research student interested in Gervex thought it a good place to start, and from that gradually evolved the idea of a total revaluation.

Gervex is certainly ripe for revaluation. He is remembered, if at all, as an academic painter when the initiative was with the Impressionists, an artist whose big sensation was ethical rather than aesthetic. Rolla, the sensation in question, owed much of its fame to having been removed from the Salon of 1879 on grounds of immorality. In fact, for all its reputation for shocking realism, it is an illustration to a fatalistic poem by Musset. It appears to be a scene after a night of guilty passion: a nude woman dozes luxuriously, her garments tossed on the floor, while her lover, in his shirtsleeves, looks back at her from an open window; the room is suffused with glittering morning light.

Although Gervex went on to paint social-realist works in the 1880s, then to become a successful painter

Rolla by Henri Gervex: the painting that shocked France in 1879 — but not for the same reason that the canvases of the Impressionist painters did of society in a more Proustian sense of the term around the turn of the century, as well as a sought-after decorator of grand restaurants. town halls, casinos and such, he was in himself a good example of how artistic circles we suppose to have been totally separate were in fact inseparably interfused. He was a friend of Zola and Maupassant. He was also closely associated with the Impressionists: not only the socially prominent ones such as Manet and Degas, but also the working-class Renoir. Indeed, there is much in his work reminiscent of the earlier Tissot, a society painter and friend of the Impressionists without noticeably sharing their aesthetic.

These days, lew are likely to turn up their noses at even his most shamelessly mondain works. Some of his portraits — the full-length figure of his wife standing in front of a rust-coloured curtain. for instance — have a panache reminiscent of early Sargent. The works associated with his visit to Russia to paint the coronation of Nicholas and Alexandra in 1896 range from the grand pièces d'occasion to exquisitely delicate landscapes. And the evocations of the world of Proust are as compelling in their way as the earlier pictures of workers hauling coal or the poor waiting at the benefit office are in theirs. If taste today can extend to the works of painters such as the two principal decorators of the Paris Opéra, Baudry and Delaunay (both recently given major survey-shows), there must be a place for Gervex.

ean Lureat did not have much to do with the western city of Angers during his lifetime, but the Musée Jean Lurçat et de la Tapisserie Contemporaine happens to be there, so that it offers a natural focus for nationwide celebrations this year of the centenary of his birth. He was by natural inclination a national rather than a local artist; indeed, through his tapestries he found a wider fame than most of his contemporaries, though of a rather different sort. However, he began as a painter, continued to paint on and off, even when he was most intensely involved with the tapestries, and ended as a painter, taking up his brush again with renewed enthusiasm in the last decade of his life.

As a designer of tapestries he managed to impose his idiosyncratic style on several generations of other workers in the field, if not to the point of total subservience, at least to the extent that Lurcat's feathers, flames and flowers, not to mention more transcendental versions of the same in overtly religious works, became universally recognised as the hallmark of modern French tapestry. Through gifts to visiting heads of state and major commissions for public spaces, secular and devotional. Lurcat became almost the laureate of France during the De Gaulle years, though his widow insists that the two men did not know each other personally. But even in tapestries he had his more private side, and this comes to the fore in the paintings. They begin a touch surreal, a touch whimsical (a lot of lonely fishermen on the empty seashore) and when he takes up gouache again after the second world war they seem for a while merely decorative diversions. But then in the last few years they blaze out in vibrant colour, recalling the subject-matter of the eady work but with increased authority.

hough this centenary exhibition is mainly devoted to the paintings, the tapestries being fully covered elsewhere, especially at Aubusson where most of them were made, in the Lurcat museum they are right next to the medieval hospital building which permanently houses his climactic work, the series of large tapestries entitled Le Chant du Monde which bring all his themes together in a sort of grand finale.

together in a sort of grand finale.

Curiously enough, the other artist prominently honoured in a museum of western France, Edward Burne-Jones. is also remembered today at least as much for his decorative works — designs for tapestry, stained glass, book illustrations — as for his paintings. The reason for a major exhibition of his drawings being at the Musee des Beaux-Arts in Nantes is rather tenuous: however, the recent acquisition by the museum of his portrait of Lady Frances Ballour (never exhibited and when bought still belonging to the sitter's family, which lives near Nantes) seems like a good excuse for what is said to be the first chance ever for France to see a one-man show of his work.

All the drawings come from the amazing holdings of Burne-Jones in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge. They include most of the original designs for wood blocks in the Kelmscott Chaucer, designs for stained glass and tiles, and preparatory studies for many of his major paintings, such as The Beguiling of Merlin and Love and the Pligrim. These latter may lose something-of their effect for a public not familiar with the final works, but there are still manifold beauties to cement yet another cross-Channel cultural link. Henri Gervex is at the Galerie des Beaux-Arts, Bordeaux (56 90 91 60) until August 30. Lurcat, l'homme et ses lumières is at the Musée Jean Lurçat et de la Tapisserie Contemporaine, Angers (41 87 41 06) until September 27, Burne-Jones 1833-1898 is at the Musée des Beaux-Arts de Nantes (40 41 65 65) until July 27. Telephone numbers should be preceded by 010 33.

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

● BERLIN: The new season of concerts at the refurbished Philharmonie begins on September 3 when Claudio Abbado conducts the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra in a programme featuring the soprano Marjana Lipovsek. In the same week. Simon Rattle conducts two concerts comprising works by Berg (Drei Bruchstücke aus Wozzeck) and Sük (Asrael Symphony). On October 2. 3 and 4 Cheryl Studer and Andreas Schmidt are soloists in Brahms's Requiem; and Jessye Norman and Siegfried Jerusalem appear together in recitals on Nov 4

Berliner Philharmonisches Orchester, Matthätkirchstrasse 1. Tel: (010 4930) 2548800.

• MARCIAC: This small town in the Midi-Pyrenées opens ins church to negro spirituals and its Hôtel de Ville to "Jazz en liberté" in a week of jazz which sees visits from John Hendricks, the Tommy Flanagan Trio. Wallace Davenport and his New Orleans All Stars, culminating in a homage to Benny Carter on the last night.

Festival de Jazz, BP23, 32230 Marciac, Tel: (010 33) 62093333/fax 62093867. August 8-15.

● PARIS: Jacques Lasalle dinects two rarely performed Molière plays. La Comtesse d'Escarbagnas satirises provincial pretensions when a woman believes she has three suitors but two turn out to be deceiving her. Georges Dandin centres on a rich farmer married to a girl who is noble but poor.

Comedie Française, 1 place Colette, Paris. Tel: (010 331) 40150015. In the repertoire until end of July; then September-December.

Markus and Kariheinz Stockhausen (see Warsaw)

● PARIS: Why should Columbus get all the attention just because it is the 500th anniversary of his attempt to reach the Indies? With the aid of Portugal. Paris redresses the balance with a major show concerning Portugal's successful voyages to the Far East, and their cultural repercussions during the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries. Startling porcelains, golden brocades and metalwork.

Musée National des Aris
Asiatiques, 6 place d'lèna,
Paris. Tel: (010 331) 47236165). Until August 31.

 $\mathbb{C}(\mathbb{R}^n)$

and...

OUTRECHT: The Holland Early Music Festival, held In the churches across the town of Utrecht, covers music from the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, the Baroque, the Classical and Early Romantic Period. This year it has a Spanish and Portuguese theme, giving prominence to music recently rediscovered from Iberian archives. The opening concerts offer a cross-section of music by J.S. Bach, Biber, Corelli, Beethoven, and a Spanish programme of Mudarra and Ortiz, with performances by Tragicomedia and the Amsterdam Barnoue.

a Spanish programme of Mudarra and Ortiz, with performances by Tragicomedia and the Amsterdam Baroque Choir and Orchestra under Ton Koopman. Later appearances by Tafelmusik Baroque Orchestra from Toronto, Hesperion XX (which specialises in the Spanish repertoire), Cappella Musicale di San Petronio and Concerto Köln. There is also an international harp symposium.

Central Festival Box Office, Holland Festival Early Music Utrecht, Post Box 734. NL—3500 AS Utrecht. Tel: (010 3130) 340981/313279/312791. August 28-Septem-

● WARSAW: The 35th International Festival of Contests porary Music is dominated by the music of Stockhausen this year with three programmes performed by Karlheinz him-self, his son Markus and other members of his family. Thereis a new work by Ukranianborn composer Leonid Hrabovsky given by the Kier Opera House Orchestra, and two concerts by the outstanding Kronos Quartet (perform-ing works by Maraire, Zorn and Sculthorpe. Other appearances by the Ensemble. Contrechamps from General The Hilliard Ensemble in an all-Part programme Jerry Maksymink conducts the Smr fonia Varsovia in works by Penderecki Kurtag and Szymański. Fesival Office, Rynek Starego Miasta 27, PL 00 - 272, Warsaw Tel: (010 22) 310607. September 17-28.

Perspectives on Spoleto: three Times critics at the Festival of the Two Worlds

The town Menotti rebuilt

In any other context, a Scottish aristocrat got up like a Druid reciting mystical verse would appear ridiculous. However, at a banquet for 300 people held in Spoleto's magnificent Piazza Duomo, the Earl of Haddington's gesture seemed entirely appropriate to everyone.

The occasion was the 81st birthday of Gian Carlo Menotti, the man who transformed the decrepit Umbrian hill town into a thriving art centre. Guess were wreaths of intertwined oak leaves.

Over the past 35 years theatricality has been the key to the success of Menotti's Festival of the Two Worlds. Beside the cathedral stands the Caio Melisso theatre where midday chamber music recitals are held.

It is an exquisite late 17th-century theatre rescued by the maestro in the late 1950s from its sad fate as a shabby cinema. To hear a teenage violinist scampering through arrangements by Fritz Kreisler against the florid backdrop of this theatre's auditorium is to understand joie de vivre.

The façade of the larger mid-19th century Teatro Nuovo is as undistinguished as that of any provincial theatre on the continent. But inside the opulence of La Scala has been reproduced in miniature. This year's productions of Die Meistersinger and Donizetti's Il Duca d'Alba. could not have found a more masters

Young

IT HAS always been the main aim of Spoleto's Festival of Two Worlds to find and foster young talent, and with this year's Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg it hit the jackpot. The letter of the vast score was scrupulously respected, and its spirit overflowed with vitality and spontaneity

such as one rarely finds in major make up the Spoleto Festival Orchestra with complex works, and this Meistersinger is the crowning achievement of a string of recent successes including Salome and Elektra. Right from the overture - ripe and rolling but airily opentextured — it is clear that Argiris has an exceptional rapport with his players: the beautifully played wind solos. for example, are always

Music director Spiros Argiris has made a speciality of challenging the young American musicians who

Spoleto on its Umbrian hilltop: its churches and theatres are splendidly restored sympathetic setting (see below).

It is not however. Spoleto's purpose-built theatres alone that make this festival unique. While elsewhere in central Italy Romanesque and Baroque churches decay. Spoleto's churches have been restored thanks to the festival. Now, for example, the austere medieval church of Sant Eufemia is requisitioned for small exhibitions, while the later San

Not often can a 14th-century church have witnessed the provocative nudity which is the staple of the Bill T Jones Dance Company from Chicago. In a dance work called Last Supper at Uncle Tom's Cabin phrased to reflect the broader sweep with which he is shaping the whole.

and introspective and intimate moments are captured in fine

Victor von Halem was singing

Hans Sachs for the first time but no-one could have guessed. He has everything the part demands: his warm, soft-grained bass flows easily through all Sachs's music, he points

the words with a Lieder-singer's sensitivity, and his towering stature commands authority while conveying gentleness and humility. There is surely no finer Sachs today.

The tenor James O'Neal also gives an outstanding performance

as Walther, leavening his virile ardour with more poetry than most

Walthers ever muster. Franz Ferdinand Nentwig (Beckmesser) and

Brenda Harris (Eva) are excellent members of a uniformly good cast.

and the Westminster Choir sings splendidly. Menotti himself is reponsible for the traditional, Brue-

NIGEL JAMIESON

ghel-inspired production.

Nicolò is temporarily converted into which tackles head on the issues of Aids and racism, the entire cast eventually confronts the audience stark naked. In spite of the licence allowed by Spoletini authorities, the San Nicoló event — perhaps, also, because of the anti-Papal taunts in its accompanying text — proved too much. After two performances it was decreed that genitalia were to be covered.

The visual arts benefit no less from their settings than the performing arts. This year's flagship exhibition comprises paintings and drawings by Gustave Moreau borrowed from the Paris museum dedicated to the symbolist painter. It is a fine selection, emphasising the artist's use of photographs and preliminary drawings for oil paintings. It is at the Palazzo Racani-

Arroni till September 6.

No individual space in Spoleto, however, bears comparison in terms of architectural drama with the cathedral square. On Sunday, in front of the renaissance portico of the building in which the artist Fra Filippo Lippi is buried, Italy's bel mondo gathered en masse for a performance of Haydn's Creation. It may not have been exactly the venue Haydn envisaged, but it made for an unforgettable event.

ANDREW GIBBON WILLIAMS

Viva Visconti

NOW in its 35th annual edition. Gian Carlo Menonti's brainchild is grand enough to get self-referential. Luchino Visconti's celebrated 1959 production at Spoleto of Donizetti's rarely-performed opera. If Duca D'Alba, has been revived by Visconti's principal assistant. Filippo Sanjust.

Sanjust makes use of two of the most remarkable aspects of Visconti's original production, which were the original 1882 stage sets, uncarrhed in a state of miraculous preservation in a Rome theatre, and his clever pastiche of fin de siècle melodrama.

Sanjust's necessarily secondhand direction and the awkwardness of some singers at times conspires to bring this revival close to parody, but it is promptly saved by the remarkable young tenor Cesar Hernandes and the positively aerobic Italian conductor Alberto Maria Giuri.

The latter coaxes memorable performances not only from the youthful Spoleto Festival Orchestra but also from the Westminster Choir, whom many would consider the real stars of this year's festival.

Two young British artists also made their mark. Theo Eshetu, born in London but living in Rome, is often hailed as Italy's best videomaker, and he received an enthusiastic reception for his dazzling mosaic of a docu-biography of the choreographer Lindsay Kemp. Travelling Light, which is also slated for the London Film Festival this November.

Meanwhile, one of the Gerald Scarfe-like drawings from Mancunian David Hughes's one-man show received the supreme Spoleto accolade, of gracing the offical festival poster, which in Italy has all the collector kudos of the Pirelli calendar.

WILLIAM WARD

Where Hamlet star-gazed?

Christopher Follett sees Tycho Brahe's renaissance observatory restored fascinating glimpse of the bygone world of renaissance astronomy awaits visitors to the tiny island of Ven, off Elsinore, in the narrow sound separating Sweden and Denmark at the mouth of the Baltic. It was at this unlikely location that Tycho Brahe, the 16th century Danish astronomer-royal, built Uraniborg Castle and adjacent Stjaerneborg — "the fortress of the stars" — the world's very first modern observatory.

Swedish archaeologists have just completed a major five-year recon-struction of the long-neglected ruins of the island observatory, where Brahe (1546-1601), one of the founders of modern astronomy, carried out revolutionary studies of the stars and our solar system. The site was reopened 400 years to the day after the visit to the then Danish possession of Ven by Brahe's patron. Denmark's King Christian IV in July 1592. Swedish expens have painstakingly rebuilt the ramparts surrounding the ancient observatory, strengthening the earth works round the site of Brahe's workshops and giving the area back its original contours. Stones forming the base of Uraniborg — named after Urania, the muse of astronomy — have been uncovered and one of Brahe's four complete with herb beds and apple orchard.

Brahe's main importance lay in his establishment of a scientific his establishment of a scientific method of studying the universe and designing instruments which could accurately plot the position of stars for the first time. Brahe's work paved the way for his disciple, Johannes Kepler, the German astronomer, to establish that the sun—not planet Earth—was the centre of the solar system.

Uranibore, with two central bays

Uraniborg, with two central bays covered with conical copper roofing filled with openings for star-gazing, was built in 1576 in red brick to Brahe's own design, with exotic onion-shaped towers. In Dutch renaissance style, the castle's corners correspond to the four points of the compass. Nearby a modern statue shows Tycho Brahe scanning the heavens.

Uraniborg proved too small and heavens.

Uraniborg proved too small and Brahe built Sijaerneborg in 1584. Subterranean chambers with stone instrument mounts can be seen today through protective glass domes. The equipment set up on Ven consisted of a weird array of measuring devices including quadrants and sexuants, compasses and pendulums to aid the Danish astronomer in his research before the invention of the telescope.

Sun spot: a 16th-century impression of Uraniborg Castle

إ هكذا من الاصل

PRINT CL 1 25, 4 26, 6 20 4 8 35 0273 541111 AIR CONDITIONED THEATRE | EVEN 7 45 Mais Thu 3 Sal 4 | AIR CONDITIONED THEATRE | ARV CARCALLAYAND | 4.39 W 8.0 Ft 6.0

is the battle lost if feminists go to war?

Linda Grant on fighting for your rights and fighting for your country

MATS AND

uring the Gulf war, the writer Joan Smith was promoting her book Misogynies in the United States. At a feminist radio station in Berkeley. California, station staff were wearing T-shirts which parodied popular slogans such as. "You wouldn't understand, it's a Jewish thing" or You wouldn't understand, it's a Black thing". This one read, referring to the war, "You wouldn't understand, it's a dick thing".

The reader of the woman's chest was meant to understand that militarism is beyond the female understanding. That weapons are playthings for little boys who never grew up (expressed in the slogan take the toys away from the boys"), or worse, a substitute for male anxiety about penis size.

Yet it was during the Gulf war that women in the military clamoured loudest in this century for the right to join the men in combat. About 40,000 American and 800 British female members of the military served in the Gulf. They showed the world that women pilots in the US forces could run flight operations, undertake helicopter missions, be captured and be killed, like Major Marie Rossi, the lead pilot of a group of Chinook helicopters with the 101st Airborne vho flew three missions in the first 24 hours of the war until her death, dozens of flights later, when she hit a tower in northern Saudi Arabia.

The Gulf war heightened the debate about women in the forces by moving from the hypothetical to the actual. What women might do was replaced by what they did. Male voices which insisted that women's role was to stay at home, to nurture and to mother were ridiculed. The argument that women were somehow biologically programmed not to be aggressive was dismissed as the worst form of sexist determinism.

Yet that view has been widespread this century, not only among the dinosaurs who still believe that women's place is in the home. It reached fever pitch only a women protesters of Greenham Common. During the Falklands war the two iconic representations of the opposing view of women's role in war were seen in the depiction of Margaret Thatcher, like a combination of Boudicca and Britannia aboard a tank and the grandmothers of Greenham, pinning tampons, napples and recipes to the perimeter fences of cruise missile sites.

Jill Liddington, the author of The Long Road to Greenham: Feminism and Anti-Militarism in Britain Since 1820 (published by Virago) argues that Greenham was only the latest expression of a feminist commitment to pacifism that began at the beginning of the 19th century when Ann Knight, a Quaker, wrote that women's suffrage would bring peace and women in parliament would "soon take the tools of murder from the hands of her brute force brother and he would learn war no more".

Just before the first world war a maternalist strand in the suffragette movement argued that wornen's responsibilities as "mothers of the race" would naturally make them averse to war, whose "pomp and pride of uniforms, gold lace, medals and pensions are for men". On the eve of the second world war, Vîrginia Woolf wrote in the feminist-polemic Three Guineas, "if you insist of fighting to protect me or our country, let it be understood, soberly and rationally between us, that you are fighting to gratify a sex instinct which I cannot share".

Greenham grew out of the ecofeminism popular in America in the 1970s, Ms Liddington points out in her book. " 'Bad' was male, science, high technology, centralsion. 'Good' was female, nature, low technology, nurturing, spirituality, ancient mythologies, the oppressed." Men and their war machines were destroying Mother Nature. The Greenham camp became increasingly taken over by new age feminist mystics, who renamed the gates of the camp with the colours of the rainbow.

Nonetheless, Greenham captured the imagination of ordinary women throughout Britain who had previously had nothing to do with feminism. It spoke particularly to mothers anxious for the future of their children. Greenham really did seem to epitomise a national female anxiety about war, an affirmation of the right to life. So strong was the pacifist resurgence that Lady Olga Maitland founded Woman and Families for Defence in response to what appeared to be a tide of female revulsion against government defence policies.

Feminists of the later 1980s and early 1990s, however, have felt increasingly alienated from the typecasting they see Greenham imposing. Naomi Wolf, the author of The Beauty Myth, is in favour of women taking their place in the US military, beside men. "No-one has the monopoly of peaceful or aggressive instincts," she says, pointing out that during the first world war women handed out white feathers to men who were not in uniform. Women do have a precious historical tradition of nurturing and the world needs that but we should alsoabandon the mytholigising of that as sentimental vision. Women who join up envisage a career, training, and maybe some excitement if a war does break out. Doing what is already perceived as a man's job, they increasingly want to be equal to men in every activity. including killing. They may point to the thousands of women who fought in countless wars this century, as guerrilla fighters. But those are not women who would ever have thought of a military career if war had not come to them. In Vietnam, they engaged in hand to hand combat in the jungle, laid mines in the cities and executed raids from secret tunnels.

'No-one has a monopoly of peaceful or aggressive instincts'

During the revolutions in Iran and Nicaragua, women strapped on rifles, left their homes and went to war, and the same is beginning to happen in the Balkans. War on the doorstep can deaden normal instincts and provoke fierce idealism. Female Vietnamese com-manders I met in 1989 said that it was the experience of seeing their families killed by carpet bombing and napalm attack that had led them to take up arms. One recalled stumbling over a dead mother killed by a bomb, with her living baby still trying to suck at her breast. The experience led her. two months later and still aged only 17, to plant a mine at a press conference, killing 15 people. Seventeen years after the war ended, with her rusting medals kept in a makeup bag, she is a housewife in Saigon.

The image of the guerrilla chick has always been glamorised and eroticised by the male left along with other images of women as warriors; that of the terrorists like the women in Italy's Red Brigades or the male-female partnership of the Baader-Meinhof gang in Germany. Ms Wolf believes that these images were acceptable to the male left because they transferred woman's taditional sacrifice for her children to a sacrifice for the nation.

s Wolf's support for women's entry into the forces is based on the observation that in the US, the military has been virtually the only route out of poverty for the country's African-Americans, culminating in Colin Powell's elevation to Joint Chief of Staff. It is now seen among working-class women, she says, as a similar way to get scientific training and status which is denied elsewhere. More importantly, however, she believes that women in the army are changing the army. "I don't think that women have any essential milk of human kindness running through their bodies," she says. "But our culture of negotiation is going to make the world much safer when women are in 50 per cent of the leadership Joan Smith, whose book investigated the anatomy of male violence, also believes that there is no essential difference between men and women when it comes to aggression, citing Mrs Thatcher, "who happily led us into the Falklands". She argues that the notion of women entering the military attacks the very justification for war. "Society tells soldiers that they are killing people to protect their women at home. To have the women in the trench with you raises quite starkly the question of what you are doing there.

She believes that the cold war psyched men up into a state of aggressive readiness for battle that never came, "If you don't take that aggression out on the enemy, you turn in onto women," she says. She is concerned, however, that military culture is so macho, so hostile a place for women that those who do try to take their place beside men will find it sufficiently unpleasant they will be forced out "and men will say, I told you so".

The conflict in what is left of Yugoslavia seems like a textbook example of the kind of war that has been fought in Europe since the middle ages, with plenty of opporrunity for death in various brutal ways. According to one former mercenary, it is the most popular war among his kind since Vietnam. It remains to be seen what place there will be in it for women, or what effect it will have on those in the forces who believe in women's equal right to kill.

At the heart of a nation

Anxiety is growing over the abortion policies of Poland's new premier

anna Suchocka, is the first woman prime minister in Poland, where the women's movement is still in its infancy, and is seen as both a role model for her sex and a threat to their

The prime minister, who is professor of law at the Catholic University in Lublin, is heavily backed by the Roman Catholic church. Her cabinet contains five ministers from the Christian National Union, the church's political

This is of great concern to feminists in Poland, where the church is backing a campaign to overturn the communist-era law permitting abortion on demand. Miss Suchocka is one of only seven deputies from the liberal Democratic Union to sign a restrictive replacement that would permit abortions only in the case of rape. incest or threat to the mother's life, and which would jail those convicted of helping a woman to obtain an abortion not meeting these criteria. The measure is expected to be debated in parliament next week.

The prime minister makes no bones about the fact that her philosophical values are based on church doctrine. However, she sidesteps the abortion issue, "It is very difficult to suspend one's beliefs," she says, but adds: "The parliament will decide. The government will not interfere."

Barbara Labuda, another democrat deputy and the head of the women's parliamentary caucus, says: "Women all over Poland are afraid she will put on pressure to implement such a law. She was strongly supported by the church and the [Catholic] caucuses only because she supported the antiabortion law."

Miss Suchocka is the fourth woman to have a leading role in the four governments since the end of communist rule in Poland in 1989. The country's male-dominated political scene defers to Miss Suchocka - a phenomenon she may be able to use to her advantage. "I will be more supportive, because she is a woman," pledged an enthusiastic President Lech Walesa.

Miss Suchocka says: "I think my colleagues look at me more closely, asking. 'Will she yield, will she break up. will I be able to manipulate her? I am treated as something extraordinary. This is an additional burden. I have to prove myself but still be myself."

She is a specialist in constitutional matters, citizens' rights and minority issues. Fluent in German. French and English, she is also the vice-president of the parliamentary assembly of the Council of Europe.

which she is said to admire for its efficient organisation, in contrast to the loquacious Polish Sejm (lower house), in which she is a deputy.

Her name came as a surprise when she emerged two weeks ago as a possible compromise leader in a country racked by political instability since the October 1991 parliamentary elections, which seated an unmanageable 29 political parties in the Sejm.

One of Miss Suchocka's greatest admirers, Jacek Kuron, a long-time Solidarity activist, who is now her labour minister, said her name arose as an emergency candidate inside her pany, the Democratic Union, "because she is from outside all the alignments".

Hanna Suchocka (pronounced soo-hohts'-kah) comes from the Wielkopolska region in western Poland, an area once under Prussian domination, with decades of tradition in banking, industry and brisk competition with the Germans in the area. She was born in Pleszew, a town of about 20,000 near Poznan, in 1946. Her grandmother was minister for women's affairs in Poland's first independent government in 1919 under Ignacy Jan Paderewski. Both her parents were pharmacists.

he shares a flat in Poznan with her dog Zulik ("hooligan"), tactfully described by one magazine as "multirace" in order to avoid using the word mongrel, with its derogatory connotations in Polish.

In 1980, she became a deputy in the Sejm for the Democratic Alliance, one of the satellite parties allied with the PZPR, the Polish communist party. It was not long. however, before she began taking an independent position during some of the parliamentary debates. In 1984, she quit the Democratic Alliance and joined the Solidarity movement

"Her strong point is that she stands for certain values and lives up to them," says her good friend: Hanna Gronkiewicz Waltz, now the head of the National Bank of Poland. "She proved that in the 1980s, when courage was not so cheap and she did not have a husband to support her."

Anna Popowicz, the former campaigner for women and family rights, whose post went in February, believes it is certain that Miss Suchocka will become a symbol of success for Polish women, encouraging them to become more active in politics and social work. "But". she says, "I am not sure whether women's rights will benefit."

PATRICIA KOZA

Traditional values: many women fear Hanna Suchocka's views;

Vivien Cherry is the only female skipper in a round-the-world race, and her sponsors are delighted

Then Vivien Cherry took the job of skipper in one of the ten identical yachts which will set out this autumn to race round the world in the British Steel Challenge, she knew that she would be more in the spotlight than any of her nine rivals. If her boat, Coopers & Lybrand, does well, her success will be greeted with congratulations which will carry overtones of condescending surprise: if she and her crew arrive low down the field, there will be some whispers of "I told you so".

She is the only woman skipper in a contest which promises to be one of the most arduous ocean races ever sailed - and therefore one of the most complex and stamina-demanding sporting events of any kind. The course of the eight-month race will be around Cape Horn "the wrong way". The boats will sail against the prevailing wind and current.

Victory will go to the crew which has been most cunning or luckiest in reading the weather, and most unrelenting in responding to minute by minute changes in conditions. In the past ocean races have sometimes been decided by margins of seconds. Deep-water sailing is still a predominantly male sport, even though women have repeatedly made their mark in it. Dame Naomi James was the first woman to sail alone around the Horn in her voyage round the world in 1977-78. Tracy Edwards led the allwoman crew of Maiden to victory in its class in the two toughest legs of the 1989-90 Whitbread race. But only one in seven of the 179 crew members in this year's race are women, a proportion that broadly mirrors numbers among the 400 original applicants. On Monday the ten 67ft cutters finished a week-long race from the Solent to the Fastnet rock and back, by way of the western tip of Brittany. Coopers & Lybrand came in sixth. Functionally speaking. the outing was an extra, more extended, training run for crews, some of whose members had done little or no sailing before being picked for the contest three years ago. It has always been central to the concept of the race, devised by the round-the-world yachtsman Chay Blyth, that it gives a chance to dreamers with a longing for adventure and self-discovery, who come from outside the closed circle of committed racing types.

The preliminary race had a further function: to catch a few headlines and raise public interest in the main event. Ocean racing today is a sport with proven dividends for sponsors. Even in a recession, backers for each of the ten boats built by British Steel have come forward. When Tracy Edwards was trying to raise sponsorship for

Sex matters at sea

In command: Vivien Cherry on board her yacht her Whitbread race challenge, 300 British companies turned her down before Royal Jordanian Airlines stepped in at the last moment. Maiden's success transformed corporate perceptions, and the organisers of this year's race were aware from the start that there would be publicity to be earned if they could find a female skipper. The management consultants Coopers & Lybrand must have been well drawn out of a hat and Ms Cherry was assigned to them.

"I always knew there would be slightly more difficulty for me because I would be in a spotlight," says Ms Cherry, who is small and quiet-voiced, with an air of being as well able to take a media blitz in her stride as a gale. "I haven't really found it is an issue, but I suppose there must be pressure to some extent - from outside the boat, and also inside it, just because you're different. I'm sure there will be a degree of difficulty, but we're going to make it work

Once we are out there and its blowing 50 knots. and we're all cold, wet and tired, it will be the same for everyone. Some of the crew are quite chuffed because they know that the boat with a woman skipper will be more noticeable."

he will be in charge of a S crew of three women and 11 men. The responsibilities of command do not seem to oppress her. But if she has that hunger to win which is said to be part of the equipment of a successful competitor, she does not wear it on her sleeve. "For me, the main challenge is that we are setting out to complete something, and everyone will win if they achieve it."

In shore life, she is an engineering services manager.

runs in pipes and ducts underneath the floorboards. "I was in charge of a small maintenance team - but a boat with a crew of 14 is very different. That's the thing that has taken most adjusting to." She did not become seriously interested in offshore sailing until 1981, when she was a student of 21, and her father offered to buy her a week's course in navigation. "It blew a gale all week, and I loved it. Since then I've done a lot of single handed and shorthanded sailing. I have done one single-handed transatiantic race and a two-handed race round the British Isles."

She is used to making long ocean passages, but the diplo-macy of being in charge of a crew of keyed-up individuals of all ages and backgrounds will be a new challenge. "It is not bad weather that will be the test for them, so much as the experience of sustained sailing for weeks on end. Most of them don't know what that will be like.

"The real shock will be when it's over, and life as we will have known it for eight months will stop. There will be jobs to look for, relationships to pick up. After this, we should have the self-discipline to cope. But it's a situation we can't fully foresee because one thing is certain - when we have been through it. all of us will have changed."

GEORGE HILL

All Ready-to-Wear and a selection of shoes and accessories at the Chanel Boutiques will be substantially reduced from Saturday 11th to Saturday 18th July 1992.

CHANEL BOUTIQUE

26 OLD BOND STREET

31 SLOANE STREET

More than a game: with as much at stake off the field as on it, Cameroon's tour to South Africa finally woke the politicians up to the consequences of their rhetoric

Striking gold in Soweto

ill Shankly once said that football is not a matter of life and death — it is much more important than that. If ever those words became prophetic. it was in South Africa this month. As negotiations for a democratic constitution collapsed, and as the government and the African National Congress (ANC) traded blame for township massacres, South African football, excluded from internarional events for 30 years, was reborn. Cameroon — the giant-killers of the 1990 World Cup who almost defeated England in the quarter-finals — arrived in South Africa on Sunday July 5. Unlike the cricket and rugby rebel tours of the past decade, it became clear soon after the Cameroon players stepped off their plane

As the footballers walked into the arrivals lounge of Johannesburg's Jan Smuts airport, they were mobbed by hundreds of black youths - most of them waving the flag of the ANC. The Cameroon's charismatic dreadlocked forward Jean Claude Pagal told a press conference he would gladly trade all the glory of the World Cup for this reception".

that this tour would bring no succour

South African football has come a long way since the days, 20 years ago, when whites were not allowed to attend games between black dubs in the townships and black supporters at white grounds were required to sit in segregated seats. The football authorities have always taken a different stance from their rugby and cricket counterparts, preferring to put their own house in order rather than encouraging rebel tours. The white National Football League and black National Professional Soccer League united in the National Soccer League in 1977, in the face of much government hostility. Clubs merged, black businessmen took over white teams, whites became the stars of predominantly black township

Football was one of the first sports to integrate in South Africa. Arthur Goldstuck reports on its re-admission into the world arena teams. As soon as the government allowed school boards to decide on their own sports' policies, rules preventing racial mixing, from junior school level up, were summarily dumped. For more than a decade, footballers, white and black, and the football authorities, have been seen as sharing, and in many ways, embodying, black democratic aspirations.

The Cameroon squad maintained this tradition. The day after their arrival, they joined the South African team in visiting a squatter camp at Boipatong township, where more than 40 people had been massacred last month in a night time attack by Inkatha Freedom Party, the government's main ally in negotiations.

The Cameroon tour, like all pending sporting ties with South Africa. had been given ANC approval on two conditions: that all the players visited Boipatong, and that they wear black armbands with the words "peace and democracy" during all contests.

While South African provincial rugby authorities huffed and puffed their refusal, and long-suffering athletes stoically agreed to do anything that would get them to Barcelona, it was the football players who brought real dignity to the proceedings.

"Going out there was the least we could do," said South Africa's goalkeeper, Mark Anderson, a white star with the black township side Mamelodi Sundowns. Throughout the memorial service, Anderson stood with his arm round Roger Milla, Cameroon's World Cup hero.

The early commitment to racial mixing partly explains the huge popularity of football in the townships. The other reason for the game's status is surely economic football is cheap and easy to organise in the dusty township streets. Tens of ball. Once Cameroon had been and thousands of people play the game every weekend in junior and amateur leagues. Attendance at a top game, such as a derby between Sowetan sides Kaizer Chiefs and Orlando

Pirates, can draw 50,000 supporters. The third game between South Africa and Cameroon in Soweto last Saturday, drew even more. Almost 80,000 supporters packed the Soccer City stadium and witnessed the 2-2 result. Thousands of whites from the suburbs of nearby Johannesburg sat shoulder to shoulder with their rne years or watching national sides which could only compete with themselves loomed once more counterparts from the townships and ANC flags carried by supporters waved under the winter sun. In open defiance of the laws one youth followed the peanuts and cola vendors up and down the stands, offering ready-rolled marijuana for sale. The carnival atmosphere reflected the feeling that the new South Africa had finally been created by the sports lovers.

But it almost did not happen. South African football officials had spent months lining up the tours that would celebrate the country's im-pending re-admission to world foot-gone, officials promised the supporters, there would be even bigger fish to fry: the national sides of Denmark and Germany — the finest in Europe and even Brazil, had insisted they would be among the first in the queue. The prospect made it almost worth having waited a lifetime. There was only one hurdle still to come: the International Football Federation's (Fifa) annual congress in Zurich on July 1, when a final vote would be taken on South Africa's re-admission to the world body. This was to be a mere formality. Then came the June 17 massacre at already fragile negotiations. To the ordinary South African this cataclysm was as nothing compared to the ANC's hints that the sports boycott would be reimposed. For the average South African, the dark, incestuous years of watching national sides which could only compete with themselves - or with rebel tourists who were despised as much inside the country as outside loomed once more. Football officials, who had been in the forefront of desegregated sport for 20 years, saw the reward for their patience slip inexorably away. On June 27. Cameroun put the issue beyond doubt. They called off the tour, with no explanation.

Suddenly, it appeared, the politicians woke up to the consequences of their rhetoric. Nelson Mandela, who was on an official visit to West Africa at the time, met Cameroon's head of state, President Paul Biya, and advised him that the ANC had no objections to the tour. With that assurance, the tour was back on track. Almost simultaneously, Fifa announced that South Africa's re-admission to the world body had been unanimously approved. The process was back on track.

While Cameroon represent the progress of African football, Crystal Palace, the south London team that arrived in South Africa yesterday are symbolic of black success at club level. While Liverpool and Manchester United are far and away the most popular English clubs in this country. Palace are held in high regard in the townships for their large contingent of black players. The English league is followed in minute detail by most South African supporters — English football magazines are widely available, media interest is intense and the FA Cup final, broadcast live, is a huge event in the South African sporting calendar. Palace's first opponents, on Saturday, will be Kaizer Chiefs, the team that has made football a religion for an estimated million paid-up members of their supporters' club. Their following extends across Africa, and numerous countries to the north eagerly await tours from the Much the same applies to their Sowetan neighbours, Orlando Pirates, often referred to as The Buccaneers — or simply the Bucs. They play Palace on Sunday, in the climax of a weekend football festival that also sees the Swaziland side Mbabane Highlanders in action here for the first time. The importance of the Palace games can be seen in the relegation of the Highlanders' matches to curtain-raiser status. The Carneroon and Crystal Palace tours will be followed by many others. The Flamengo dub arrives from Brazil next month to play three games. But it is the Palace series that will be the crucial test for South African club football. Local teams have not played a single foreign club side since integration began in the 1970s. Now, they may well be spoiled for choice.

Tuning-in to radio speak

The Archers' team has a wealth of tips for would-be scriptwriters

FOR soap devotees, it is the ultimate dream. Take control. Write your own episode. Radio 4 listeners who yearn to play God with The Archers are being offered a little help to do peing onered a little neip to do just that. It is an opportunity to decide whether Elizabeth Archer will get over her abortion, and if Nigel Pargetter will succeed with his plans to turn Lower Loxley Hall into a

For the price of a stamped addressed envelope, BBC Pebble Mill will send would-be writers an Ambridge kit, inchiding family tree, character biographies, details of who owns which farm and what property, plus plenty of tips. In return, writers are asked to come up with a trial 15-minute episode to follow on from a genuine storyline.

The Archers has always received about a dozen unsolicited scripts a month. The most common failure is the inability to make characters stand out from each other." Vanessa Whitburn, the programme's editor, says, "We're looking people with a flair for characterisation. The technique can be taught."

In 1986, the programme started to offer help to aspiring writers. The writers' kit, which contains sample story lines, is an attempt to lay down some technical ground rules. The idea is to demonstrate the right belance of the comic, the emotional and the agricultural," Joanna Toye, the produc-er on whose desk the scripts accumulate, says. The kit includes a range of advice. Hint one: life is precious. Do not be tempted to kill anyone, create a new person, or make anybody pregnant. That sort of decision has to be taken at the highest level. Some years ago it was hinted that Kenton Archer, son of Phil and Jill and twin to Shula Hebden nee Archer just might be HIV positive. A change of editorship and he seemed as right as rain again.

Elizabeth Archer's recent abortion was the subject of intense executive debate. Even the creation of a walk-on character must be considered with the utmost care, .... Hint two: stay in Ambridge. "Somebody might send a good The Grundys visit Mars'

episode but it won't tell me gramme," Ms Whitburn says. Writers also need to remember that Archers folk, unlike their counterparts on Star Trek, cannot transmaterialise. Entries and exits have to be scripted. The guidelines say: Think about when knocking on doors is appropriate and when ringing a doorbell is better." This may tax even the most devoted listener. Does David and Ruth's bungalow have a bell or a knocker? Get round this, the guidelines advise, by starting a scene with the characters present. Hint three get up early and listen to Farming Today. Commissioned writers get regular help from their agricultural adviser. Rookies have to know it all themselves.

Hint four: not all meetings take place at the Bull public house. But if William Grundy, son of Eddie, and the imperious Marjory Antrobus are overheard swimming in the pool at Grey Gables

Health Club, there had better be a good reason why. Remember that the trial episode must use a maximum of seven characters but do not stick to two handed scenes. "An economical but profitable use of cast" is called for.

Now, connective tissue. A page is devoted to structure, with particular attention given to those diffhangers just before the signature tune. "hooks" as they are known in the trade. Writers providing episodes for a week are instructed to pick up Friday's hook by scene three on Monday, and Monday's hook by scene four on Tuesday.

Ms Whitburn, who moved to Ambridge from Channel 4's Brookside 14 months ago, said: The common rules of writing for any soap are to do with logistical and economic constraints. It's a craft, first and foremost. People think that because something's on five days a week, it's easy. The good soap writer has to be supremely good at the craft and have the artistic talents of a dramatist as well." In reality, the prospects of making it into the writing team are fairly remote, except for established professionals. However, two of the present writers did succeed as amateurs. The rota of eight, including Louise Page, the RSC veteran, is fixed until late 1993. There are two writers on the waiting list.

Writer: Louise Page

The first aim for novices is to gain an invitation to a Writers' Workshop, which is run like a real script meeting. From there the novice might graduate to a writers' reserve list. The next workshop is not due until next spring. Which leaves plenty of time to find out who's got a knocker and who's got a doorbell.

Readers who want to receive a writing kit should send an SAE to The Archers, BBC Broadcasting Centre, Pebble Mill, Birmingham,

NICK BAKER O Times Newspapers Ltd 1992

Channel 5 will need youth on its side

trendy Toronto greasy-spoon. 7.30am. Eggs toast." a Portuguese woman shouts at the trantic kitchen staff while dousing a capuccino with cinnamon. Newspapers rustle and cutlery clatters as she takes yet another order from the next in a long line of bleary-eyed office work-ers and students from the nearby university.

Suddenly a crew of young men burst through the doors of the downtown diner and, with not so much as a shout of "Action!", the television cam-era is rolling, "Maria, how are you? Been a long time," the blue-jeaned CityTV presenter says to the woman behind the counter. The lights shine in her face: "Yeah, I'm OK. Nothing much changes," she mutters. The camera turns. "You, yes you, what are you doing today?." the presenter asks a construction worker. work, OK, then I'm catching a Bluejays game and a few beers with the guys, eh? Like I'm happy." he says.

The breakfasters, at once both audience and cast, seem singled out for their 15-minute Moses Znaimer believes his video vérité will succeed allotment of fame. But no one seems surprised: "This happens a lot around here," says an old man at the next table. CityTV's headquarters are just a few streets away, but the irreverent "citizen's channel", as it likes to be known, does not possess a single traditional television studio. Its studios are the streets, subways, buses, bars, restaurants and theatres of Toronto; its crews are constantly on the move, bringing Toronto life to Toronto people. Next July. Londoners will encounter their first CityTV crews if the Independent Television Commission awards the new Channel 5 licence to Thames Television, which 10gether with Moses Znaimer. founder of the lucrative Toronto station, last week submitted

Both Thames and Mr Znaimer have promised to create a distinctive, lively and informal television network with round-the-clock news, movies and music. CityTV London will be followed in 1994 by CityTV Manchester, while partnerships will be struck with local businesses to start other City TVs around Britain with simultaneous bur

"I want to give viewers a different feel in a business where the pressure towards sameness is overwhelming," says Mr Znaimer, contemptuous of those ITV barons and BBC executives who are so confident his CityTV formula cannot be so easily imported.

"Local may be a word for inferior in British broadcasting, but local is where people live," says the 49-year-old, whose career has included spells as a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation current affairs producer and TV pre-senter. a venture capitalist. media tycoon and a playwright. "While your superego is engaged in global affairs, you still wake up in today's weather, in today's traffic. "If I take a picture of you and stick it on the front page of a newspaper, you'll buy it, right? We do that with CityTV.

Local views are good: Moses Znaimer says whoever you are, local is where people live

We're gritty, site-specific, and people-specific. We're video verité, realtime," he says.

Twenty years ago. aged 29, Mr Znaimer launched CityTV. After a shaky start and this is a lesson for those British television executives writing off Channel 5 as a disaster waiting to happen -CityTV is one of the most profitable stations in the world and shares with CTV (Canada's ITV) top ratings.

"I do have a certain sense of deja vu." Mr Znaimer says. "We got the same derisive laughter in 1972 from CBC and CTV that we're getting now from the BBC and ITV. Bay Street [Toronto's financial district reacted then how the City is reacting now. We opened CityTV reaching just 17 per cent of homes and having to persuade the rest to get new aerials or cable.

CityTV London will open reaching about 55 per cent of homes. The analogies are eerie. I wouldn't have got the licence if the other guys had thought it workable. If it's a sure thing they keep it for themselves, but if it's hard work they step aside. That's good for guys like me." Channel 5 Holdings, which put in a minimum bid of just £1,000 a year, still needs to find 85 per cent of its £150 million start-up finance after failing at the last minute to conclude deals with several potential investors. But Mr Znaimer, infectious with enthusiasm about the new channel, is confident the likes of Time Warner, Sony Pictures and Associated Newspapers will join the team.

After assuring the ITC that it has a workable plan to return the nation's video recorders - 4.3 million in London alone will suffer interference from Channel 5 — the consortium will have 12 weeks after the award of the licence to ecure funding.

"We've got a 13 per cent share in a 56-channel environ-ment. That's a good reason to invest," says Mr Znaimer, who believes well-informed, urban and active Britons in their 20s and 30s "who want to try new things" will be just as likely as their Canadian counterparts to watch the new channel.

Mr Znaimer boasts that more teenagers flock to CityTV Toronto than any other. "My secret? I never run kids shows. No self-respecting kid would every be caught dead watching a kid's show." The BBC and its head of youth programming, Janet Street-Porter, better watch out: even though ITC guidelines for Channel 5 will force Mr Znaimer to broadcast several hours each week of children's output he has a trick up his sleeve. "We'll try our damndest to disguise it,"

he says.
So what can viewers expect? "We don't make period drama, we don't make drawing room comedies; we just reflect the life in the community using movies and music as a metaphor for everyday living," Mr Znaimer says.
The CityTV stations will have "a constant dialogue" with their viewers with live phone-in programmes such as CityLine and "alternative debating forums" such as The Radical Option. But fast-paced CityPulse 24-hour news would be the channel's backbone, with local crews sprouting up in unexpected places throughout London, and ITN on call for national and interon call for nanonal and inter-national news developments. Films, from Fellini to Spielberg, will be shown nightly at 7 and 9, during the afternoons and throughout the night, often spliced together by music videos, news and live footage of city streets. What is special about CityTV is that the station itself is the programme programme.

"CityIV is a machine," Mr Znaimer says, "It is free of the conventions of conventional television. It's not such a big deal. It's just TV."

WITTSTOCK

LONDO

11 79

lo rent o

A woman-to-woman sale

Men rarely have the final say in the choice of family home. So why do they dominate the top estate agency positions? Rachel Kelly investigates he mostly male popula-tion of London's grander estate agents have been reeling this month at the biggest sale of the year. It is not just that Ancaster House, at 8 Chesterfield Gardens, W1, sold for £20 million while most agents are struggling to achieve sales of half that value. It is the fact that it was sold by a woman.

Avril Butt sold the house for de Groot Collis. Her success confirms a truth male agents would rather ignore: women tend to be better at selling houses than men.

Ask most husbands why they bought their house, and the answer is likely to be: "Because my wife fell in love with it." This denies the sound economic reasons usually cited: the cocktail that makes for affordability (lower interest rates plus an increase in real earnings); the end of political uncertainty with a Tory victory: and comparative ly low prices (still falling in many

Clearly, price and location are important considerations, but the chemical reaction between the buyer and the bricks and mortar is often what matters In that reaction, women are usually central. Lorna Vestey, from Knight Frank & Rutley, stresses that women give more weight to instinctive and emotional responses to a prospective home than most men. It is they who will fall in love. with the kitchen and the bathroom or the view from a certain window.

Such romantic affinities are underpinned by sound practical reasons for the female predominance in the decision to buy. Women, after all, are likely to be spending more time at home, especially while they have young children and their husbands are away from home most of the day, working and commuting half way across town. It is the women who know what it means to slug up three flights with a baby and toddler in tow; they who vill drive the children to school and need to know how far the house is from the local nursery; and they who need to know how big the bathroom must be for nappy

Sexist, maybe, and there is hule evidence to prove the point other than the overwhelming impression derived from a straw poll taken among estate agents and their clients. But a few builders and estate agents have done research which points to women's importance in deciding what to buy.

Berkeley Homes, for example, knows the importance of quality kitchens and bathrooms to ensure a sale by snaring the female half of the buying equation, and, for that reason, has long spent proportionately more money on kitchens and bathrooms than other features in a

A survey by Stern Studios, a London estate agent, showed that a man's chief priority was the investment potential of a house, which he rated seven our of a possible ten compared with a woman's rating

of four out of ten.

If it came to deciding between two houses, the survey found the

"x" factor to be the most powerful

Women estate agents understand the psyche of the women they are selling to incentive, - and, particularly in a market of falling investment values, it is usually the woman's choice that prevails in such battles.

The significance of women buyers in part helps to explain why women tend to make better estate agents than men: women agents understand the psyche of the women they are selling to. They share their hopes and fears, and can empathise with their clients in a way that most men find difficult. Women agents talk to their dients. whereas men tend to talk at them.

Saleswomen often share the same local facilities as their clients too. When they say the nearby health centre is excellent, or praise the local shops, the saleswomen are talking with authority about facilities they actually use. Estate agency has been male-dominated for much the same reasons as other businesses: women have only relatively recently entered the fray, says Ms Vestey. Its traditional nature has been reinforced by the predominance of male public school boys among the top agents, although local agents are both less public-school dominated and less chauvinist. Even the grander agents are now changing.

Mapping out her strategy: women trust their instinctive responses to homes, says Lorna Vestey

Harry Hill, managing director of Hambro Countrywide estate agents, one of the country's largest chains, admits that the women on his sales team often produce better results than the men. If he had his way, he would employ women only. "If I got sacked tomorrow and started up my own company, I'd hire an all-female staff," he says.

Some areas, such as London's Docklands, where most buyers are male, defy the generalisation. Nonetheless, the facts speak for themselves. Ten years ago, very few builders employed women sales staff. Now, about 70 per cent of sales personnel among the largest firms are women. The National Association of Estate Agents reflects this changing pattern. In 30 years, there has only been one woman president. Yet in the next five, there will be two in two years; evidence of the quality and standards set by women estate agents up and down the country. As usual, the standard is set in America. where 80 per cent of estate agents are women, with no question of discrimination. However, employers everywhere have recognised that women are better at the job. If a development needs extra help to sell - such as a block of multi-million-pound flats in Kensington, London, for example - a woman is appointed (in this case, Regalian chose Maria. Lady

There are problems, however. The very reasons why some women estate agents excel - their understanding of the domestic set-up of their clients - are also the reasons why they take ten years out of their careers midway, and often miss out on the rewards of top management as a result.

The kidnapping of Stephanie Slater in January also alerted women and their employers to the dangers for women. Black Horse Agencies has begun courses in selfdefence for its female staff with the Bristol police, but the problem defies an immediate solution.

Notwithstanding such obstacles. the reality of female superiority in the main (there will always be exceptions) in the field should be recognised by estate agency, maledominated top management.

Some agencies have quietly begun to promote women in recognition of their talents. Ms Vestey, for example, was made the first full partner selling homes in Knight Frank & Rutley three years ago. and some female associate partners have been appointed recently. Victoria Mitchell at Savills is an executive director.

Other agents would do well to follow these examples. Meanwhile.

Houses haunted by bogus buyers

What is it about big country houses which tempts clients to make impossible offers?

Wardour Castle, Littlecote: name any of the most important historic houses on sale and the chances are that it has been haunted by a phantom buyer (Rachel Kelly writes). Herstmonoeux Castle in East Sussex is only the most glaring example. The sale was all but assured in 1990. Savills was ready to put out a press release trumpeting the castle's sale for £35 million (considerably higher than the £20million asking price), contracts had been exchanged, and then hey presto! the buyer vanished. Two years on, the house was put back on the market last week for £5 million. with the hope that its reduced sale price will keep away the Walter Mitties.

Every grand country agent has had a brush with one. "It happens on the whole to very large, slightly unusual houses." Patrick Ramsay, of Knight Frank & Rutley's country house department, says.

A phantom buyer haunts a house, putting a cloud over the sale. Often agents are left locked in litigation unable to sell to a new buyer until it is untangled. Everybody knows there has been a failed bid and the market is falsified.

Even agents advising buyers get caught out. William Gething, of Property Vision, was led a merry dance by a mythical buyer from a made-up company. Combine International, who expressed an interest in Littlecote, Peter de Savary's house in Wiltshire. "He was called a Mr von Brown. He sent us headed paper listing his offices in 20 countries and was using a bluechip London solicitor. We should have realised when he said he wouldn't pay our fee." Mr Gething erstmoneeux Castle, who drove a Bentley Turbo, with a young woman in tow, who visited a number of large country estates. "It turned out that he had borrowed the car for a test drive, and was trying to impress his young companion, to whom he was engaged. by pretending to buy houses he could not possibly afford. We introduced him to the police."

Mr Ramsay recalls one buyer

That was a decade ago. But, Mr Ramsay says, the phenomenon has grown over the past few years as the recession makes agents less wary and more eager for sales. "I'd say that one might get 200 enquiries for Herstmonceux in a year, of which 10 per cent of them would be Another phantom buyer used "The Oxford and Cambridge Club" headed notepaper and said he would get the necessary finance from the sale of some Gainsboroughs which he saw were up for sale in the Sotheby's catalogue. Sotheby's was too discreet to reveal the seller, proving the perfect foil.

It all seems such time-wasting. But some phantoms are purposeful, aiming to impress bank managers and financiers by ostentatious house-hunting. "It's relatively easy to spot the dodgy ones. Mr Ramsay says. "They become diffi-cult and evasive when you ask for their financial references.

The vagaries of British property law, whereby an offer is not legally binding, provide fertile ground for phantom buyers. The phenomenon is almost unknown in Scotland, where an offer is as good as exchanging.

Agents guard against phantoms with the usual checks on company registers and data bases. But, for all their distrust of obscure millionaire odd-balls, one eccentric is all that is needed for a sale. The next man with a Bentley Turbo could just be if in doubt, ask for a women agent. No sale: a phantom buyer made an offer for Littlecote, Wiltshire

PROPERTY BUYERS GUIDE

071-481 9313

LONDON PROPERTY

To rent out your space

rent ours.

An advertisement in our daily Rental column puts you in touch with 1.1 million

At only $5.50 per line plus VAT, (Box No. £10+VAT) there's no better way of Alternatively, take advantage of our special offer and save 25% by ramning your

THE

AMEX _____ MINERS ____

Equaty Days

This offer is open to produce advertisers only. Trade invertisements will appear subject to the normal rates and
This offer is open to produce advertisers. The Times, Times Newspapers Ltd., P.O. Box 484, Vergins Street, Induced. Send to Casafied Advertisers. The Times, Times Newspapers Ltd., P.O. Box 484, Vergins Street, London El 984.

Telephone 071-481 4000 or Fax 071-481 9313 or 071-782 7828.

like minded Times readers, 100,000 of whom currently rent their home.

letting your property, so fill in the coupon below, minimum 3 lines.

Write your advertisement below tapper simulely 28 characters per line including a Monthlem 3 lines, £5.50 per line plus VAT, or £8.25 per line plus VAT for 2 weeks.

If you would like to take advantage of our two week discount plant plants tick hou.

VIS3

advertisement for two consecutive weeks.

ADDRESS

another

UNITED

HOUSE

deschonent by

Where can you buy a newlyrefurbished flat for less than £80,000.

> 1 Ambrosden Avenue Westminster SW1 Two minutes from Victoria Station.

Ideal for theatres, restaurants. Studios and one bedroom abartments in attractive Victorian building.

Leases: 123 years Prices: £78,000 to £94,000

for details call: Douglas, Lyons & Lyons 071-235 7933

Source: NRS Jan-Dec 1991

المقابين والمراب والمنازي والمستوية فيكن والمرابع والمستوية والمستوية والمناز والمستوية والمناز والمستويد والمتات

PALACE COURT KENSINGTON GARDENS

SPECIAL SERVICE FLAT APPROACHED THROUGH LANDSCAPED GARDEN

A large flat (4 bedrooms) in a beautiful serviced building with 24 hour porterage and security, c.2,200 sq.ft with good South facing principal reception rooms-ideal for entertaining.

The flats are approached through a private landscaped courtyard leading to panelled entrance halls. Palace Court is situated close to Kensington Gardens and Kensington Palace. Only a few minutes walk from three tube stations with easy access to the City and West End. Amenities nearby include cinemas, restaurants, antique shops and extensive leisure facilities. Resident management office to provide maid and laundry services if required.

SALE PRICE - £470,000 (originally £750,000) VIEWING CONTACT FREMANTLE PROPERTIES

071-792 0451

MONDAY TO FRIDAY 8.00 AM - 6.00 PM

DESIRABLE IN EALING Backing Hanger Hill Park, panoramae views to the Chilurens. Fine modern block, gardens, left, porter, own gamp roun, doors to balcomy, well equipped kitch, natural marble shower room, see closks. Dide gizzed and CH. Excellent condition. Apprars 99 years, letse with share 13 freehold. Resistacelly priced at 1163.000. The 081 991 5150

Resistically priced # £168,000. (Day 081 991 5150; ever 081 997 3116)

furnished flat overlooking geor gian aquare. Freehold £180.000. Tet. 081 979 1696 flat in huxury development, security, pool, multi gym ch: separete filled klachen, bath-room, hall. Own patio, parking. £79,000, 021 549 6965.

RISTRICUE: Art basterian's Foc-ford Peris house, 6 best 2 morps conservatives. 2 belles. 1 shower yrs. 4 we. garden. £355,000. Tel: 081 995 6400

HACTUREY/ISLUNGTON border.
Sought after conservation area.
Sought after conservation area.
Sought after conservation area.
Sought after victorian bouts of encaptional charm and character. Excellent order travoughout.
2 ch leature, born with results beathren. Through recep in 25°x 14° Study/3rd beform. F/F tid, breakbart rus. Dining ins. Utility ins. Superb 50° chs. Dide garage. Cale C31. F/Redd.
£181.800. Tel 071 254 E357

COMMETTOW Green Rd, N1.
Very Section 2 and Victorian Rai, roof terraper, very parking, clear brimsport. £79.595 one 071 704 1056 (even)

with thousingly appointed asserting with w. view of Repents Parts, 2 beatings, 2 receipting, 2 beating, 2 beat

FIRT Opp Regents Park, need t/homes. 3 bods. 2 beds. 2 receps. ff ints blicket/diner, patio. oth, under grad pitting space. 125 year lense, reduced for quick sale $278.000 Orthony

ALL MALL Agractive 5th 900r file, coposite Reform club. Living mean, and represent the color received by the color received by the color received pool Approx 1,000 so feet read starten available. Plauming perheletion to sell into 2 finite. 2260,000 071 900 2815 bouse, 4 beds/ sums. shower house, 4 beds/ sums. shower room on suits plue 2 further boths, lige bales, the histority and view, Galleried disp from a footing living area. 600°, privel offin living area. 600°, privel of the living in lettle location. But the neet. E489,000 ° A. Tel/ Fex 071. 470°. BELCRAVIA &

KNIGHTSBRIDGE

One and two bed luxury apts. ■ Fully fitted intergrated kitchen and carpeted throughout

■ Opp. common - 1 mile village Home Exchange available

■ One bed apts. from £76,995 ■ Two bed apts, from £96,995 ■ Open 7 days a week (! lam-6pm)

081 780 9011

hazás correct at time of going to press. Offer is on specially elecate plots only. YOUR HOME IS AT RISK IF YOU DO NOT KERP UP REPAYMENTS ON A MORTGAGE OR OTHER LOANS SECURED ON IT, Long Homes Ltd.

CTTY & WEST END

BARBICAN EC2 For the most extensive hat of Gala in the City Contact the specialists Frank Harris & Co 071 600 7000 IARBICAE superts 6(h fir 2 bed Bat. Bi carpets & cartains. Quick saje £119,800, no chilo C71 628 6624/ C71 638 9707

CHELSEA & KENSINGTON

ADOISON RD Revolution Double fronted FH house in formaculate cond Self drawing rm, dinder rm, family rm, id/
bTast rm, 6 begs, 4 baths, heated swimming good, 74ft
west facing 9dn S.1,150,000
Regal Estates 071 603 7121 CHELSEA SW10 Light & air;

CHAILSEA SWITP Light & air; family line in quiet of. Mod to high standard, 4 beds, 2 badins 3 recept, cits run, lux klitch sunny garden Self contained: bed Ball, Freehold £445.00 Private Saie, Tel. 071 570 0601

CHEUSEA Lub: shadoo in Net Gwynn House, serviced apart block + lift etc. £95,000, 108 year lease. Tel 071 373 9034 garden eq. redec Burgain £155.000 Tel: 081 752 0915

STRICTLY NON STATUS 85%

REMORTGAGE - NEW PURCHASE

No employer's reference No Accounts No up front fees

Tel: 071 937 7733/5532 (24 hrs) THE MACMILLAN PARTNERSHIP

No delay

YOUR HOME IS AT RISK IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON A MORTGAGE OR OTHER LOANS SECURED ON IT.

CHELSEA iecoud floor maisonetre in 1711 Mock, Luxury 2 bed opt, split level, hoge reception/disor. Fitted kitchen, both & WC. 2 large roof terraces. Porter. Extryphone, Sloone Sq 3 mins, Lease 85 yrs. © 179,000 Neg.

081 579 1393 Ensington Owner must sell quickly at give away price. 2 bed flat in modern development with back & pig. Ideal remain NOW £132.500 071 376 2556

N.KEN. W10. 3 bed House, arti-Lige recep, quiet St. £112.500 F/Hold. 0765 846274 Work OLYMPIA W14 Spacious and sunny 1 bed raised grad fi fial. w/ Jacing belcony overlooking gdn. 7 mlps Holland Park. 3 mins Central Line 111 year ise. £78,000 Tel. 081 673 5791

SW10. 2 bed flat. raised ground floor, transculate new conver ston, GCH, fully filted kitchen, 126 year lease + share of free-hold, £106,000, Tel: 071 373 3509, 021 368 6140 HAMPSTEAD & HIGHCATE

PRIMROSE HILL

Aftractive end of terrace freehold house in Conservation area, on Princers Rd. 4-5 beds. 2-3 recept including exceptionally light triple - aspect high entinged drawing rm. 3 bathrins, letchen, utility or return median terroles. rm, 3 bathrms, intehen, utility fm, pain garden, ternoe & roof terrace. Fully modernised for comfortable family accommodation, gas CH. Lower ground floor is easily convertible to selfcontained flat with own entrance.

1385,000
Tel- 071 011 0360 Tel: 071 911 0290

2 bed comy top 3rd fir flat, bright ige gdn £128,000 one No agis quick sale 061 466 7323

SOUTH OF THE THAMES

upiral stair to bed in loft. 20 k/d. wood floor, open fire; large sil room, orig features; large 2nd bed: 10' terrace; close tube common, resinurante Private

bright F/F studio. Sep Kit and ballirm Close tube & buses £125 pw Q71 582 6619 e, w/e STREATHAM HELL Clone BR one bed grd fir flat p/b. Patio cacetient decor, now carpets spacious, £46k 081 664 640

SW11 immucutate 3 brd, double reception house in quiet tree lined cui de sac. Clapham Junc-tion a min. Many flor reception including very pretty 36 ft land-country of the pretty of the contraped garden. F/hote £165,000 Tel: 071 228 2893 bedrooms, at present arranged as 2 flats (not s/c). In need of decoration but lots of potential. Offered at bargain price of £307,000, Tel: 081 946 4082.

GREENWICH &

BLACKHEATH

RICHMOND &

KINGSTON

KINGSTON Large Edwardies semi, 3 good beds, excellen cond, Short walk treles, good schools, Richmond Park £124,950, Tel 081 546 3462

HEPPERTOR/Walton-on-Thamps Det 1958 6 bed 3 re-French kil 2 bth GCH £245,000 081 567 9680/0932 220626

WIMBLEDON

THE TIMES

Please see COMMERCIAL PROPERTY in BUSINESS TIMES.

For further information please call Siân Price on 071 481 1986

PROPERTY BUYERS GUIDE

071-481 9313 071-782 7828

OVERSEAS PROPERTY

U.S.A. LUXURY FLORIDA

With FREE Golf And Country Clubs! hold = Near Disneyworld, Orlando = 5 Golf Courses, 8 Tauris Courts

The Villages 071-734 7282 REE VIDEO & PORTFOLIO No Cost Or Obligation!

and 5 Swinzming Pools = Management & Rental Services = Qualified Immigration Investm The Villages - 35 Piccadilly - London - WrtV 9PB

DT3H

MEDITERRANEANSIDE
(34 HERLAUT)
Seles for retired reasons, compaire 4-stors,
marvelstus arrangement,
bor-restourant, Licence IV,
Pizzeria-Grill,
Supermarket, Swissasing
pool, half-court, mini galf.
Please Reply to Box No
9316

FORMANDY Granville Haute-Ville. Charming studio with countyard nr shops & brach. 220,000FF 081 521 5560

TARM neer Abd. Renovated, stone cottage. 3 beds, 2 receps. private pool. F450.000. Call Helen Carrick 07: 454 4622w

SWITZERLAND

VILLARB A choice of distinguished freebold chalet spartments situated on our exclusive private park, on the pistes or in the village centre, immobilized de Village centre, immobilized de Village Sal, U.K. office 18. Hartswood Foad, Loadon W12 WE THE ONI THE 2168 Fact ON 749 0339.

OVERSEAS PROPERTY

FRANCE

FRANCE LOIRE VALLEY 250 kms from Paris between Tours and Chateauroux.
Delightful 16th C. CHATEAU in perfect order offering 400 m2 floor area with 7 gr. fl. rooms & 6 upstains bedrooms.
Comfort. Lorge authuildings set in 45 acres of riversida grounds. Magnificent setting. RARE OPPORTUNITY!
4.700.000 FF. Tel: (GB) 0234 713125 or Fex 0234 240405

Authentic Prevence I house in the Les Salles Sur Verden near Loc de St. Crok in Provence. Ist theer: 3 beds + bath. Ground floor: Liroum & tumily rossulfathen, toldet + shower room. Souternain: Gge + stronge room. Price: T.8.A. Mon-Fn after Gpm and amytime

010-31-4904-16662

BALEARICS

GENERAL

MALTA

2 BED apt. F/F. Secutiful har-bour views. OBES5,000. Tel-010 356 573536.

Exclusive properties available me to British clients, in the history town of Almunecer. Spectacula seeney, only one hour from Granada, lying at the foot of the Berra Nevedt. Prices from put 134,900 first line on the beach For Brochure/Further Information Tet/Fex Spenieh Link Lig (1904) 904134

SPAIN

ALMUNECAR/ COSTA DEL SOL

COUNTRY PROPERTY

COTSWOLDS EAST ANGLIA 98rage. 98mmer house. £266.000, 0463 629763 evel. DEVON & CORNWALL

FLUSHING Waterside village. Small devel of new 2 bed col-lages, garages & stinghy storage Fr £67.000 0326 374033 i

DISS 2 miles (Liv & 90 mins). Crade if Unied delightfully set beamed and thatched 17th com-tary collage, hearty an acre.

HANTS, DORSET, CHRISTCHURICH, exclusive re-idential area, 300 yards from beach. 1% hr London, attrac-tive "coducey" house, superi Living Rnn, 3/4 Beth, dble par-age, £158,500, 0202 434747.

LOVELY 4 bed Georgian style her Approx 1 acre. Glose NR Coast. PP for grammle senses. £210,000, Tel: 0488 $28344.

O F

FOLDING CARD TABLE AND MATCHING CHAIRS This superbly designed folding furniture has been especially created for playing bridge and other card games and is perfect for anyone who may enjoy a round of Scrabble or Trivial Pursuits too. The table is traditionally constructed in hardwood and stained to a rich

30" W x 30" D x 26" H

21" W x 20" D x 34" H

walnut shade and teatures a 30° square, green baize covered top. With individually folding legs which slip easily underneath, it will fold away discreetly when not in use. The matching chairs are not only lightweight and comfortable, but sturdy too. Crafted in hardwood and stained to the same walnut colour, they have oure cotton canvas seats and backs, in dark green, and fold away to a slim 7½" when not in use.

The chairs are on offer to Times readers for only £37.95 each. and the table for only £49.95. Both prices include carriage and represent excellent value for money

PHONE DIRECT 0509 216446 on The Times special 24 hour order number quoting ref. 109 Enquiries only: 0509 235235 Mon-Fri, 8.30am-4.30pm

109 T977 Foldung Cha⊮

BELTON BOAD WEST, LOUGHBORDUCH, LEKS LE11 SIG.
Please like this box if you do not wish to receive future

MOLESEY 5 bedroom letached house, 2 room, 1

BATTLE - EAST SUSSEX

COUNTRY PROPERTY

FREEHOLD AGRICULTURAL INVESTMENT PORTFOLIO 7,430 ACRES

Cambridgeshire, Lincolnshire, Essex, N. Hertfordshire LET AND PRODUCING £455,710 per annum

Apply: 70a High Street, Huntingdon, Cambs. PE18 6DJ. Tel. (0480) 453557 LONDON – HUNTINGDON – STOW ON WOLD – TUNBRIDGE WELLS

HIGH-CELERIE, NW Hanks No Newhoury large res 4 bed bötern balcoop gran flast kit/k-rm louinge din run familiy rin kry garden swinz pool dib/ges 10 acres paddock barn stables £420,000 GGSS 253933 PURBECK Stone cottage. Marvet-lous views 10W. Downs. Corfe Castle. Hell. Stdy. 2-3 Recept. 3-4 bds. 2 hdm, Shwr/dk. htt. Dile spe. Wall gds. Highly Insu-lated. £182,000, 0929 422127.

TRADE - a lovely owner Anne house, 6 beds. 3 beds. 4 rec. set in 8 acres in the New Forset near Lyndhurd. water ESEADO for engineer. ESEADO for engineer with each clifferance. EDOLOOU with cash differance EDOLOOU with cash your house to do this phone of the STATE. SUSSEX

HENEFORDSHIRE, WORCS, & SHROP

RELAND £295,000 WarRORE EAST Pintys Cottage is for sale. With 1% acres at Creaden. Photographs available £55.000. 010363 51 83639 Tel; 04246-4861

BUXTED Nr Uckfield, Sopera 4 bed live. 4 reason, 9 bears, 25th htd s/pool, dbl gge, mature gdn. £197.500, 0826 733796. KENT E.197.500. 0825 753796.

BIR MAYWARDS WEATH BURST
IN RETING, Deviced 8 hechwere cottage - 1 serie 5385.002. Tes.
POWNIN 0542 852251

PRETTY Mild Sussex cottage, fully modernised, woods to rear, fields in front, 3 beds, 2 baths. easy communities
London/Cathytch/const.
£140.000. For full details Tei:
0831 879613. NYTHE. On coast, 75 mins brain. Semi with large garden. Open views front and rear. 10 mins lown centre. £75,000. Tel: 071 261 8632 (0)

HR CARTERBURY An Instoric histal manor house dains from the 18th control in a quiet rural situation. 3 rec rms. study, music rm. 8 heds 14 with en suits bathl. 2mi sum. Thathes controlling. Swimming pool. Cdm. About 1 acrs. O.J.R. £246,000. This Struit 3 Perice 102277 451123. Ref SCC/3590

NORTH WEST

OXFORDSHIRE

MORTH OF SCOTLAND
(SUTHERLAND)

A must desirable detected property as V2 acre of ground effering aperior eccomodation of hell, lounge, kirtches, dining room, 3 beds and both, with hell dies glazzing and oil CH. Streated on Streethy einit, Sintherland, consinuading powerspic views of The Perticuel Firth and The Orkneys, Ideal for sheering and fishing, Offers over $250,000.

Offers when some to MIDLANDS Offers when seen to

TEL: 0955 2201. UNIQUE FARM

STEADING
Lavingly restored, recentaining it's original character. Many features. State and stone.
besis. Gardens. leytic rural location. INVERNESS 17 sales. Tel: Cawdor (06677) 294 after ópm Offers cround £130,000

SOMERSET A AVON BATH Odd Down- odd shape labe Victorian stone built semi detached cotuspe. 2 bod 2 rec. gas ch. small garden. no views except from kitchen. no 994. ps2.500. 0225 832020 eves

S.WALSS 6 mg M4, 2 inst me. date 99e. in 1 acre beautiful grounds. freshwater spring, lewns. £169,000.0633 221892

Peter Illingworth FARNDALE A period stone detached country properly with river troutage standing on approximately two acres. Typical fergilace, beamed ceilings, dressed stone wardow sites. Parch, Klichen, dianing and, reception area / drawing come / marker country. dising and, reception area / drawing room / musics room, stiling room, st., four bedrooms, bank room, etc. Price Guide 2180,008 to 2286,988

PROPERTY WANTED

RETIREMENT HOMES

Now you've more time on your hands You know what you want out of life.

Enjoy retrement in your own comfortable contents. You know what you want out of les-phy reterement in your own comfortable cottage or apartment in our Latest superbly designed development in the Châram Halls near Martow. Set in que't gardens yet only minutes from a bussing vitage high street, framers Court is ready to view. To find out more about these and other properties throughout Empland may us for a throughout England rung us for brochure From £130,000

HOME COUNTIES

MORTGAGES

GROSVENOR MORTGAGE

MORTGAGE AND REMORTGAGE FINANCE

SERVICES LTD

Status & Non-status Loans

Remortgages for any Purpose

Fixed rates from 8.5% (APR 9.48%) 10 year fixed rate from 10.25% (APR 11.2%)

Capped Rates from 8:5% (APR 11.3%) Variable Rates from 7.99% (APR 8.6%) Written Quotations available on request

071-637 7292 7 Portland Place, London W1N 3AA

Licenced Credit Brokers
Your Home is at risk if you do not keep up
REPAYMENTS ON A MORTBAGE OR OTHER LOAN SECURED
ON IT. LIFE INSURANCE MAY BE REQUIRED. AN ARRANGEMENT FEE OF UP TO 1% MAY BE CHARGED.

MORTGAGE 6 REMORTGAGE

Mortgages/Remortgages available with NO PROOF OF INCOME from 9.6% variable (APR 10.1%)

> Remortgages to raise capital FOR ANY REASON.

Mortgages available for purchasing 2nd, 3rd or 4th properties.

Status secured loans also available (up to 95% equity) FOR ANY REASON from 11.4% APR.

Tel: C.H.F.S. on 0223 290 885/

CAMPRIDGESHING + SEEKTFONDSHIKE PINAMCIAL SERVICES YOUR HOME IS AT RISK IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON A MONTG-YOU OR OTHER LOAN SECURED ON IT.

RENTALS

tary fiets for long, short or heli-day lets. Maytair, Marble Arch and Hyde Park. 071, 724 4844 ACCOMMODATION Uncertify req for City Institutions. Call in with your properties to lef. Substitut Extens 071 381 4998 ACTIVE Enquiries from corpo-rate costs for quality furn/ underly prope to feether furn/ L/Costs Del Sol

ARGEL Deligibiful, spacious, 2 lied, 2 morps, 5 miles from chy. £250 pw. Company let only. M. Dodd 071 837 3000 LPARTREEITS Centrel Lendon. from studies to luxurious houses & penthouses. Abbey Properties 071 722 4353

AUG 8(h+ ex diplomats W Mat/Dz 4 hed 2 b 2 rec £499 Short/long 0483 503951

CHELSEA SW3 A spectralar inte rior designed 3 bed house, recept. (f kg., see resides room

RENTALS

Co. let £500pw 071 938 1366

chegastery NW9 Lge has studio flat. Newly built. new furniture and fixings. F/F K&B E130gw Inci. 081 465 9445

umfurn hae. 4 beds. dish recop. L/f hd., sap din rm. 2 cellux, patio. excl value grangew, 071. 225 OtO2 t

MARKE ARCH speciacular period 1st floor 1 hed flat receive believes 1 limited reces, balcony & terrare (could be 8 hed, 1 reces) floor Corp/Enchance, All services can be received (Miss. in major in

MAYFAIR WI describe I had 2 bath, triplex with own street entrance. Avail now only $500 pw. 071 402 9245

CENSINGTON Large 2 bedra Oct in buttiful Squ £300pw 071 373 3488

JEAN WILLIAMS LTD
WEYBRIDGE/ST
GEORGE'S HILL
Well presented 4 bed bangalow ortractive wooded gerden, 4 beds, 2 both, 2 recep, study, kit/breekfest, on pour saite.
EASSO pea.
KINGSTON
Issaec der 5 bed house, 3 boths, 4 receps, study, kit/breekfest, double geroge, swimming pool,
privote read. £000 pea
SURBITON
Saparb dat 5 had house, 4 both,
3 receps, kit/family room dite
gge close amenities £3000 pea.
KINGSTON VALE
Der 4 bed, 2 both house, ig recep, kit/breekfust close park £2000 pea.
HAMPTON
Newly dac double fronted 5 bed house, 2 both, 3 receps, close schools, ER, singue, £1800 pea.
RICHMOND
By town castre, 4 bed, 2 both fomily house, 2 receps, kit/breekfust, 2 ge, £1800
pea.
WIMBLEDON JEAN WILLIAMS LTD FARLEY OLOUCESTER ROAD, SW7. chapping and transport facilities.

Indicate for tang late, processed.

HALL, VECEPTION BOOM, 1/2
HEDROOMS, 1/2 BATHROOMS.

2185 - 2275 par week.

QUEENSCRIE, SOUTH REASONETENI, SW?. Exceptionally highly FOURTH floor TWO bedroom that eliminal close to all absorpting and transport facilities of South Konslagion. The flat features a large disting Machine and its smallelle beautifulation as in the Office of the Constitution of the Constitution MODIL, MICELLEY, 2008.1.8 850HOURS, MICELLEY, 2008.1.8 850HOURS, MICELLEY, 2008.1.8 BATHANCE HALL, RECEPTION MODEL, MICCEST, 2 DOORLY SECRODIAS, BATHANON (with power shown). 2000 per week. PCTIL.
WIMBLEDON
Close SR/Tube 2 bed, 1st floo
flot well dec/from £800 pcm. 44/46 Old Brompton Road, Lucation, SMF 307. 071 589 1244.

HOLLAND PARK HAMMERSMITH Large two bedroom apartments £165 pw or £715 per month

Tel Paul 081 993 6218 after 7pm

SUBJECTED Link grad for find in Luttime-designed listed her, 2 do 6 1 at bestrue, 2 befor, 1 exists, lux kR, ips gdn. nr SR, £2,000pcm, sved impased, 0932 £88869 day, 0485 500307 h

AMERICANITH W6, Ltt. pb 3 Sti beds, recep is a is terr £165pw inc CH 071 603 7459 i

HOLLAND PARK LIE 1 ON THE perdes fist, speciose ruces, fera. E130pw. 071 727 3129 HYDE PARK W2 1 dol ted so prews St. £165pw inc GCH, etc. Cab TV, phone facil, nr 4 tunes Tel: 071 725 0411

9223 290 766 or Fax: 9223 290 224

del, I bedrame, igo locación del 1 14º, Nr strony & tube. Suit prote. 18º0 pero. Tel 081 866 1448. BAYOM SCUIJANT gest servi-latura i bed. terr. Cresisco. grant terresa. (2770 per el lec-071 730 1898 (No apanto). EXCELLENT MAKEON OF 2 IN FED UP LOCKING? We have properties in parts & North

MANYARI W. Loude 2 but 2 decrylong let Price bug 2 con £300pw tol: 071 402 9245 PARSONS GREEN SW7, Summy 1 bet beloony fish, £600pcm. Tel: 0730 898360. COLSENGTON W.B. Studio age, elegas 4, Separate kilchen, best-roya I. Mashing maching. Beguild new moderatishim. All new fittings and carpets, Portered block with parting 4 sans. £178 pw. 071-508 6640 PARLICO SW1. Attract top fl fla in Warwick Sq. Rec with dining arm. fl til, 2 divised, 2 between compains & bounds ct. E256pw Deumonn 671 630 1141 PRINCIPO BYFT: Bright modern MISSISSION House in cobbied Maws. 4/5 Bed. 2 Beth, Gauss, Odn. Ourage, Resultint dector. Bitchest. Fuzn/unfurpiebed £930pw, one. 071-881 7042 Characteristics of the Control of th

ocated & furn. all

PREMIER LOCATION
SLOAME AVENUE SW3
Fully serviced quectors see fats.
Prices from Chilo per week inclusive of electricity, central lectring & her water, mad service, leant, letter transport & shopping facilities.
Missission
Rental One NELL
Cheenfar Months
671-584
GWYNN
8317/8
HOUSE

F.W. GAPP RONSIDES FOR LUXURY

FXECUTIVE HOMES —
ON THE OTHER HAND,
STUDIO FLATS' The Property Mahager

071-581 5877/2479 ST JOHNS WOOD last new 3 bed. 2 bath. 2 rec fist. plog. roof terr. £700pw. 071 792 2063

reception and dining 17001. hitten/breaklast room. £230 pw. 071 834 1026. 6W1 Pecilico large new matten-en. 3 Increase. I lectum. reception and diction. dish wash, wash mach. micro etc £300 pw, 071 834 1026.

6W1 Pimito. Attractive double bedroom reception, bathroom & gaper tally fitted idichen. hal-cony £196 pw. 071 634 1026. W/7 pleasent 1st floor mansio limit if bed 1 mero bad sec. limit long. Avediable 1 year £200pw, Tel: 071-575 7451 TOWER BENCHE Selection of goods 1. 2, 3 d. 4 bed feeting spectromete, name with river views, original warehous conversions, profit warehouse conversions, profit warehouse conversions, profit warehouse from $175 per O71 $35 1553 t

Marie bed recep $400pm bed. Tel: 0475 786604. Fex 788826. WEST for im architects 1 bed Wit Hyde Park, Newly furnished 1/2 had fist. Ourdens, balcony, gazage, security, £250pw neg-Gazage extra, 071 724 3928.

First she read The Times. Then she bought my flat.

Out of a total readership of 1.1 million, no less than 88% of The Times' readers own their homes. At any one time, 96,000 of them are hoping to move within the next six months - possibly cost you £18.98. So if you want to sell your house, put four lines in The Times. You're not likely to find an estate agent's window as hig.

And by using our Special Offer coupon, you can tell all these prospective buyers more about your house, while saving money. Just place a three line advertisement using this coupon within four weeks, and you'll get a fourth line absolutely free. A four-line ad normally costs £25.30*, including VAT.

But use the Special Offer coupon, and these four lines will only

Please ensure your completed coupon arrives at least three days before the date of insertion. Source: NRS Jan - Dec 1990

BUY THREE LINES,	GET THE F	OURTH 1	INE FREE
se your advertisement below (approximately 28 ch nes and punctuation)	aracters per line including	Name	· ·

Write your advertisement below (approximately 28 characters per line including spaces and ponetration)	Name
	Address ·
,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,
No advertisements can be accepted under these special terms unless pre-paid.  Cheques should be made payable to Times Newspapers Limited or debit my:
ACCESS WISA AMEX DINERS
Card No.	Telephone_
Expiry Date	(daytime)
This offer is open to private advertisers only. Trade advertisements will appear subject to the normal rates and conditions.	Signature

onal Ltd., P.O.Box 484, Virginia Street, London El 9BL.

المكذا من الاصل

Bank On It.

New Term! 117.000

BITERIAL TOOLS

© 071-481 4481

CRÈME DE LA CRÈME

071-481 9313 071-782 7828

Mazars

comfortable dealing with both clients and pletely professional, bringing commitment, energy and initiative to Misters.

In return, your salary will be what you would expect as a valued metaber of a

If this is the challenge you've been looking for, call Melanie Lefebyra today

Mazars & Co. 33 Golden Square.

Tel: 071-287 3623. Fax 071-287 9480.

You'll be well educated and com-

Partners at a very senior level.

dynamic team.

on 071-287 3623.

London WIR 3PA.

BRIGHT SPARK - 20K

This is a rest challenge for a very bright, very young secretary who thrives on pressure, excitement, fun and being right to the midst of things. It's guaranteed that city Barak. Coping with all the day to day activities of the Director and his same working on the fast moving Equities Desk of this famous will be made easier by working alongside 2 other secretaries with great personalities and the withingness to work fairly long hours (overtime is paid). Sittle of 80-90 high on intelligence, skills and ambilion call us today or: 071 203 0799

PERMANENT RECRUITMENT CONSULIANT

We offer to an experienced consultant, with an established client base, security and high financial rewards. Our clients, both large and small, receive individual attention and an unrivalled level of professional services which has resulted in sequined growth. Your excellent basic solary is supplemented by top commis Zarak Partnerskip receive full support to manage your desk Please call Lyan/Monika on 071 486 6951.

Go Getter! c£13,000 Age: 19-22

This is a stunning career opportunity for a spirited and resilient secretary who would like to make a career in sales. The busy marketing department of this TV company are looking for a secretary to assist them. An eye for detail and a flair for design is useful to produce complex presentation work and an interest in advertising/ marketing is advertising. secretarial experience and fast typing required to produce a high volume of produce a high vocame work. Planse call Lynne Dawson on 071-437 6832.

HOBSTONES

Maine - Tucker

A Career PA £17-18,000 + BUPA

Knock on the door of this private Mayfair house, go inside & you will be astounded by the gracious splendour of what you see. But... wait a minuta... this isn't just a smart house, it walt a minuta... this isn't just a smert house, it is the headquarters of an intrepid, young, financial research intelligence team who work to scan the world for the very best investments for their equally glamourous tropical Client! Yes, you are going in as a PA but this is one of those ever-expanding jobs and because you are NOT just there to type (50wpm please) whole vistas of interesting responsibilities will be yours for the taking. They want you to understand all, to be one step shead of the dance & you will need good businessdance & you will need good business-orientated A'Levels (A's & B's) to do this. So if you're in your mid 20's, numerate & resourcetul, your Career starts right here.

18-21 Jermyn Street, London SWIY 6FIP Telephone 871 734 7341 Facalantic 871 734 3260

TOP NOTCH

SECRETARY/PA

£ 18k+ package

Major international company stells top setch Sec?? A to work for back: Truding team, if you are bright, entgoing and self activated - you can see your seculiars committees and organisations skills in the demanding rule where your tolents and shiftens will be settled and remarked. Separbical life, excellent benefits and promotional promotions.

Bank On It! £16,500 + banking bens

(£25,000 package) Have you got the drive and enthusiann to cope with an exceptionally biasy role? A team of young highlying executions in a top Investment Bank is looking for an outgoing and energetic secretary/PA to the their lives. You sering phones, beeping their conspeaking to clients on their behalf and typing correspondence. Financial experience essen-tial, European imprages an asset. Skills

60/WP. Age 24-32. Please call Samenths Bornder on 871-434 4512.

PA/SECRETARY TO DIRECTOR

Salary c £17,000

Sec. 19

Growing and profitable, city based, international, telecommunications company requires PA/Secretary to work for Director. Responsible position requiring lean eye for detail, excellent presentation, typing and shorthand skills (100/120 wpm). Woodperfect 5,1/Manuscript preferred — will cross train. Full PA support role, co-ordination of meetings, minutes, diaries and travel arrangements. Experience essential. Excellent working conditions, close to Liverpool Street Station. Age 25+.

lease write enclosing a detailed CV and telephone number to:

Staple Hall Stonehouse Court London EC3A 7AX

New Term! £17,000

The young and enthusiatic headmaster of a leading independent boys school requires a first class PA to thoroughly organise his hectic schedule. Although you will be working in a non-commercial environment, this post requires speed and initiative as well as tact, diplomacy and discretion. Duties are varied ranging from composing and typing his correspondence to fielding calls and arranging appointments. You must be happy to work on your own and have skills of 80/60/WP/Audio. Age 28-45. Please call Caroline Tack on 071-437 6032.

HOBSTONES

SECRETARIAL ASSISTANT To £11,000

NON-SMOKER-KENSINGTON-ELECTRONIC OFFICE-WORDPERFECT REQUIRED

Here is an opportunity for a young person who is highly computer-herests. This is an extremely varied job as a serretural assistant to the P.A. for a somewhat eccentric but very successful international businessman in a out-onan company, successful international businessman in a out-onan company. The office is completely computerised. You will have so be the completely computerised. You will have so be competent with WordPerfect. Your spelling and your grammer competent with WordPerfect. Your spelling and your grammer will need to be perfect, too. Instantive is needed, and there will be opportunity to use it.

Duties will include all aspects of the operation of the office, the full and boring things as well as the new and the exciting. Hours are 8-30 to 5-3t, with an hour for lunch. Extra hours are seldom required, but a lot of effort within these hours is the rather than the exception.

Fax your enquiry to 071 225 2112, or call 071 584 1424.

Excellent opportunity to join leading Financial Organisation SECRETARY

CITY

Attractive Salary +Benefits

Royal Trustco Limited is Canada's largest trust company, providing a wide range of financial products, services and advice. The Company has twenty offices overseas, located in key financial centres of the UK. Europe, Asia and the Caribbean, These serve niche markets in private banking, asset management and specialised secured lending.

Royal Trust Bank, based in London, is part of the Royal Trust Group. We now have a position within our International Private Banking Team for an experienced secretary.

As well as providing full secretarial and administrative support to the team your responsibilities will include:

 Dealing with new and existing Centres of Influence and client travel, meetings, Arranging lunches and e

You should enjoy working on your own initiative in an environment with constantly changing priorities. You will need to be a competent administrator and have a typing speed of no wpm, together with excellent audio and WordPerfect skills. Proven inter-personal qualities are also key. An innovative and professional approach is commitment to the company.

The salary and benefits package is highly attractive including mortgage subsidy, life assurance and family

Applications, with full ev. should be sent to Adrienne Rosen, Partner. Human Resources, Royal Trust Bank, Royal Trust House 48 - 50 Cannon Street, London EC4N oLD. Please quote IPB on envelope.

Closing date - 29th July 1992

PA TO MANAGING DIRECTOR

Spero Communications Ltd., an innovative marketing consultancy specialising in the arts and 'cause-related' social sponsorship require an outstanding P.A. Your flexibility will include comprehensive secretarial support, an ability to draft correspondence and your enthusiasm and skills will enable you to take responsibility and communicate with both clients and senior executives.

First class presentation a prerequisite. Please send your CY and salary details to: Counie Brighton, Spero Communications Ltd., Meridian Gate, Marsh Wall, Docklands, London E14 9XT.

LEADING SPONSORSHIP CONSULTANCY

PA SECRETARY/OFFICE MANAGER circa £ 18,500 p.a.

We are an International Organisation providing Information Services and Software to banks and companies throughout Europe, who wish to appoint an experienced PA to the M.D. who will also take responsibility for the

This is a varied and challenging apportunity for someone prepared to become fully involved in all aspects of our business. Condidates aged between 28-35 must have excellent organisational and inter-personal skills together with shorthand and fluency in one European language, preferably Spanish. A flexible approach and ability to work as part of our team is also a key factor.

Please write with C.V. to: Linda Gratton Company Recruitment Consultant 53 Primrose Mansions Prince of Wales Drive London SW11 4EF

Only those shortlisted will be contacted

Maine - Tucker

Conversational Spanish A woman of substance...

£23,000 + Mort Subsidy (several thousands) + Bonus + Health Club + STL + extra Hol + Pension (Total Package Circa £30,000)

f your Career really matters to you & you are keeping an eye open for a top-flight, true Personal Assistant position to one of the City's most influential men, look no further, this job surpasses all others. The sheer density of Business you will be expected to keep abreast of will test your mental agility. He needs a real "right arm", the sort of PA who has enough competence to compose letters & sign their own name to them. Superb secretarial skills are par for the course (95/60 min) but as the job's only 50% secretarial, it's your grit & determination to back this man to the limit that will matter the most. To handle the challenges with hatter the most. To hardle the citateringes that will beset you, an A'Level education is vital, conversational Spanish is vital and proven top-level PA experience is vital and Financial experience is vital. If you have the credentials to win a job like this - at the very pinnacle of the secretarial world - and are 26-40, it would be a wise move to take a closer look at this job.

18-21 Jennyu Street, London SW1Y 6FIP Telephone 071 734 7341 Facsimile 071 734 3260

THE INSTITUTE OF LARYNGOLOGY AND OTOLOGY UNIVERSITY COLLEGE LONDON SECRETARY

tion and ability to work an own initi to audio typing. Medical experience of Wordperfect desirable.

A pleasant arguer and good communication skills are an integral part of the work, which involves dealing directly with other departments at University College and interaction with the associated hospital (Royal National Throat, Nose and Ear).

the associated hospitol (Royal National Thront, Nose and Ear).
Salary on U. of L. CRA Grade 5: £15,326 - £18,864 (inchaive). There is an excellent pension scheme.
For further detrails please telephone Sharan Bailey on 071-837 8855 Ext. 4212. or send C.V., giving the names of two referees, to Mrs.C. Overington, institute of Laryngology and Otology, 330/332 Gray's has Road, Landon, WC1X SEE.
The closing data for applications is friday 3 (st. July, 1992,

INTERNATIONAL PR AGENCY PA/Administrative Assistant

PA/Administrative Assistant High profile, nutritational clients & busy account directors demond a moture outlook, strong communication skills, efficient administrative & sense of humour for this role.
Interesting & varied work including international travel arrangements, client research & fost, occurred typing to high deadlities. Excellent WP skills required (WPS. I) & minimum two years PA experience.

Competitive solary & benefits. No agencies please. age reply with CV & references to: Petring Dennett 43 King Street Covent Garden London WC2E 8RJ

As a major force in Medical Recruit Christopher Keats recruits

FILM, TV, ADVERTISING, PR, MAGAZINE & BOOK

Companies in Central and Greater London. If you are seeking a media career and are prepared to use your secretarial skills in return for total involvement, responsibility and respects, call one of our Specialist Consultants on:

071-379 4164 or 379 0344 uniti Spm

CITY SLICKERS £16.000 plus benefits

An outstanding opportunity for a versatile, administration of the Personnel Department, your duties will also involve ad hoc support to a member of the senior management team. Variety will keep you on your toes as you combine your secretarial ability with your administrative flair. There is an exciting atmosphere, full of team spirit and with very real

Age: early 20s upwards Skills: 70wpm shorthand (preferred), 50wpm typing. Call 071 726 8491.

ANGELA MORTIMER
Secretarial Recruitment Consultancy

RECEPTIONIST/ ADMINISTRATOR

Age 25-35

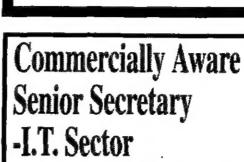

A premissious international company based in the City are looking to recruit a Réceptionist/Administratur.

You will be based on your own reception desk, greeting clients and linising with other staff but the main emphases of the job will be to handle a wariety of administration tasks including some simple figure work. Keyboard skills are essential and ideally you will have joine experience of P.C.'s and apprended to the production of the producti

John McKinlay on 071 836 0041 STATUS RECRUITMENT

PR SECRETARY/ ADMINISTRATOR £12,000 + 6 months review + bourses + BUPA Energetic, efficient young (21+) secretary required to work for two busy PR executives. Excellent WP skills, superb admin and confident manner necessary for dealing with clients and journalists. Friendly team, good prospects, super-company!

super company! Please and your c.v. to: Jan Bowring.
Cameron, Choxt & Partners, Bury House, 126-128 Cromwell
Road, London SW7 4ET. NO AGENCIES

We are France's leading accountancy practice, with offices throughout Europe,

a blue-chip client list and the strategy to put us at the forefront of cross-border

Receptionist for our rapidly expanding apart from anything else, you will be the first point of contact for our clients.

French will be your mother tongue, or you'll speak it fluently. You will also of course be highly articulate in English and

We need an exceptional Secretary/

You'll be central to our success because,

corporate services.

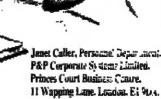

London office.

This highly regarded position within the U.K.'s strongest II sector company requires a mature and thoroughly organised, top calibre, commercially aware Senior Secretary PA who has worked at a smilar level for a minimum five years, proferably within a fast paced, commercially orientated environment. In addition to providing comprehensive secretarial support to our Services Director, you will supervise the efficient day to day running of a busy central office through the effective management of all support staff and contracted services ensuring that all

Through liaison with personnel, Group wide, you will actively contribute to the Company's image of eminence amongst both clients and the public. Broad-based familiarity with office systems and personnel issues is prerequisite, together with knowledge of Word for Windows/Apple Max. Confidence, enthusiasm and a proven ability to lead by example, matched with personal integrity, flair and a sense of humour - all are qualities vital to succeed in this cruy ial role. Please apply in writing, enclosing your full C.V. to:

Avez-vous les qualités professionnelles

pour vous installer à Londres dans le premier cabinet d'audit Français?

CoverGirl £16,500

Well known magazine publishers require a PA to work for one of their high profile editors. She needs a true 'right hand' to take control of her diaries, arrange social and business engagements, reply to reader's enquiries, screen calls from the press and generally keep her life in order! The ideal candidate will have experience within a media related environment at senior level, as well as the ability to keep calm whilst juggling numerous priorities and dealing with a multitude of tasks. Age 25-35. Skills 80/55/WP. Please call

HOBSTONES

Management Consultants. WC2

We are urgently looking for a senior level cretary/assistant for three demanding and a We are urgently looking for a senior level secretary/assistant for three demanding and active Partners. You will need to have a minimum of 8 years experience in providing secretarial/assistant skills to senior level managers and be copable of coordinating the hectic lives of the Partners, which at times requires long and unsociable hours. To do this you will need to be a mature, fun and caring individual with a sense of humour, and an ability to think an your feet.

think on your feet. An interest in Marketing would be highly desirable as you will need to be taking an assertive role in the administration of all meetings, conferences, and database co-ordination.

Please write and tell me how you can help.

Marakon Associates 1/3 Strand London WC2N 5EJ

A HELPING HAND -£18,000

The Arts and Education are the focus of our client's unique business. An excellent communicator is needed by the Director to help decide which projects should be researched and then which should be developed. An inquiring mind, total flexibility with excellent skills (100/60) will lead to complete involvement in a fascinating and rewarding environment. Age 28-38.

DIRECTORS' SECRETARIES 071 629 9323

Secretary to the Finance Director

Competitive salary & benefits

Harlow

Yule Catto & Co. plc is a long established publicly quoted multi national group with an expanding portfolio of industrial activides and an annual turnover exceeding £250m. The Group has achieved consistent growth: and has remained profitable ever, in the face of the present harsh, economic climate. We can now offer this excellent career opportunity to a professional sacrelary who will provide a full secretariai service to an executive director.

You should possess a special blend of discretion, good general education with a particularly high standard of English language. Your technical skills must encompass WP experience with the confidence to tackle new systems: a high standard of presentation and accurate, reasonably last shorthand. Knowledge of LOTUS 123/graphics packages would be useful but is not essential. You should also be flexible, friendly, well organised, a good communicator and team in return, we can offer you a good working

To apply, write with cv to:-

Linda Nolan, Yule Catto & Co. pic. Temple Fields. Harlow, Essex CM2C 26H.

Personnel Sec £14,000 and benefits

An opportunity has arisen for at a minimized young secretary with a year's emperience to join a highly successful and expanding international Investment company. As a secretary you will become fully involved in all aspects of personnel including recruitment and office administration. Your varied day will include leasing with agencies, organising of chings, dealing with senior executives worldwide and providing efficient, cofidential secretarial back-up. Age 20s. Skills: 60 wpm. typing. A levels prefered.

Please telephone Anna Marin on 071-377 887...

the donation of blood or organs.

Turning to J's case, his Lordship had no doubt that the wishes of a minor over 16 or of a younger child who was Gillick competent were of the greatest importance legally and clinically, but he did doubt whether Mr Justice Thorpe was right to conclude that J was of sufficient understanding to make

Where the minor's wishes were themselves something the doctors reasonably considered needed

interests, those wishes clearly had a much reduced significance.

There was ample authority that its parens patriae jurisdiction were in theory limitless and certainly extended beyond the powers of a natural parent. There could be no doubt that the court had power to override the refusal of a minor, whether over 16 or under 16 and

No minor of whatever age had power by refusing consent to treatment to override a consent by someone with parental responsibility for the minor, and a fortiori a consent by the court. But such a eration in making clinical judgments and for parents and the court in deciding whether themelves to give consent. Its importance increased with the age

Good parenting involved giving minors as much rope as they could handle without an unacceptable risk that they would hang themselves. It was self-evident that that involved giving them the maxi-mum degree of decision-making which was prudent. Prudence did not involve the avoidance of all risk

but of risks which if they did eventuate might have irreparable consequences or were disproportionate to the benefits accruing and maturity of the minor.

Gillick competent.

an informed decision.

Court of Appeal

Power to override girl's wishes

Before Lord Donaldson

Lymington, Master of the Rolls, Lord Justice Balcombe and Lord Justice Nolan Reasons July 10]

Section 8 of the Family Law Reform Act 1969 did not confer complete autonomy on minors over the age of 16 with regard to their medical treatment.

The court, in the exercise of its inherent jurisdiction to protect minors, had power to override the refusal of a girl aged 16 to consent undition of anorexia nervosa.

The Court of Appeal so stated giving reasons for its decision on June 30 authorising the local authority, which with her aunt hared responsibility for J under a are order, to move her to a articular medical unit against her wishes and to give consent to the proposed treatment there. On the hearing of the appeal evidence was given of an accel-crated deterioration in J's condition. The court made an immediate ruling that she be transferred to the new unit and the urder of Mr Justice Thorpe (The Times May (4) was accordingly.

The court imposed an injunction restraining (i) publication of any dentification of J. other parties to the appeal or material calculated to lead to such identification, and (ii) the soliciting of any such

Mr Allan Levy, QC and Miss Deborah Sawhney for J; Mr John Samuels. QC and Miss Caroline Rudden for the local authority: Ma James Munby, OC and Mr Roderic Wood as amicus curiae. J's

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS referred to the bereavements suffered by J through the loss of both parents in early childhood and more recently of her grandfather. She had been singularly unlucky in receiving un-

In 1991 she had been admitted suffering from anoretia nervosa. It was a peculiarity of that condition that the disease itself created a wish not to be cursed or only to be cured if and when the patient decided to cure himself or herself, which might well be too late. Treatment had to be directed at that state of mind as much as to restoring body section 8 of the 1969 Act was enacted, had been authoritatively considered and defined in Gillick considered and defined in Citick v West Norfolk and Wisbech AHA (1986) AC 112). In In re R (a Minor) (Wardship: Consent to Treatment) (1992) Fam 11), where section 8 was not directly in issue, his Lordship had expressed the construction of the construction of the views on the construction of the section which were as variance With academic and other writers

They had said that a right to consent to medical treatment, whether required under the comsection 81 carried with it a right treatment but to refuse the treat-

In Gillick the central issue was not whether a patient under the age of 16 could refuse medical treatment if the parents or the court consented, but whether the parents could effectively impose a veto on treatment by failing or refusing to consent to treatment to which the child might consent.

The House of Lords had held that at common law a child of sufficient intelligence and understanding, the "Gillick competent" child, could consent to treatment notwithstanding the absence of the parents' consent or even their express prohibition.

Only Lord Scarman's speech was couched in terms which might have suggested that the refusal of a child under the age of 16 to accept treatment was determinative: see [[1986] AC 112, 188-189]. If the parental right terminated, it would follow that apart from the court the would be the child and a refusal to an effective veto on the treatment. In view of the quite different issue before the House in Gillick his Lordship ventured to doubt whether Lord Scarman meant terminated. However, the issue now before the court, which never arose in Gillick, was whether the court had the power to consent to treatment in the face of J's refusal to consent.

of the parents to consent

The purpose of consent was both clinical, since the patient's cooperation and confidence was a major factor contributing to success, and legal. That latter purpose was to provide those concerned in the treatment with a defence to a criminal charge of assault or battery or a civil claim for damages cass to the person, but not to a claim for negligence.

The wording of section 8(1) showed quite clearly that it was addressed to the legal purpose and effect of consent, and that it did so by making the consent of a 16 or 17 year old as effective as if he were of full age. No question of common law Gillick competence arose.

The argument that the 16 or 17 year old could by refusing consent veto the treatment notwithstandof someone with parental responsibilities, suggested that section 8 had the further effect of depriving such a person of the power to consent. The section did not say so and such a construction sat uneasily with section 8(3).

Any ambiguity which might exist could be resolved by having regard to the Report of the Com-mittee on the Age of Majority (1967) Cmnd 3342).

Section 8 accordingly gave minors over 16 a right to consent to surgical medical or dental treatment. Such consent could not be overridden by those with parental responsibility, but could be overidden by the court. The statutory right did not however extend to consent to the donation of blood A minor of any age who was Gillick competent in the context of

That approach was consistent with the philosophy of section 1 of the Children Act 1989. His Lordship rejected the submission that nevertheless his approach was inconsistent with sections 38(6), 43(8) and 44(7) and paragraphs 4 and 5 of Schedule 3.

from taking them.

His Lordship also rejected the submission that the judge's judgment did not sufficiently show that he had given due weight to J's wishes. On the facts as they then were, his decision was plainly consent which could not be parte Director of Public consent which could not be overriden by those with parental responsibility, but could be by the court. Unlike the statutory right, the common law right extended to Before Lord Justice Mann, Mr Justice French and Mr Justice

Justice Nolan delivered judgments concurring in the result. Solicitors: J. M. Somerton: Miss K. L. Tripp: Official Solicitor.

> Judgment July 8 The dismissal by justices of informations for want of prosecution when they knew that a prosecutor was on his way and the case was ready was unreasonable and was a nullity, not a lawful acquittal, therefore mandamus could issue requiring the justices to hear the informations.

The Queen's Bench Divisional Court so held in allowing an application by the Director of Public Prosecutions for judicial review of a decision of Hendon Justices to dismiss informations against two defendants for want of prosecution and in granting an order of mandamus requiring the nformations be heard.

Mr Thomas Kark for the rosecution; Miss Clare Monteomery as amicus curiae.

LORD JUSTICE MANN, giving the judgment of the court, said that the defendants were charged with attempted burglary of a dwelling house, elected summary trial, pleaded not guilty and were nded until May 1, 1991 at Hendon Magistrates' Court.

but a senior advocate was sent and the court was told that be was on his way. However, when he arrived at 11.45am he discovered that the two informations had been dismissed for want of prosecution 15

In the judgment of the court the decision of the justices was so unreasonable that no reasonable bench in like circumstances could have come to it. The duty of the court was to hear informations which were properly before it. The ution had a right to be heard and there was a public interest that, save in exceptional circum-stances, it should be heard.

It could seldom be reasonable to exercise the power to dismiss an information under section 15(1) of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 prosecutor was on the way to their court and the case was otherwise. ready to be presented.

Their Lordships entertained the strongest suspicion that the justices were acting so as to punish what they saw as the inefficiency of the CPS. That inefficiency had been merely apparent and liable to be dispelled on enquiry. In any event, conferred for punitive purposes.

The decision being Wednesbury unreasonable ([1948] 1 KB 223) the order of certiorari which was sought was an available remedy. That might seem a surprising question because certiorari was usually thought to lie in respect of an order of an inferior tribunal, while mandamus clearly lay to require the hearing of an information which had been dismissed as a result of jurisdiction having been wrongly declined. However, in R v Simpson [1914] I KB 66, 76) Mr Justice Scrutton had said: There never has been a case in which an acquiral by a court of summary jurisdiction has been quashed by certionar and the court had not been referred to any fully reported case since in which an acquittal, as opposed to a conviction, had been quashed by cartionari.

If there was a principle by reference to which the remedy was not granted in respect of an acquittal then the position of the court would be different on judicial review from its position on an appeal by case stated when by statute it had power to direct a conviction after dismissal.

Having considered R v Middleser QS (Chairman), Ex parte DPP [1952] 2 QB 758), R v Dorking Justices, Ex parie Harrington (1984) AC 743) and R v Greater Manchester Coroner, Ex parte Tal (1985) QB 67), the court con-cluded that as the justices decision outwith their statutory power it was a mulity and could not have sustained a plea of autrefois acquit because there had not been a lawful acquirmi.

Certiorari could go to quash a decision which was a mulity and which was accordingly not an acquittal. However, it would usually be more appropriate to issue amus where the prosecution wished to proceed. In exercising its discretion the court would take into account a variety of factors, among which would be the time since the alleged offence was committed.

In the instant case the offence alleged against the defendants was serious, the date of commission was not remote and the defendants could have no reasonable belief that the dismissal of the charges was other than a fortuity. Mandamus should issue.

The court's decision as to the availability of a remedy was in-consistent with R v Sunton Justices, Expane DPP (The Times February 6: [1992] 2 All ER 129) where it vas said without discussion that certiorari would not go to quash an acquittal. The question was not argued on that occasion. In the light of the full argument now heard the court was convinced that that decision was wrong on that

Solicitors: CPS, Wond Green;

Setting aside leave for judicial review an anneal to the commissioner "ori

Regina v Social Security Commissioner, Ex parte Pattni Before Lord Donaldson of Lymington, Master of the Rolls, Lord Justice Nolan and Lord Justice Scott

Judgment July 81 Although the court would only in rare circumstances set aside the grant of leave to move for judicial review, it was appropriate to do so where leave had been obtained but the applicant had failed to identify a proper point of law for review. The Court of Appeal so held allowing the appeal of the Social Security Commissioner from Mr Justice Pill who had refused to set aside leave to move for judicial review granted, ex parte, by Mr Justice Popplewell to Mansukh Mathurdas Panni in respect of the commissioner's refusal to grant him leave to appeal from a decision of the social security appeal tribunal, such appeals lying only on questions of law. Miss Presiley Baxendale, QC, for the commissioner; Mr Patmi in

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that although there was no right of appeal from a social security appeal tribunal in respect of matters of fact there was the ground that the decision of the tribunal was erroneous in point of law see section 101 of the Social Security Act 1975, such right being subject to the appellant obtaining leave to appeal either from the chairman of the appeal tribunal or from

Although there was no appeal from a refusal of leave (see Bland v Chief Adjudication Officer (1983)
1 WLR 262) and Lane v Esdaile (1891) AC 210)) the judicial review procedure provided a safety net, where the court or tribunal concerned was not a court of record, which could be invoked if the refusal of leave was plainly wrong, but only in the plainest possible case. Mr Pattni had appealed to a security appeal influenal found that he was not entitled to housing benefit supplement. Thereafter his applications for leave to appeal from that decision had been refused both by the chairman of the tribunal and move for judicial review Mr Justice Popplevell granted leave ex parte without calling on Mr Pattri to identify the point of law which

SPRECHEN SIE

SPRECHEN SIE DEUTSCH?
Secretaries, B-Linguel Conspiter Experience, Wend Conspiter Experience, Wend Conspiter Experience, Wend Conspiter Experience, Wend Conspiter Constitution for the above qualifications for immediate starts in Memida and South Germany, Accommodations-Provided Please and CV1 with passport Photograph inc. ARW PERSONAL SERVICE GMBH Landsberger Str. 482 , 8000
Minnichen 60

Minichen 50 Tel: 689/834 60 60 Fac: 689/83 52 55

BILINGUAL

SECRETARIES:

MS WORD / MS WORD
FOR WINDOWS

We have several Temp - Perm Long Term Temp bookings to bilingual secs (Age 23-35) with experience on MSWord / MSWord for windows &

55+wpm typing & finency is one of the following languages

FRENCH GERMAN SPANISH ITALIAN

JAPANESE

Call BOYCE TEMPS

071 287 6060 Fax 071 494 4652

SPARESH Billingual Secretary £13-£16,000 + hens sought by Expert Co. in WC2 to agest the
Expert Co. in WC2 to agest the Chief Executive. Super efficie and triepfly teem of people pine estempine use of your Dann's Sponths (English to m/r stendard). College Leivers considered. Good typing + WP by/n an adv). Age to 30. Tel:
The Language Englishes (772379 3169 (Rec Cone).

TWILENGUAL Recustoment Typiet to Design 213,020 in Fammersmith, the your excellent French and your second Spanish of or Emiss. Good typing Debalt Market Spanish of the Spanish Spanis arose for decision or himself identifying such a point. That was plainly wrong.

Decisions to refuse leave to appeal were only to be overturned in plain cases and there was no basis for the judge to conclude that the present case was within that His Lordship referred to the oner's application to Mr Justice Pill to set leave aside. While it should be rare that one judge should set aside the decision of another granting leave. Mr Pattni's application was such a

If Mr Justice Popplewell had identified a point of law which arguably would have required the chairman or the commissioner to should have explained what it was, otherwise the respondents would not have known what case they had to meet. He had not done so. It was for Mr Pattni in the first place to have identified the point of izw on which he relied, but he had Given that he was a litigant in person for whom allowance had to be made, and stretching that to the furthest possible extent, if the judge had thought that there might be a to identify he should have adjourned the application for an inter partes hearing. But he had not done so.

In those circumstances, Mr.lustice Pill was wholly wrong to refuse to set aside the grant of leave. He had clearly taken the view that it was either his duty or that of the judge hearing the substantive application to subject the papers submitted by Mr Pattni to a microscopic examination to see whether it was possible to detect a relevant point of law, and that it was better that the other judge did that on a trial basis.

The fundamental fallacy of his approach lay in the assumption that it was the duty of any judge to undertake a search for a point of law. If Mr Pattni were to invoke the judicial review procedure it was for him to identify a relevant point of law and satisfy the judge that it had not been taken into account by either the chairman of the tribunal

Since Mr Pattai could identify no such point the application for judicial review would be summarily dismissed. Lord Justice Nolan and Lord Justice Scott agreed. Solicitors: Solicitor, Department of Social Security.

Regina v Steel

In cases of reckless driving the consequences as well as the quality of the driving were relevant when determining the appropriate

The Court of Appeal, Criminal Division (Lord Justice Lloyd, Mr Justice Tudor Evans and Mr Justice Lathami so held on July 9 in allowing an appeal by Mark Jonathan Steel against a sentence of 15 months imprisonment imposed in January 1992 at Reading

Sentencing on consequences Crown Court (Judge Spence) for reckless driving and reducing it to

MR JUSTICE TUDOR EV-ANS said that there was a clear personal injury was caused by an error amounting to careless driv-ing and cases where such injury was caused by reckless driving That was shown by the nature of the offence and the state of mind of the offender in a case of reckless driving. Unforeseen consequences might be relevant (R v Krawec (1984) 6 Cr App r (S) 367)).

In the Court of Appeal's view, when sentencing in cases of reckless driving where personal injury had been caused, a judge had to consider and give full weight to all the facts and circumstances. including the gravity of the consequences of the driving.

This was a bad case but not at the top of the scale. In view of all the circumstances, a proper sentence was one of 12 months.

CRÈME DE LA CRÈME

071-481 9313 071-782 7828

at Boyce Temps 071-267 8679.

IMMEDIATE START. Bosy.

Involvituance company head in DCS seeks an enducidante and Constitution of the constitution

Consistents.

MATURENTY leave. Sept-Nev.
Chelman level. Wang/Ed. O7:
285 8502. Chr. Sect. (Agr).
TEMPORARY WP Secretaries.
We would like to hear from your first you know any of the followhig paciences: WordParriest for Windows. WordParriest 5.1.
Word for Windows. AmilPro.
Windows. WordParriest 5.1.
Word for Windows. AmilPro.
Windows. WordParriest 5.1.
Word for Windows. AmilPro.
Windows. Word with MacGraw.
Macwise. Proc With Macwise.
Macwise. Proc Macwis.
Macwise. Proc Macwise.
Macwise. Proc Macwis.
Macwise. P

TEMP to Perm PA WPerfect 8.12 City. Rusty SH. £16K. Imm Start, 285 5501 City Secs (Agy).

RECEPTION SELECTION

COSMITTICS - London W11 to E12,000, head offile of exclusive product range seek outpoint receptions to become the proof mer maintenance of their particular to become the product receptions to the product receptions to the product of their particular to the product of the particular to the particular to

117

WEST END BANKING £16k plus Banking Bens

3 071-481 4481

Join the successful M & A team of this International ent Bank. As the team's right hand person, you will have regular exposure to both the high profile clients and the business transactions. This means that an eye for detail and good communication skills are essential. Your role will include presentation work, administrative duties and organising meatings, travel arrangements and diaries. You need to have had 2+ years experience in a secretarial expecity within a 60 Typing. Experience of MicroSolftword preferable, 20.15.

Ring 071 287 7788 ANGELA MORTIMER
Secretarial Recruitment Consultancy

COURSE ADMINISTRATOR

Cf. 15,000

If you are 22 - 28 with superb skills and the most outgoing and well presented candidate we interview you will have the opportunity to be in interview you will never the opportunity to be in charge of every aspect of organising seminars and courses for a leading UK training company based in SW6. Your enthusiasm, commitment and eye for detail will be well rewarded working in a small and friendly team. Please ring:

Alison Smith Leadership Development Ltd 071 381 6233

£18,000 PA TO OPERATIONS DIRECTOR National Co. N.W. London. Superb opp to assist dynamic Euretier of promier resul-chain. Luxury offices. Sur-excellent organiser. SH/MP. (Age 27-40). 081 209 1858

MANDARIM-CHINESE Circa at 15.000. Really lovaly lob for anyone who speaks Mandarin Chinese of you can write it foo psecularial popularia a little secularial popularia continue who is not a really exciting venture backed by ore of China's best blue chip Companies. Really friendly small learn to work with Not fust secrebrial, lotal involvement, a very high level of PR makes that job really special, superb prospects due to expansion. If you are one of those tark people able to speak Mandarin please call Major-Tucker on 071 734 7341.

Crème de la Crème

ALSO APPEARS IN

THE

ON MONDAY AND THURSDAY

TO PLACE YOUR ADVERTISEMENT

PHONE: 071-481 4481 FAX: 071-782 7828

SECRETARY/PA

SECRE I ARRIJAR.

SECRE I Paratiment & Director of bury car mans dealer in Bancriet. There will be the opportunity to help develop, & to provide considerable input to the Sales Department.

You must be fully consputer literate & full knowledge of Wordperfect 5.0, practical & enthusastic with good organization skills & able to cope efficiently under pressure. efficiently under pressu £12,000-£14.000 per anu CV to: Holbein , 12 ingate Place, SW8 or inx 071 627 5212

AUDIO SECRETARY SEWRE I ART
TO Best Practice of Chartered Surveyors, authorisatic and friendly son-sender to work for two Directors. Knowledge of Wordperfect essential. Must be oble to cape with heavy typing lead.
Please apply in writing with CV strong current solary
Tec Lyn Eden
York Mentague
11 Hills Place
LONDON WIR 1AG
No Agancies Place

LEARN NEW SKILLS and REFRESH OLD ONES

St. James's College in misington offers short courses in Word Processing, syboarding, Shorthand on an mensive or part-time basis. 25% TAX RELIEF FOR ALL SELF-FUNDED TRAINING 071 373 3852/2190/5389

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL SECRETARY required ingently for Consultant Surgeon's Wimpole St practice. Excellent benefits package £13.5K to £14K. Phone Val on 071 224 6249

SMALL WEST END ADVERTISING AGENCY need ambitious, efficient and fun Office Manager/ PA. Good salary/ great opportunity. 071-491 1217

SUPER SECRETARIES ADMIN PA. £16.000 + Corporate Benefits. Unique opportunity in Human Resources for confident Set with stanstical know-how and computer ligarity. Or 1.287 3664 Next Employment.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE:
The charming MD of this fanous US Os is looking for the best PA/Sec in London. Complete involvement makes this job both interesting and demandins. Fast SH/WP (wordparfect) ess and a European language ideal, CEI8.000 + the opportunity to become part of this success story, Norton REC Cops 071 825 2652.

SUPER SECRETARIES

AUDIO/WP SECRETARY International Yacht Brokers based in SW10 seek an enthusiastic and willing Secretary to work for one of two Directors in a basy environment. Duties include 80% audio typing, general admin. Must be well presented, well spoken with a mature personality. WPS.1 experience essential, good telephone manner.

Hours - must be flexible. Please fax CY ta: 071 352 6515 or telephor 071 352 6565. ARCHITECTS W.1 require sec-retarial assistant mid 20's Var-led duties to very busy friendly affice Accumite fast typing (Duvetti WP) & cheerful phone thanner essential. Previous experience in architecture or related professions useful. £12%. Write + C.V. Susan Hirst. Kettley Good Associates, 47 Marylebone Lane. London WIM SFN or Faz 071 486 6509. No agencies.

BANKING - £15.000 + BB, Well known bank based in EC2 seeks an ambition young secretary with City financial experience to become the administrator in the risk management department. Using your excellent Lotus 123 and wordperfect 5.1. octassee the five deligibility occurs of the continue proposite the seek of the condition of the condition of the ability to work to your own initiative and be a self-starter is essential. Typing 50 wpm. Age 20.25. Please call Eather Mansden on 071.577.9919 Hobstones Recruitment Consultants.

Consultants.

CATERING. L14.COO + M.S. + Bets. Join one of the worst's most prestigious stockinoters based in EC2, as secretary/administrator to the manager responsible for the entertainment facilities. As well as utilisment facilities. As well as utilisment facilities. As well as utilisment facilities as well as utilisment facilities as well as utilisment facilities. As well as utilisment facilities as well as utilisment facilities as well as utilisment facilities as well as utilisto your caloring qualifications responsible in the temporary when caloring the temporary continues and cocontinues and cocontinues and as cool head. Typing 50 wpm. Age 24-50. Precess call Esther Manadem on G71.577 9919.

Hossiones

G1TY . L16,000. Opportunity for CITY - £16,000. Opportunity for career progression for enthusi-astic sound secretary with SH/ WP 90/60 in superb city offices. Norton Rec Coms 071 823 2552 823 2562

COLLEGE LEAVER needed for busy exchitects' office William dead with general conto customers are proported. Ring Assistance important. Ring Assistance Con. 071 734 0532

PRICE COS. 077 734 0832.

ENTERTARNMENT £11.000 - really lovely opening for a bright, capable College Leaver or second lobber with this highly successful company. They organise neutrons of the college leaver or second lobber with this bighty successful company. They organise neutrons with the college was successful companies with the college was successful companies with the college was successful to the college was succes 1222 The Work Shop.

BINTHUSHASTIC Secretary with qualifications in interior Design needed to teste run a small Balkerse based specialist building/ decorating company. Experience of sites and abitury to handle personnel and clients. Shorthand. WP skills and driver seantial. Hours fierable. Telephone 071:223-3286. dential projects from inception to completion, present research material, liaise extensive with clients and senior personnel and take the initiative in every area of his work. Creat social life and current prospects tool (17.000 package. Call Jude Croke at Tale Appointments on C71 408 0424. FULNAM/Parsons Green £15,000-£14,600, Famous Vol-untary Organisation needs expertenced PA/Sec with good audio copy. Solvente Listerst in Home Economics an advan-tage 224. Covent Garden Burgen 07; 496 8822.

EXCEPTIONAL young sec £15.000 page req for leading U.S. Corsultancy based superior Sr Janes offices. Must enjoy working as part of young. Jun last-noving learn and be bright & co-the-ball. Excellent peris in: Coym. BUPA. paid o/L good bast salaries. Induction training, five function straining, five function str. Age 20-25. Audio/w P.Sewpin Opting. Val Wade Rec 071 457 3795. Wade Pec 071 437 3793.

Wade Pec 071 437 3793.

PA/Secretary with excellent interpersonal sadia and as to-defend the personal sadia and as to-defend the personal sadia and as to-defend the personal characteristic personal personal characteristic and efficient model pressure. No sh but good WP speeds em. Norion Rec Coss 071 828 2552.

REEP FITY cf. 17.000 - presidents opening for a professional Sec/PA working at senior level in the HQ learn of this top Life countries and the HQ learn of this top Life countries are requested, in addition to conflictent administrative skills and professional/financial background. Exceptional working survivousment. Exceptional working survivousment. Expert benefits parkage inc free lunch company-oponioved arrobles, private health scheme, there dottons etc. Mayfelt based, Please can 1071 493 5787 Gordon Yales Consultants.

LEGAL SECRETARY is required with Company Commercial experience and excellent wp skills to work for two extremely busy solicitors. Duties include byjung documentation to dead to the countries of the countries o fair merchant bank regulares gar merchant bank regulares garendonal PA for demanding role. First Class secretarial skills and ability to work as part of a beam. Age 30-40. Salery £18.000-20.000. Calf Jane Crichles 071 439 7191.

Crichlon 071 439 7191.

MAYFAIR Oil Co need computer liberale self-startor to take on new role in Systems Dept. You'll have good bying, excelent communication stells and a proven liberast in office technology in John this superborgsmission. Sai L16500 + benefits - age C 24-26. Please leighpure long & Toben on 071 409-9648 and ask for Jo Toben. Recruitment Communication. Recruitment Communication of the liberast grant of the liberast grant g CCI3.000 + amazim Secretary CCI3.000 + amazim perka. Required for prestigious SWI. Company 900 sh and good typ-ling req. With more properties with more properties with more properties with more properties. With more properties with more properties, with more properties, admin content than typing Must be confident, well-ed the levels and socially sware. 071.

ZZZ 5091 Norma Skemp Rec.
RECEPTION 513.000 habitations. 222 5091 Norma Stemp Rec.

RECEPTION £15.000 highly fashionable health club seeks bright, outpoing, repertenced Receptionist able to handle mega-busy switchboard and have enough energy left over 10 take a real interest in everyand around. Some hybing abilily (40-wph-ish) requested. Apguide 23-50. For details please call 071-493 0713

Metryweether Selection

SECRETARY in Personnel A Metrywegner Scierciop
SECRETARY in Personner A letel educated, ideally 224. Cacellent copy-audio skills, knowledge of Word for Windows & Lotus 125 en. Cood communicater & conflicted admin abutty.
cLI 5.500 & bens. Call Annie 071 242 2544 Haiton Garden
Agency. UNDERWOOD Secretarial Cal-lege Gian Fern Rd. Bourne-mouth $H1 2UU 0202 552524. Prospectus from Mrs Long

MULTI-LINGUAL OPPORTUNITIES

A TANGO IN PARIS, A BEER IN BRUSSELS OR A SAUSAGE IN FRANKFURT? £13 - £20K

Whether you are a top-class PA or a college leaver, whether you have gained experience or have experience to gain, whether you have confident skills to build on or wish to build up confident skills, if you are ready to make the move, then call us now. We currently have a wide range of opportunities with a variety of international chicats for candidates with scortanal training a high standard of Franch or German and in some cases, commercial experience abroad.

Landon: 971 584 6446 Paris: 44 63 82 57 Sheila Burgess

LONDON LINGUISTS TO £23K

SPANISH & PORTUGUESE GERMAN ITALIAN

A rare opportunity to earn City wages in the West End. Com-bins your excellent working knowledge of any of the above Languages with your experience of the financial world. The ability to communicate with clients at all levels, good presenta-tion stills and computer literacy are required for these demanding positions. A knowledge of Microsoft World would be an advantage but training will be available to the right candidate. Call ANGELA MORTIMER INTERNATIONAL ON 071 267 7788

20-36 60wpm Typing ANGELA MORTIMER
Secretarial Recruitment Consultance

BANKING CC28K. Bi-lingual Sec German. Must have Exe typing Set Undata. Age 224. Call Carristine Walson Ltd (Rec Cons) 071:536 8255.

BILINGUAL French Sec for surmanager of world repowned co. High lamp combatt, good communicator. Them French, sound see background for this varied & challenging rote. (S/hes) 12.17 neg. Language Rec Gervices 071. 287 0494. 222,000 - (equiv. in Marks)
Frankfurt litw firm seek fluent German speaking Sec. Age 2535 & a mice to please (SI 348
9108. Lagai Paopia Rec Copsi y108. Lagal People Rec Copst

FOREIGN reother longue? Educated? Willing to beach in London? G933 6652244. 7-9 pm.
FRENCH-PENGLISH elitingual sec with SH skills in both languages. Varied position requiring esc. organisational gild communication skills. £18,000

+ benefits. For details contact
071 493 7777 Greythorn Pic Groc Con). GERMAN spenking Secretary in the secretary in ECA. English mother tongue exential situ good skift, ping skifts. Must be fluent and a very capable organiser. Salary peckape between 17-22K depending to the secretary in the secret upon previous experience.

Plouse cali Cross Selection on G71 283 0799.

GTT 283 G199.

GERTMAN top bit sec to asset MD in City (financial on Well educated, good organiser, rusty SH. 120,000 + bens. The Lampuager Specialists. Marrow
Erop Agr. 071 499 3539.

LONDOR/ Paris/ Brussel/ Bar-celons/ Madrid/ Milant if you are looking to work in any of these cities and have good secre-tarist skills as well as fluency in two or more languages please coutact: Drake Maltimgasi, 57 Brompton Road, London, SWS 1DP. Telo71: 859 5898. Pax:071: 825 9389. PARIS. Eluc-Chip bank with croanding offices to central parts needs bilingual sec/FA to seech seech seek selective. Selective seek selective selective selective secretaries acquired brotten process of parts work commiss. I plus A levels and good WP skills. Age 24-26. Salary C. £18,000. Ph. call Salary C. £18,

PA Secretary with fluent French; to work for the charming MD of house, soods combany. If you have excellent secretarial skills, the presentation and a bright to presentation and a bright policy of the properties of the propertie RUSSIAM Stingual Secretary sought by Intul Trading Co. to 1514.000. Good secretarial tradings up a minimum 2 years' experience resourced pear years' experience resourced bear pears' experience to 150 ft. Type 150 ft. WP stills 150 50. Tet. The Language Sections 671. 379 3189 (Sec Cond.) RUSSIAN spks sec/ edministra-tor/ translator. Trading Co. Surrey. Sai CC: SK. Link Lan-cuage Appts C71 408 2150. TRII. French & Spanish securid jobber to assist & organish dynamic team of designers. Rec/larging and & 28 duties. Rallan useful. $12,000. The Language Soucialists. Merrow Drup Agy. 071, 499 3939.

UNGENT, Recherchons secret.
Isague and français, bil. artiTris cryaniss, actinde à ravellier sous presion, Northboulacts eff. Countissance de Word & Excel. Tel 071 235
8080. p. 1414. PART TIME VACANCIES

Bookkeeper T/B
2 days.
An experienced bookkeeper
to work with small team of to work with small team of conference organisers. Books are monad at the someon but at the company plans to computeries in the future previous computer experience is destroble. Successful candidates will five within easy occass of the second of the secon desperance is occasional desperance is occasional candidates with within acry occasion of Holland Port.
Solony 27,280 PAYE
Time Careers Ltv Solory E7,280 PATE Part-Time Coreers Ltd 10 Golden Sonoire London W1R 3AF Tek:071-437 3103

PROFILES TEMPTING TIMES

ORGANISE YOUR LIFE I am wall presented experienced secretary. In my late 20% single with no dependents. I have some bookkeeping experience and seek a varied involved position in central London. My typing speed in 75 when (andio.
copy). I have several years, experience of WordPerfect 5.1 and a good working knowledge of many other
PC and WP packages.
As well as having worked as As well as having worked as a PA at Director/Ministerial level 1 have worked at smaller companies where flecibility as well as himsitive has been paramount.

has been paramount.

I am prepared to accept pressure and long hours in central London in return for a good satury.

Flows rashy to Box No 9228 EXPERIENCED

PA/SECRETARY Good Administrator seeks fulfilling permanent or long-term temporary position in SW-SE London/ North Surrey areas. Good stable work record.
Convenient with WordPerfect 5.1, Multimate
& Lotus 123.90 wan andio.
Available immediate start.

Please Reply to Box 9408. c/o The Times Newspaper.

RECEPTION 2:14.800 bray
Mayfair munagement commilancy seals point commilancy seals point commilancy seals point commilancy seals point comlancy seals point meeting seals are meeting. Must be able to Comunder pressure. Apg 22-30, Calif C77-409 1,252 The Work Shop. NON-SECRETARIAL SOFTWARE CONSULTANT required by small friendly Software House in SW6. A good understanding of business, start, professional appearance and self motivation are essential for this position. Knowledge of PC based software desarable but not essential.

ENIGHTSBRIDGE ESTATE AGENTS Young enthusiastic secretary required to work with small, friendly, busy team. A2 SERVICES Tel: 071 371 0022 £10,000 a.a.e. Please contact Lesely Horan 071 589 6616

HOR-RECHETARIAL tob with socialist for intelligent, from the potential for intelligent, for the potential for intelligent will be given, but no alert mind, an, epithesisatic personnilly and a good balephone manner my a mins. Secretarial experience and A' levide, entential, Ager 2074, February 1984, 1985, TEMPS TEMPS targently required EExc Rates of Pay. Wa currently have Temporary essignments condidates with following at War EALER ASSISTANT Beeded for a one year letterment by a major us. The substant by a major us. The substant by a major us. The substant by a major us. The substant
You must have decime room experience and preduction be SFA Registered. Aspectational will start in late July. Ages 20.
Selectly rate to be arranged.
Please telephone Belling
Languiste on 071-377 SSS?
Crone Corfell Regressioned
Constituent
Constituent
Constituent
TRAINER SUGAR TRADER
A20,000, Brilliand opportunity for Resistant arranged.
For freeling
for regular temps.

For freeling Jacks. Constitution.

TRAINEE SUGAR TRADER

£20,000. Brilliant opportunity for Rustisses - orientaried Grantiste to lost Orientamed Conspecial control of the concontrol of the control of the conrelineast that on 071-734 7341. For further details tell Franco De'lullis (071) 430 9038 C.C.C (Rec Cons)

المكوا من الاصل

LEGAL NOTICES

· FOR SALE

THE TIMES - 1791-1990 other titles available. Ready for pre-

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

HOW'S THAT FOR SERVICE

Established 1910

tions on our eden new S/H and Di Free catalogue. Wartshep, 30A I NWG, 071 267 76

FOOD & WINE

Crème de la Crème every Monday Wednesday Thursday 071 481 4481

PERSONAL COLUMN

ESTABLISHED 1785

Property Buyers Guide

every Wednesday and Saturday

071 481 1986

CONTRACTS & TENDERS

RE: AUTOMOTION LIMITED

PUBLIC NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICES

in Administrative FinceiversintaRegistered Number: 1980353 NOTICE IS HERESTY GIVEN pursuant to Section 48 of the insolvency Act 1986, that a seneral meeting of the unsecured company will be held at a Baher Street, London Will M IDA on 18 August 1980 at 11.30 hrs for the purpose of having a report, last before incoming a report, last before incoming the control his titled to selected or be smoothed.

Jesse yoke that a creditor to titled to vote only if he has livered to the Administrative cervers at Skey Hayward, Ster Street, London WIM 1DA. I later than 12.00 hrs on 17 guar 1992 details in writing of edet claimed to be due from toury admined under the protons of The Insolvency Rules Se said there has been todged the the Administrative retwers any proof which the editor insured to be used on his helf.

Notice of Appointment of John Administrative Recultural SURVEY & ENGINETZHING SURVEY & ENGINETZHING SURVEY & ENGINETZHING SURVEY & ENGINETZHING SURVEY & ENGINETY & ENGINE & E

Nature of business: Antique Deal-ers Trade elsestication: 22 Deta of appointment of sentimburative receivers. 3 July 1992. Name of person appointing the administra-tive receivers. The Royal Burns of Scottand plc. John Administra-tive Receivers: A P Supportione and P R-Opp (office builder nos. 2703 and 1786). Address Stoy Hayward & Baker Street, London WIM 1DA.

MARKSON PLANOS 071 935 8682 (NW1) 081 854 4517 (SE18) 071 381 4132 (SW6) FIANO SALE Except

BIRTHDAYS

FOR SALE

SEATS

CHARITY SHIELD

Phantom, Miss Saigon, Les

Mis, Joseph's Dream Cost, Cricket, Michael Jackson, N

TEL: 071 489 0573

SUPPLIED

ALL TICKETS Proms + Last night, Phantom, Saigon, All the are, tricket, rughy, all sport Nell Diagnosed, Jackson, all pop-We Buy/sell. 071 497 2536

UNDER THE CLOCK

ATTRACTIVE ARTICULATE VINEO ENCOUNTERS 071 352 6622

COUNTRY PARTNERS BUREAU is offer a discerning and individu extraduction service for busy HAPPY SOth Birthday Daddy, love John, Deborah, Gamya, Riccardo, Isabella, Paderico, Philip, Alberto, Richard and

Tet Heather Herber Perry USQ 122 417 for further details

ALL EROCODKE Articles Old leether luggage, fronts etc. Wanted, 071 229 9618. THE DIVING CLUB
MESSE AFFLUST SEMILISM MEST SPECIAL LANCES SEARCHMIST FOR THEIR ROBER

A LANCES DUME TIESE
CALL MOST ORD TEST
CALL MOST ORD TEST
IN YOUR FIVE AFFORMATION PACE.
CALL MOST ORD TEST
IN THE AFFORMATION PACE.
CALL MOST ORD TEST
TO AUTOGRAPH collector buys lai PARIS. Careful tenent series studio fist rental. 6 months, Cantral. Tel: 081 202 4476. ABSOLUTELY ALL

A pulper and specialism eduction parties for interof 7 may ABLA me h-depth caring sparre Sheling a sear parties Professional, business and corner prioritated effectate, Search Michael ice, Notic, Decige, Staffe & S. Yer

Please call Cheryl Brown

071 371 5535

ALL CREDIT CARDS WHY 071 403 9555 WAIT for the right person to wander into your life? They may already bave joined ALL BEST SEATS AVAIL S/Red WWF, Diamond F Row, Phan-tom. Miss Saigon, Joseph, Springsteen 071 497 1407. Personal Introductions and ALL TICKETS Phantom, Saigon, Joseph, Les Mis, Springstem, S/Red, M Jackson, Grand Prix, Cretche, Obragics, 071 930 0800/071 925 0085, CCa Acc

DIARY OF TIMES CLASSIFIED TELEPHONE 071 481 4000

CLAPHAM dbi rm. spacious hae, gdn. all facs. C65/£70 pw. 071 -236 0885(day), -498 8840(eve) bright, attractive, professional people. FLATRIATES London's foremost (Est 1970) Professional flat sharing service. 071-589 5491

> FRIDAY INTERNATIONAL MOTORS: The Complete Car Buyer's Guide, with editorial BUSINESS TO BUSINESS:

SATURDAY WEEKEND TIMES: SHOPAROLIND: Shopping from the comfort of your own SATURDAY RENDEZVOUS sidential, Town & Country, Overseas, GARDENING SALEROOM: Arts and Amiques (monthly).

The state of the s

TO PLACE YOUR-

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENT PLEASE TELEPHONE THE NUMBER LISTED BELOW BETWEEN 9AM AND 6PM, MONDAY TO FRIDAY (LATE EVENING 7.30pm ON THURSDAYS). 9.30am AND 12.30pm ON SATURDAYS.

PRIVATE ADVERTISERS

PRIVATE ADVERTISERS AND BIRTHS, MARRIAGES & DEATHS.

TRADE ADVERTISERS APPOINTMENTS 071 481 4481 PROPERTY __ BUSINESS TO BUSINESS. 071 481 1982 PUBLIC APPOINTMENTS _ __ 071 481 1066 INTERNATIONAL. 071 481 3024 EDUCATION APPOINTMENTS _ 071 481 1066 071 481 4422 071 481 1920 MOTORS TRAVEL ... 071 481 1989 U.K. HOLIDAYS . 071 488 3698

ALTERNATIVELY FAX YOUR ADVERTISEMENT TO 071 782 7827 071 782 7826 071 782 7828 071 481 9313

COURT AND SOCIAL ADVERTISING TELEPHONE 071 782 7347 FAX 071 481 9313

(ADVERTISEMENTS ACCEPTED ONLY IN WRITING AT LEAST 48 HOURS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION)

TIMES PAST...

SURREY.—To be LET on LEASE, situate at the entrance of Upper STooting, five miles and a half from the three bridges, a very convenient FAMILY HOUSE, with coach-house, stabling, suitable offices, a peach house, grapery, good wallet garden, well stocked with fruit trees, small farm yard, and a gardener's cottage, peddock of the stable half and stable and the stable

An advertisement taken from The Times Personal Column Thursday June 22nd, 1815. If you would like to advertise or make your own announcement, contact our classified advertising sales department. TELEPHONE 071 481 4000

UNDER THE CLOCK TOP PEOPLE

£16 to £2500

87] 487 5082 er North 65] 353 8377 South 8323 498666 West 8272 238429

albeit from £1,450 call our Aucha 081 763 1788 24brs

FLATSHARE

PARSONS EREEM girl for own sults in large house or lube £450 pcm. 071 736 1002

SARA EDEN You're structive, successful ass intelligent and you care about the type of people you meet. CHONGE not CRANCE in on offer at SARA EDEN... Come WINDSOR

(0753) 830350 Daily Mell.

CANDLESIAMERS has 5 super-indies to their mid-50°s (nothing younger!) who would like to meet active, professional gentlemen. 64-65. Interested in theetre, music, sport, travelling and epistraming, interested? Please call Cheryl Brewn. 071-571 5655. Yorkshire. Midsummer intro-ductions. Leeds 0632 704805.

SHORT LETS HELSEA Obl rm. e/s bath, all mod coms. Avail 19/7-12/9, £100pw etc. 071 575 4210 (h) 071 522 5719 (w). SELF-CATERING OLYMPICS Accommodation : bed fink. Stad. 20 mins. see / mins. £250 gw Fax 01034 7760413

FLATSHARE A CUT Above the rest! Flatlink-Londons No 1 agency, fast & friendly service, 071 287 3248 BAYSWATER lux flat in equare 2 big dble beds to let, 1 with bathroom - £450pcm, other £360 + bills. 071 727 0036 BAG BEN within sound of. South side of River. Bedeit prof f n/s. 20-30 years share lake with one other, 266 p/w exclusive. 071 587 5140 (Eves). ENTRAL London (tol. o/lo park. prof. room + en stille shower. £75 pw. 071 622 9591 there with 1 prof. m/f n/s £110 pw. Tol C71 584 1585

FTUDERT ROOMS in Univ hall. London SW17 now 5th Sep. Only £45pw ISA 081 672 6617 SWI 5 mins Sidebe Sq ige room to quiet house for Young prof £355pw. 071-821 5027 FWG prof / for own dbl rm in lovely mansion flat, nr habe. £65 pw. esc. 071 284 2684 d WIMBLEDON N/S prof. own IT £275 pcm excl. 081-542 1308 W1 o/r ige mais. £35-£80pw inci + flootitime medical wp (Mack-intesh) work 8 hrs pw for Doc-tor. 0459 120846 pager "FLATSHARE" Require properties for professional tenants in London. Tel: 071 730 1055.

Is '92 Special for you? . Weddings ... Birthdays ... Anniversaries The Royal Mint can help Ring 0443 223880 ROYAL MINT

GLFTS

GENERAL OVERSEAS *11'S ALL A1 TRAILFINDERS*

More low cost (lights via more PLUS * Up to 60% discount on hotels and car itire *

SLINGTON Prof F to share Vic-torian cottage, dbi room, all mod cons £300 pcm ined bills. Prader non snoker tel; 071 700 6100 Ext. 247 or 071 253 6671 The best deals on the world's finest airtines * 42 - 50 Earls Court Road, Landon WR 6EJ Long Haul Flights 071 938 3366 USA/Europe Flights071 937 5400 1st & Business Class 071 938 3444 Manchester Office 061 839 6969 MAIDA VALE W9. Prof F for ige single rm. 5 mins tube/bus. £70 pw incl. 071-286 4007 MARBLE ARCH huge very well equiped flat. Prof's to share with one friendly relaxed other £70pw + bills. 671, 724, 4572 Government Licensed/Bonded

Club, F/class w/wide, Europe, USA, Far East, Australia & many more Ealing Travel OSI 579 9111, ABTA 77869/IATA Bonded Access/Visa

PLITHIETY Prof NS F to share ige pleasant house in conserv ares. Own Dble rtn., en suite. £350 pem incl OSI 789 9184 Eves RARGAIN HOLS / Fights Cyprus Greece Spain Malia Morocco. Greekorama Tvi Ltd. 071-734 2562 ABTA 52980 ATOL 1438

SOUTHFIELDS SW:9 Prof M/F. N/S, own comf rm is flet Nr hube. £80pw incl 081-789 5038 BEST DEALS Specialist. World wide. Surplus seeks at low cost 071 580 5344 (Set 10-2pm). STOCKWELL SW9 Famale, Own room in quiet garden fiet. £220pcm 071 782 6875 day

CAMADA, USA, S. Alnca, Australia, N.Z. & Europe, Good discount fares, Longmere Int. 061-665 1101. ABTA 73196 CANADA SPECIALIST. USA Europe Caribbean, S.America 071-434 4564, 14TA COSTCUTTERS on flights & hole to Europe, USA & most destina-bore, Diplomat Travel Services, Ltd: 071-730 2201 ABTA 25703 IATA/ATOL 1355.

seets at give away prices Sun-rise Tvl: 071 495 3673 ABTA. UROPEAN Scheduled and Charter Rights, Tel: 071 630 5672, ABTA 89974 MARARE, Dep. 20/7 Rtn 1/9. Bloogwe Dep. 24/7 Rtn: 5/7 Kraifed seets available . Call Crunden Tranel 061 868 6465 Abta 83836. Access/Visa

FLIGHTS EURO EXPRESS

NUMBER ONE TO FRANCE & CORSICA FLIGHTS FROM £99 RETURN TELEPHONE

0293 511125 ABTA 26896 ATOL 2159

FRANCE SUMMER FLIGHT BARGAINS!

FLEETWAY
THE FRANCE SPECIALIST
071 636 3488
ABTA DO238 ATOL 2748 SELF-CATERING

PORTUGAL All areas villas, apis hotels. Colf holidays, possarias manor houses, flights, car litre Cananes. Longmere Intl 656 2112 ABTA 73196.

MARBELLA near Atalaya Park Hotel & near sea. Sieeps 6, large jounge 6 terraces. 2% hrs irren Expo Seville Available from August 4th Tel 061-455-5595/061 209 1898

SWITZERLAND BERMAN TRAVEL CENTRE Daily scheduled flights 071 836-4444 ABTA 90685/IATA

GERMANY GERMAN TRAVEL CENTR Daily scheduled flights 07: 836-4444 ABTA 90685/IATA

DORSET, HANTS., & LO.W. PURBECK collage, stps 4/6 due to cancellation, available 19th July Tel: 0277 224490/

LONDON

KENSINGTON, Hampstead, Lux furn apartments Tel: 081-451 3094 Farc 081-459 4422 Write your advertisement below tapproximately 28 characters per line including snaces and

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ST LAURENCE CHILDREN'S HOSPICE

is dedicated to surrounding the dying children of Romania with love, prayer and Christian devotion. To enable us to continue and extend this vital work we need your prayers, your help and your ongoing support

Please can you help?

*I enclose a donation of: £50 🗆 £25 🛘 ANY OTHER AMOUNT £10 🗆 or. Please charge my Access/Visa Expiry Date Signature. REP. TSI

THE MACMILLAN NURSE APPEAL EAST ANGLIA

ANNOUNCEMENTS

When you leave a legacy to CRMP, you leave behind a irving testament of care for people with cancer in the your money has helped to train. For more takermatic about our Macmillan Nurs Appeal or for a copy of our specially produced isafer. specially produced leaflet,
"Leave a Legacy of Bope"
write to CRMF.15 19 Bruies. Street Landon SW3 372. or phone on 071-351 7811.

and 'Aicohol Abuse' helped mulipos Pleasesupportus with a donation or legacy. We

ROYAL COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS IT IS A TORRAS PLETE LOTTED NIGHT HE

THE TIMES

CROSSWORD RANGE

BOOKS The First Book of The Sunday Times ConciseCrosswords NEW ..... Price £4.50 The Sunday Times Crosswords Book Tenby Barbara Hall NEW . . Price £4.99 The Fourteenth Book of The Times Crosswords by John Grant (Times Books) NEW
The Times Book of Jumbo Crosswords (Cryptic only)
The Second Book of The Times Jumbo Crosswords (second edition) by Edmund Akenhead
The Third Book of The Times Concise Crosswords by Margaret Webb (Times Books) NEW ..... Price £4.50 The First Book of The Times Concise Crosswords ...... The Second Book of The Times Concise Crosswords by Margaret Webb (Penguin Books).

SOFTWARE From Akom Limited, The Times Computer Crosswords by David Akenhead All NEW titles listed above have been added to the Computer Crossword range with inbuilt help levels. markers and spelling checks designed for beginners and experts alike, plus time facility and team option — for BBC Acom DFS 40/80 track, ADFS, Archimedes, A3000, A5000 IBM PC, Atari ST and Commodore Amiga on 3.5 and 5.25 disks

And introducing NEW, The Sunday Times Computer Crosswords volumes 1 & 2 Also in ALL the above formats - too Times Crosswords per volume) and for Amstrad CPC & PCW 3" -

The Times Computer Crosswords Volumes 1,2,3,4,5 & 6. The Times Jubilee Puzzles 1932-1987 (56 original Times crosswords).

EXCLUSIVE SOFTWARE OFFER

We are offering any two of the above titles for £15.50, or any single title for £8.95. Please note that for Commodore Amiga alone there are two consecutive volumes on each disk except for the NEW titles and the Jubilee collection. The price of the Amiga combination disk is £15.50. All pricer include postage and packing for UK only. Additional postage charges for EC member states, including irish Republic, add 75p per Hem. For rest of world add a further © (Hrst Rem only)

US dollar cheques welcome — (t.i = US$1.80) NOW NO SURCHARGE rend cheques or postal orders payable to Akom Ltd. Times Crossword Account to Akom Ltd.51 Manor Lune, London SE13 5QW Empairies. Eléchbone 661 852 4875 (open wechends). Please allow 14 days for delivery

CONCISE CROSSWORD NO 2841

Degree paper (6)
Check (4) Squeezed (5) Disabled person (7) Motionless (8 13 Summons (4) 15 Air (9) 19 Negligently carcless (8)22 Motorists' cinema (5-2) 23 Pollex (5) 24 Cattle group (4) 25 Water spirit (6) DOWN 2 Potato stem (5)

Cliff hollow (4) 6 Let go (7) Expect (5) 10 Boring (4) 12 Skeletal part (4) 14 Angel instrument (4) 15 Virus innoculation (7) 16 Happy (4) SOLUTION TO NO 2840

Hugh Town isles (6.7)

Droop (3)

ACROSS

ACROSS: 1 Frolic 4 Grocer 9 Cohabit 10 Durum 11 Cent 12 Regimen 14 Malevo-lence 18 Laconic 19 Duck 22 Drawl 24 Power up 25 Rem edy 26 Crayon

DOWN: I Fact 2 Ochre 3 In between 5 Rod 6 Ceramic 7 Remind 8 Stereoscope 11 Cam 13 Glendower 15 Acclaim 16 Elk 17 Glider 20 Carry 21 Spin 23 Lud

WINNING MOVE By Raymond Keene, Chess Correspondent Today's position is from the game Popov - Ruimin, Moscow 1925. Can you see black's brilliant finish? The key is the lineup of pieces on the h1-a8 diagonal. Solution below

Oxi3+i 3 Kxi3 Nxqk+ t kôt 9cg+ 2 kht Ni3 male. Solntion: pisok lonuq the pulliant conb 1 ... Pxi3: 3 8xi3

Our Personal Column focuses on a different theme for your private advertising every day. TUITION & COURSES TUESDAY HOBBIES & PASTIMES LIVESTOCK WEDNESDAY HOUSEHOLD CONTENTS THURSDAY FAMILY MATTERS

FRIDAY FOOD FOR THOUGHT

PRESENT SURPRISE

SALES, WANTS

FLATSHARE, RENTALS

SATURDAY SATURDAY SALES

MONDAY PATONIA University Appointments, Prep & Public School Appointments, Educa-tional Courses, Scholarships and Fellowships with editorial, LA CRÉME DE LA CRÉME: Scartinnal Appointments,

TUESDAY
LEGAL APPOINTMENTS: Solicitors,
Commercial Lawyers, Legal Officers,
Private & Public Practice with editorial.
PUBLIC APPOINTMENTS.
CREATIVE & MEDIA
APPOINTMENTS: with editorial. WEDNESDAY
LA CREME DE LA CREME: Secretarial Appointments, PROPERTY: Residential,
Town & Country, Oversen, Rentals COMMUNICATION OF THE PROPERTY: with editorial.

THURSDAY
GENERAL APPOINTMENTS: Manage-

GENERAL AFTOIN IMENTES MEMBER

ment, Engineering, Science & Technology, with editorial ACCOUNTANCY & FINANCE LA CRÉME DE LA
CRÉME: Secretarial Appointments.

SATURDAY REVIEW: OVERSEAS HOLDAYS.

If you would like to take advantage of our consecutive insertion plan, and save 25% please tick box. No advertisement can be accepted under these special terms unless pre-paid. Chaques should be made payable to Times Newspapers Limited or debit my: ACCESS VISA AMEX DINERS | Send to: Simon Goddard, Advertisament Managar, The Times, Tames Newspaper Ltd. PO Box 484. Virginia Street, London El 9BL. TELEPHONE 071 481 4000 FAX 37: 481 9315 or 071 782 7828

BBC1

6.00 Ceefax (41641) 6.30 BBC Breakfast News (50583486)
9.05 Bravestarr (r) (7560689) 9.25 Why Don't You...? Entertaining ideas for bored youngsters (r) (s) (8262196)
10.00 News, regional news and weather (4275221) 10.05 Playdays (r) (s) (8986738) 10.25 Double Dare. Adventure game show (r) (4158414) 10.45 The O Zone. Pop music magazine (s) (7082573)
11.00 News, regional news and weather (8965889) 11.05 The Flying Doctors (r). (Ceefax) (s) (7236757) 11.50 Cartoon (791595)
12.00 News, regional news and weather (5292486) 12.05 Summer Scene. Today's guests include Anthony Newley, Ion Pertwee and Torn Watt (8047202) 12.55 Regional News and weather (70047115)

1.00 One O'Clock News. (Ceefax) Weather (49937) 1.30 Neighbours. (Ceefax) (s) (19153318) 1.50 Eldorado (r). (Ceefax) (s) (99783405) 2.20 Over My Dead Bo Detective drama series starring Edward Woodward (r) (Ceefax) (s) (7632554) 3.10 Antiques Roadshow. Hugh Scully and his team visit Chippenham, Wiltshire (r). (Ceefax) (8280863)

visit Chippennam, vinishire (7). (Ceetax) (0,20060)

3.50 Tom and Jerry Triple Bill (6599047) 4.10 Attack of the Killer Tomatoes (7) (5) (2761405) 4.35 Tricky Business. Episode one of the comedy series about running a theatre, starring Bernie Clifton (7). (Ceefax) (5821689)

 (7). (Ceelax) (3021003)
 5.00 Newsround (9658738)
 5.10 Clowning Around. Last episode of the children's drama serial. (Ceefax) (8156399) 5.35 Neighbours (r) (Ceefax) (s) (838592). Northern Ireland: Inside

6.00 Six O'Clock News with Peter Sissons and Anna Ford. (Ceefax) Weather (467)

6.30 Regional News Magazines (937). Northern Ireland: Neighbours 7,00 Eldorado. (Ceefax) (s) (3912)

Diabetic footballer: Gary Mabutt, Lynn Redgrave (7.30pm)

7.30 Fighting Back. Senes in which well-known people talk about how they coped with losing their health. This week footballer Gary Mabutt, captain of Tottenham Hotspur, talks to Lynn Redgrave about his diabetes. (Ceefax) (s) (931)

8.00 Lovejoy. Ian McShane stars as the dodgy antiques dealer, in this episode being approached by a teenaged gri wanting to sell a collection of erotic drawings (r). (Ceefax) (932370)

8.50 Points of View presented by Anne Robinson (s) (688825)

9.00 Nine O'Clock News with Michael Buerk. (Ceefax) Regional news

and weather (6221)

9.30 CIA: Phoenix Rising.

 CHOICE: This eye-opening history of the Central Intelligence Agency reaches the Vietnam war. The CIA's main contribution was to set up and run the Phoenix programme, an attempt to smash the Vietcong command structure by picking off the people responsible for running the guerrilla war. The theory was to identify, capture and interrogate, with killing as a last resort. The practice was very different. Villages were targeted indiscriminately and the victims were often innocent bystanders. One of several disillusioned former CIA men interviewed for the film declares: "We were assassination squads." (Ceefax) (162221)

10.25 International Athletics. Highlights of the Nice grand prix (201844)

11.05 Film: Blazing Saddles (1974).

 CHOICE: Mel Brooks's western spoof is an exuberant mixture of jokes, good, bad and tasteless, incorporated into a scenario of undisciplined frenzy which fires off at all sorts of targets and manages to hit quite a few. The western genre certainly gets its comeuppance. Since Blazing Saddles it has been hard to take riously the staple plot of the reluctant sheriff and unre sidekick trying to dean up a corrupt town. Brooks injects a further element, making the sheriff (Cleavon Little) black and using the character to attack the Hollywood portrayal of black stereotypes. Blazing Saddles is, finally, a parody of film-making itself, as the cast bursts out of the fiction and into the streets of the real Hollywood. Gene Wilder plays the sidekick and another Brooks regular, Madeline Kahn, is a splendid seductress. (Ceefax) (269991)

12.35am Weather (4901448)

BBC2

6.4S Open University. Ends at 7.35
8.00 Breakfast News (9281554) 8.15 Westminster (3427283)
9.00 Favourite Things. Dame Judi Dench in conversation with Roy Plomley, his last television interview before his death (r) (70347)
9.30 Film: Tarzan and the Trappers (1958, b/w) staming Gordon Scott. The jungle hero becomes the prey of a party of big game hunters. Directed by Charles Haas and Sandy Howard (2900573)
9.35 Film: Contribute Contractors (1932) bids charges (1932) 10.35 Film: Captains Courageous (1937, b/w) starring Spencer Tracey, in an Oscar-winging role, and Freddie Bartholomew. A millionaire's spoiled son is saved from drowning by a poor fisherman. Directed by Victor Flaming (838) 1300.

by Victor Fleming (88850399)

12.30 A Living Antique. A profile of Hilliers of Hampshire, nurserymen to the Royal Family (r) (42134)

1.00 After Hours. Entertainment magazine (42933660) 1.20 Henry's Cat (r) (48446478) 1.25 Fireman Sam (r) (55411028) 1.35

Discovering Portuguese (r) (99764370)

2.00 News and weather (63479860) followed by The Real Food of China (61042844) 2.25 Holiday Outings. A fly/drive trip to Donegal (r) (56724937) 2.35 Country File (r) (4828912)

3.00 News and weather (4065757) 3.05 Westminster Live (7544467)

3.50 News, regional news and weather (6104467)
4.00 Film: Each Dawn I Die (1939, bw) starring James Cagney and George Raft. An investigative reporter uncovers political corruption and is sent to prison on a trumped-up manslaughter charge.
Directed by Milliam Keisbler (4.4.2021) and is sent to prison on a trumped-up manslaughter charge. Directed by William Keighley (2429825)

5.25 Film: Easy To Love (1953) starring Esther Williams and Van Johnson. Spectacular Busby Berkeley aquatic musical directed by Charles Walters (35352912)

7.00 DEF It: Rough Guides to Caroers. Raj Dhanda and Danielle Lux investigate the law and order job scene (r) (805641)

7.40 Birthrights. What impact did operation Desert Storm have on British Arab consciousness? (Ceefax) (228912)

8.10 States of Mind: The Hurting Church.

■ CHOICE: Another sixe of life from the United States, captured in a collaboration between the BBC and an American television a collaboration between the BBC and an American television station, focuses on a Christian fundamentalist church in West Virginia. It is easy to mock the institution. The preacher wears the loudest jacket since Max Miller and the worship borders on mass hysteria. But without the church many of the flock would have nothing to sustain them. They are America's poor whites, living in makeshift hornes and kept going by social welfare. Despite much evidence to the contrary they are convinced the good Lord will provide and amid much singing and sobbing they meet to give thanks. (Ceefax) (936196)

Baby love: Jane Horrocks fights to retain custody (9.00pm)

9.00 ScreenPlay: Bad Girl.

CHOICE: Guy Hibbert's drama is drawn from real cases and is about a single mother's fight to prevent her baby being taken into care. Since the woman lives on a houseboat and leaves the child in the erratic charge of boyfriends, the social services department has a point. Its judgment seems further vindicated when, amid her efforts to show that she is a responsible parent, the mother has a casual affair and gets pregnant again. Yet Hibbert's scenario is dearly meant to elicit sympathy for the woman and without some sympathy there is not much to hold the attention. Helped by a ribrant performance from Jane Horrocks, Hibbert just about gets away with it. (Ceefax) (9235134)

10.15 ScreenPlay Firsts: Saints and Scholars. Donal McCann stars as a Roman Catholic priest whose dreams of pomp and supernatural power seem to come true (474370) 10.30 Newsnight (368363) 11.15 Rhythms of the World. Valerio Longoria and Steve Jordan in concert (s) (210450) 11.55 Weather (124486)

12.00 Open University: Caribbean Poetry (1128622) 12.25am Film: Secret Beyond the Door (1948, b/w) starring Joan Bennett and Michael Redgrave. Drama about an heiress who marries after a whirlwind romance and discovers that her husband has a chilling secret. Directed by Fritz Lang (208790)

2.00 The Road to the White House. Live coverage of the Democratic party convention in New York (20554871). Ends at 4.05

6.00 TV-am (3627931) se. Phone-in game show with cash prizes hosted by Neil Buchanan (s) (1353979) 9.55 Tha

ITV

10.00 Out of This World. American comedy series about a teenage girl who inherits her alien father's supernatural powers (r) (s) (6499689) 10.25 Wowser. Animation (6492776) 10.55 News (2833080) 11.00 Ox Tales. Two animated tales of Office the Ox (2850757) 11.25 Just

For the Record. Spectacular feats from around the world (r) (9079399) 11.50 Thames News (5587202) 11.55 Cartoon Time (6365216) 12.10 Allsorts. Young children's entertainment 12.30 Lunchtime News with Nicholas Owen and Sonia Ruseler. (Oracle)

Weather (3860776) 1.05 Tharnes News (23217196)
1.15 Home and Away. Australian family drama serial. (Oracle) (549509) 1.45 A Country Practice, Medical drama serial set in the (549509) 1.45 A Country Practice. Medical drama serial set in the Australian outback (s) (494450)

2.15 Graham Kerr. The cook prepares venison with spiced pears (349301) 2.45 Take the High Road. Drama serial set in the Highlands (4844950)

3.10 TN News headlines (4076863) 3.15 Thames News headlines (4076134) 3.20 The Young Doctors. Drama series set in a large Australian city hospital (7452370)

3.50 Carboon Time (6124221) 3.55 Scooby Doo (r) (6583486) 4.15 Hulk Hopary's Rock (r) Wrestling Approach (2755844) 4.40

Hulk Hogan's Rock 'n' Wrestling. Animation (2755844) 4.40
Fun House. Slapstick game show (r) (8802318)
5.10 Blockbusters. General knowledge quiz game for teenagers, presented by Bob Holness (4510450)

5.40 Early Evening News with John Suchet. (Oracle) Weather

5.55 Thames Help (r) (315592)

6.30 Home and Away (r) (Oracle) (863)
6.30 Thames News. (Oracle) (115)
7.00 Take Your Pick. Des O'Connor with another round of the yes/no game show (s) (8080) 7.30 Coronation Street. (Oracle) (399)

8.00 Hope it Rains. Comedy series starring Tom Bell as the irascible owner of a waxworks in a run-down seaside resort and Holly Aird. as his headstrong god-daughter. (Oracle) (s) (4028) 8.30 Land of Hope and Gloria. Sheila Ferguson stars as the American efficiency expert brought in to bring order to an English stately home enterprise. With Andrew Bicknell and Joan Sanderson (6863)

Whodunit? Deborah Raffin and Anthony Andrews (9.00pm)

9.00 Film: Sparkling Cyanide (1983) starring Anthony Andrews and Deborah Raffin. An Agatha Christie mystery about the death of the philandering wife of a successful lawyer, killed by cyanide at a dinner celebrating her wedding anniversary. Directed by Robert Michael Lewis. (Oracle) (Continues after the news) (4252) 10.00 News at Ten with Trevor McDonald and Carol Barnes. (Oracle)

Weather (11776) 10.30 Thames News (912283) 10.40 Film: Sparkling Cyanide commued (107689)

11.35 Film: Bite the Bullet (1975) starring Gene Hackman, James Coburn and Candice Bergen. Western adventure, set in 1908, about the contestants in a 700-mile endurance horse race. Directed by Richard Brooks (50508399) 2.15 Hollywood Report. Movie gossip (s) (33429)

2.45 America's Top Ten (s) (52500) 3.15 Videofashion, Italian designers (39438662)

3.40 Quiz Night. Inter pub and cub competition (40527413)
4.10 Grand Ole Opry. Country and western music from Nashville, Tennessee (r) (82701142)

4.40 Fifty Years On (b/w). Vintage news clips (32315239) 5.00 Three's Company. American comedy series (33968) 5.30 ITN Morning News with Tim Nelson (53603)

CHANNEL 4

6.00 Channel 4 Daily (3625573)
9.25 Elly and Jools. Last in the comedy senes about a schoolboy with a girl ghost as a friend (r) (1320641)
9.50 The Henderson Kids. Australian family drama serial (r) (2510573)
10.15 Gustav Invites Guests. Animation from Hungary (4254738)
10.25 Film: Arsène Lupin (1932, b/w) starring John Barrymore and Lionel Barrymore. Comedy crime caper set in Paris about a policeman given one week to capture a gendeman thief. Directed by Jack Conway (88869047)
12.10 The Parillament Programme presented by Anne Perkins (18689)

125

1 (1) m

by Jack Conway (88869047)

12.00 The Parliament Programme presented by Anne Perkins (18689)

12.30 Noah's Ark. The wildlife of Peru's Paracas peninsula (r) (37202)

1.00 Sesame Street. Pre-school learning series (r) (32757)

2.00 The Big Parade of Connedy (1964, b/w). A compilation of clips from MGM cornecies, produced by Robert Youngson (514009)

3.35 The Three Stooges in Idiots Deluce (b/w) (6687660)

4.00 In Search of Scotland's Larder. The first in a series of six programmes in which Derek Cooper combs Scotland for good food (r) (888)

4.30 Countdown. Another round of the words and numbers game (s) as

4.30 Countdown. Another round of the words and numbers game (s) p

(912)
5.00 The Oprah Winfrey Show. The hostess reads some of the more unusual of the 4,000 letters she receives each week (s) (7765757)
5.55 Laurel and Hardy. Cartoon (313134)
6.00 Kate and Allie. More comedy from the Greenwich Village divorcées. Starring Susan Saint James and Jane Curtin. (Teletext) (405)

6.30 Tour de France. Stage 11 — Strasbourg to Mulhouse, a distance of 250km (757)

7.00 Channel 4 News with Dermot Mumaghan and Zernab 8adaw in 7.00 Channel 4 News with Dermot Mumaghan and Zernab 8adaw in London and Jon Snow at the Democratic convention in New York

(Teletext) Weather (450115)
7.50 Party Political Comment from a Labour party politician (669405)
8.00 Brookside. Soap set in suburban Merseyside. (Teletext) (s) (5370)
8.30 Check Out 92 presented by Mike Embley. A report on two different schemes which seem to give landowners and farmers money for nothing (s) (912776)

9.00 Out. Magazine series on gay and lesbian issues. This week Stand on Your Man finds 1,000 cowgirls enjoying country and western music, and Double the Trouble, Twice the Fun looks at gays and lebians with disabilities. (Teletext) (200554) 10.00 The Golden Girls. More comedy with the four Miami matrons, this week joined by Nancy Walker as Sophia's sister Angela (r). (Teletext) (19318)

10.30 Absolutely. Comedy sketches (r). (Teletext) (s) (615283)

A musical legend: rock 'n' roller Chuck Berry (11.05pm)

11.05 Mojo Working. Featuring Chuck Berry (s) (377196)
11.30 Sticky Moments On Tour With Julian Clary (r) (s) (419221)
12.20am Four-Martions UK. Three animated horror stories — The Metamorphosis of Mr Samsa, The Tell-Tale Heart and The Golem (5802326)

12.40 Films Blind Alley (1939, b/w) starring Raiph Bellamy. Thriller about an escaped killer who holds a psychologist and his family hostage. Directed by Charles Vidor (4686993). Ends at 1.55

VideoPius+ and the Video PiusCodes

The numbers now appearing next to each TV programme Issuing are Video PiusCode™ numbers, which allow you to programme your video necorder instantly with a VideoPius+ Pius handset. VideoPius+ can be used with most wideos. Tap in the Video PiusCode for the programme you wish to record. For more details call VideoPius on 0639 121204 (calls charged at 45p per minute peak, 35p off-peak) or write to VideoPius+ Videopius+ Videopius+ (™), Piuscode (™) and Video Programmer are trademarks of Gernstar Marketing Ltd.

SATELLITE

SKY ONE Via the Astra and Marcopolo satellites Via the Astra and Marcopolo satellites
 8.00am The DI Kat Show (92497134) 8.40
 Mrs Pepperpol (8155221) 8.55 Playabout
 17986283) 9.10 Cartoons (1804486) 9.30
 The Pyramid Game (80318) 10.00 Let's
 Make à Deal (22979) 10.30 The Bold and the Beautiful (34641) 11.00 The Young and the Restless (3957) 12.00 St Eisewhere (63641)
 1.00pm E Screet (446891) 1.30 Geraldo: High Ferformance Occupations (95592) 2.30
 Another World (3206738) 2.15 The Brady Border (660931) 3.45 The DJ Kat Show Another World (3/26/78) 3.13 The Brady Bride (56/931) 3.45 The DJ Fat Show (516/2047) 5.00 Facts of Life: Born Too Late (4660) 5.30 Driffrent Strokes (1825) 6.00 Love at First Sight (8738) 6.30 E Street (2316) 7.00 Alf (1196) 7.30 Candid Camera (1202) 8.00 Battlestar Galactica (20950) 9.00 Chances (17466) 10.00 Studs (59950) 10.30 Dorter Doctor Orld Man in 19537(0) 10.30 Doctor, Doctor: Odd Man In (35370) 11.00 Tatunger's (21738) 12.00 Skytext

SKY NEWS 9 Via the Astra and Mercopolo satellitus News on the hour. 6.00em Sunrae (6098738) 9,30 Nightine (71660) 10,00 Dayline (13221) 10,30 Fashon TV (98699) 11,30 Japan Busness Today (3383738) 11,45 International Busness Today (3383738) 11,45 International Busness Today (3383738) 11,45 International Busness Morning America (92405) 1,30 Good Morning America (93134) 2,30 Parliament Live (3297080) 3,15 Parliament Live (634660) 4,30 Fashion TV (8115) 5,00 Live at Five (99134) 6,30 Newsline (95954) 8,30 Fashon TV (1028) 1,30 Newsline (86467) Fashion TV (91028) 10.30 Newsline (86467) Newsine (69968) 1.30 ABC News (1852) 2.30 Beyond 2000 (30326) 3.30 ABC News (35871) 4.30 Beyond 2000 (37332) 5.30 Newsine (78451)

SKY MOVIES+

Wis the Astra and Marcopolo satellites 6.00sm Showcase (3558405) 10.00 Carmonball Fever (1989): Comedy

about a coast-to-coast car race (89950)

2.00pm Fest Charlie, the Moonbeam Rider (1979): David Carradine enters a long-distance bike race (98775) 4.00 Mountain Family Robinson (1979). Wildernes adventure (5399) 6.00 Cannonball Fever (as 10am)

8.00 Blue Heat (1990): A narcosics squad is suspended from duty (26134) 10.00 Maniac Cop 2 (1990), The psychotic law enforcer returns (89825) 11.30 Afternoon (1989): Erotic thriller

11.30 Artematic (1989); Erob; Innier (81621) 1.05am Eve of Destruction (1990); A military android goes haywire (124790) 2.45 Any Man's Death (1990); John Savage (into a Naz war crimmal (520806) 4.30 Nightmare (1991); Viciona Principal's daughter is indhapped (32887), Ends at 6.00 THE MOVIE CHANNEL

O Vig the Astra and Marcopolo satellites 6.15am Flesh and Fantasy (1943, blw): Three strange tales (463931)

8.15 April Morning (1968), American revolution drama (49799134)

10.00 The Davil at 4 O'Clock (1961), Spencer Tracy and Frank Santra light to save a leper colony (36547370)

12.15pm Courage Mountain (1990), Continuing adventures of Hedi (829573)

2.15 Doel of Hearts (1990); Barbara Cartland romance (816009)

4.15 A Billion for Boris (1984), A to set shows tomorrow's programmes (704825) shows tomorrow's programmes (7048.75) 6.15 The Hound of the Baskervilles (1959) Peter Cushing stars as Sheriock Holmes (77.4580) Holmes (724689) 8.15 Parenthood (1989). Sieve Martin stars an over-protective father (74445202) 0.25 Somebody Has to Shoot the cture (1990): A photo-journalist docu-

(507448)
2.10 The Guardian (1990): Jenny Seagrove stars as an eni nanny (273871)
3.45 Children of Sanchez (1979), Anthony Ourno plays a benevolent family man (520852) Ends at 5.40

THE COMEDY CHANNEL

● Via the Astra satallite 4.00pm Lif Ed (2979) 4.20 Punky Brewster (1853) 5.00 Green Acres (5950) 5.90 The Lucy Show (2115) 6.00 Lif Behedere (9026) 6.30 Three's Company (3020) 7.00 Design-ing Viornet (2-36) 7.30 (Jobale's Nary ing Yomen 12436; 7.30 Tablaie's Nasy (2592) 8.00 Doctor, Doctor (1133) 8.30 Working it Out 137111 9.00 Hogan's Herces (72863) 9.30 Mr Belvedere (63950) 10.00

t car race (88950) Kids in the Hall (38592) 10.30-11.00 lens (1990): Martians McHale's Navy (14912)

Via the Astra and Marcopolo satellites 6.30am Morning Stretch (64979) 7.00 American Sports Cavalcade (91757) 8.00

 Via the Astra satellite Furosport News (39283)

Via the Astra satellite
 7.00am Eurobes (69912) 7.30 Ress (88047)
 8.00 Longnude (83028) 8.30 Danong
 (93863) 9.30 Go — Motosport (57844)
 10.30 Eurobes (95863) 11.00 Snooker
 Classes (74592) 1.00gm Olympic Preview
 (85793) 2.00 Eurobes (1047) 2.30 DTM

 Via the Astra satellite
 10.00am Getting Fit with Denise Austin (31641) 10.30 Jokers VAId (9573660) 10.55 Search for Tomorrow (9598979) 11.25 Th Joan Rivers Show (8097028) 12.10pm Sal Search for formorew (959899/9) 11.25 Topon Sally Joan Rews's Show (807028) 12.10pon Sally lessy Raphael (7676318) 1.00 Lunchbox (33979) 1.30 Sella-Vikion (85757) 2.00 Pafferny's Rules (32370) 3.00 Women of the "Yorld (8950) 3.30 Tea Break (464115) 3.40 Philis (3459467) 4.10 Duke Van Duke (39979) 1.30 Sell-a-Vixon (85757) 2.00 Pafferny's Rules (32370) 3.00 Women of the World (8950) 3.30 Tea Breat -4641153 3.40 Phylis (3459467) 4.10 Dick Van Dyke Show (3487234) 4.40 Jackpot (9411318) 6.00 Selly Jessy Raphael (151157 2.00 Sell-a-Vision (589196) 10.00 Music Videos (8670318) 2.00-3.00am Last Dance (27142)

RADIO 5

RADIO 5

Mews and sport on the hour until 7.00pm.
Subam World Service Newshour 6.30 Darryy
Baller's Morring Edition 9.30 Decisions
alson Matters 1.00 News Update 1.10 EPBS Worldwide: Smoot and the Squad 2.30 School, with Ross I sing 4.30 Fire Aside 7.15 Goodingth Mr Tomt Going Shopping David by reads Michelle Magonan's novel 31 of 101 7.30 Fitters Love, by the Tight Assets the Company ser at Tapley Hall tenes school (4 of 6) 8.00 Adhletes: Nivala Mobil ling at Nice 10.10 Hit the North, not 11.00 Sport 12.60-12.10am News, Sport

VARIATIONS ANGLIA

As London except 10.00am-10.25 Adventures on kythera (5499589) 2.15-3.45 Gardening Time (349301) 6.25-7.00 Anglia News (869554) BORDER As London except: 10.00am-10.25 Adventures on Kythera (6499689) 2.10-3.10 The Silk Road (5828757) 5.10-5.40 Home

The Silk Road (5828757) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4510450) 6.00 Lociaround Wednesday (853) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (115) 11.30 Mamed...with Children (80979) 12.00 The Young Rides (6969177) 12.55 Donahue (7715581) 1.50 CinemAttractions (6197581) 2.30 The Truth About Women (2194413) 2.50 Film: The Gendame of St. Tropez (987697) 4.35 About Britain (57212968) 5.00-5.30 Jobfunder (33968)

CENTRAL CENTRAL
As London except: 10.00am-10.25 Adventures on Kythera (6495689) 1.13 A Country Practice (549509) 1.45 Home and Away (49450) 2.15 Gardening Time (5837405) 2.45-3.10 The Young Doctors (4844950) 3.20-3.50 Take the High Road (7452370) 6.25-7.00 Central News (677844) 11.35 Shady Tales (978134) 11.50 Night Heat (909405) 1.40 Schimanski (113719) 3.25 Rhythm and Roag (493330180) 3.55 291 Club (7123871) GRANADA

As London except: 10.00xxx-10.25 Adventures on Kythera (5499689) 2.15-2.45
An Invitation to Remember (Google Withers, John McCallum) (349301) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4510450) 6.00 Blockfusters (863) 6.30-7.00 Granada Tonight (115) 11.95 Coach (366298) 12.00 The Young Riders (6969177) 12.55 Donahue (77 15581) 1.50 ChremAttractions (6197581) 2.20 The Truth About Women (2194413) 2.90 First The Serviceme of St Transor (77) 55551 4 78 The Gendame of St Tropez (710595) 4.30 About Britam (50177) 5.00-5.30 Jobfinder

HTV WEST As London except: 10.00em-10.25 Adventures on Kythera (6499689) 1.45-2.15 The Young Doctors (494450) 3.20-3.50 A Country Practice (7452370) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4510450) 6.00 HTV News (863) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (115)

HTV WALES As HTV West except: 6.00pm-6.30 Wales at Six

As London secret: 10,00sm-10.25 Ad As London except: 10.00xxxx10.25 Ab-ventures on Kythera (6499589) 2.45-3.10 The Yosing Doctors (4844950) 3.18-3.50 Home and Away (349365) 5.10-6.40 Take the High Boad (4510450) 6.00 TSW Today (863) 6.30-7.00 Blockhusters (115) 11.35 Alfred Hitchcock Presents (366298) 12.00

The Young Riders (6969177) 12.55 Donahue (7715581) 1.50 OpemAttractions S4C

As London except: 5,10pm-5.40 Home and Away (4510450) 6.00 Coast to Coast (863) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (115)

TYNE TEES
As London except: 10,00am;10,25 Adventures on Kythera (5499689) 5,10-5,40 Home and Away (4510450) 6,00 Northern Life (863) 6,90-7,00 Blockbusters (115) 11,35 The Royal Show (366298) 12,00 The Young Riders (5963177) 12,55 Donahus (7715581) 1,50 CinemAttractions (5197581) 2,20 The Truth About Women (2194413) 2,30 Film: The Gendame of 51 Tropet (967697) 4,35 About Britain (5721968) 5,00-8,30 Jobfinder (33968)

YORKSHIRE

Starts Gutam (4 Day) (3625/7) 9.25 Bly and Jook (1344221) 9.55 Star Test (8987270) 16.25 Fim. Arsens Lupin (88869047) 12.00 The Parliament, Pro-gramme (18689) 12.30 News (79029009) 12.35 Sot Methan (7841221) 1.00 Fifteen to One (97757) 1.30 Nosh's Ark (36573) 2.00 Bush Tucker Man (5134) 2.30 Fier: Brands For the Barsen (2006821) 2 En Silver Brands For the Barsen (2006821) 2 En Silver

SUCCESSFUL

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN FROM BRITAIN'S TOP TUTORS

BE A

The Writing School shows you how to write articles, short stories, novels, romances, radio and TV scripts. And at the same time you learn how to write them, you learn how to sell them!

Top professional writers give you individual tuition as you work through the School's comprehensive home-study course. You get personal tips that have taken the pro's years to evolve and which are passed on with astonishing results. You earn as you learn! THE RESULTS PROVE IT!

Your Writing School tutor will give you advice on the selling process. A few hours each day, or each week-choose your own pace-and real writing success can be yours! With acceptances to prove it!

WHAT'S MORE - YOU CAN'T LOSE!

f you have not recovered the cost of your tuition by the time you have completed your course, your less will be refunded! Send off now for our FREE book that tells you about "Writing for Pleasure and Profit" and details of our FREE 15-day trial offer. No stamp needed.

FREE CALL 0800 282 468 (24 hour service) THE WRITING SCHOOL

FREEPOST E84, LONDON N8 OBR

American Sports Cavalizade (91757) 8.00 Muscle Night 192486) 9.00 Moming Streich (75009) 9.30 Motor Cyling Hungarian Grand Prix (78028) 11.30 Moming Streich (35318) 12.00 The Footballer's Football Show (2622) 1.00pm Super Trax (85711) 2.00 Ringside Theatre (49660) 3.00 Insh Masters Smooker (873592) 6.00 Supercoss (22405) 7.00 Watersports World (44554) 8.00 Brachart Football Cup Final (64318) 10.00 Australian Rugby Lesque (38405) 12.00 Fishing the West (30790) 12.30-2.30am Brazilam Football Cup Final (98581) EUROSPORT

 Via the Astra satellite
 8.00am Cycling (87554) 9.00 Tenns
150776) 11.00 Golf (78318) 1.00pm Tennis
(42318) 2.30 Cycling (33793689) 4.10
Tennis (82914554) 6.00 Cycling (4318) 6.30
Eurospor News (8370) 7.00 Athletics (8151134) 10.30 Motor Racing: British Grand Pro. Analysis (78554) 11.30-12.00
Eurosport News (8376) 4.00
Eurosport News (8376) 7.00
Eurosport News ( SCREENSPORT

(85793) 2.00 Eurobics (1047) 2.30 DTM — German Youning Cars (49028) 3.30 Top Rark Bouring (45080) 5.00 1992 Pro Superbite (2599) 5.30 Dutch Open Bonding Alasters (52221) 6.30 Athletics (57047) 7.30 The Ultimate Challenge (72592) 8.30 Grundig Global Adventure Sport (6478) 9.00 US PGA Your 1992 (3268950) 10.15 Golf Report (669486) 10.30-12.30am Major League Raseball (15572)

LIFESTYLE

FM Stereo and MW. 4.00em Bruno Brookes (FM only) with The Early Breakfact Show 6.00 Simon 1/Jayo 9.00 Bates's Nates Joe Blook 11.00 Radio 1 FM Roadshow from Queen's Links, Aberdeen 12.30pm Newsbear 12.45 Lyrin Parsons 3.00 Steve Vinght in the Astignion 6.00 Mark Gooder's Mega Hits 6.30 News 192 7.00 Mark Gooder's Evening Sesson 9.00 The Man Early Surface Show 10.00 Nacky Campbell Goes into the Plight 12.00-4.00am Bob Harns (FM only)

PADIO 2

FM Steres. 4.00am Alex Lester The Early Show 6.15 Pause for Thought 6.30 Brain Hought 9.30 Chris Stuart 11.30 Jimmy Young 2.00pm Gloria Humilion 4.30 Estewart 5.05 John Dunn 7.00 Pep Score 7.30 Celhic Horizons 8.00 Jim Lloyd with 7.00 and 2.9.00 Nigel Ogder The Organis Entertains, 9.45 Beryl Red in Conversation with Skia Phulips (Alexandria 10.00 In Good Voice, Stories and Scenes Maddy Prior of Steeleye Span explores a cappella singing (2.0 ft in 10.30 The Jameson's Fing Ellen and Derek Jameson on 071-306 0.222 from 10pm 12.05em Jazz Parade, Campbell Burnap presents music from Lamny Morgan 12.35 Steve Madden with Paght Ride 3.00-4.00 A Little Night Music

WORLD SERVICE

WORLD SERVICE

All times in BST, 4.30am Wews, Sport 12.66-12.10am Mews, Authority 1 Runaways 1.00 Vents News 1.09 News Scott Britain 1.15 Multistack 2 1.45 Soorts Recording 2.00 Newshour 3.00 Vents News 3.05 Cuttop Line 3.30 Off the Shelf According to Mark 3.45 Recording of the Wieek 4.00 World News 4.15 88C English 4.30 News According of the Wieek 4.00 World News 4.15 88C English 5.30 Londres Son 6.14 Look Ahead 6.20 Vents Record 6.29 News Summary 6.30 Heute Altruel 7.00 German Features 7.56 News in German 8.00 World News 9.05 The World Today 9.25 Worlds of Faith 9.30 Mendian 10.00 Newshout 11.00 News 11.09 News Both Britain 11.15 Network UK 11.45 Sports Roundup Midnight News 12.05am World Business Report 12.15 Mark Renew 1.00 Newsdesh 1.30 The Musician's Musician 2.00 News 2.05 Cutbook 2.30 Seven Seas 2.45 Global Concerns 3.00 Newsdesh 2.30 The Runawars 4.00 Newsdesh 2.30 Feath 4.15 Sports Roundup

burg Concerto No 1 in F) 9.00 Composers of the Weel: The Court of Frederick the Great. Franz Benda (Ruze Concerto in G: Neil McLaren; Cambridge Baroque Camerata), Janisto (Quartet in F: Pamassus Ensemble); C.P.E. Bach (Hansichord Concepto in G. misor. Wa 6:

Concerto in G minor, Wq 6: Gerald Hambitzer, Concerto 10.00 Midweek Choice, with Susan Sharpe. Schumann (Manfred Overture, Op 115: Cleveland Orchestra under George Sze Monteverdi (Laetatus sum, Vespers of 1610: Mannella Pennicchi, soprano; Anne Monoyios, soprano; Mark Tucker and Nigel Robson, tenors; Alastair Miles, bass; Monteverdi Choir; London Oratory Junior Choir; His Majesties Sagbutts and Cornetts; English Baroque Soloists under John Eliot Gardiner); Dominic Muldowney (Saxophone Concerto: John Harle, alto savoohone: London Satophone, London Sinfonietta under Diego Masson); Bruckner (Motet, Ecce sacerdos magnus: Graham Chamber, Jeremy Gough and Martin Kelly, trombones; Thomas Trotter, proper proper proper under organ; Corydon Singers under Matthew Best); Beethoven, transo: List! (Symphony No 3, Eroica, Finale: Cyprien Katsans, piano) O Live from Cheltenham: The last of six programmes from o Live from Chettenham: The last of six programmes from this year's festival from the Pitwile Pump Room. Chilinginian Quartet, comprising Levon Chilinginian and Mark Buffer, violins, Louise Williams, viola, Philip de Groote, cello, with Kim Sargeant, handbells, performs Haydn (Quartet in E flat, Op 64 No 6): Bantók (Quartet No 64 No 6); Bartok (Quartet No 4), 11.45 Chris Eldon-Lee talks to Laune Lee about his three autobiographical works: Cider with Rosie, As I Walked Out One Midsummer Morning and

COMPILED BY PETER DEAR AND GILLIAN MAXEY TV CHOICE PETER WAYMARK/RADIO CHOICE KENNETH GOSLING

(2194413) 2.50 Film; The Gendamie of St. Tropez (710595) 4.30 About British (50177) 5.00-5.30 Jobfinder (33968)

TVS TYNE TEES

YOKKSHIKC: As London except: 10.00em-10.25 Heid in Town (5499669) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4510450) 6.00 Calendar (863) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (115) 11.30 The Equalizer (403931) 12.25 Mem (667-6784) 1.20 Profile (4366603) 1.40 Hollywood Report (3939603) 2.10 American (Backators (5135500) 2.05 Quic Night (19979887) 3.35 Mixik Box (2589351) 4.35-5.30 Joblinder

2.00 Bush Tucher Marx (51.34) 2.30 Film: Brandy For the Parson (2995931) 3.50 Film: Scroope (4804573) 5.10 The Oprah Wintrey Show (7204080) 6.00 Brookside (405) 6.30 Tour de France (293737) 7.05 News (958028) 7.15 Herio (537738) 8.00 Ar Y Tir (5370) 8.30 News (170221) 8.55 Y Cymro Cryfa (140080) 9.25 Taro 9 (921318) 9.35 Film: The Conversation (56521950) 12.00 The Black Bag (50516) 12.30am Out (6538719) 1.25 Close

RTE 1

RTE 1
Starts 1.20pm News (32544573) 1.25
Otreachtas Report (66450080) 1.45 Earth
Journal (22911134) 2.05 The Cedar Tree
(9448573) 3.00 International Showjumping
(9480757) 5.00 Arctic Odyssey (6974912)
6.00 The Angelus (5893509) 6.01 Six-One
(5674592) 6.30 Arma of the Five Towns
(1083467) 7.30 Arma of the Five Towns
(1083467) 7.30 Against the Odds
(5661028) 8.00 News (3508318) 9.20
Where In Profile (6172931) 9.30 Film
Tequila Suntise (7566134) 11.50 News
(3477318) 12.00 Close

RADIO 3

6.55am Weather
7.00 On Air: Chris de Souza presents music, news, weath and headlines from the arts world. Including at 7.44 Franck (Symphonic Variations and at 8.40 Back (Brandenbus Concerts No.1 in El A Moment of War. 12.00 Tavener (The Last Sleep of the Virgin); Haydn (Quartet in D. Op 71 No 2) 1.00pm News 1.05 BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra under David Orchestra under David Robertson performs Stravinsky (Ballet, Agon); Martini) Unitermezzo for orchestra);
Dvořák (Symphorny No 6 in D)
2.30 Debussy (Suite bergamasque;
La plus que lertie; Images, Set
1: Kathyn Stott, piano) (r)
3.10 Vimtage Years: Brahms (Piano
Quintet in F minor, Op 34:
Sviatoslav Richter; Borodin Quartet)

Quarter)
4.00 Choral Evensong, live from Winchester Cathedral
5.00 In Tune: Music, news and weather, presented by Andrew Green, whose guest is John Drummond, director of 7.30 Spirit of the Earth: Recorded in concert on Monday, the Aref Ensemble from Iran under Parviz Meshkatian performs music from the classical music from the classical tradition. The singer All Reza Eftekhari performs with ney (flute), samtur (zither), tar (lute), kemenche (fiddle) and drums. 8.30 The War Machine. In the past 100 years, conceptions of machinery and madness have converged. Daniel Pick investigates (r). 8.50 A concert recorded earlier this evening in the Adrian Bouth Hall of the Birmingham Conservatoire. The ensemble Puspa Nugraha, led by Uking Sukri, plays gamelan music from Sunda in the western part of Java Utrecht Early Music 10.00 Utrecht Early Music Festival: Freiburg Baroque Orchestra under Thomas Hengebrock, with Bart von Hongebrack, with Bart von Oort, forteplano, performs Boccherin (Symphony In Concerto No 12 in A, K 414); Mozart (Symphony No 40 in Gminor, K 550), Including at 10.85 interval reading

10.45 interval reading 11.30 News
11.35-12.35am Composers of the Week Weber (Overture, Preciosa; Piano Sonata No 4 In E minor, Non paventar mia vita, Ines de Castro; Horn Conscribe.

Concertino, Op 45) (r)

RADIO 4 (s) Stereo on FM.

5.55am Shipping Forecast 6.00
News Briefing, incl 6.03
Weather 6.10 Farming Today
6.25 Prayer for the Day 6.30
Today, incl 6.30, 7.00, 7.30,
8.00, 8.30 News 6.55, 7.55
Weather 7.45 Thought for the Day 8.40 Yesterday in Parliament 8.58 Weather
9.00 News Robin Māler's drama. Tyler (Joris Stuyck) prepares for the air display celebrations which mark the fiftieth analysesary of the Americans joining the war.
His wife, Debra (Jennifer Ehle), $\infty$ is haunted by premonitions and by the warnings of a strange woman (s)

2.47 Dust Devils: The Snake-9.00 News 9.05 Midwer charmer's Daughter. The second of six tales of North-Africa by Vaughan Purvis (r).

3.42 The Parts, with Sue Nelson 4.00 News.

9.05 Midweek
10.00-10.30 News: The Odd Couple (FM only)

O CHOICE: It was only recently that Billy Lambert found out that birds actually sing. Having been profoundly deaf since the age of five when he contracted meningits, Billy lives in a silent world and this programme describes his relationship over the past five years with Doris Moreton, his interpreter, as he goes about his work as regional officer for the Royal National Institute for the Royal goes about ris work as regional officer for the Royal National institute for the Deaf. It is impossible not to be moved and impressed, as well as amused, by this extraordinary partnership. Well worth your attention if only for the story of Billy's car alarm (s)

10.00 Daily Service (LW only)
10.15 The Bible (LW only). The First Letter of Paul to the Corinthians 10.30 Woman's Hour: Jenni Murray talks to eight leading woman from the arts and literature, science and public life, who have just been awarded honorary degrees by St Andrews University, Ind 11.30 News
11.30 Gardeners' Question Time from the Royal Show in Soneleigh, Warwickshire (r)
12.00 You and Yours, with Debbie Thrower
12.25pm Georgy Girl: Fairytales

Thrower 12.25pm Georgy Girl: Fairytales Can Corne True. The stath and final adaptation by Joe Dunlon of Margaret Forster's novel (s) 12.55 Weather 1.00 The World at One, with James Nauohtie James Naughtie 1.40 The Archers (r) 1.55 Shipping 2.00 News; Anniversary: The second and final episode of

3.42 The Parts, with Sue Nelson
4.00 News
4.00 News
4.00 News
4.00 Kaleidoscope visits two exhibitions of motor-cycle designs; meets band Hiscock, the official Olympic artist; and reviews the film, My Cousin Vinny (s)
4.45 Short Story: The Tablecoth Trick, by Ben Chant. Read by Eric Loren
5.00 PM 5.50 Shipping Forecast
5.55 Weather
6.00 Six O'Clock News
6.30 Brain of Britain 1992: First Round — Wales, Robert Robinson chairs the nationwide general knowledge (contest (s) (r)
7.00 News 7.05 The Anchers.
7.20 Costing the Earth:
Environmental magazine (r)
7.45 Medicine Now, with Geoff
Watts (r)
8.15 Age to Age (r)
8.45 Refer 1: Watts (1)
8.15 Age to Age (1)
8.45 Brief Livies: Another County, Joanna Buchan presents the final collection of remarkable

- CU

final collection of centarkable personal stories (s)
9.15 Kaleidoscope (r)
9.45 The Financial World
Tonight, with Tim Bowler (s)
9.59 Weather
10.00 The World Tonight, with Richard Kesspan (s)
10.45 A Book at Bedtisse. The Way of All Resigns (s)
11.00 Gosting for the Fligh Street. Taking the Maissure to Sir Montages 100 ton. Ray Gosing's series on retailers who have become household names (r).

names of:
11.30 Todaly for Parliament
12.00-12.43am News, incl 12.27
Westign 12.33 Shipping
Forecast 12.43 World Service

FREQUENCIES: Radio 1: 1053kHz/285m;1889kHz/275m;FM-97.6-99.8.
Radio 2: FM-88-90.2. Radio 3: FM-90.2-92.4. Radio 4: 198kHz/1515m;FM-92.4-94.6. Radio 5: 693kHz/433m; 909kHz/330m; LBC; 1152kHz/261m; FM-97.3. Capital: 1548kHz/194m; FM-95.8. GLR: 1458kHz/266m; FM-94.9.
World Service: MW-648kHz/463m.

